The Parliament Divines, after eleven Days for Reſpite and Recruit, return'd an Anſwer to the King's laſt Paper, and ſet forth, They could not apprehend, by what Warrant, this Writ of Partition of the Apoſtles Office, was awarded: Their Meaning, as they explain themſelves, was, by what authentick Authority it could be prov'd that the governing Function ſhould be lodg'd with the Biſhops, and the teaching Part and Adminiſtring the Sacraments, aſſign'd the Preſbyters. And that they were not ſenſible the Scripture had ſettled any ſuch Diſtinctions of Office. The reſt of their Anſwer is either trifling, or already conſider'd upon other Occaſions. Only I muſt not omit their giving up a principal Point of Doctrine held by their Brethren of Scotland, the old Engliſh Puritans, and ſeveral of the Reform'd beyond Sea. For inſtance, theſe Divines own the Power of Epiſcopacy under Chriſtian and Pagan Princes is the ſame: But the Exerciſe lies reſtrain'd under the Former. And that the Church Officers are ſubordinate to the Civil Magiſtracy. From hence it appears, their Courage was not of the higheſt kind, and that they were ſervily overaw'd by the Parliament.

Id. pag. 235.

The King in his laſt Paper, acknowledges the Pains theſe Divines had taken to inform his Judgment, as they thought, and bring him to their own Perſuaſion. His Majeſty likewiſe does not forget the Decency of their Manner, and the Reſpect of their Application. But then he told them, they miſtook his Meaning when they talk'd of a Writ of Partition; as if his Majeſty had ſuppos'd a Diviſion of the ſpiritual Government: That one Part of it was granted to the Biſhops, and another to the Presbyters; and that both theſe Allotments were apportion'd and excluſively aſſign'd to each other: Whereas the King only meant, that the Function of Teaching was common to both, but the governing Part peculiarly reſerv'd to the Biſhop. Tho' the main of the Controverſie was debated in Writing, it ſeems the Commiſſioners gave the Parliament-Clergy Liberty to put in upon Occaſion. Some of theſe Men miſbehaved themſelves to a remarkable Degree. Two of them plainly told the King with ſome Commotion, that unleſs he conſented to the utter aboliſhing Epiſcopacy, he would be damn'd. But his Majeſty had Temper enough to be unconcern'd at this Rudeneſs *.

*Ld. Clarendon's Hiſt. Rebel. vol. 3. p. 1.

When the Parliament-Divines had ſpent their Force, and came off with Diſadvantage, the Commiſſioners preſented their Propoſals: 'Twas a Paper of conſiderable Length, and part of their Demands were altogether new. The King referring his laſt Reſolution till he met the two Houſes at Weſtminſter, made the following Conceſſions at preſent.

His Majeſty agreed, that the Sitting of the Aſſembly-Divines at Weſtminſter ſhould be confirmed for three Years by Act of Parliament. And that the Directory ſhould be ſettled by the ſame Authority throughout the three Kingdoms. That the Form of Presbyterian Government ſhould likewiſe be confirm'd by Act of Parliament for the Kingdoms of England and Ireland, during the ſame Period. But here the King threw in a Proviſo, that neither himſelf, nor any others who ſcrupled this Government and Worſhip, might be oblig'd to Compliance, but enjoy the Liberty of ſerving God in their own Way.

His Majeſty's Anſwers to the Propoſitions made by the Commiſſioners.

His Majeſty agreed that a free Conſultation might be had with the Aſſembly-Divines at Weſtminſter; Twenty of his own Nomination being taken into the Conference: That the Queſtions concerning Religion being debated by this Body of Divines before his Majeſty and the two Houſes, the Differences upon theſe Heads might be adjuſted: And that the Articles of Religion, offered by the Commiſſioners, the Reformation inſiſted on, and the Indulgence of tender Conſciences, might be conſider'd and ſettled in the ſame way.

Farther, the King conſidering ſeveral of his Subjects had parted with great Sums of Money, upon Security of being repaid out of the Biſhops Lands, he was contented to paſs an Act of Parliament that thoſe Church-Lands ſhould be leaſed out for ninety nine Years, towards the Satisfaction of ſuch Mortagees, Purchaſers, or others; provided the old Rents, or ſome other moderate ones were reſerv'd to the Biſhops. And in caſe ſuch Leaſes did not ſatisfie, his Majeſty was willing to condeſcend farther; provided the Property of thoſe Lands might ſtill remain in the Church, purſuant to the Intention of the Founders.

To proceed: His Majeſty offers his Royal Aſſent for the better Obſervation of the Lord's-Day, for ſuppreſſing Innovations in Divine Worſhip, for the farther Encouragement of Preaching, for an Act againſt Pluralities and Non-reſidence, for reforming both the Univerſities, together with the Colleges of Weſtminſter, Wincheſter, and Eaton.

His Majeſty likewiſe agrees to paſs a Bill for the better Diſcovery and Conviction of Popiſh Recuſants, and for the Education of the Children of ſuch Recuſants, in the Proteſtant Religion; for levying the Penalties againſt Papiſts, and for diſpoſing of the Forfeitures levy'd, in ſuch Manner as ſhall be agreed by both Houſes. His Majeſty likewiſe offers his Aſſent to an Act for preventing the Practices of Papiſts againſt the State, for putting the Laws in Execution; and for a ſtricter Expedient to prevent the Hearing and Saying of Maſs (c). But as to the Covenant, his Majeſty is not ſatisfy'd to impoſe it on the Conſciences of others; neither does he think the inſiſting on it, proper at preſent.

(c) Biblioth. Reg. pag. 341. & deinc.

The Commiſſioners having tranſmitted an Account of what paſs'd, to their Principals at Weſtminſter, deliver'd a ſecond Paper to the King. His Majeſty finding his former Conceſſions not ſatisfactory, makes larger Overtures, and promiſes, that for ſettling the Publick Peace, he will ſign a Bill for the taking away all Archbiſhops, Chancellors, Commiſſaries, Deans, and other Church-Diſtinctions, and Officers already mention'd in the Propoſitions ſent him to Oxford: And that theſe Acts ſhall extend to all England, Wales, and Ireland; that the Exerciſe of all Epiſcopal Functions and Juriſdiction, ſhall be ſuſpended for three Years, and no Form of Church-Government us'd during that Time, excepting the Presbyterian. That in Caſe no Church-Settlement ſhall be agreed by the King and the two Houſes, that then, after the Expiration of three Years, the Power of Ordination ſhall not be manag'd by Biſhops, without the Advice and Aſſiſtance of Presbyters: And that no other Epiſcopal Juriſdiction ſhall be exerciſed, but ſuch, and in ſuch manner, as ſhall be agreed by his Majeſty and his two Houſes of Parliament.

The Commiſſioners putting in their Exceptions to theſe Conceſſions, his Majeſty explained himſelf farther, to prevent Miſunderſtanding: He declares againſt any Intention of making new Biſhops during the three Years; or that after the End of this Term, the Power of Ordination ſhall be practis'd in the cuſtomary Manner. That whereas formerly the Biſhops were at Liberty to make uſe of what Presbyters they pleas'd, but under no Obligation to act with their Concurrence; his Majeſty now conſents, that Biſhops ſhall not ordain without the Advice and Approbation of a certain number of Presbyters: And that theſe Coadjutors, as they may be call'd, ſhall be choſen in ſuch a manner, as ſhall be ſettled by his Majeſty and his two Houſes.

As for that part of their Propoſal touching the Common-Prayer, he is contented not to inſiſt upon the continuance of the Liturgy in his own Chapel either for himſelf or his Houſhold; and declares over and above, that he intends to uſe ſome other ſet Form of Divine-Service.

Novem. 18.

In another Paper his Majeſty takes notice the main diſſatisfaction of the two Houſes lay in his not conſenting to the Abolition of the Order of Biſhops, the Sale of their Lands, and his Reſolution for the uſing a Form of Divine-Service in his Chapels. To the two firſt, his Majeſty declares himſelf fully perſuaded Epiſcopacy is an Apoſtolical Inſtitution, and that the Alienation of Church Lands is plainly Sacrilege. Neither with reference to the Third, can his Majeſty communicate with a Church, where 'tis wholly uncertain what the Miniſter will offer to God Almighty. Therefore, if his two Houſes don't think fit to recede from part of their Demands in theſe particulars, his Majeſty reſolves to caſt himſelf upon the Goodneſs of God, and rather ſtand the Event how uncomfortable ſoever, than ſtrain his Conſcience to reſtore his Affairs.

Two Days after, the Commiſſioners deliver'd in their laſt Paper upon the ſubject of Religion.

And here they inſiſt, that the Bill for the Abolition of Epiſcopacy, does not ſtrike at the Biſhops of Apoſtolical Inſtitution: That the Epiſcopacy deſir'd to be ſet aſide by the two Houſes is only the Hierarchy formerly eſtabliſh'd by Law. That this Order was grown up to a burthenſome height of Pomp and Power. That 'twas plainly a grievance to the Subject, a hindrance to Piety, an Encroachment upon the Authority of the Civil Magiſtracy; and in ſhort, ſat heavy upon the Fortunes and Conſciences of the People. That for theſe Reaſons the Parliament deſir'd his Majeſty's concurrence for ſuppreſſing this Epiſcopacy: That their Bill did not meddle with the Apoſtolick Biſhops, nor determine the Power and Privileges of that Character. The Parliament deſires nothing more than to put down thoſe Biſhops by a Law, which the Law had ſet up. Nothing being more uſual for Parliaments than to alter or repeal Laws, as experience directs for the benefit of the Publick. But ſuppoſing the Bill deſir'd ſhould come cloſer, and affect the Apoſtolical Biſhop, they humbly conceiv'd; this would be no bar in Conſcience againſt the paſſing it. And here they argue upon a diſtinction between Practice and Precept, between what was done, and what was commanded by the Apoſtles, and take it for granted, that Epiſcopacy was of the firſt kind: That Circumſtances are ſometimes a ſtrong Diſpenſation, and ſuperſede the common Rules of Conduct. And here they leave it to his Majeſty's conſideration, whether Circumſtances could ever have a greater Weight, and operate more ſtrongly than in the preſent Caſe?

That as to the Sale of Biſhops Lands, when the Biſhopricks are diſſolv'd, their Eſtates revert to the Crown of courſe, and by conſequence the diſpoſing of ſuch Eſtates by Act of Parliament, they humbly conceive cannot come under the Imputation of Sacrilege. That ſuch Alienations of Church Revenues were frequently made in the Reigns of his Majeſty's Predeceſſors: And that even under the Ceremonial Law, conſecrated things in caſes of Neceſſity, were lawfully transfer'd to Secular Uſes.

And whereas his Majeſty was pleas'd to ſay he could not communicate in Divine Service, where 'tis uncertain what the Miniſter will offer to God Almighty: They humbly deſire his Majeſty to conſider, that the Directory preſcribes the Matter of the Miniſters Prayer, and only leaves Expreſſion and Inlargement at Liberty. And thus his Majeſty may be pre-acquainted with the Subſtance of the Worſhip.

After this they return to the buſineſs of Epiſcopacy, and ſuggeſt that the Suſpenſion of this Government, for three Years is too feeble a Remedy: And that great Inconveniences muſt follow upon the return of this Order, and the revival of the Authority reſerv'd for it. For in caſe the points of Church Government remain unſettled between the King and Parliament, the Biſhops return of courſe at three Years end; and then their Power will ſtretch to a Nuſance as formerly: For inſtance, they will have a Negative Voice in Ordinations; which claim they humbly conceive, is more than the Scripture ſupports. As for the offer of Encumbring their Revenues with Leaſes of ninety nine Years; this Conceſſion comes ſhort of Satisfaction to the two Houſes: For ſince the Property is to remain in the Church, the old Greivances will be brought back upon the Kingdom; ſo that 'tis impoſſible to diſcharge the Peoples Fears, and the conſequent Diſtractions, without a larger and more effectual Proviſion. Beſides, ſince the Presbyterian Government has ſo ſhort and precarious an Eſtabliſhment, a general Complyance muſt be impracticable: Neither is it likely to go on in the mean Time, with much Countenance or Comfort. And whereas his Majeſty hop'd the Houſes would not preſs him to act counter to his Perſuaſion; they deſire he would be pleas'd to remove this Obſtacle himſelf, and get his Conſcience better inform'd.

Novem. 20.

Id. p. 350. Ruſhworth's Hiſt. Collect. pt. 4. p. 1335.

The next Day the King return'd them his laſt Anſwer touching the Abolition of Epiſcopacy. His Majeſty obſerv'd, he had conſented to the lopping all that additional Juriſdiction his Predeceſſors had beſtow'd upon that Order: That nothing was left but what was plainly inſtituted by the Apoſtles; and that his Majeſty believ'd he had prov'd this Point in his Paper to their Divines.

That tho' Circumſtances chang'd the nature of Moral Actions, yet if the things now in Queſtion are neither fit, nor lawful, his Majeſty conceives the conſideration of Circumſtances, and the regards of publick Peace, ought rather to prevail with the two Houſes to make a Ceſſion, and relax in their Demands. That Precedents for Secularizing Biſhops Lands, are Topicks ſhort of Conviction: They prove things were done, but not that it was lawful to do them. Now that the total Alienation of Church Revenues amounts to Sacrilege, has been ever agreed by Divines, tho' otherwiſe of different Perſuaſions. That by retrenching the foremention'd Powers and Appendages belonging to the Biſhops, the return of the Greivances objected, will be effectually barr'd. As for the Biſhops negative Voice in Ordination, his Majeſty wonders this Privilege ſhould be conteſted: And that it ſhould be deny'd being a Branch of Authority, practis'd by the Apoſtolical Biſhops: And that 'tis evident from the Epiſtles to Timothy and Titus, that this part of Government was ſometimes under the ſole Management of the Biſhops (d). Laſtly, his Majeſty having declar'd in his Reply of the 4th inſtant, That he intended to uſe a ſet Form of Divine-Service, diſtinct from the Common-Prayer; having now conſider'd the Latitude of the Directory, he retracts that Expreſſion. But as to all other particulars, adheres to his former Anſwer (e).

When the Treaty broke up, the Commiſſioners made their Report at Weſtminſter; and his Majeſty's Conceſſions with reſpect to the Church and other Things, are voted unſatisfactory (f). However, being menac'd by the Army-Independents, they reſume the Debate, and after a long Struggle, reſolve the King's Complyance a ground to proceed on for the Settlement of the Nation. But they were in no condition to go on with an Accommodation: For now the Army make a loud Remonſtrance, march up to London, menace the Parliament, ſeize ſeveral Members of the Lower-Houſe, and over-awe the reſt of the Presbyterian Party. Thus the Independents being ſtrengthned to a Majority; the Commons retract their former Vote, and come to a contrary Reſolution: And ſoon after, their Votes of Non-Addreſſes are repeated. In ſhort, the King is remov'd from Cariſbrook to Hurſt-Caſtle; from hence convey'd by the Army to Windſor, and from thence to London. And now they began to lay aſide the Maſk more fully, and diſcover the barbarity of their Intentions: The King was treated without Ceremony, the Marks of Sovereign reſpect forbidden, and a Committee appointed by the Commons to draw up a charge of High-Treaſon againſt him. This inſolent Impeachment was unanimouſly rejected by the Peers, who then adjourn'd. Upon this the Commons declare themſelves the ſupream Power, clap a Padlock on the Houſe of Lords, and go on without them. (g). Their next ſtep was the erecting a High-Court of Juſtice in Weſtminſter-Hall: When the King was brought hither, he deny'd the Authority of their Court, argued againſt their Impudence, and behav'd himſelf with that Greatneſs and Dignity which became a Prince. Upon his refuſing to plead, they condemn'd him to be beheaded: And the Sentence was pronounc'd by their Preſident Bradſhaw.

The King brought before the pretended High Court of Juſtice.

This unparallell'd Outrage of Majeſty, and the Conſtitution, ſtruck the Presbyterian Miniſtry with horror: Theſe Men, tho' they had been zealous in the Revolt, and preach'd up the War againſt the King, had no intention of going this hideous Length. They were for rebelling within a rule, ſinking the Crown to a Doge of Venice; and as Hobbs ſpeaks, making the Engliſh Government a Commonwealth, with a King under them *. Therefore when they found the King's Trial reſolv'd by the Rump, they made a Remonſtrance againſt it. 'Tis an Addreſs to General Fairfax and his Council of War, and entituled A Serious and Faithful Repreſentation of the Judgments of the Miniſters of the Goſpel within the Province of London †.

In this Addreſs the Presbyterian Miniſters juſtify the War carried on by the Parliament, but diſclaim the Authority of the Army. And to bring them off from the Extremity of their “Proceedings, they ſuggeſt the ſeveral Oaths and Covenants generally taken throughout the Kingdom: Particularly the Proteſtation of May 5. 1641. in which purſuant to the duty of their Allegiance, they engage in the preſence of Almighty God to maintain and defend his Majeſty's Perſon, Honour and Eſtate with their Lives and Fortunes. After this they mention the ſolemn League and Covenant, by virtue of which they own themſelves tied to the ſame Duty.

The Presbyterian Miniſters remonſtrate againſt trying the King.

“And here they inſiſt very honeſtly upon the ſacred and inviolable Obligation of Oaths: Which tho' ſome, as they continue, may eſteem no more than an Almanack out of Date; yet they look upon ſuch Religious Solemnities as the Oath of God. They put the General in Mind, how ſeverely God reveng'd the Breach of his Covenant made by Zedekiah to the King of Babylon: Tho' this Engagement was extorted and prejudicial to the King of Judah *. After this they cite the Text which ſtands thus, ſhall he proſper, ſays God, ſhall he eſcape that doth ſuch things? Or ſhall he break the Covenant and be delivered? As I live, ſaith the Lord, ſeeing he deſpiſed the Oath by breaking the Covenant, (when lo he had given his hand) he ſhall not eſcape. Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, as I live, ſurely mine Oath that he has deſpiſed, and my Covenant that he has broken, even it will I recompence upon his own Head.

“From hence they proceed to put the Army upon Recollection, to remember from whence they are fallen, and repent and do their firſt Works: That now they had eclips'd their Glory, and tarniſh'd their Merit, and therefore they could not aſſiſt them with their Character; Bleſs them in the name of the Lord *, nor bid them God ſpeed, leſt they ſhould be partakers of their evil Deeds †. That inſtead of preſerving the Purity of Religion in Belief and Worſhip, theſe Miniſters were afraid the Army and their Abettors were opening a Door to damnable Hereſies, and licentious Practice: That by this Miſbehaviour their Religion was in danger of being the Jeſt and Diverſion of the World: That they had laid the Honour and Authority of Magiſtracy in the Duſt. That they could not but know how ſtrictly Obedience to Government is enjoin'd in Holy Scripture, and that St. Jude denounces a Woe againſt thoſe that deſpiſe Dominion, and ſpeak Evil of Dignities ‖. They proceed to awaken 'em with reciting the Vengeance executed upon Corah, Dathan and Abiram, for their Mutiny againſt Moſes and Aaron. They preſs the Concurrence of Proteſtant Divines both at Home and Abroad, aſſerting the Unlawfulneſs of oppoſing the Civil Magiſtrate by private Perſons, and that they all deteſt the Murdering of Kings upon any ſpecious Pretences whatever.

“They deſire 'em not to infer the Juſtice of their Proceedings from Succeſs: That they ought to diſtinguiſh between God's Permiſſion, and Approbation; and that God ſuffering Men to proſper in wicked Courſes is one of the ſevereſt Judgments. That their cuſtomary Argument from Providence is no ſafe Rule, eſpecially when Practice and Revelation claſh with each other: That by this Logick David might have made uſe of the opportunity and kill'd Saul *. But no favourable Juncture, no former Provocations could juſtify ſuch an Attempt, for who, as himſelf ſpeaks, can ſtretch forth his Hand againſt the Lord's Anointed, and be guiltleſs?

The Presbyterian Miniſters went upon Calvin's falſe Principle that Parliaments and the Magiſtracy are Guardians of the Peoples Liberties, and have a right to fight their Princes in Caſes of Encroachment.

“And to diſarm them farther, they argue that the Pretence of extraordinary Impulſes or ſupernatural Impreſſion, is no warrantable Direction; eſpecially when ſuch Impulſes are contrary to Moral Precepts, and the Inſpir'd Writings. That unleſs we try this Inward Call by the Written Word, the Temptations of the Devil

"In the next place they confute the Independents Plea from Neceſſity: To this they anſwer, that no Neceſſity can oblige a Man to ſin: That God ſtands in no need of our Wickedneſs to govern the World, and to execute his Pleaſure: That this Plea of Neceſſity is of leſs Weight in the preſent Caſe, becauſe 'tis feared the Ends aim'd at are no more juſtifiable, than the Means; and farther, that the Neceſſity inſiſted on, is no better than pretended, and the Conſequence of their own Miſcarriage. Farther, they remind them once again how they ſtood engag'd by their Oaths to preſerve his Majeſty's Perſon, and therefore 'tis moſt evident that no Neceſſity can juſtifie Perjury, or diſpenſe with Lawful Oaths: That dreadful Flying Roll being ready to ſeize thoſe who ſwear falſly by the Name of God †: And here they mention the Judgments which fell upon the Country for Saul's breaking his Oath to the Gibeonites, tho' theſe People had ſurreptiouſly gained the Protection they lived under *.

This Addreſs was handſome Plain-dealing: 'Twas a bold Reprimand of a victorious Army, and expos'd the Villainy of the Independent Faction with Advantage enough. But theſe Men were impenetrably hardened, and out of the reach of Admonition: They, like the deaf Adder, refuſed to hear the Voice of the Charmer, charm he never ſo wiſely.

To return: On the 28th of January at Night, and not ſooner, Juxon Biſhop of London was admitted to aſſiſt his Majeſty in his Devotions (b). On Tueſday following the execrable Murther was committed on the ſide of the Banqueting Houſe at Whitehall. The King appear'd on the Scaffold undiſturb'd both in Aſpect and Motion, ſupported his Character to the laſt Minute, and declar'd himſelf of the Communion of the Church of England, as 'twas ſettled in the Time of his Father King James.

And murder'd at Whitehall.

To ſhut up this melancholy Scene in a Word or two of general Deſcription: He was a Prince of great Abilities, equal and diſpaſſionate in his Temper, and remarkably regular in his private Life. He never enter'd on his Diverſions abroad till he had firſt paid his Duty to God at the publick Prayers. He was likewiſe very ſtrict in obſerving the Hours for his Cabinet-Devotion. He would not endure any Licentious Jeſts, any rallying of Religion, tho' never ſo much recommended by Pleaſantry and Wit. He was well furniſh'd with Capacity and Reſolution to adviſe at the Council Board, and execute in the Field. One of his greateſt Misfortunes ſeems to have been an Exceſs of Clemency: Of this the Pacification at Berwick, was a fatal Inſtance. He had likewiſe too modeſt a Senſe of his Judgment and Sufficiency: This Diffidence made him ſometimes over-rul'd by other Mens Opinions, worſe grounded than his own. The Extent of his Knowledge, the Force of his Reaſoning, and the Nobleneſs of his Manner, is ſufficiently diſcover'd in his Printed Works. The beautiful Turn and Luſtre of his Compoſitions are ſeldom met with in Engliſh Authors of that Age. To conclude; the Lord Chancellour Clarendon, who knew him very well, gives him the Character of the Worthieſt Gentleman, the Beſt Maſter, the Beſt Friend, the Beſt Husband, the Beſt Father, and the Beſt Chriſtian, that the Age in which he liv'd, produc'd (i).

Something farther of his Character.

This Prince left Iſſue three Sons, Charles Prince of Wales who ſucceeded him, James Duke of York afterwards King of England, and Henry Duke of Glouceſter, who died ſoon after the Reſtoration. His Daughters were the Princeſs Mary married to the Prince of Orange, Elizabeth who died during the Uſurpation, at Cariſbrook Caſtle in the Ille of Wight, and Henrietta married to the Duke of Orleans.

The Rump-Parliament, now at the Helm, proceed to aboliſh Kingly Government, and chuſe a Council of State, with whom they lodge the executive part of the Rebellion (k). From hence they advance to repeal the Oaths of Allegiance and Supremacy (l). Thus when the Rebels had made themſelves liable to the higheſt Forfeitures by a continued Breach upon theſe Laws, they thought it neceſſary to take them out of the way. This was a ſhrewd Expedient! And by the ſame Authority a Set of Libertines may abrogate the Seventh Commandment: Or to bring the Reſemblance a little nearer, by the ſame Right a Company of Thieves, who have rais'd their Fortunes by their Profeſſion, may meet together, dub themſelves the Legiſlature, and declare the Statutes againſt Burglary and Robbing void, and of none Effect. But that when many Men ſwear ſingly, they may, when aſſembled, abſolve themſelves if they pleaſe, was a piece of Law which even Hobbs confeſſes he could not underſtand (m).

A Petition from Norfolk to the Lord General Fairfax.

A little after a Petition was addreſs'd to his Excellency Thomas Fairfax Lord General of the Forces rais'd for the Defence of the Goſpel of Jeſus Chriſt, and the Enlargement of the Liberty of the well affected Engliſh. The Addreſs makes a Recital of the Sins and Corruption of the Times, and prays,

" 1. That none but Men of known Integrity,
" Fidelity and well affected to the Cauſe, may " be put into any Office Military, or Civil,
" and that no Delinquent (that is no Roy-
" aliſt) may be truſted with any publick
" Employment.
" 2. That the ſcandalous, ignorant and malig-
" nant Clergy, may no longer take the " Word of God into their Mouths, but that
" a godly and painful Miniſtry may be ſet-
" tled throughout the Kingdom, and that
" all Rectories may be reſtored for their " Maintenance.

But here theſe well-affected Petitioners ſeem to forget themſelves; for immediately after, they mov'd, " That Tithes may be wholly taken away, " and every Miniſter have a hundred Pounds per " Annum to be rais'd by a Rate upon the reſpe- " ctive Pariſhes. They inſiſt farther upon purg- " ing the Schools, and the Univerſities, and re- " forming the Law: For Inſtance, they would " have Perjury and Subornation capitally pu- " niſh'd, that no Cauſe ſhould hang above two " Terms, and that the Number of Lawyers ſhould " be retrench'd, and the Fees made leſs, and " aſcertain'd (n).

The Presbyterian Miniſters endeavour a Vindication of themſelves from the Charge of being concerned in the King's Murder.

The Presbyterian Miniſters not having Intereſt enough to prevail with the Army, and the Weſtminſter-Junto, for preventing the King's Murder, endeavour'd to wipe off the Aſperſion of their being a Party to this Wickedneſs: To this purpoſe they publiſh'd a Paper, in which they diſclaim and deteſt the Proceedings of the Regicides (o). Their Vindication is ſign'd by fifty nine Miniſters, among theſe Abhorrers are Cornelius Burges, William Gouge, Edmund Stanton, Thomas Temple, Doctors in Divinity; Edmund Calamy, Paſtor of Aldermanbury, William Spurſthow of Hackney, with ſeveral others unmention'd in the former Liſt. But theſe Divines did not well conſider that by their preaching up the Warrantableneſs of fighting the Government, and their Zeal for the Parliament Cauſe, they fail'd in their Allegiance, and broke the Laws: And in Conſequence of this, were unhappily inſtrumental in diſabling the King, and laying him at the Mercy of the Rebellion.

(o) A Vindication of the Miniſters of the Goſpel in and about London, &c. Lond. printed in the Year 1648.

About this time, Fairfax and the Army publiſh'd a Paper, entituled, The Agreement of the People: This, as the Presbyterians rightly judg'd, gave a dangerous Liberty to all Perſuaſions. To prevent ill Impreſſions from this Quarter, the Miniſters of Eſſex, Leiceſterſhire and Lancaſhire, appear in Print (p): In managing the Argument they take notice the Agreement ſuggeſts, That the Chriſtian Religion ſhall be held forth and recommended as the publick Profeſſion in this Nation; but then they don't define Chriſtianity, nor diſtinguiſh it from other Religions: Farther, the Agreement would have the publick Profeſſion ſo held forth, that none may be compell'd by Penalties or otherwiſe, but only may be endeavour'd to be made one by ſound Doctrine and the Example of a good Converſation: 'Tis true, they exclude Popery and Prelacy from this Privilege. But this Limitation doth by no means ſatisfie the Presbyterians. They conceive the Indulgence takes in too large a Compaſs, and that Anabaptiſts, Antinomians, Arians, Socinians, and other groſs Miſperſuaſions, may be comprehended. However, the Agreement pretends this Liberty is Fundamental to our common Right, to our Freedom and Safety: To this the Presbyterians return they would be glad to know what Right there can be in a Liberty for Iniquity? In a Liberty to corrupt the Articles of Faith, and break the Ordinances of God; to propagate Infection, to diſconcert the Unity of the Church, and deſtroy the Souls of Men? What ſort of Freedom is it to ramble from Truth, and revolt from God, and to be led away by Ignorance and Errour? What Safety can be expected by opening the Sheep-Folds for the Wolves to enter, to give Hereſy an unlimited Range, and feed the Diſeaſe without thinking of a Remedy? And to reinforce this Reaſoning, they cite a great many Texts both from the Old and New Teſtament (p).

A Declaration concerning Religion.

The Rump-Parliament finding the Presbyterian Miniſters perplex'd the Cauſe, committed a Bill, prohibiting Miniſters intermeddling with State-Affairs; and to ſoften this Reſtraint a little, and reconcile the different Parties, they gave order for a Declaration touching Matters of Religion, and ſettling the Church: The Expedient imported, That Tithes ſhall not be taken away till another Maintenance equally large, and honourable be provided for the Miniſter: That as ſoon as ſuch a Proviſion can be made, Tithes ſhall be taken off, and the National Church Eſtabliſhment ſhall be the Presbyterian Government: And laſtly, that an Expedient ſhould be found out for the admitting all ſuch Churches as tend to Godlineſs: And that ſuch Congregations ſhall be tolerated and free from Diſturbance *.

A deſperate Enthuſiaſt's five Lights.

Upon the Strength of theſe Indulgences, the Office of Preaching was ſometimes invaded by the Laity, and ſtrange Flights of Enthuſiaſm and Phrenſie thrown out for Prophecy: For inſtance, at Walton upon the Thames in Surrey, a Soldier coming into the Church with a Candle and Lanthorn, and being refuſed to hold forth there, went into the Church-yard, and told the People, " he had a Viſion, and received a Command from " God, which he was to deliver, and which they " were to govern themſelves by, under Pain of " Damnation: It conſiſted of five Lights:

1. “That the Sabbath was aboliſh'd as unneceſſary, Jewiſh, and meerly ceremonial; and here, ſays he, I ſhould have put out my firſt Light, but the Wind is ſo high I can't light it.

2. “Tithes are aboliſh'd as Jewiſh and ceremonial, a great Burthen to the Saints of God, and a Diſcouragement of Induſtry and Tillage: And here the ſecond Light ſhould have been put out, but for the Reaſon abovemention'd.

3. “Miniſters are aboliſhed as Antichriſtian, and of no longer Uſe now Chriſt himſelf deſcends into the Hearts of his Saints, and his Spirit enlightens them with Revelations and Inſpirations.

4. “Magiſtrates are aboliſhed as uſeleſs, ſince Chriſt himſelf, is in the Purity of the Spirit, come amongſt us, and has erected the Kingdom of the Saints upon the Earth: Beſides, Magiſtrates are Tyrants, and Oppreſſors of the Liberty of the Saints, and tie 'em to Laws and Ordinances, mere humane Inventions. After this, he pulls a Bible out of his Pocket, holds it up to the People, and then goes on with the following Blaſphemy. Here is a Book you have in great Veneration, conſiſting of two Parts, the Old and New Teſtament: I muſt tell you, ſays he, it is aboliſhed: It contains beggarly Rudiments, Milk for Babes: But now Chriſt is in Glory amongſt us, and imparts a fuller Meaſure of his Spirit to his Saints than this can afford; and therefore I am commanded to burn it before your Faces: Upon this, he ſet fire to the Leafes, and then putting out the Candle, let 'em know his fifth Light was exninguiſhed (r).

To impoſe upon the People, and carry on the Farce the better, the Rump-Parliament erected a Corporation for promoting and propagating the Goſpel in New-England. The Penalty of Non-complyance was, that thoſe in Publick Employment ſhould loſe their Offices; and others who refuſ'd were barr'd the benefit of the Law, and diſabl'd to ſue in any Court (t). This latter Severity paſs'd the Houſe ſome Months afterwards, and preſs'd the Engagement upon all Perſons throughout the Kingdom.

The Scotch Covenanters apply to the King, but with a Mixture of Miſbehaviour.

The Scotch Covenanters who began the Rebellion at Home, and ſupported it here; came now to a Rupture with their Engliſh Confederates. They found their Covenant diſcountenanc'd by the Rump at Weſtminſter, and it may be, they might think the Rebellion carry'd too far: In ſhort whatever the Motives of their Diſguiſe were, they pretended themſelves highly injur'd, and complain'd loudly againſt the Regicides. This Diſſatisfaction brought them towards ſome Thoughts of Loyalty to the preſent King: Tho' it muſt be ſaid, they manag'd themſelves very untowardly in this Recollection. For the purpoſe, the general Aſſembly of the Kirk ſent a Declaration to the King, in which there appears a very odd mixture of Duty and ill Manners. “They take the freedom to reprimand his Majeſty for adhering to the Council of James Graham, (meaning the brave Marquiſs of Montroſs) and his Accomplices: They adviſe him to ſettle the Presbyterian Government and Worſhip, in all his Dominions: Upon this condition, they promiſe him their Aſſiſtance; but that otherwiſe all the Blood ſhed by his Father will be laid to his Charge.

The Rump Proviſion for Learning in Ireland.

At Weſtminſter an Act paſs'd for the Advancement of the Goſpel, as they call'd it, in Ireland; for ſettling ſeveral Parcels of Land upon the College of Dublin, formerly belonging to the See and Cathedral of that City: There was likewiſe a Proviſion for the Erecting and Maintenance of a Free-School in Dublin. This Ordinance was a varniſh for the Iniquity of the Times; and thus they endeavoured to bribe the Univerſity into the Revolt. This Act was follow'd by another for aboliſhing the Hierarchy in Ireland, and forbidding the Uſe of the Common-Prayer there.

The Death of Abp. Williams.

In the Beginning of the next Year, Williams Archbiſhop of York, departed this Life. This Prelate, upon the breaking out of the Rebellion, diſtinguiſh'd himſelf in the King's Service. His active Loyalty brought him in Danger of being ſeiz'd and murder'd at his Caſtle of Cawood. To execute this Deſign, young Hotham came thither with a Party in the Night. But the Archbiſhop having notice ſome Hours beforehand, made his Eſcape. However, his Houſe was plunder'd, and his learned Collections and Compoſitions deſtroy'd. He retir'd into Wales, where he promoted the King's Intereſt conſiderably, fortify'd the Caſtle of Abberconway at his own Expence, and put the Country in a Poſture of Defence for his Majeſty. The King inform'd of the Service the Archbiſhop had done him, wrote ſeveral Letters to teſtify his great Satisfaction; and which goes ſomewhat towards a Juſtification of what happen'd afterwards, the King gave Williams the Cuſtody of Abberconway Caſtle, by a Letter under his Signet, with an Authority to keep it till his Expences were reimburs'd: Notwithſtanding this Grant, Sir John Owen, by Virtue of a Commiſſion from Prince Rupert, ſeizes the Fort, and makes Prize of the Archbiſhop's Effects, and thoſe of the Country, lodg'd there. The Archbiſhop thus ouſted, ſends a Complaint of this Uſage to Oxford; but his Meſſenger brought no Redreſs. About fifteen Months after, when Oxford was inveſted, and the King's Affairs not likely to recover, the Archbiſhop made Terms with Collonel Milton, who commanded for the Parliament; and promis'd to aſſiſt him in ſtorming the Caſtle, upon condition his Effects, and thoſe of the Neighbourhood might be reſtor'd. Williams with his Relations attack'd, Sir John Owen, and help'd to force him to a Surrender. This indulging the warmth of his Temper, and puſhing his Reſentment too far, made his former Services almoſt forgotten, and prov'd unſerviceable to his Memory.

March 25. 1650.

After the Murther of the late King, the Archbiſhop liv'd very retir'd, ſeem'd to take no Satisfaction in his Life, and us'd to riſe every Night at Midnight to his Devotions. As to the reſt of his Character, I ſhall only add, he was a Prelate of great Learning and Courage, and well qualify'd for Buſineſs both in Church and State: His private Life was unexceptionably regular, and his Fortune creditably ſpent in Charity, Benefactions and hoſpitable living (u). To keep on the Mask of Reformation, the pretended Parliament paſs a Bill for diſcountenancing Licentiouſneſs. By their Act, Inceſt and Adultery is made Felony, and Fornication puniſh'd with three Months Impriſonment; Panders and Bawds are Whip'd, Pillor'd, Mark'd with a hot Iron in the Forehead with the Letter B. and Impriſon'd three Years for the firſt Offence: The ſecond Offence is Felony without Benefit of Clergy (x).

By another Act made this Summer againſt Atheiſtical, Blaſphemous and Execrable Opinions; the Reader may collect the Declenſion of Morality, and the lamentable condition to which Belief and Practice were now reduc'd: In this pretended Statute 'tis enacted amongſt other Things, that if any Perſon ſhall profeſs, that the Acts of Adultery, Drunkenneſs, Swearing, and the like open Wickedneſs, are in their own Nature as Holy and Righteous as the duties of Prayer, Preaching, or giving Thanks to God; or whoſoever ſhall avowedly profeſs that Happineſs conſiſts in the Commiſſion of ſuch Crimes; that there is really no ſuch thing as Unrighteouſneſs or Sin independent of Conſcience and Opinion; that there is neither Heaven nor Hell, with ſome other Blaſphemies too horrid to be inſerted: If any Perſon ſhall be convicted of maintaining ſuch frightful Doctrine; they were to ſuffer Six Months Impriſonment for the firſt, and be baniſh'd for the ſecond Offence: And in caſe they return'd without Leave, were to be treated as Felons.

The Scotch Covenanters diſengage with the King, and are defeated at Dunbar.

In Scotland the Kirk not finding the King compliant with all their extravagant Demands, drew off to a diſtance, and ſet up for themſelves. In ſhort, his Majeſty's Houſhold is purg'd, and moſt of the Royaliſts oblig'd to quit the Country, and retire to Holland. And now many of the Military Liſt going in to the Kirk Intereſt, they levy Forces, and fortify the Caſtle of Edingborough. This look'd like menacing, and made the Rump apprehenſive their Affairs might be embroyl'd from that Quarter. And therefore by way of Precaution, they gave Cromwell the Command of the Army, and order'd him to march into Scotland, to check the Commotions there: Leiutennant General Cromwell was made Commander in chief of their Forces; for their General Lord Fairfax choſe rather to lay down his Commiſſion, than attack the Covenanters. To proceed, The Kirk prevail'd with the Officers to fight the Engliſh at Dunbar; where, notwithſtanding the Superiority of their Numbers, the Scots were entirely defeated.

September 3.

Before the Battle, the Kirk relying on the ſtrength of their Forces, and being confident of Succeſs, would neither permit the King, nor the Engliſh Royaliſts to appear in the Army: As for Cromwell, he loſt no time in improving this Victory. He march'd farther into the Country, and made himſelf Maſter of Leith and Edinbourgh, excepting the Caſtle of the latter. And the better to recommend his Moderation (y), and make them believe the fighting their Religion was no part of his Buſineſs, he ſent word to the Governour of Edinbourgh-Caſtle, that the Miniſters with him might return to their Churches, and preach without being diſturb'd. To this the Miniſters Anſwer was, That they found nothing expreſs'd from whence they might infer Security for their Perſons: And therefore they reſolv'd to reſerve themſelves for better Times, and wait upon him who had hidden his Face for a while from the Sons of Jacob.

His two Letters to the Governour of Edinbourgh Caſtle, upon this Subject.

Cromwell to vindicate himſelf from the Imputation of inſidious Dealing, replys in a Letter to the Governour to this Effect. " That his Kind- " neſs offer'd to the Miniſters in the Caſtle, was " meant fairly, and without any fraudulent re- " ſerve; and that he expected to have met " with the ſame Candour and Frankneſs; and " that if their Maſters Service, as they pretend, " was their Principal concern; the fancy of ſuf- " fering wou'd not have made them ſo exceſſive- " ly cautious: That theſe Divines miſreport the " Conduct of his Party, when they charge them " with drawing a Perſecution upon the Mini- " ſters of Chriſt in England.

" The Miniſters of England, continues Cromwell, are countenanc'd and ſupported: They " have the liberty to preach the Goſpel, tho' " not to rail at Diſcretion, nor under any pre- " tended Privilege of Character, to top the " Civil Authority, and ſink it towards Inſigni- " ficancy. No Man, as he goes on, has been " diſturb'd in England or Ireland for preaching " the Goſpel; nor has any Miniſter been mo- " leſted in Scotland ſince the Engliſh Forces " came thither. And to deliver the reſt of the " Letter in Cromwell's Language, the ſpeaking Truth, ſaith this Gentleman, *becomes the Miniſters of Chriſt. Id. September 9

Sir,

Your Humble Servant,

O. Cromwell.

The Scotch Miniſters returning an Anſwer to this Letter, Cromwell ſent them a ſecond Proof of his Rhetorick, much in the ſame ſtrain with the former.

We look ſaith, he, upon Miniſters, as Helpers of, not Lords over the Faith of God's People: I appeal to their Conſciences, whether any denying their Doctrines, and diſſenting, ſhall not incur the cenſure of Sectary. And what is this but to deny Chriſtians their Liberty, and aſſume the infallible Chair?

Where do you find in Scripture that preaching is included in your Function? Though an Approbation from Men hath Order in it, and may do well, yet he that hath not a better than that, he hath none at all. I hope he that aſcended up on High, may give his Gifts to whom he pleaſe; and if thoſe Gifts be the Seal of Miſſion, be not envious, though Eldad and Medad Propheſy; you know who bids us covet earneſtly the beſt Gifts, but chiefly that we may Propheſy.

Which the Apoſtle explains there to be a ſpeaking to Inſtruction, and Edification, and Comfort, which the inſtructed, edified and comforted can beſt tell the Energy and Effect of.

If ſuch evidence be, I ſay again, Take heed you envy not for your own Sakes, leſt you be guilty of a greater Fault than Moſes reproved in Joſhua, for envying for his Sake.

Indeed you err through the Miſtake of the Scriptures: Approbation is an Act of Conveniency, in reſpect of Order; not of Neceſſity, to give Faculty to preach the Goſpel.

Your pretended fear leſt Error ſhould ſtep in, is like the Man who would keep all the Wine out of the Country leſt Men ſhould be drunk. It will be found an unjuſt and unwiſe Jealouſie to deny a Man the liberty he hath by Nature, upon a Suppoſition he may abuſe it; when he doth abuſe it, judge. Some few Days after the Victory at Dunbar, the Governour of Edinbourgh-Caſtle charg'd Cromwell and the Weſtminſter Juncto with falling off from their firſt Principles, and not being true to the ends of the Covenant: And ſecondly he objected that in England Men of Secular Employments had uſurp'd the Office of the Miniſtry, to the ſcandal of the Reform'd Kirks (z).

In Anſwer to the firſt Part of this Expoſtulation, Cromwell deſired to know whether their bearing witneſs to themſelves was good evidence of their having proſecuted the ends of the Covenant; and whether their own Affirmation is ſufficient to juſtify their Conduct? He tells them, that to infer this, is to have too favourable an Opinion of their own Judgment and Impartiality: That their Doctrines and Practice muſt be try'd by the Touchſtone of God's Word. That other People muſt have a liberty of examining them upon theſe Heads: And where there is a right to try the Cauſe, there muſt be a liberty allow'd for giving Sentence.

He purges himſelf from the farther imputation of being falſe to the ends of the Covenant.

As to the charge of indulging the uſe of the Pulpit to the Laity; Cromwell replys in theſe Words: Are ye troubled, ſaith he, that Chriſt is preach'd? Does it ſcandalize the reform'd Kirks, and Scotland in particular? Is it againſt the Covenant? Away with the Covenant if it be ſo. I thought the Covenant and theſe Men, would have been willing that any ſhould ſpeak good of the name of Chriſt: If not 'tis no Covenant of God's approving; nor the Kirk you mention ſo much the Spouſe of Chriſt.

He defends the preaching of Lay-Men, and juſtify's the reaſoning from Events.

In Anſwer to the witneſs of God upon our ſolemn Appeal, continues Cromwell; You ſay you have not ſo learnt Chriſt, as to hang the Equity of a Cauſe upon Events. We could wiſh that Blindneſs had not been upon your Eyes to thoſe marvellous Diſpenſations, which God hath lately wrought in England: But did not you ſolemnly Appeal and Pray? Did not we do ſo too? And ought not we and you to think with fear and trembling of the Hand of the great God, in this mighty and ſtrange Appearance of his, and not ſlightly call it an Event? Were not your Expectations and ours renew'd from Time to Time, whilſt we waited on God to ſee how he would manifeſt himſelf upon our Appeals? And ſhall we after all theſe our Prayers, Faſtings, Tears, Expectations, and ſolemn Appeals call theſe bare Events? The Lord pity you!

Id.

This canting Logick ſufficiently ſheweth the Fallacy of reaſoning from Succeſs. Thus Cromwell argued cloſely, ad hominem againſt the Scotch Covenanters, and turned their own Artillery upon them. This fortunate Campaign in Scotland, rais'd the Spirits of the Independent Party at Weſtminſter, and made them more hardy in executing their Scheme: And now to recommend themſelves farther to the Populace, and draw all the Sectaries to their Intereſt, they paſs a Repeal of ſeveral Penal Statutes for not coming to Church (a). The Preamble ſets forth, that by the ſaid Acts divers religious and peaceable People, well affected to the Proſperity of the Common-wealth, have not only been moleſted and impriſoned, but alſo brought into Danger of abjuring their Country, or in caſe of Return, to ſuffer Death as Felons, to the great Diſquiet and utter Ruine of ſuch good and godly People (b).

The Defeat the Scots receiv'd at Dunbar, brought the Covenanters to ſome Temper, and recover'd them towards Duty to the Government: And for a Proof of their Recollection, they invited the King to return from the Highlands, and crown'd him at Schone with the cuſtomary Ceremony and Magnificence (c).

An Argument in the Houſe of Commons for turning the Law Books into Engliſh.

To ſupport this Opinion, he obſerves, that Moſes read the Law to the Jews in the Hebrew Tongue: That God commanded him to write and explain this publick Proviſion in the Language of the Country: That they were deeply concern'd to know where their Rights, their Privileges were ſettled, where the Forfeitures were mark'd out, and not be kept in Ignorance of the Rule by which their Intereſt was directed. The Laws of the Eaſtern Nations, continues this Gentleman, were in their Mother-Tongue. The Laws at Conſtantinople were in Greek; at Rome in Latin; and in France, Spain, Germany, Sweden, Denmark, and other Places, their Laws ſtand publiſh'd in their native Language: As for your own Country, ſaith he, every Body that can read the Saxon Character, may find the Laws of your Anceſtors in the Engliſh Tongue. Purſuant to this Regulation, William Duke of Normandy, commanded the Laws to be proclaim'd in Engliſh, that none might pretend Ignorance. And to reinforce theſe Authorities, he takes notice, that 36 E. 3. 'twas order'd in Parliament, that Pleadings ſhould be made in Engliſh. And in the Reigns of thoſe Times when our Statutes were enroll'd in French, the Sheriffs were oblig'd to proclaim them in Engliſh. In this Speech this Member endeavours to diſprove the Engliſh Laws being introduc'd by tbe Conqueror (d): And here his Reaſoning ſeems to fail. But this Argument having been already conſider'd in the firſt Part of this Work, needs not be repeated (e).

As for the Bill, the Houſe paſs'd it in the Form following.

A Bill paſs'd for this purpoſe.

The Parliament have thought fit to Declare and Enact, and be it Declared and Enacted by this preſent Parliament, and by the Authority of the ſame, That all the Report-Books of the Reſolutions of Judges, and other Books of the Law of England, ſhall be tranſlated into the Engliſh Tongue: And from and after the firſt Day of January 1650, all Report-Books of the Reſolutions of Judges, and all other Books of the Law of England, which ſhall be printed, ſhall be printed in the Engliſh Tongue only.

And be it farther Enacted by the Authority aforeſaid, That from and after the firſt Return of Eaſter Term, which ſhall be in the year One Thouſand Six Hundred Fifty and One, all Writs, Proceſs, and Returns thereof, and all Pleadings, Rules, Indictments, Inquiſitions, Certificates, and all Patents, Commiſſions, Records, Judgements, Statutes, Recognizances, Rolls, Entries, and Proceedings of Courts-Leet, Courts-Baron, and Cuſtomary-Courts, and all Proceedings whatſoever in any Courts of Juſtice within this Common-wealth, and which concerns the Law and Adminiſtration of Juſtice, ſhall be in the Engliſh Tongue only, and not in Latin or French, or any other Language than Engliſh, any Law or Cuſtom, or Uſage heretofore to the contrary notwithſtanding. And that the ſame, and every of them, ſhall be written in an ordinary, uſual, and legible Hand and Character, and not in any Hand commonly call'd Court Hand.

Nov. 22. 1650.

And be it laſtly Enacted and Ordained, That all and every Perſon and Perſons offending againſt this Law, ſhall for every ſuch Offence loſe and forfeit the full Sum of twenty Pounds of lawful Engliſh Money, the one Moiety thereof to the Uſe of the Commonwealth, and the other Moiety to ſuch Perſon or Perſons as will ſue for the ſame in any Court of Record, by Action of Debt, Suit, Bill, Plaint or Information; in which no Wager of Law, Eſſoyn, or other Delay, ſhall be admitted or allowed (f).

April 1651.

About four Months forward, an Act paſs'd for referring the Tranſlation of Law-Books and Forms of Proceſs, to the Speaker, the Commiſſioners of the Great Seal, the two Chief Juſtices, and the Chief Baron. And what was agreed by theſe, or any two of them, was to paſs for an authentick Tranſlation, and have the Great Seal fix'd to it. And here a Proviſo was thrown in, that theſe Acts were not to extend to the Courts of Admiralty; but that the Proceedings there might paſs and be certify'd in Latin, according to ancient Uſage.

Id. fol. 154. Love tryed for High-Treaſon, and executed.

Mr. Love who had preach'd ſeditiouſly againſt the late King at Uxbridge, fell under the Diſpleaſure of thoſe at the Helm, and was try'd for High-Treaſon. He confeſs'd himſelf privy to a Deſign for concerting with the Scots, and was ſentenc'd to loſe his Head. Upon the Day fixed for his Execution, a Petition was preſented to the pretended Parliament by ſeveral London Miniſters, requeſting, that in caſe it was not thought proper to grant a Pardon, they might at leaſt prevail for a Reprieve. This Addreſs procur'd a Month's Reſpite, after which he was beheaded upon Tower-Hill (g).

The King marches with an Army into England and is defeated at Worceſter.

The Scotch Royaliſts and Covenanters, being now tolerably reconcil'd, the King appeared at the Head of a conſiderable Army in that Country; and after having try'd his Fortune to ſome Diſadvantage with Cromwell, enter'd England by way of Carliſle. Maſſey, who had ſignaliz'd himſelf at Glouceſter againſt the late King, was now return'd to his Duty, and truſted by his preſent Majeſty. This Gentleman being an Officer of Character, and an eminent Presbyterian, was detach'd with ſome Troops, and order'd to keep about a Day's March before the Army: His Buſineſs was, to give notice of the King's Approach, prepare the Gentry to attend him, and bring in thoſe of his own Party.

This Expedition, tho' not the worſt concerted, is ſaid to have been ruin'd, by entertaining a Committee of Scotch Miniſters in the Army. Theſe Divines obſerved, that after the King's Entrance into England, thoſe about his Majeſty grew cooler in their Regards for the Covenant. Upon this ſhocking Diſcovery, they ſent an Expreſs to Maſſey, without acquainting the King with ſuch an extraordinary Freedom. This Meſſenger was furniſh'd with Letters and a Declaration, which Maſſey was requir'd to publiſh. "The Inſtrument ſet forth the King's and the whole Armies Zeal for the Covenant, and their Reſolution to proſecute the true Intent of this Engagement: They likewiſe forbid him entertaining any Soldiers, excepting ſuch who would ſubſcribe the ſame Obligation. The King who had quickly notice of this Diſpatch, ſent a Countermand to Maſſey: But before this Order was receiv'd, the Buſineſs took Air, ſpread through the Kingdom, diſcouraged his Majeſty's Friends, and made a great many People leſs forward to ſerve him than formerly (h). Notwithſtanding this Accident, the King held on his March to Worceſter, and enter'd the Town. And now Cromwell and Lambert being come up with a much ſuperior Army, a deciſive Battle was fought on the third of September. During the Action, the King diſtinguiſh'd himſelf, and did his own Part to great Commendation. But his Troops being over-laid with Numbers, were, after a ſtout Reſiſtance, broken, and routed. After this Defeat, the King lay conceal'd for ſome time, and with much Difficulty got himſelf tranſported to France. Cromwell in his Letter to the pretended Parliament, confeſſes the Battle was fought with various Succeſs for ſome Hours. I ſhall give the Reader ſome of his religious Cant upon this Occaſion.

Cromwell's canting Reflections upon the Victory. This Letter is directed to the Speaker.

The Dimenſions of this Mercy are above my Thoughts: It is, for ought I know, a crowning Mercy; ſurely if it be not, ſuch an one we ſhall have, if this provoke thoſe that are concern'd in it to Thankſulneſs, and the Parliament to do the Will of him who hath done his Will for it, and for the Nation, whoſe good Pleaſure is to eſtabliſh the Nation and the Change of the Government, by making the People ſo willing to the Defence thereof, and ſo ſignally to bleſs the Endeavours of your Servants in this late great Work.

I am bold humbly to beg, that all Thoughts may tend to the promoting his Honour, who hath wrought ſo great Salvation, and that the Fatneſs of theſe continued Mercies may not occaſion Pride and Wantonneſs, as formerly the like hath done to a choſen People.

But that the Fear of the Lord, even for his Mercies, may keep an Authority, and a People ſo proſpered and bleſſed, and witneſſed to, humble and faithful, that Juſtice and Righteouſneſs, Mercy and Truth, may flow from you, as a thankful Return to our glorious God: This ſhall be the Prayer of Monk checks the Scotch Diſcipline.

The Laird of Drum's Letter to the Presbyters of Aberdeen.

After the Engliſh had over-run Scotland, and brought that Nation to Submiſſion, the Presbyterian Diſcipline was quickly check'd. For inſtance, the Laird of Drum, being cited by the Presbytery of Aberdeen, ſummon'd them to appear before Collonel Overton: He declar'd himſelf under the Protection of the Parliament of England, and refus'd to acknowledge any other Juriſdiction. But provided the Kirk would wave their Pretences to Authority, he offer'd to purge himſelf from the Imputation of Popery. This Laird gave Lieutenant General Monk a Letter of Thanks for reſtoring Conſcience to its juſt Freedom, and reſcuing the People from the Tyranny of the Presbyteries. It muſt be ſaid, Monk brandiſh'd his Sword over the Aſſembly, and publiſh'd an Order that neither any Oaths, nor the Covenant ſhould be impos'd upon any Perſon, without Direction from the State of England. And that unleſs they acquieſc'd in theſe Points, he ſhould treat them as Enemies. He likewiſe commanded the Magiſtracy not to ſeize the Eſtates of any excommunicated Perſons, prohibit Correſpondence with them, or give them any other Diſturbance. And thus the Diſcipline of the Kirk was diſabled, and laid aſleep. But the Presbyterians, headed by the Lord Wariſton, reſolv'd to conteſt the Matter as far as a Remonſtrance, and ſent a Letter to Major-General Lambert, “in which they charge the Engliſh with downright Invaſion and ſhedding the Blood of many of the Scotch Saints: However, they confeſs'd themſelves juſtly puniſhed for their late Treaty with the King. They proceed in their Expoſtulation, and complain of the Engliſh Army for countenancing depos'd Miniſters, and allowing them the Pulpit; for ſilencing others of that Function, upon the Score of intermeddling in their Sermons with Matters of State; they complain of their permitting Officers to preach; for their ſubordinating the Church to the State in ſpiritual Things; for tolerating the gathering of Churches, purſuant to the Practice in England; for leſſening the Authority of Kirk Aſſemblies, and putting Magiſtrates upon them of unorthodox Principles. In the cloſe, they offer to comply as far as their Conſcience and the Liberty of the Kirk will give them leave, and intreat Lambert to uſe his Intereſt on their Behalf, with the reſt of the Engliſh Commiſſioners.

By the way, upon Cromwell's Succeſſes, the Scotch ſurrender'd the Adminiſtration to the Rump-Parliament, and were govern'd by eight Engliſh Commiſſioners, Lambert and Monk being two of the Number. To proceed, notwithſtanding Monk by Order from the Commons at Weſtminſter, had laid an Imbargo upon the Scotch Diſcipline, the Kirk went vigorouſly on with their Juriſdiction, and declaimed with great Freedom and Vehemence, againſt the Engliſh: And Cant a celebrated Preacher, harrangu'd his Audience to prepare for ſuffering, preſs'd the Covenant, and when Parents offer'd their Children to Baptiſm, he made them promiſe to educate them for that Engagement.

The Presbytery of Aberdeen made another Trial upon the Laird of Drum: They let him know, they reſolved to excommunicate him, unleſs he made a Submiſſion and revok'd his Appeal. This Notice was given him in a Letter, in which they exhorted him to prevent this dreadful Sentence, putting him in Mind, that Presbytery is the Lord's Ordinance; and for proof, cited 1 Tim. 4. 14. and that religious Swearing is not only lawful, but commanded by God himſelf. To this Letter the Laird of Drum returned an Anſwer in Writing, in which he acquaints them, that he could neither in Conſcience nor Honour comply with their Demands, and that he was not at all concern'd at the Menace of their Cenſure. He endeavours to preſs them with a Dilemma, and argues, they are either infallible or fallible, in forming their Reſolutions: And here he concludes, they have not Aſſurance enough to challenge the firſt Quality, tho' their Practice oftentimes requires no leſſer Privilege to ſupport it: However, if they ſhould claim thus high, their Counter-marches and frequent Changes would diſprove them. And ſince they muſt confeſs themſelves fallible, he is not much affected with a fallible Sentence; he conceives there's a great deal of Reaſon to believe them actually miſtaken in urging him to ſwear, that this Presbyterian Scheme is the only Church Government eſtabliſh'd by Chriſt. And as for their Proof from 1 Tim. 4. 14. he tells them this Epiſtle and that to Titus, affords much ſtronger Argument for Epiſcopacy. He grants, that Oaths are a Branch of religious Worſhip, but that they ought not to be taken without a Reſerve, without the Limitations of Judgment and Truth. He deſires them to remember, how ſtrongly they had remonſtrated againſt the Tyranny of Biſhops, tho' they were willing to relax in ſome Points, and come to a Temper for tender Conſciences. But as this Laird continues, when the Presbyterians held the Reins, neither Miniſter nor Laird, no Condition or Sex, had the leaſt Share of Indulgence. All People were forc'd to comply, and ſwear to the Length of the Kirk's Appointment, notwithſtanding theſe Guides knew many of the People practis'd one thing and believ'd another. Farther, that tho' they complain'd ſo much of the Grandeur and pompous Diſtinctions in the Biſhops; tho' they have not aſſum'd the Title of Lords, they have exceeded the Juriſdiction of the Biſhops, and ſtrain'd up to a Papal Authority, and that their little Finger has been heavier than the Weight of the Epiſcopal Body. He wonders they ſhould aſſert the ſame Presbyterian Government is eſtabliſh'd by Law in England, when 'tis well known the Presbyterians there, have no ſuch Power of Cenſuring, or forcing Men upon Oaths: That by ſuch a Permiſſion the Common-wealth of England wou'd diſimprove their Condition, and make the Reſtraints of Conſcience more troubleſome than thoſe they lay under from the Prelates. That Succeſs hardned the Kirk againſt Compaſſion, and made them more intolerable, and excepting Pike and Muſket, was the ſtrongeſt Argument they ever us'd. At laſt he charges them with very remarkable Rigor; that they had ſet up an Inquiſition againſt him, and that when other Evidence fail'd, they forc'd his Servants to ſwear the Diſcovery of their Knowledge of what paſs'd in the Houſe. This Laird's Name was Irving.

Cromwell, who was now ſtrengthened in his Intereſt, and elated by a Courſe of Victory, grew weary of the Rump-Parliament. At theſe Men, lying croſs to his Greatneſs, and hindring his Ambition from mounting, he reſolved to make a bold Puſh: And having concerted the Deſign with his Officers, he march'd to the Parliament-Houſe with ſome Troops, plac'd a Guard at the Door, and enter'd the Houſe with a File of Muſqueteers. His manner of Addreſs was ſuitable to his military Appearance; for with an Air of Haughtineſs and Paſſion, he commanded the Speaker to leave the Chair, told the Houſe they had ſate long enough, unleſs they had done more Good, pointed to ſome of the Members, and gave them coarſe Language, bid one of his Soldiers take away that Fool's Bauble, the Mace, ſtaid till the Houſe was empty, and then order'd the Doors to be lock'd. The Aſſembly of Divines at Weſtminſter, who had gone leſs and leſs for ſome time, and dwindled to a Committee, were now entirely diſabled, and ſunk with this Long-Parliament (k).

The firſt Uſurpation being thus melted down, Cromwell caſt it in a new Mould of his own contriving. And after ſome Days of Humiliation, and ſolemn Pretences of ſeeking God, he iſſues out Circular Letters to a ſelect Number of his Creatures to take upon them the Government of the Commonwealth. This Set of Men was call'd Barebones Parliament. Theſe Members for a Proof of their Zeal and Capacity, vote down Tythes, diſcourage the Miniſtry, harraſs the Univerſities, attempt almoſt an entire Change of the Conſtitution, and run to the laſt Extremes of Folly and Extravagance. This overdriving was ill reliſhed without Doors, as might well be expected. The Enthuſiaſts therefore being apprehenſive they might be call'd to an Account, quitted their Poſt, and reſigned the Government to Cromwell, who accepts the Overture under the Title of Lord Protector. The Adminiſtration was convey'd to him by a ſolemn Inſtrument, by which, amongſt other Things, a Proviſion was made for Succeſſive Triennial Parliaments.

To go back a little, the Scotch Kirk which had ſtruggled with the Engliſh Commonwealth for ſome time, was now entirely broken. In July laſt, a General-Aſſembly met at Edinborough, and after Sermon, went to their Houſe and enter'd upon Buſineſs. But before they had made any Progreſs, Lieutenant-Collonel Coterel breaking in upon them, mounted a Bench, and made Proclamation, That no Judicatory ought to ſit, that had not Authority from the Parliament of England. Upon this, ordering them to retire, he guarded them off till they had paſs'd the Weſt-Gate. The next Command they received, was to throw themſelves into a Circle, then ſurrounding them with his Troops, he reprimanded them for the Preſumption of their Meeting, took away their Commiſſions, commanded them to diſperſe, not to meet three together, but to quit the Town immediately, and repair to their reſpective Dwellings.

A Committee of Triers ſettled.

Cromwell now ſeated in his Protector's Chair, ſummons a pretended Parliament, where Lenthal was Speaker. Theſe Members paſs'd an Act for ſettling a Committee of Tryers for the Approbation of publick Preachers. Thoſe who were admitted to any Benefice or Lecture, were oblig'd to paſs the Teſt of this Committee, and receive an Inſtrument equivalent to Letters of Inſtitution and Induction. 'Tis true, the Majority of theſe Tryers were Miniſters; but ſince Eight of them were Laymen, and any Five enabled to execute the Powers of the Act; it might ſometimes happen that none but ſecular Men might act in this Poſt, and determine upon the Qualifications of thoſe who were to preach and adminiſter the Sacraments (l). Their next Statute provides for removing ſcandalous and inſufficient Miniſters and School Maſters; that is, thoſe who had continued firm to the Church and Crown. For this purpoſe, a conſiderable Number of ſecular Commiſſioners are nominated for each County: There's likewiſe a Liſt of Miniſters throughout the ſame Diviſions of the Kingdom, appointed for this purpoſe. By the Act the Lay-Commiſſioners could determine nothing without the Approbation of the Miniſters, who were joyn'd in Commiſſion with them. It muſt be ſaid, theſe Uſurpers did not plunder and perſecute without ſome Reſemblance of Compaſſion. For by the Act, a fifth part of the Profits of the Benefice, is allow'd to the Wives and Children of the Ejected Miniſters. And here likewiſe the Ordinance for due Payment of the Tithes and other Duties, made in the Year 1647, is confirm'd: And ſo was this Act afterwards in the Year 1656. It muſt not be forgotten that by a Clauſe of this Act, none was permitted to teach School in the Pariſh whence he had been ejected. And to make the Pulpits more inoffenſive, by an Act paſs'd ſoon after, no Clergymen ejected for Delinquency, were to be re-admitted by the Tryers, without expreſs Order from his Highneſs, as they call'd him, and his Council.

Primate Uſher*'s Death and Character.*

In February the next Year, James Uſher, Archbiſhop of Armagh, departed this Life. This moſt Learned Prelate was born at Dublin in the Year 1580. He was extracted from an ancient and conſiderable Family of the Sirname of Nevil. In the Reign of King John, one of his Anceſtors, who was Gentleman-Uſher to that Prince, chang'd his Name to that of his Office. His Father Arnold Uſher was a Lawyer of Character, and one of the Six Clerks of Chancery. His Mother's Father, James Stanyhurſt, Eſq; was Recorder of Dublin, one of the Maſters of Chancery, and Speaker of the Houſe of Commons in three Parliaments. The Archbiſhop made an early Progreſs in Learning, and gave extraordinary Proof of his Capacity and Improvement at Eighteen Years of Age. His Inclination leading him to the Study of Divinity, he enter'd into Orders, and made a very conſiderable Figure in that Profeſſion. In his younger time he adher'd to the Calvinian ſide of the Predeſtinarian Controverſy. However, he afterwards drew the Union Canon between the Churches of England and Ireland. But the Warmth of his Affection to the Proteſtant Intereſt in general, and his Zeal for a cloſe Correſpondence between all the Reform'd Churches, made him depart a little from the Primitive Government, give too great an Allowance to the Presbyterian Scheme (m), and qualiſe the Epiſcopal Juriſdiction too much in Favour of the Schiſmaticks. And 'tis ſuppos'd the Relaxations made upon the Head of Epiſcopacy, by the late King, in the Iſle of Wight, were ſuggeſted by Vſher. When the Rebellion broke out, this Archbiſhop was nominated by the Parliament in the Liſt of the Aſſembly-Divines: But being diſſatisfied with the convening Authority, and foreſeeing the fatal Conſequences of that Meeting, he refus'd to appear.

(m) Smith's Vit. Jacob. Uſher.

When the King made Oxford his Head Quarters, the Archbiſhop retir'd thither, declar'd ſtrongly againſt the Rebellion, and both by his Sermons, other Diſcourſes, and Letters, confirm'd ſeveral who were wavering, and recover'd ſome from an open Revolt.

When Cromwell took the Title of Lord Protector, he treated Vſher with particular Marks of Eſteem, ſent for him to his Court, and pretended to ſuggeſt a Scheme for promoting the Proteſtant Intereſt both at Home and Abroad. A Regard for the Proteſtant Religion, was then a plauſible Cover to keep the Vſurpation out of View. For at this time of Day Cromwell had not quite pull'd off the Maſk, but by his Diſcourſes to Vſher, ſeem'd tolerably reconcil'd to the Church of England and Epiſcopacy. But this Year Cromwell finding himſelf ſtrong enough to explain his Malevolence, publiſhed a Declaration, by virtue of which, thoſe of the Loyal Clergy, who either manag'd private Schools, or officiated in Noblemens Families, were order'd to be impriſon'd: When a new Storm threaten'd thoſe who had loſt their Fortunes before, ſome of the ejected Divines deſir'd Vſher to uſe his Intereſt with Cromwell, and try to prevail for ſome Abatements of Rigour. The Archbiſhop addreſſing the Vſurper, requeſted the Epiſcopal Clergy might have a ſhare in the common Indulgence, and uſe the Liturgy without Diſturbance from the Soldiers. Cromwell promis'd to recall the Declaration, or at leaſt to prevent its being executed, provided the Clergy were inoffenſive in their Diſcourſes, and ſtood clear from meddling with Matters of State. But when Vſher made him a ſecond Viſit to get this Promiſe ſign'd, the Vſurper told him, that having adviſ'd with his Council, and farther conſider'd the Matter, himſelf and the reſt were of Opinion, that 'twas not ſafe for him to grant a Liberty of Conſcience to thoſe Men who were declar'd Enemies to his Government.

Id.& Par's Life of Uſher.

To proceed: The Primate had a ſlender Opinion of the Septuagint. For he would allow that nothing but the Pentateuch was at firſt tranſlated. And thus far Ariſtæus, Joſephus, and St. Jerom agree with him. That this firſt Tranſlation lodg'd in Ptolemy's Library at Alexandria, was deſtroy'd by the Accident of a Fire. That the other Verſion made not long after comprehending all the Books of the Old Teſtament, and us'd by the Helleniſt Jews, and Primitive Chriſtians, was made after the fourth Year of Ptolemy Philometer. That it was the Performance of an obſcure Jew, who was very unequal for the Undertaking. That this Man had taken an unaccountable Liberty with the Text, and made a great many Omiſſions and Interpolations: And that the Difference between the Hebrew Original and the Greek, is owing to this foul dealing. That the Jewiſh Prieſts and Levites who officiated in Onias his Temple at Heliopolis in Egypt, were impos'd on by Negligence and Sloth, and took this Verſion upon Content. Theſe are ſome of Vſher's Singularities upon this Subject, for which he was call'd to Account by the learned Valeſius (n).

(n) Annot. Valæſ. ad Hiſt. Eccleſ. Euſeb. in Calce. Vid. Prefat. Grabii in Edit. Verſ. LXX.

Vſher, as has been remark'd, was a ſtrict Calvinian, and held the Predeſtinarian Controverſy in the Senſe of the Lambeth Articles. But ſometime before his Death, he chang'd his Opinion touching the Five Points, came over to the other ſide, and was reconcil'd to Biſhop Overal's Sentiment. That this is Matter of Fact, appears by the ſign'd Teſtimonies of Dr. Bryan Walton, Mr. Peter Gunning, and Mr. Herbert Thorndike *.

* Smith's Vit. Jacob. Uſſeri.

This learn'd Prelate, as has been obſerv'd, ſeemed to have an Over-ballance of Affection for the foreign Proteſtant Churches. This put him upon ſome Strain to vindicate their Orders, and make their Miniſtrations valid. For this purpoſe he reviv'd the Novelty of ſome of the School-Men, and made no Scruple to affirm, that the Office of Biſhop and Prieſt, was the ſame as to Subſtance, and only different Degrees of the ſame Order. Biſhop Davenant was likewiſe of Vſher's Opinion in this Point (o). But with all reaſonable Deference to this moſt learned Primate, there appears more Charity than Caution in this Latitude. This ſtraining of Courteſy for the Proteſtants abroad, ſeems to throw us off our Guard, and weaken the Engliſh Reformation *. 'Tis the ſafeſt way to keep cloſe to the earlieſt Ages. Theſe were Times of Light and Truth, of Zeal and Union, of Diſ-intereſtedneſs and Courage. 'Tis dangerous to croſs upon the Judgment of the firſt five Centuries, and deſert the Practice of the Primitive Church. As for the Modern Diſtinctions of Chriſtianity, it may, in my humble Opinion, be moſt adviſeable to ſtand aloof, and wiſh them well: To leave them to their own Recollection and God's Mercy: To pray their Prejudices may be no longer too ſtrong for them: That they may diſengage from their Novelties, and govern themſelves by the Ancient Standard. As to the Archbiſhop's Opinion upon this Queſtion, 'tis ſomewhat remarkable, conſidering his publiſhing St. Ignatius's Epiſtles: For in the genuine Writings of this Martyr, the Diſtinction between Biſhop and Prieſt is plainly mark'd; the Prerogative of the former ſet very high, and the Supreme Direction of Eccleſiaſtical Affairs lodg'd with him (p).

But notwithſtanding this charitable Byaſs, Vſher made no difficulty to cenſure the Practice of the Engliſh and Scotch Presbyterians. He would neither allow their Orders, nor communicate with them. He charg'd them with downright Perjury and Revolt from the Biſhops: To whom they had engag'd their Faith and ſworn Canonical Obedience: That their Miniſtrations were ſacrilegious Invaſions of the Epiſcopal Privilege, and that they had no Colour for their Schiſm. And here it muſt be obſerv'd, that this Archbiſhop, notwithſtanding his Relaxations already mention'd, maintain'd that Biſhops had a peculiar Extent of Spiritual Authority. That this Superiority was no Conceſſion of Councils, no Privilege of After-ages, but ſettled by the Apoſtles themſelves.

themſelves. To conclude the Archbiſhop's Character, he was a great Genius, a Perſon of indefatigable Induſtry, and in his Life altogether regular and unblemiſhed. And as to his Attainments, to omit other Inſtances of his Proficiency, he was a great Maſter in Eccleſiaſtical Learning and Chronology: The learned Works, either written or publiſhed by him, are too long to mention. He was bury'd in Weſtminſter Abbey, Cromwell allowing two hundred Pounds for the Expence of the Funeral (a).

This Year James Naylor and ſome others impriſon'd at Briſtol, being charg'd with Blaſphemy, the Houſe order'd a Committe to ſend for them, and examine the Witneſſes. Naylor was accordingly brought to the Bar of the Houſe, and upon hearing the Cauſe they reſolved him a grand Impoſtor and guilty of horrid Blaſphemy. The Sentence pronounced againſt this Criminal, was to ſtand n the Pillory two Hours at Weſtminſter, to be whipt from thence by the Executioner to the Old Exchange, and there to have his Puniſhment in the Pillory repeated. His Tongue was likewiſe to be bor'd through with an hot Iron, and his Forehead ſtigmatiz'd with the Letter B, with ſome other Circumſtances of Correction.

A Committee for conſulting Divines touching the reviewing the Engliſh Tranſlation of the Bible.

Feb. 1656-7.

Id.

'Twas order'd at the Grand Committee for Religion, that a Sub-Committee ſhould adviſe with Dr. Walton, Mr. Hughes, Mr. Caſtle, Mr. Clerk, Mr. Poulk, Dr. Cudworth, and ſuch others as they thought proper, to conſider of the Tranſlations of the Bible, and to offer their Opinions to the Committee. And to ſpeak in the Language of thoſe Times, the Care of this Buſineſs was recommended to the Lord Commiſſioner Whitlock. This Committee met frequently at Whitlock's Houſe, conſulted ſeveral of the moſt celebrated Men for the Oriental Tongues, furniſh'd themſelves with learned Obſervations upon this Subject, pretended to diſcover ſome Miſtakes in the laſt Engliſh Tranſlation, which yet they agreed, was the beſt extant. But this Deſign, as Whitlock reports, miſcarry'd by the Diſſolution of the Parliament.

The Polyglott Bible publiſh'd.

About the latter End of this Year, Dr. Walton publiſh'd the Polyglotte-Bible.

The Anabaptiſts Addreſs to the King.

The Anabaptiſts diſappointed by Cromwell's Ambition, and haraſs'd with his arbitrary Exceſſes, apply'd to the King. In this Addreſs they declaim with a great deal of Warmth, and lament their own Miſbehaviour in very remarkable Expreſſions. I ſhall give the Reader Part of it in the Words of their Addreſs.

“We muſt confeſs, ſay they, we have been wandering, deviating, and roving up and down, this way and that way, through all the dangerous, uncouth, and untrodden Paths of Fanatick and Enthuſiaſtick Notions, till now at laſt, but too late, we find our ſelves intricated and involved in ſo many Windings, Labyrinths, and Mæanders of Knavery, that nothing but a Divine Clew of Thread handed to us from Heaven, can be ſufficient to extricate us, and reſtore us. We know not, we know not, whether we have juſter Matter of Shame or Sorrow adminiſter'd to us, when we take a reflex View of our paſt Actions, and conſider into the Commiſſion of what Crimes, Impieties, Wickedneſſes, and unheard of Villanies, we have been led, cheated, couzened, and betray'd by that grand Impoſtor, &c.

And after having rail'd plentifully upon Cromwell, they go on in this tragical Manner againſt themſelves. “What have we done, ſay they, nay, what have we not done, which either helliſh Policy was able to contrive, or brutiſh Power to execute? We have trampled under Foot all Authorities; we have laid violent Hands upon our own Sovereign; we have raviſh'd our Parliaments; we have deflour'd the virgin liberty of our Nation; we have put a Yoke a heavy Yoke of Iron, upon the Neck of our own Country-Men; we have thrown down the Walls and Bullworks of the Peoples Safety; we have broken often-repeated Oaths, Vows, Engagements, Covenants, Proteſtations; we have betray'd our Truſts; we have violated our Faith; we have lifted up our Hands to Heaven deceitfully; and that theſe our Sins might want no Aggravation to make them exceeding ſinful, we have added Hypocriſy to them all; and have not only like the audacious Strumpet wiped our Months, and boaſted that we have done no Evil; but in the midſt of all our Abominations (ſuch as are too bad to be named amongſt the worſt of Heathens) we have not wanted Impudence enough to ſay, let the Lord be glorified: Let Jeſus Chriſt be exalted: Let his Kingdom be advanced: Let the Goſpel be propagated: Let the Saints be dignified: Let Righteouſneſs be eſtabliſh'd: Pudet hæc Opprobia Nobis aut dici potuiſſe, aut non potuiſſe refelli (r).

(r) Ld. Clarendon, Hiſt. Rebel. Vol. 3.

It muſt be ſaid, this is downright Confeſſion, and honeſt Repentance: This plain dealing looks much better than Artificial Diſtinctions; than retiring under the Protection of Knox and Calvin, and applying to Varniſh and Palliation.

During this Uſurpation, tho' the Year is not mention'd, a Paper was drawn up by ſome of Cromwell's Divines for admitting the Jews with Limitations. I ſhall report their Reſolution upon this Point in their own Language.

A Reſolution of ſome of Cromwell's Divines touching the permitting Jews to ſettle in theſe Kingdoms.

The Jews deſiring it, as theſe Divines determine, may be admitted into this Nation, to Trade and Traffick, and dwell amongſt us, as Providence ſhall give occaſion.

This as to point of Conſcience, we judge lawful for the Magiſtrate to admit, in caſe ſuch material and weighty Conſiderations as hereafter follow be provided for; about which, till we are ſatisfy'd, we cannot but in Conſcience ſuſpend our Reſolution in this Caſe.

1. That the Motives upon which Manaſſes Ben. Iſrael in behalf of the reſt of his Nation, in his Book lately printed in the Engliſh Tongue; deſires their admiſſion into this Commonwealth are ſuch, as we conceive to be very ſinful for this or any other Chriſtian State to receive them upon.

2. That the danger of ſeducing the People of this Nation by their admiſſion, in Matters of Religion is very great.

3. That their having Synagogues, or any publick meetings for the exerciſe of their Worſhip or Religion, is not only evil in it ſelf, but likewiſe very ſcandalous, to other Chriſtian Churches.

4. That their Cuſtoms and Practices concerning Marriage and Divorce, are unlawful, and will be of very evil Example amongſt us.

5. The Principles of not making Conſcience of Oaths made, and Injuries done to Chriſtians in Life Chaſtity, Goods, or good Name, have been very notoriouſly charg'd upon them by valuable Teſtimony.

6. That great prejudice is like to ariſe to the Natives of this Commonwealth in Matter of Trade, which beſides other dangers here mention'd we find very commonly ſuggeſted by the Inhabitants of the City of London.

7. We humbly preſent.

1. That they be not admitted to have any publick Judicatories, whether Civil or Eccleſiaſtical; which were to grant them Terms beyond the condition of Strangers.

2. That they be not permitted to ſpeak, or do any thing to the Defamation or Diſhonour of the name of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, or of the Chriſtian Religion.

3. That they be not permitted to do any Work, or any thing to the open Prophanation of the Lord's-Day, or Chriſtian Sabbath.

4. That they be not admitted to have any Chriſtians dwell with them as their Servants.

5. That they have no publick Office or Truſt in this Commonwealth.

6. That they be not allow'd to print any Thing, which in the leaſt oppoſes the Chriſtian Religion in our Language.

7. That ſo far as may be, they be not ſuffer'd to diſcourage any of their own from uſing, or applying themſelves to any which may tend to convince them of their Error, and turn them to Chriſtianity: And that ſome ſevere Penalty be impoſed upon them, who ſhall Apoſtatize from Chriſtianity to Judaiſm (s).

After Oliver Cromwell's Death, the Uſurpation appear'd more floting, frequently ſhifted Poſture, and roll'd through ſeveral Forms till the Reſtoration. For Inſtance: Richard, Oliver's eldeſt Son having ſat at the Helm about half a Year, was laid aſide, and the Rump Parliament reviv'd. Theſe Men drew up an Oath for abjuring the King: The entring into this Bond of Iniquity, was likewiſe preſs'd in the Pulpit by their Clergy (r). But theſe Rumpers were quickly thrown out of the Seat by Lambert and Fleetwood, and ſome other Officers of Rank. Theſe Generals put down the Rump's Council of State, and ſettled a Commiſſion of Safety: But the Adminiſtration reſted but a little while in their Hands. Upon Petitions from ſeveral Parts of the Kingdom for a Free Parliament the Rump recovers. Monk marches from Scotland, comes to London, and admits the Secluded Members. The next Turn was the Diſſolution of the Long-Parliament: A Council of State was form'd, and a new Set of Lords and Commons met at Weſtminſter.

April 25. 1660.

Theſe Lords and Gentlemen recollect themſelves to Purpoſe, return to their Duty, and invite the King to the Government (u). He was now at the Hague, and honourably receiv'd by the States of Holland. Here his Majeſty publiſh'd a Declaration: I ſhall tranſcribe one Paragraph of this Inſtrument, relating to the Church: The words are theſe.

(u) Ld. Clarendon, Hiſt. Rebel. Vol. 3.

“ And becauſe the Paſſion and Uncharitableneſs “ of the Times, have produc'd ſeveral Opinions “ in Religion, by which Men are engaged in “ Parties and Animoſities againſt each other; “ which when they ſhall hereafter unite in a “ Freedom of Converſation will be compos'd, “ or better underſtood; we do declare a liberty “ to tender Conſciences, and that no Man ſhall “ be diſquieted or called in Queſtion, for diffe- “ rences of Opinion in Matters of Religion, “ which do not diſturb the Peace of the King- “ dom; and that we ſhall be ready to conſent “ to ſuch an Act of Parliament, as upon ma- “ ture Deliberation, ſhall be offer'd to us, for “ the full granting that Indulgence.

The Reſtoration being concerted, the Lords and Commons ſent a Committee to wait upon the King at the Hague. The Peers ſent Six, and the Lower-Houſe Twelve of their Body: The City likewiſe diſpatch'd Fourteen Perſons of their Corporation for the ſame purpoſe. About eight or ten of the Presbyterian Divines went in Company with theſe Commiſſioners. Reinolds, Calamy, Caſe, Manton, and ſome other eminent Perſons of that Party, were pitch'd on for this Affair. They choſe to appear by themſelves, and make a diſtinct Repreſentation: The Buſineſs of Chaplains they knew, was commonly miſconſtrued, and taken at diſadvantage: For this Reaſon they were unwilling to be miſtaken for Perſons of that Character. This Conduct ſhews them Men of Senſe and Spirit, and that they underſtood the World. Having agreed upon this Manner of Addreſs, they requeſt an Hour, and at their publick Audience make large Profeſſions of Duty, and magnify the Affections of themſelves and their Friends. “ They “ had always, they ſaid, purſuant to the Obliga- “ tion of the Covenant, wiſh'd his Majeſty very “ well; and upon the late opportunity which “ God had put into their Hands, had reminded “ their People of their Duty, and awakened “ them to Loyalty: And they preſum'd his “ Majeſty might have hear'd theſe Applications “ of theirs were not without conſiderable Suc- “ ceſs. They thank God for his conſtancy to “ the Proteſtant Religion, and declar'd them- “ ſelves no Enemies to Moderate Epiſcopacy: “ They only deſir'd that ſuch things might not “ be preſs'd upon them in God's Worſhip, “ which even in the Judgment of thoſe who “ us'd them, were own'd to be Matters indif- “ ferent, and that others ſtood off from them “ as altogether unlawful (w).

Their Addreſs, with the King's Anſwer.

“ The King receiving them kindly, ſaid “ he had heard of their good Behaviour; that “ he had no Intention to impoſe hard conditions “ and embarraſs their Conſciences: That he had “ refer'd the ſetling all Differences of the nature “ they mention'd, to the Wiſdom of the Parlia- “ ment: And that the two Houſes were the “ beſt Judges what Indulgence and Toleration “ was neceſſary for the repoſe of the Kingdom.

(w) Ld. Clarendon, Hiſt. Rebel. Vol. 3.

Theſe Divines being willing to diſcourſe the King farther upon this Subject, deſir'd ſeveral private Audiences, which were granted. And now they took the Freedom to ſuggeſt: That the Common-Prayer had long been diſcontinued in England: That many of the People had never once heard it; and therefore it would be much wonder'd at, if his Majeſty at his firſt landing ſhould revive the uſe of it in his own Chapel: And therefore to prevent the Peoples being ſhock'd at ſuch uncuſtomary Worſhip, they intreated him not to uſe it in Form, and by Rubrical Directions. But only to order the reading ſome Part of it with the intermixture of other good Prayers.

“ The King reply'd with ſomewhat of Re- “ ſentment, that ſince he gave them their Li- “ berty; he ſhould by no means reſign his own: “ That he had always us'd that Form of Service: “ That he thought it the beſt in the World; “ and that he had never diſcontinu'd it in “ Places, where it was more diſlik'd, than “ he hop'd it was by them: That when he “ came into England, he would not make any “ ſtrict enquiry how they officiated in other “ Churches; tho' he did not queſtion, he ſhould “ find the Liturgy regularly receiv'd in many “ Places: But let that be as it would, he was “ reſolv'd not to ſuffer any other publick Devo- “ tion in his own Chapel.

Theſe Addreſſers deſpairing to carry this Point, importun'd his Majeſty, "That the uſe of the Surplice might be diſcontinued by his Chaplains, becauſe the Sight of this Habit would give great Offence to the People. But this Requeſt made no Impreſſion. The King told them plainly, "he would not be reſtrain'd himſelf, when others had ſo much Indulgence: That the Surplice had been always reckon'd a decent Habit, and conſtantly worn in the Church of England, till theſe late ill Times; and that he had all along retain'd the Uſe of it in foreign Parts; that tho' he thought himſelf oblig'd for the preſent, to connive at Diſorder, and tolerate a Failure of Solemnity and Decorum in religious Worſhip, yet he would never abbet any ſuch Irregularity by his own Practice, nor diſcountenance the ancient and laudable Cuſtoms of the Church in which he was bred.

This Firmneſs in his Majeſty, was no ſmall Diſappointment to theſe Divines: They expected to have found him more compliant with their Schemes. However, they declin'd giving him any more Trouble upon this Head, hoping to meet with a more favourable Opportunity in England.

May 26. The King reſtor'd.

The King having been eight or ten Days ſplendidly entertain'd by the States, went on board the Engliſh Fleet, arriv'd at Dover, and was receiv'd by the Kingdom with all imaginable Marks of Duty and Inclination.

At this happy Return, the Church recover'd with the Crown; tho' this Ground was not gain'd without ſome Conteſt with the diſſenting Party. Neither is this Struggle much ſurpriſing, if we conſider, that for fourteen or fifteen Years laſt paſt, the Hierarchy had been broken, the Liturgy laid aſide, and a new Form both as to Worſhip and Government, publickly prevail'd. The Presbyterians had ſeveral Circumſtances of Advantage to ſupport their Hopes. Poſſeſſion of the Chair, the Inclination of no ſmall Numbers of the People, the Countenance of Great Men, and the King's Declaration at Breda, gave this Party no uncomfortable Proſpect. To keep them ſomewhat ſanguine in their Expectations, Dr. Reinolds, Dr. Spurſtow, Dr. Wallis, Dr. Bates, Dr. Manton, Mr. Calamy, Mr. Aſk, Mr. Baxter, Mr. Caſe, and two or three more, were made the King's Chaplains in Ordinary; tho' none of them ever preach'd before his Majeſty, excepting Calamy, Reinolds, Baxter, Spurſtow, and Woodbridge; and none of theſe but once. However, this appearing in the Chapel, made their Acceſs to his Majeſty the more eaſy. To purſue their Intereſt therefore, they waited on his Majeſty ſoon after the Reſtoration, being introduc'd by the Earl of Mancheſter. In their Addreſs, "They recommended the uniting the Kingdom in Matters of Religion: That if his Majeſty would pleaſe to contribute his Aſſiſtance, nothing could be more promiſing than the preſent Juncture: They intreated that the Terms of Union might include nothing but neceſſary Things: That the true Exerciſe of Church Diſcipline might be allow'd: That thoſe Miniſters who were moſt ſerviceable for this Branch of the Function might not be laid aſide, nor unworthy unqualify'd Men, put upon the People.

Some of the Presbyterian Miniſters wait upon the King, and diſcourſe him upon the Subject of Church-Government and Ceremonies.

The King declar'd himſelf much pleas'd with their reconciling Temper, and reſolv'd to do his Part for promoting what was ſuggeſted: But told them withal, "That this Agreement could not be expected without ſomething of Ceſſion and Abatement on both ſides: That if the Iſſue did not anſwer, it ſhould not be his Fault but their own: That he was reſolv'd to leave no proper Methods unattempted, for procuring a Harmony, and drawing the diſtant Perſuaſions to a good Underſtanding. To this End he deſir'd them to lay ſome Propoſals before him touching Church Government. That this main Difference being once ſettled, other Matters would be eaſily accommodated. And here his Majeſty order'd them to ſet down the full length of their Conceſſions. "They told the King they were but a ſmall Number, and had no Commiſſion from their Brethren to declare themſelves upon this Head. They deſir'd therefore they might have leave to acquaint their Brethren in the Country, with his Majeſty's Commands, and receive their Sentiments upon this Argument. The King reply'd, that Method would be dilatory, and make too much Noiſe: That therefore he had rather the Propoſals ſhould come from themſelves; and that for fuller Information, they might communicate this Affair with their Friends in the City. To this their Anſwer was: "They were in no Condition either to ſpeak for, or oblige other People: And therefore what they offer'd his Majeſty could only be taken for their own Senſe. The King let them know, they ſhould be conſtrued no otherwiſe, and that he did not deſign to convene a Synod or Aſſembly of the other Party, but only make uſe of a few for adjuſting this Matter (x). Upon this, theſe Divines begg'd the King, that when they laid their Conceſſions before him, his Majeſty would order their Brethren of the Church of England, might deliver in a Paper of the utmoſt they could yield: That when the Relaxations of both ſides were compar'd, the Succeſs might the better be conjectur'd. The King, thinking this reaſonable, promis'd their Requeſt.

Their Propoſal for an Accommodation with the Epiſcopal Party.

About three Weeks after, the Propoſals were agreed: The Paper was moſtly drawn by Calamy and Reinolds. It begins with four preliminary Requeſts: That ſerious Godlineſs might be countenanced; a learned and pious Miniſter in each Pariſh encouraged; that a perſonal publick owning the Baptiſmal Covenant, might precede an Admiſſion to the Lord's-Table; and that the Lord's-Day might be ſtrictly ſanctified. After this general Introduction, they proceed to Particulars. "And here they offer, as they pretend, to allow the true primitive Preſidency in the Church, with a due Mixture of Presbyters. That this Scheme was neceſſary to avoid the Corruptions, Partiality, and Tyranny incident to the Adminiſtration of a ſingle Perſon. The Things which they chiefly blam'd in the Engliſh Hierarchy, were; The great Extent of the Biſhop's Dioceſs; their deputing Commiſſaries, Chancellors, and Officials to act in their ſtead; their aſſuming the ſole Power of Ordination and Juriſdiction; and acting ſo arbitrarily in Viſitation-Articles. Beſides this, they objected, their bringing in new Ceremonies, and ſuſpending Miniſters at Pleaſure: For reforming theſe Evils, as they call'd them, they propos'd that Biſhop Uſher's Notion of Epiſcopal Government, might be receiv'd as the Ground-Work of an Accommodation. This Primate's Scheme is couch'd under the four following Propoſitions.

Primate Uſher's Plan for Epiſcopal Government.

I.

Uſher would have it, That in every Pariſh the Rector, or the incumbent Paſtor, together with the Church-Warden and Sidemen, may every Week take notice

(x) Calamy's Life of Baxter.

Wren Mat. Bp. of Ely.

notice of ſuch as live ſcandalouſly in the Congregation; who are to receive ſuch ſeveral Admonitions and Reproofs, as the Quality of their Offence ſhall deſerve; and if by this means they cannot be reclaim'd, they may be preſented unto the next Monthly Synod, and in the mean time, be debarr'd by the Paſtor from Acceſs unto the Lord's Table.

II.

Whereas by a Satute in the 26 of Hen. 8. (reviv'd in the 1ſt of Q. Eliz.) Suffragans are appointed to be erected in 26 ſeveral Places of this Kingdom, the Number of them might be very well conform'd unto the ſeveral Rural Deanaries, into which every Dioceſe is ſubdivided; which being done, the Suffragan (ſupplying the Place of thoſe who in the ancient Church were call'd Chorepiſcopi*) might every Month aſſemble a Synod of all the Rectors or incumbent Paſtors, within the Precinct, and according to the major part of their Voices, conclude all Matters that ſhould be brought into Debate before them. To this Synod the Rector and Churchwardens might preſent ſuch impenitent Perſons, as by Admonition and Suſpenſion from the Sacrament, would not be reform'd, who, if they would ſtill remain contumacious and incorrigible, the Sentence of Excommunication might be decreed againſt them by the Synod, and accordingly be executed in the Pariſh where they liv'd. Hitherto alſo all things that concern'd the Parochial Miniſters might be refer'd, whether they did touch their Doctrine or their Converſation: As alſo the Cenſure of all new Opinions, Hereſies, and Schiſms, which did ariſe within that Circuit, with Liberty of Appeal, if need ſo require, unto the Dioceſan Synod.*

III.

The Dioceſan Synod might be held once or twice in the Year, as it ſhould be thought moſt convenient; therein all the Suffragans, and the reſt of the Rectors or incumbent Paſtors, or a certain ſelect Number out of every Deanary within that Dioceſe might meet; with whoſe Conſent, or the major part of them, all things might be concluded by the Biſhop or Superintendent (call him which you will) or in his abſence by one of the Suffragans, whom he ſhould depute in his ſtead, to be Moderator of that Aſſembly. Here all Matters of great Moment might be taken into Conſideration, and the Orders of the Monthly Synods reviſ'd, and, if need be, reform'd. And if here alſo any Matter of Difficulty could not receive a full Determination, it might be referr'd to the next Provincial, or National Synod.

IV.

The Provincial Synod might conſiſt of all the Biſhops and Suffragans, and ſuch of the Clergy as ſhould be elected out of every Dioceſe within the Province. The Primate of either Province, might be the Moderator of this Meeting (or in his room ſome one of the Biſhops appointed by him) and all Matters be order'd therein by common Conſent, as in the former Aſſemblies. This Synod might be held every third Year, and if the Parliament do then ſit, both the Primates and Provincial Synods of the Land might joyn together, and make up a National Council; wherein all Appeals from inferiour Synods might be receiv'd, all their Acts examin'd, and all Eccleſiaſtical Conſtitutions which concern the State of the Church of the whole Nation eſtabliſh'd *.

These Miniſters refine upon Archbiſhop Uſher.

The Presbyterian Divines refine upon this Plan, and go farther in their Demands: “They move, that the Suffragans ſhould be choſen by their reſpective Synods: That Diſtricts may be reduc'd to a moderate Extent: That Miniſters ſhould be under no Oaths, or Promiſes of Obedience to the Biſhops, as being reſponſible for all Breaches upon the Law: That the Biſhops may not govern at Diſcretion; but be reſtrain'd to the Direction of Canons, or Conſtitutions: And that theſe ſhould be either made, or confirm'd by Act of Parliament.

“As to the Liturgy, they own'd the Lawfulneſs of a preſcrib'd Form of publick Worſhip: But deſir'd withal, that ſome learned, pious and moderate Divines of both Parties, might be employ'd either to draw up a new Liturgy, or reform the old one: And here they propoſe the adding ſome Variety of Compoſure couch'd in Scripture Phraſe, to be us'd or omitted, as the Miniſter ſhall think fit. —— As to the Ceremonies, 'twas their humble Opinion, Divine Service was perfect without them. That in Matters of Worſhip God has declar'd himſelf a Jealous God: That moſt of the Reform'd Churches abroad, rejected the Engliſh Ceremonies: That at home, they had been Matter of Diſpute and Contention, ever ſince the Reformation: That many pious and uſeful Miniſters had been ſilenc'd upon this Score, and Separations from the Church occaſion'd from hence. That theſe Externals were no immutable Circumſtances, and therefore they intreated, that kneeling at the Sacrament might not be impos'd. That the wearing the Surplice, the Croſs in Baptiſm, and bowing at the Name of Jeſus, rather than of Chriſt or Emanuel, might be laid aſide; and that Care might be taken to prevent Innovations, contrary to Law †. Farther, they deſir'd the King, “That none of their Miniſters might be ejected from ſequeſter'd Livings, where the Epiſcopal Incumbents were dead: That his Majeſty would pleaſe to give a publick Signification of his Pleaſure, that no Oaths, Subſcriptions, or Renunciation of Orders, might be requir'd, till the preſent Debate was gone through, and the Controverſie brought to an Iſſue.

The King treated them with Regard, told them he was much pleas'd with their declaring for a Liturgy, and yielding to the Eſſentials of Epiſcopacy; and promis'd them, that where the old Incumbents were dead, the Benefices ſhou'd be confirm'd to thoſe in Poſſeſſion *.

* Calamy's Life of Baxter, p. 147.

The Biſhops Anſwer to the Presbyterians Propoſals.

“As to their Preliminary Requeſts, they conceive the Laws of the Realm have made a ſufficient Proviſion, and that no farther Security can be given. As for Liberty of Conſcience they are willing to comply, provided a Paſſage may not be open'd for private Conventicles: For ſhould ſuch an Indulgence be granted, the Conſequences might prove very unſerviceable to the State. That they approve the fixing a godly Miniſter in each Pariſh, but do not underſtand what is meant by reſiding on his Cure, nor how far thoſe Words may be ſtretch'd; nor what farther Proviſion can be made upon that Head. As for Confirmation, and the barring ſcandalous Perſons from the Communion, they thought the Church had taken ſufficient Care of that Matter. And touching the Obſervation of the Lord's Day. They reply; the Laws of the Kingdom were ſtricter than thoſe of any foreign Reform'd Communion whatſoever. As to Church Government, they inſiſt upon continuing the former Hierarchy without any Alteration: And that the Presbyterians Objections againſt a ſingle Perſon's Adminiſtration in the Church, were equally applicable to the State. The Extent of the Dioceſes they conceive well "enough fitted to the Biſhops Inſpection and Management: And that the Share of Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction put into the Hand of Chancellours, &c. was regular in the main. Archbiſhop Uſher's Plan for retrenching the Biſhops Authority, they declare inconſiſtent with two other Diſcourſes of that Prelate: And that his Four Propoſitions, at the beſt, were but ſome private Thoughts thrown together. They pronounce the Offices in the Common Prayer altogether unexceptionable; and conceive the Book cannot be too ſtrictly enjoyn'd: Eſpecially when Miniſters are not deny'd the Exerciſe of their Gifts in praying before, and after Sermon; which Liberty for extemporary or private Compoſitions, ſtands only upon a late Cuſtom, without any Foundation from Law or Canons: And that the common Uſe of this Practice comes only from Connivance. However, they are contented to yield the Liturgy may be review'd, in caſe his Majeſty thinks fit. As for the Ceremonies, they are unwilling to part with any of them; being clearly of Opinion, that the Satisfaction of ſome private Perſons ought not to over-rule the publick Peace, and Uniformity of the Church: And that if any Abatements were made, it would only feed a Diſtemper, and encourage unquiet People to farther Demands (y).

The Biſhops who live to the Reſtoration.

And here it may not be improper to obſerve, that Nine of the Biſhops surviv'd the Rebellion, and recover'd their Sees at the Reſtoration, viz. William Juxton Biſhop of London, tranſlated this Year to Canterbury; William Pierce Biſhop of Bath and Wells; Robert Skinner Biſhop of Oxford, tranſlated afterwards to Worceſter; John Warner Biſhop of Rocheſter; William Roberts Biſhop of Bangor; Matthew Wren Biſhop of Ely; Bryan Duppa Biſhop of Saliſbury; from whence after the Reſtoration, he was remov'd to Wincheſter; Henry King Biſhop of Chicheſter; Accepted Frewen Biſhop of Coventry and Litchfield; and this Year promoted to the Archbiſhoprick of York. Beſides theſe, there were Six Biſhops conſecrated on the firſt Sunday in Advent, viz. John * Lord Biſhop of Durham; William Lord Biſhop of St. David's; Benjamin Lord Biſhop of Peterborough; Hugh † Lord Biſhop of Landaff; Richard * Lord Biſhop of Carliſle; Bryan † Lord Biſhop of Cheſter, and John * Lord Biſhop of Exeter: When Juxton was tranſlated to Canterbury, Gilbert Sheldon was made Biſhop of London (z). The other Biſhopricks were quickly fill'd with well qualify'd Perſons.

Ld. Chancellour Hide's Speech upon the Subject of Religion.

To return: Soon after the Biſhops had ſent the Anſwer abovemention'd, the Presbyterian Miniſters were told the King would put all he thought proper to grant them into a Declaration: That they ſhould ſee this Inſtrument before it was publiſh'd, and have the Liberty to report what they happen'd to diſlike. A Copy of this Declaration was accordingly ſent them by the Lord Chancellour Hide. Some little time before it was iſſued out, this Lord gave notice of it in a Speech to the Parliament. Here he acquaints the Houſes, "He was commanded to mention two things recommended to them by his Majeſty in his Declaration from Breda, the one for compoſing thoſe unhappy Differences and Diſtempers in Religion, which had too much diſturb'd the Peace of the Kingdom. This, (ſaith he) is a ſad Argument indeed, it is a Conſideration that muſt make every Religious Heart bleed to ſee Religion, which ſhould be the ſtrongeſt Obligation and Cement of Affection, and Brotherly Kindneſs and Compaſſion, made now by the perverſe Wranglings of paſſionate and froward Men, the ground of all Animoſity, Hatred, Malice and Revenge; and this unruly and unmanly Paſſion, I fear, too frequently tranſports thoſe who are in the right, as well as thoſe who are in the wrong, and leaves the latter more excuſable than the former. When Men who find their Manners and Diſpoſitions very conformable in all the neceſſary Obligations of human Nature, avoid one another's Converſation, and grow firſt unſociable, and then uncharitable to each other, becauſe one cannot think as the other doth.---

My Lords and Gentlemen,

"This Diſquiſition hath coſt the King many a Sigh, many a ſad Hour, when he hath conſider'd the almoſt irreparable Reproach the Proteſtant Religion hath undergone from the Diviſions and Diſtractions which have been ſo notorious in this Kingdom. What Pains he hath taken to compoſe them, after ſeveral Diſcourſes with pious and learned Men of different Perſuaſions, you will ſhortly perceive by a Declaration, which he will publiſh upon that Occaſion; by which you will ſee his great Indulgence to thoſe who can have any Pretenſion from Conſcience to differ from their Brethren.

The Presbyterian Divines having peruſ'd the Declaration drew a Petition to the King, and ſubjoyn'd ſome Remarks on the Declaration. They deliver'd what they had done to the Lord Chancellour, who thought it moſt adviſable to drop this Addreſs, and never call'd on them to preſent it to the King. However, he deſir'd they would give in the Particulars of what they thought proper ſhould be alter'd: Upon which, they deliver'd him Minutes upon theſe Heads. And now a Day was fix'd for his Majeſty's peruſing the Declaration as the Lord Chancellour had drawn it. Accordingly the King came to the Lord Chancellour's with the Dukes of Albemarle and Ormond, the Earls of Mancheſter and Angleſy, the Lord Hollis, and ſome others of the Court: With theſe appear'd Sheldon Biſhop of London, Morley Biſhop of Worceſter, Hinchman Biſhop of Saliſbury, Coſens Biſhop of Durham, Gauden Biſhop of Exeter, Dr. Hacket, Dr. Berwick, Dr. Gunning, &c. On the other ſide, the Diſſenters were repreſented by Reinolds, Calamy, Aſh, Wallis, Manton, Spurſtow, Baxter, and ſome others. The Buſineſs of this Day was not to argue, but as the Lord Chancellour read the Declaration, each Party was to ſpeak their Exceptions, and after all, the King was to over-rule the Debate, and ſettle the Form. There were ſeveral Objections rais'd touching Prelacy, Re-ordination, and other Particulars. When the whole was read, the Lord Chancellour pull'd out another Paper and acquainted them, that the King had been petition'd by the Independents and Anabaptiſts, for indulging their reſpective Perſuaſions. Upon this, he read a Supplemental Clauſe in the Declaration to this Effect: That others alſo might be permitted to meet for Religious Worſhip, provided they give no Diſturbance to the publick Peace: And that they may not be moleſted by any Juſtice of Peace, or other Officer. This Clauſe was ſuſpected upon the Score of the Latitude in which it was expreſs'd, and that there might be a Deſign to bring the Papiſts within the Compaſs of the Toleration: For this reaſon, probably, 'twas neither approv'd by the Epiſcopal, or Presbyterian Party. However, the Point being nice, and the Conſtruction ſomewhat uncertain, there was nothing objected; only Baxter took the Freedom to declare againſt the tolerating Papiſts and Socinians: To which his Majeſty reply'd, the Laws had ſufficiently provided againſt Danger from the Papiſts. And thus the Matter was dropt. Before the Meeting broke up, the King ſettled the Senſe of the Declaration: And if there happen'd any Diſpute touching the manner of Expreſſion, this Point was to be referr'd to Biſhop Morley and Biſhop Hinchman, Reinolds and Calamy. And in caſe they happened to diſagree, the Earl of Angleſy and the Lord Hollis were to determine the Difference (a).

The King's Declaration touching Eccleſiaſtical Affairs. A. D. 1660.

On the 25th of October his Majeſty ſet forth his Declaration to all his loving Subjects of his Kingdom of England and Dominion of Wales concerning Eccleſiaſtical Affairs. I ſhall give the Reader part of this Inſtrument.

“In our Letter, ſaith the King to the Speaker of the Houſe of Commons, from Breda, we declared how much we deſired the Advancement and Propagation of the Proteſtant Religion; that neither the Unkindneſs of thoſe of the ſame Faith towards us, nor the Civilities and Obligations from thoſe of a contrary Profeſſion, (of both which we have had abundant Evidence) could in the leaſt degree ſtartle us, or make us ſwerve from it, and that nothing can be propoſed to manifeſt our Zeal and Affection for it, to which we will not readily conſent. And we ſaid then, that we did hope in due time, Ourſelf to propoſe ſomewhat for the Propagation of it, that will ſatisfy the World that we have always made it both our Care and our Study, and have enough obſerved what is moſt like to bring Diſadvantage to it. And the Truth is, We do think Ourſelf more competent to propoſe, and with God's Aſſiſtance to determine many Things now in difference, from the Time we have ſpent, and the Experience we have had in moſt of the Reformed Churches Abroad, in France, in the Low-Countries, and in Germany, where we have had frequent Conferences with the moſt learned Men, who have unanimouſly lamented the great Reproach the Proteſtant Religion undergoes from the Diſtempers and too notorious Schiſms in Matters of Religion in England. And as the moſt learned amongſt them, have always with great Submiſſion and Reverence acknowledged and magnified the eſtabliſhed Government of the Church of England, and the great Countenance and Shelter the Proteſtant Religion received from it before theſe unhappy Times: So many of them have with great Ingenuity and Sorrow confeſt, that they were too eaſily miſled by Miſ-information and Prejudice, into ſome Diſeſteem of it; as if it had too much comply'd with the Church of Rome; whereas they now acknowledge it to be the beſt Fence God hath yet raiſed againſt Popery in the World: And we are perſuaded, they do with great Zeal wiſh it reſtored to its old Dignity and Veneration.

“When we were in Holland, we were attended by many grave and learned Miniſters from hence, who were look'd upon as the moſt able and principal Aſſertors of the Presbyterian Opinions; with whom we had as much Conference as the Multitude of Affairs which were then upon us, would permit us to have, and to our great Satisfaction and Comfort, found them Perſons full of Affection to Us, of Zeal for the Peace of the Church and State, and neither Enemies (as they have been given out to be) to Epiſcopacy or Liturgy, but modeſtly to deſire ſuch Alterations in either, as without ſhaking Foundations, might beſt allay the preſent Diſtempers, which the Indiſpoſition of the Time, and the Tenderneſs of ſome Mens Conſciences had contracted. For the better doing whereof, we did intend upon our firſt Arrival in this Kingdom, to call a Synod of Divines, as the moſt proper Expedient to provide a proper Remedy for all thoſe Differences and Diſſatisfactions which had or ſhould ariſe in Matters of Religion. And in the mean time, we publiſhed in our Declaration from Breda, a Liberty to tender Conſciences, and that no Man ſhould be diſquieted, or call'd in queſtion for differences of Opinion in Matters of Religion, which do not diſturb the Peace of the Kingdom, and that we ſhall be ready to conſent to ſuch an Act of Parliament, as upon mature Deliberation, ſhall be offer'd to us, for the full granting that Indulgence.

“We need not profeſs the high Eſteem and Affection we have for the Church of England, as it is Eſtabliſh'd by Law; the Reverence to which hath ſupported us, by God's Bleſſing, againſt many Temptations: Nor do we think that Reverence in the leaſt degree diminiſhed by our Condeſcenſions, not peremptorily to inſiſt on ſome Particulars of Ceremony, which however introduced by the Piety and Devotion and Order of former Times, may not be ſo agreeable to the preſent, but may even leſſen that Piety and Devotion for the Improvement whereof they might happily be firſt introduc'd, and conſequently may well be diſpenſed with. And we hope this charitable Compliance of ours will diſpoſe the Minds of all Men to a chearful Submiſſion to that Authority, the Preſervation whereof is ſo neceſſary for the Unity and Peace of the Church, and that they will acknowledge the Support of the Epiſcopal Authority to be the beſt Support of Religion, by being the beſt Means to contain the Minds of Men within the Rules of Government. And they who would reſtrain the Exerciſe of that holy Function within the Rules which were obſerv'd in the primitive Times, muſt remember and conſider, that the Eccleſiaſtical Power being in thoſe bleſſed Times always ſubordinate and ſubject to the Civil *: It was likewiſe proportion'd to ſuch an Extent, as was moſt agreeable to that. And as the Sanctity and Simplicity, and Reſignation of that Age, did then refer many Things to the Biſhops, which the Policy of ſucceeding Ages would not admit, at leaſt did otherwiſe provide for; ſo it can be no Reproach to primitive Epiſcopacy, if where there have been great Alterations in the Civil Government from what was then, there have been likewiſe ſome Difference and Alteration in the Eccleſiaſtical, the Eſſence and Foundation being ſtill preſerv'd.

The King's Conceſſions ſhall be next inſerted.

1. “We do in the firſt place, continues his Majeſty, declare, Our Purpoſe and Reſolution is, and ſhall be, to promote the Power of Godlineſs, to encourage the Exerciſes of Religion both publick and private, and to take Care that the Lord's-Day be apply'd to holy Exerciſes, without unneceſſary Divertiſements; and that inſufficient, negligent, and ſcandalous Miniſters be not permitted in the Church. And that as the preſent Biſhops are known to be “ Men of great and exemplary Piety in their Lives, which they have manifeſted in their notorious and unexampled Sufferings during theſe late Diſtempers, and of great and known Sufficiency of Learning; ſo we ſhall take eſpecial Care to prefer no Man to that Office and Charge, but Men of Learning, Virtue and Piety, who may be themſelves the beſt Examples to thoſe who are to be govern'd by them. And we ſhall expect and provide the beſt we can, that the Biſhops be frequent Preachers, and that they do very often preach themſelves in ſome Churches of their Dioceſs, except they be hinder'd by Sickneſs, or ſome or other bodily Infirmity, or ſome other juſtifiable Occaſion, which ſhall not be thought juſtifiable if it be frequent.

2. “ Becauſe the Dioceſſes, eſpecially ſome of them, are thought to be of too large Extent, We will appoint ſuch a Number of ſuffragan Biſhops in every Dioceſs, as ſhall be ſufficient for the due Performance of their Work.

3. “ No Biſhop ſhall ordain or exerciſe any Part of Juriſdiction which appertains to the Cenſures of the Church, without the Advice and Aſſiſtance of the Presbyters: And no Chancellor, Commiſſaries, or Officials, as ſuch, ſhall execute any Act of ſpiritual Juriſdiction in theſe Caſes; viz. Excommunication, Abſolution, or wherein any of the Miniſtry are concern'd, with Reference to their Paſtoral Charge. However, our Intent and Meaning is, to uphold and maintain the Profeſſion of the Civil Laws, ſo far and in ſuch Matters as it hath been of Uſe and Practice within our Kingdoms and Dominions: Albeit, as to Excommunication, our Will and Pleaſure is, that no Chancellor, Commiſſary, or Official ſhall decree any Sentence of Excommunication or Abſolution, or be Judges in thoſe Things wherein any of the Miniſtry are concerned, as is aforeſaid: Nor ſhall the Archdeacon exerciſe any Juriſdiction without the Advice and Aſſiſtance of ſix Miniſters of his Archdeaconry, whereof Three to be nominated by the Biſhop, and Three by the Election of the major Part of the Presbyters within the Archdeaconry.

4. “ To the End that the Deans and Chapters may be the better fitted to afford Council and Aſſiſtance to the Biſhops both in Ordination, and the other Offices mention'd before, We will take Care that thoſe Preferments be given to the moſt learned, pious, and diſcreet Presbyters of the ſame Dioceſs. And moreover, that an equal Number to thoſe of the Chapter, of the moſt learned, pious, and diſcreet Presbyters of the ſame Dioceſs, annually choſen by the major Vote of all the Presbyters of that Dioceſs, preſent at ſuch Elections, ſhall be always adviſing and aſſiſting, together with thoſe of the Chapter, in all Ordinations, and in every part of the Juriſdiction which appertains to the Cenſures of the Church, and at all other ſolemn and important Actions in the Exerciſe of the Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction, wherein any of the Miniſtry are concerned; provided that at all ſuch Meetings, the Number of the Miniſters ſo elected, and thoſe preſent of the Chapter, ſhall be equal, and not exceed one the other; and that to make the Numbers equal, the Juniors of the exceeding Number be withdrawn, that the moſt ancient may take place. Nor ſhall any ſuffragan Biſhop ordain, or exerciſe the forementioned Offices and Acts of ſpiritual Juriſdiction, but with the Advice and Aſſiſtance of a ſufficient Number of the moſt judicious and pious Presbyters annually choſen as aforeſaid, within his Precincts. And our Will is, that the great Work of Ordination, be conſtantly and ſolemnly perform'd by the Biſhop and his aforeſaid Presbytery, at the four ſet Times and Seaſons appointed by the Church for that purpoſe.

5. “ We will take Care that Confirmation be ſolemnly and rightly perform'd by the Information, and with the Conſent of the Miniſter of the Place, who ſhall admit none to the Lord's-Supper, till they have made a credible Profeſſion of their Faith, and promis'd Obedience to the Will of God, according as is expreſſed in the Conſiderations of the Rubrick before the Catechiſm: And that all poſſible Diligence be uſed for the Inſtruction and Reformation of ſcandalous Offenders, whom the Miniſter ſhall not ſuffer to partake of the Lord's-Table, until they have openly declar'd themſelves to have truly repented and amended their former naughty Lives, as is partly expreſſed in the Rubrick, and more fully in the Canons; provided there be place for due Appeal to ſuperior Power. But beſides the Suffragans and their Presbytery, every Rural Dean (thoſe Deans as heretofore to be nominated by the Biſhop of the Dioceſs) together with three or four Miniſters of the Deanry choſen by the major Part of all the Miniſters within the ſame, ſhall meet once in every Month, to receive ſuch Complaints as ſhall be preſented to them by the Miniſters or Church-Wardens of the reſpective Pariſhes; and alſo to compoſe all ſuch Differences betwixt Party and Party, as ſhall be offer'd to them by way of Arbitration, and to convince Offenders, and reform all ſuch Things as they ſhall find amiſs by their Paſtoral Reproofs and Admonitions, if they may be ſo reformed: And ſuch Matters as they cannot by this paſtoral and perſuaſive Way compoſe and reform, are by them to be prepared for, and preſented to the Biſhop; at which Meeting any other Miniſter of the Deanry may, if they pleaſe, be preſent. Moreover, the Rural Dean and his Aſſiſtants, are in their reſpective Diviſions, to ſee that Children and younger ſort be carefully inſtructed by the reſpective Miniſters of every Pariſh, in the Grounds of the Chriſtian Religion, and be able to give a good Account of their Faith and Knowledge, and alſo of their Chriſtian Converſation conformable thereunto, before they be confirmed by the Biſhop, or admitted to the Sacrament of the Lord's-Supper.

6. “ No Biſhop ſhall exerciſe any Arbitrary Power, or do, or impoſe any Thing upon the Clergy or the People, but what is according to the known Law of the Land.

7. We are very glad to find, that all with whom we have conferr'd, do in their Judgements approve a Liturgy, or Set-Form of Publick Worſhip, to be lawful; which in our Judgment, for the Preſervation of Unity and Uniformity, we conceive to be very neceſſary, and though we do conceive the Liturgy of the Church of England contained in the Book of Common-Prayer, and by Law eſtabliſhed, to be the beſt we have ſeen; and we believe, that we have ſeen all that are extant, and uſed in this Part of the World, and well know what Reverence moſt of the Reformed Churches or at leaſt the moſt learned Men in thoſe Churches have for it; yet ſince we find ſome Exceptions made “againſt ſeveral Things therein, we will appoint an equal Number of learned Divines of both Perſuaſions to review the ſame, and to make ſuch Alterations as ſhall be thought moſt neceſſary, and ſome additional Forms (in the Scripture Phraſe as near as may be) ſuited unto the ſeveral parts of Worſhip, and that it be left to the Miniſter's Choice to uſe one or other at his Diſcretion. In the mean time, and until this be done, altho' we heartily wiſh and deſire, that the Miniſters in their ſeveral Churches, becauſe they diſlike ſome Clauſes and Expreſſions, would not totally lay aſide the Uſe of the Book of Common-Prayer, but read thoſe Parts againſt which there can be no Exception, which would be the beſt Inſtance of declining thoſe Marks of Diſtinction which we ſo much labour and deſire to remove: Yet in Compaſſion to divers of our good Subjects who ſcruple the Uſe of it as now it is, Our Will and Pleaſure is, that none be puniſhed or troubled for not uſing it, until it be reviewed, and effectually reformed as aforeſaid.

“In the mean Time, out of Compliance and Compaſſion towards thoſe who would forbear the Croſs in Baptiſm; we are content that no Man ſhall be compelled to uſe the ſame, or ſuffer for doing it. But if any Parent deſire to have his Child Chriſtned according to the Form uſed, and the Miniſter will not uſe the Sign, it ſhall be lawful for the Parent to procure another Miniſter to do it: And if the proper Miniſter ſhall refuſe to omit the Ceremony of the Croſs, it ſhall be lawful for the Parent, who would not have his Child ſo baptized, to procure another Miniſter to do it who will do it according to his Deſire.

“No Man ſhall be compelled to bow at the Name of Jeſus, or ſuffer in any degree for not doing it, without reproaching thoſe who, out of their Devotion, continue that ancient Ceremony of the Church.

“For the Uſe of the Surplice, we are contented that all Men be left to their Liberty to do as they ſhall think fit, without ſuffering the leaſt degree for wearing or not wearing it: Provided that this Liberty do not extend to our own Chapel, Cathedral, or Collegiate Churches, or to any College in either of our Univerſities, but that the ſeveral Statutes and Cuſtoms for the Uſe thereof in the ſaid Places, be there obſerv'd as formerly.

“And becauſe ſome Men, otherwiſe pious and learned ſay, they cannot conform unto the Subſcription required by the Canon, nor take the Oath of Canonical Obedience; we are content, and it is our Will and Pleaſure (ſo they take the Oaths of Allegiance and Supremacy) that they ſhall receive Ordination, Inſtitution and Induction, and ſhall be permitted to exerciſe their Function, and to enjoy the Profits of their Livings, without the ſaid Subſcription or Oath of Canonical Obedience: And moreover, that no Perſons in the Univerſities ſhall for the want of ſuch Subſcription be hinder'd in the taking their Degrees. Laſtly, That none be judg'd to forfeit his Preſentation or Benefice, or be depriv'd of it upon the Statute of the thirteenth of Queen Elizabeth, Chapter the twelfth; ſo he read and declare his aſſent to all the Articles of Religion, which only concern the Confeſſion of the true Chriſtian Faith, and the Doctrine of the Sacraments compriſ'd in the Book of Articles in the ſaid Statute mention'd. In a word, We do again renew what we have formerly ſaid in our Declaration from Breda, for the Liberty of tender Conſciences, that no Man ſhall be diſquieted, or call'd in Queſtion for differences of Opinion in Matters of Religion, which do not diſturb the Peace of the Kingdom: And if any have been diſturb'd in that kind ſince our arrival here, it hath not proceeded from any direction of ours.

It muſt ſaid thoſe who penned this Inſtrument, carry'd the Prerogative to an extraordinary extent: The Declaration ſeems not only to reach into the Buſineſs of Synods, over-rules the Canons, and diſables the Diſcipline of the Church; but over and above diſpenſes with Statutes to the Conſtruction of a Repeal, and lies hard upon the Civil Conſtitution. For this Reaſon 'twas overlook'd at the Aſſizes and Seſſions in ſeveral Places in the Country, where the Diſſenting Miniſters were indicted for not conforming purſuant to the Laws in Force. However, upon Application to the King and the Lord Chancellour, they were commonly diſcharg'd (b). And thus generally ſpeaking, the Declaration ſuſpended the execution of the Law, and ſhelter'd the Diſſenting Miniſters for more than a Year.

(b) Calamy's Life of Baxter.

During part of this Interval, ſeveral of the Presbyterian Miniſters were invited to Church Preferments: Calamy had the Biſhoprick of Coventry and Litchfield offer'd him, Reynolds that of Norwich, and Baxter that of Hereford: Manton was offer'd the Deanary of Rocheſter, Bates the Deanary of Coventry and Litchfield, and Bowlas the Deanary of York: But all of them excepting Reynolds, refus'd theſe Promotions. It ſeems they were afraid the Conceſſions in the Declaration might be recall'd by the King, or over-rul'd by an Act of Parliament *.

The Inſurrection of the Fifth Monarchy Men.

About this Time the Fifth-Monarchy-Men heated with Enthuſiaſm, projected the Conqueſt of the Univerſe; and having lately diſcover'd ſome Signs of Phrenſy and alarm'd the Government, Collonel Overton, Major Allen, Cornet Day, and ſome other leading Men of that Sect, were ſeiz'd and impriſon'd. However, the reſt of them being rather animated then diſheartned by this Correction, broke out into open Rebellion, under the command of their Preacher Thomas Venner a Wine-Cooper. Thus on Sunday in the Evening, Jan. 6. they ſally'd out of their Meeting-Houſe in Colemanſtreet: And tho' their number was not above Sixty at firſt, nor increas'd much afterwards; they fought the Train-Bands and the Guards with incredible Obſtinacy and Fury: At laſt they were broken, and Venner with about Sixteen of his Men taken Priſoners. Theſe Rebels were try'd at the Old Baily and found guilty: They continued impenitent to the laſt, and rail'd upon the King and the Judges at their execution.

The King having promis'd in his late Declaration, that the Liturgy ſhould be review'd in order, to have it farther accommodated to a general Satiſfaction; a Commiſſion was granted to ſeveral Perſons of each Perſuaſion for this purpoſe. The Inſtrument runs thus,

The Commiſſion for the Conference of the Savoy.

And to that end, to aſſemble and meet together, from Time to Time, and at ſuch time within the ſpace of four Kalendar Months now next enſuing, in the Maſters Lodging in the Savoy in the Strand, in the County of Middleſex, or in ſuch other Place or Places as to you ſhall be thought fit and convenient; to take into your ſerious and grave conſideration the ſeveral Directions and Rules, Forms of Prayer, and things in the ſaid Book of Common-Prayer, contained, and to adviſe, conſult upon and about the ſame, and ſeveral Objections and Exceptions which ſhall now be raiſ'd againſt the ſame; and, (if occaſion be) to make ſuch reaſonable and neceſſary Alterations, Corrections and Amendments therein, as by and between you the ſaid Archbiſhop, Biſhops, Doctors, and Perſons hereby required and authorized to meet and adviſe aforeſaid, ſhall be agreed upon to be needful and expedient, for the giving Satisfaction to tender Conſciences, and the reſtoring and continuance of Peace and Unity in the Churches under our Protection and Government; but avoiding (as much as may be) all unneceſſary Abbreviations of the Forms and Liturgy, wherewith the People are altogether acquainted, and have ſo long receiv'd in the Church of England. And our Will and Pleaſure is, that when you the ſaid Archbiſhop, Biſhops, Doctors and Perſons authoriz'd and appointed by theſe Our Letters Patents to meet, adviſe, and conſult upon, and about the Premiſes as aforeſaid, ſhall have drawn your Conſultations to any Reſolution, and determination which you ſhall agree upon as needful or expedient to be done for the altering, diminiſhing, or enlarging the ſaid Book of Common-Prayer, or any Part thereof. That then forthwith you certify and preſent to us in Writing under your ſeveral Hands, the Matters and Things whereupon you ſhall ſo determine for our Approbation; and to the end the ſame, or ſo much thereof, as ſhall be approved by us, may be Eſtabliſh'd; and foraſmuch as the ſaid Archbiſhop and Biſhops have ſeveral great charges to attend, which we would not diſpenſe with, or that the ſame ſhould be neglected upon any great occaſion whatſoever; and ſome of them being of great Age and Infirmities, may not be able conſtantly to attend the execution of the Service and Authority hereby given and required by us, in the Meeting and Conſultation aforeſaid; We will therefore, and hereby require you the ſaid Dr. Earles, &c. to ſupply the Place and Places of ſuch of the Archbiſhops and Biſhops (other than the ſaid Edward Biſhop of Norwich) as ſhall by Age, Sickneſs, Infirmity, or other occaſions be hindred from attending the ſaid Meeting or Conſultation (that is to ſay) that one of you the ſaid Dr. Earles, &c. ſhall from Time to Time ſupply the Place of each one of them the ſaid Archbiſhop and Biſhops (other than the ſaid Edward Biſhop of Norwich) which ſhall happen to be hindred or to be abſent from the ſaid Meetings or Conſultations; and ſhall and may adviſe, conſult and determine; and alſo certify and execute all and ſingular the Powers and Authorities before mention'd, in and about the Premiſes, as fully and abſolutely as ſuch Archbiſhop and Biſhops which ſhall ſo happen to be abſent, ſhould or might do by Virtue of theſe our Letters Patents, or any thing herein contained, in Caſe he or they were perſonally preſent. And whereas in regard of the diſtance of ſome, the Infirmity of others, the Multitude of conſtant Imployment and other incidental Impediments; ſome of you the ſaid Edward Biſhop of Norwich, &c. may be hindred from the conſtant attendance in the execution of the Service aforeſaid; We therefore will, and do hereby require and authorize you the ſaid Thomas Horton, &c. to ſupply the Place or Places of ſuch the Commiſſioners laſt above mentioned, as ſhall by the Means aforeſaid, or any other occaſion be hindred from the ſaid Meeting and Conſultations, that one of you the ſaid Thomas Horton Doctor, ſhall from Time to Time ſupply the Places of each one of the ſaid Commiſſioners laſt mention'd, which ſhall happen to be hindred or abſent from the ſaid Meeting and Conſultations; and ſhall and may adviſe, conſult and determine, and alſo certify and execute all and ſingular the Powers and Authorities before mention'd, in and about the Premiſes, as fully and abſolutely as ſuch of the ſaid laſt mention'd Commiſſioners, which ſhall ſo happen to be abſent, ſhould or might do by Virtue of theſe our Letters Patents, or any thing therein contain'd, in Caſe he or they were perſonally preſent: In witneſs whereof we have cauſed theſe our

The firſt Parliament diſſolv'd.

The Parliament which met on the 25th of April before the Reſtoration, was diſſolv'd on the 29th of December. I ſhall mention only two of the Acts paſs'd; the one was for a perpetual Anniverſary Thankſgiving on the 29th of May, the Day on which the King made his Entry into London: The other was for reſtoring ejected and ſequeſter'd Miniſters, and confirming ſome others who had the Title of Reſignations from the Incumbent, and had not renounc'd their Orders, receiv'd before the 25th of December, 1659 (e). The two Houſes not being convened by the King's Writ, were look'd on as eſſentially defective in their Authority, and therefore their Acts are all confirm'd in the next Parliament.

The Conference at the Savoy.

To return to the Conference: The Biſhop of London's Lodgings in the Savoy was appointed for the Place of Meeting; when the Parties appear'd, the Biſhop of London acquainted the Presbyterian Miniſters, that themſelves and not the Biſhops, had requeſted the Conference for making Alterations in the Liturgy: That therefore nothing was to be done till they had deliver'd their Exceptions in Writing, together with the additional Forms and Alterations which they deſir'd. Theſe Miniſters were willing that the Debate might be carried on by way of verbal Debate. This Method they conceiv'd was purſuant to the directions in the Commiſſion, and moſt likely to anſwer the end of the Meeting: Writing they ſaid would be a tedious Expedient, and hinder the coming to a cloſe Underſtanding with each other. Biſhop Sheldon adhering to his former Opinion, 'twas agreed at laſt they ſhould bring in all their Exceptions at one Time, and their Additions at another. The Exceptions were accordingly drawn up by Dr. Renolds, Dr. Wallis, Dr. Bates, Dr. Jacomb, Mr. Calamy, Mr. Newcomen, Mr. Clerk, &c.

The general Exceptions of the Presbyterian Divines to the Common-Prayer.

In this Paper laid before the Biſhops, “ they move, that the Prayers and other Materials of the Liturgy, might not be clogg'd with any thing that was doubtful or queſtioned among pious, learned and orthodox Perſons.

1. “ That the impoſing things of doubtful Diſputation as Terms of Communion, had in all Ages been the Ground of Schiſm and Separation: And for this they cite the Authority of Mr. Hales (d).

2. That as the Engliſh Reformers at firſt out of their great Wiſdom, form'd the Liturgy in ſuch a manner as was moſt likely to gain upon the Papiſts, by varying as little as might be from the Offices anciently receiv'd; ſo according to the ſame Rule of Prudence, and Charity, they deſir'd the Liturgy might be ſo compos'd as might beſt reconcile it to thoſe Proteſtants who are agreed in the ſubſtantial Points of Religion.

3. “ To proceed, they would have the Repetitions and Reſponſals of the Pariſh-Clerk and People, and the alternate reading of the Pſalms and Hymns, omitted. They pretend this Cuſtom rais'd a confuſ'd Noiſe in the Congregation, and made what was read, leſs intelligible. They argue farther, that the Miniſter ought to be the Peoples Mouth in all publick Services: And that by the Holy Scriptures, the Peoples Part is only to attend with reverential Silence, and declare their Conſent in the Cloſe, by ſaying Amen.

4. “ For this Reaſon they would have the divided Petitions in the Litany thrown into one ſolemn Prayer, to be pronounc'd by the Miniſters.

5. “ That nothing might remain in the Liturgy, which ſeems to countenance the Obſervation of Lent, as a Religious Faſt: That the Example of our Saviour's Faſting forty Days and forty Nights, was above human Strength, and never deſign'd for Imitation. To corroborate this Reaſoning, they take notice, that by an Act of Parliament made the 5th of Elizabeth, Abſtinence from Fleſh is prohibited, upon the Score of Religion, and only recommended for politick Conſiderations.

6. “ That the Religious Obſervation of Saints-Days, together with their Vigils, may be laid aſide. And that if any of them are continued, they may be call'd Feſtivals, and not Holy-Days, that they may not be made equal with the Lord's-Day, nor have any peculiar Service appointed, nor the People oblig'd wholly to forbear working: And that ſuch Names in the Kalendar which are not inſerted in the firſt and ſecond Books of King Edward the 6th, may be left out.

7. That the Gift of Prayer being one ſpecial Qualification for the Miniſtry, they deſire the Liturgy may not be ſo ſtrictly impos'd, as totally to exclude the Exerciſe of that Faculty in any part of Publick Worſhip: And that in conſequence of this, it may be left to the Diſcretion of the Miniſter to omit part of the ſtated Service, as Occaſion ſhall require. And this Liberty they pretend, was allowed by the firſt Common-Prayer-Book of Edward the Sixth.

“ 8. That in Regard of the many Defects obſerv'd in the Verſion of the Scriptures, us'd in the Liturgy, they move theſe Miſ-performances may be ſtruck out, and the new Tranſlation allow'd by Authority, ſubſtituted inſtead of the former. That the Verſion in the Liturgy is either obſolete in Language, or miſtaken in Senſe, they endeavour to prove from the following Inſtances. In the Epiſtle for the firſt Sunday after Epiphany, Rom. 12. 1. 'tis read, Be ye chang'd in your Shape: And the Epiſtle for the Sunday next before Eaſter, Phil. 2. 5. Our Saviour is ſaid to be found in his Apparel as a Man: And in the Epiſtle for the Fourth Sunday in Lent, Galat. 4. the old Verſion runs, Mount Sinai is Agar in Arabia, and borders upon the City which is now call'd Jeruſalem: The Epiſtle for St. Matthew's Day, 2 Cor. 4. they tranſlate, We go not out of Kind. The Goſpel for the Second Sunday after Epiphany, John 2. 'tis tranſlated, When Men be drunk. The Goſpel for the Firſt Sunday in Lent, taken out of the 11th of St. Luke, 'tis turn'd, One Houſe does fall upon another. And laſtly, the Goſpel for the Annunciation, taken out of the 1ſt of St. Luke, This is the firſt Month which is call'd barren.

“ 9. That the Canonical Scriptures, containing all things neceſſary to Salvation, they deſire the Apocryphal Books may not be read: Theſe Writings having no unqueſtionable Authority for recommending Matters either of Belief, or Practice.

“ 10. That the Miniſter may not be enjoyn'd to read any part of the Liturgy at the Communion Table, excepting ſuch Portions which properly belong to the Lord's Supper: And at ſuch times only, when the Holy Sacrament is adminiſter'd.

(e) 12 Car. 2. c. 14. 12 Car. 2. c. 19.

(b) Hales Tract of Schiſm.

“11. That whereas the Word Miniſter, and not Prieſt or Curate ſtands in the Rubrick for the Abſolution, and divers other Places: 'Tis requeſted this Uſage may be continued through the whole Book: And that the Lord's Day may be inſerted inſtead of Sunday.

“12. And in Regard ſinging of Pſalms is a conſiderable Part of Publick Worſhip; they deſire the Verſion ſet forth, and allow'd to be ſung in Churches, may be mended; or that they may have leave to make uſe of a more correct Tranſlation.

“13. That all obſolete Terms and Expreſſions in Language worn out, may be alter'd to Words of common Uſe. This is repeating part of their Eighth Objection. “Their Inſtances are (Aread) us'd in the Goſpel for Monday and Wedneſday before Eaſter. And then opened he their Wits, in the Goſpel for Eaſter Tueſday.

“14. That no Portions of the Old Teſtament, or of the Acts of the Apoſtles, be call'd Epiſtles, and read as ſuch.

“15. That the Phraſe in ſeveral Offices which preſumes all Perſons within the Communion of the Church, Regenerated, Converted, and in an actual State of Grace, may be reform'd: For conſidering the want of Eccleſiaſtical Diſcipline, confeſſed in the Commination, ſuch a Suppoſition is more than the utmoſt Charity can admit.

“16. That the Petitions in the Prayers might have a more orderly Connection, and the Forms carried on to a more competent Length: That this Method would be more to Edification, and gain farther upon the Peoples Eſteem.

Under this Head, they are ſomewhat more particular:

And Firſt, “They charge the Collects with being generally too ſhort, many of them conſiſting but of one, or at moſt, but of two Sentences of Petition. That they are generally prefaced with a repeated mention of the Name and Attributes of God, and preſently concluded with the Name and Merits of Chriſt. That by this Diſpoſition of the Service, many unneceſſary Breaks are occaſion'd: And that when many Petitions are to be offer'd at the ſame time, theſe Interruptions are neither agreeable to Scriptural Examples, nor ſuited to the Gravity of that Holy Duty.

Secondly, “They object the Prefaces of many Collects have no clear and direct Reference to the following Petitions. That the Petitions are put together without due Order or natural Connection, and falling ſhort, inſtead of being ſuitable to the Occaſions for which they are us'd, ſeem to have been the Effect of Chance and Inadvertency. 'Tis therefore deſir'd, that inſtead of thoſe diſcontinued Collects there may be one methodical and entire Form of Prayer compos'd out of many of them.

“17. They obſerve the publick Liturgy of a Church ought to comprehend the Summ of all ſuch Sins as are ordinarily to be confeſſed in Prayer: And take in ſuch Petitions and Thankſgivings as are commonly to be put up by the Church: And that the Catechiſms, or publick Syſtems of Doctrine, ſhould contain a brief Abſtract of all ſuch Doctrines as are neceſſary to be believ'd: And the Points ſhould be ſet down in a clear, explicit manner. And here they pretend the Liturgy is defective as to all theſe Matters.

“1. Say they, there is no preparatory Prayer, in the beginning of the Service, for God's Aſſiſtance and Acceptance; and yet many Collects in the middle of the Worſhip, have little or nothing elſe.

“2. The Confeſſion, as theſe Miniſters continue, is very defective: Original Sin is not clearly expreſſed, nor the Number of actual Sins with their Aggravations, ſufficiently enlarg'd on. That the Form goes too much upon Generals: Whereas Confeſſion being an Exerciſe of Repentance, ought to be more particular.

“3. They complain of a great Defect in the Forms of publick Thankſgiving. And,

“4. They object the whole Body of the Common Prayer is too much wrapt up in Generals: As, to be kept from all Evil, from all Enemies, from all Adverſity, that we may do God's Will, &c. without dilating upon the Particulars included.

“5. They pretend the Catechiſm is defective in many neceſſary Doctrines, and that ſome of the Eſſentials of Chriſtianity are not mention'd, unleſs in the Creed.

“18. They alledge the Liturgy enjoins the Uſe of ſeveral Ceremonies, which from the time of the firſt Reformation have been judg'd unwarrantable by divers learned and pious Men.

“The Impoſitions complain'd of are, Firſt, The enjoyning the Uſe of the Surplice. Secondly, That none may baptize or be baptized, without the tranſient Image of the Croſs, which has at leaſt, ſay they, the Appearance of a Sacrament of human Inſtitution. Thirdly, The enjoyning the Poſture of kneeling at receiving the Lord's Supper. And here they cite the Authority of our Saviour and his Apoſtles for a different Geſture: And that the Church of England contradicts the Practice of the Catholick Church for ſeveral Ages, and runs counter to the Canons of the moſt venerable Synods. And laſtly, that the Weight of theſe Impoſitions are ſtill made more burthenſome by the Canons requiring the Clergy to ſubſcribe their Lawfulneſs (z).

To theſe Exceptions the Commiſſioners who repreſented the Church of England return'd an Anſwer; part of which ſhall be laid before the Reader.

The Anſwer of the Commiſſioners for the Church.

“1. The Presbyterian Miniſters objected the Liturgy had all along given Diſſatisfaction to ſeveral Perſons of Piety and Learning; to this the Epiſcopal Divines return'd, “That the Paſſages complain'd of in the Liturgy ought to be evidently prov'd unlawful, before any Alterations can be demanded. That 'tis no Argument to ſay a great many pious Perſons ſcruple the Uſe of it, unleſs it can clearly be made out the Liturgy has given juſt ground for ſuch Scruples. For otherwiſe, if the bare Pretence of Scruples is a ſufficient Plea to diſcharge us from Obedience, all Law and Order can ſignify nothing. To this they add, that if the Liturgy ſhould be alter'd as the Miniſters Paper requires, the Generality of the ſobereſt and beſt Members of the Church of England, would have juſt Cauſe of Diſguſt. For that ſuch an Alteration would imply a Conceſſion, that this Liturgy was an intolerable Burthen upon tender Conſciences, and a Juxton Will. Abp. of Cant.

Uſage plainly ſuperſtitious: For theſe are the Pretences ſuggeſted for an Alteration. Now the granting all this, muſt infer the juſtifying thoſe who have ſeparated from it, and the condemning all thoſe who have adher'd to it, with the Hazard and Loſs of Lives and Fortunes. After this Introduction, they proceed to give an Anſwer to the firſt general Propoſal, and affirm, that the Engliſh Reformers had been careful to put nothing into the Liturgy, but what is either evidently the Word of God, or has been generally received by the Catholick Church. To the next Propoſal they anſwer, that great Care muſt be taken to ſuppreſs private Conception of Prayer, both before, and after Sermon: That otherwiſe private Opinions will be brought into Pulpit-Prayers. For what elſe can be expected, if private Perſons may have the Liberty of making publick Devotions?

“To that Part of the Propoſal that Prayers may conſiſt of nothing doubtful or queſtioned by pious, learned, and orthodox Perſons: The Epiſcopal Divines reply, that ſince 'tis not defin'd and aſcertained who thoſe Orthodox Perſons are, they muſt either take all thoſe for orthodox Perſons who have the Aſſurance to affirm themſelves ſuch: And if ſo, the Demand is unreaſonable. For ſome who deny the Divinity of the Son of God, will ſtile themſelves orthodox, and yet there is no Reaſon we ſhould part with an Article of our Creed for their Satisfaction. Beſides, the Propoſal requires an Impoſſibility. For there never was, nor ever will be, any Prayers couch'd in ſuch a manner, as not to be queſtion'd by ſome People who call themſelves, pious, learned, and orthodox. But if by Orthodox is meant only thoſe who adhere to Scripture, and the Catholick Conſent of Antiquity, they are not of Opinion that any Part of the Engliſh Liturgy has been queſtion'd by ſuch.

“To the general Objection of the Engliſh-Service being loaded with Church-Pomp, Imagery, many Superfluities, and reviving obſolete Cuſtoms: To this they Anſwer, That if theſe generals are intended to be apply'd to the Liturgy; they are groſs Calumnies, and a Contradiction to the Confeſſion of theſe very Miniſters in the latter Part of their Exceptions. But if no Application is intended, they are foreign to the Purpoſe, and therefore it had been more Prudence and Candour not to have mention'd them.

To go on with the Church Commiſſioners, who need not be mention'd at every Article.

“It was the wiſdom of our Reformers, ſay they, to draw up ſuch a Liturgy as neither Romaniſt nor Proteſtants could juſtly except againſt: And therefore, as the firſt never charg'd it with any poſitive Errors; but only with the want of ſomething they conceiv'd neceſſary: So was it never found fault with by thoſe properly diſtinguiſh'd by the Name of Proteſtants; that is, thoſe of the Auguſtan Confeſſion: And as for others who have brought the Church-Service into diſlike with ſome People; this Practice of theirs has been their Fault and their Sin: So that to urge the preſent State of Affairs as an Argument why the Book ſhould be alter'd, is by no Means reaſonable. To do this would be to gratify theſe Men in an Error, and make their own unwarrantable Conduct an Advantage to them.

Charl. II. K.

The Anſwer to the third and fourth Propoſals.

“The third and fourth Propoſals may go together; the Demand in both being againſt Reſponſals and alternate Readings in Hymns, Pſalms, &c. And that upon ſuch a Motive as really rather proves the Neceſſity of continuing them in their preſent Condition. They would take theſe Uſages away, becauſe they do not edify: Now for this very Reaſon, they ought to be kept on. For that they do edify, is plain, if not by informing our Underſtandings, (the Prayers and Hymns being never made for a Catechiſm) yet by quickning, keeping up, and uniting our Devotion, which is apt to ſleep or grow languid, in a long continued Prayer: Our Edification therefore is beſt conſulted by being call'd on and awakened by frequent Amens; by being excited by mutual Exultations, Petitions, and holy Emulations, which of us ſhall go fartheſt in ſhewing his own Zeal for the Glory of God, or contribute moſt to that of others. For this purpoſe alternate Reading, Repetitions, and Reſponſes, are far more ſerviceable than a long tedious Prayer. Nor is this our Opinion only, but the Judgment of former Ages, as appears by the Practice of the Jewiſh and ancient Chriſtian Churches (f).

“But theſe Demandants object, this Cuſtom claſhes with the Scripture: That theſe inſpired Writings declare the Miniſter's being appointed for the Congregation in publick Prayers: That the Peoples part is only to attend with Silence, and ſignify their Aſſent, by ſaying Amen. Now if theſe Gentlemen mean, that the People in publick Services muſt only ſay the Word Amen, they have no Text to prove their Aſſertion. Beſides, they themſelves practiſe the direct contrary in one of their principal Parts of Worſhip: We mean their ſinging of Pſalms, where the People have as great a Part as the Miniſter. Now if this may be done in Hopkin's, why not in David's Pſalms? If in Metre, why not in Proſe? If in a Pſalm, why not in a Litany?

Anſwer to the fifth Objection.

“Farther, 'tis deſir'd that nothing ſhould be in the Liturgy which ſo much as ſeems to countenance the Obſervation of Lent, as a religious Faſt: This is requeſted as an Expedient for Peace, and is in effect to deſire our Church may ſhew herſelf contentious for the ſake of Peace, and divide from the Catholick Church, that we may correſpond the cloſer at Home, and live at Unity among our ſelves. But St. Paul reckons thoſe contentious, who oppoſe the Cuſtom of the Churches of God. Now that the religious Obſervation of Lent was a Cuſtom of the Churches of God, appears by the Teſtimonies of the Fathers (g). This Demand therefore has no Tendency to Peace, but Diſſention. And here the Faſting Forty Days may be practis'd in Imitation of our Saviour, notwithſtanding what is objected to the contrary. For though we cannot reach up to his Divinity, follow him paſſibus æquis, and abſtain wholly from Meat for ſo long a Time, yet we may faſt forty Days together, either as Cornelius did, till three a Clock in the Afternoon, or till Noon, as St. Peter did, or at leaſt we may come up to Daniel's Faſt, and forbear entertaining our Pallate: And thus far, without queſtion, 'tis poſſible for us to imitate our Lord. Nor does the Act of Parliament, 5 Eliz. forbid Faſting in this manner, or upon the View abovementioned: We dare not ſuppoſe the Parliament had any Intention to prohibit a Cuſtom commanded by the Church of Chriſt. Neither does the Act determine any“thing about a Lenten Faſt, but only provides for the Increaſe of the Navy, and encouraging the Fiſhery upon that ſcore. Beſides, we muſt not interpret one Statute ſo as to make it claſh with another. Now the 1ſt of Eliz. cap. 2. ſtill in Force, confirms the whole Liturgy, and by conſequence the religious keeping of Lent: And this with a ſevere Penalty upon all thoſe who ſpeak in Derogation of any Part of the Common-Prayer. And therefore that other Act of 5 Eliz. cap. 5. muſt not be interpreted to a counter Senſe, and as if it prohibited the religious keeping of Lent.

Anſwer to the 6th Propoſal.

“The obſerving Saints-Days is not enjoyn'd as of Divine, but of Eccleſiaſtical Inſtitution: That therefore 'tis not neceſſary they ſhould have any particular Appointment in Scripture: Their being uſeful for the promoting Piety, and ſerviceable to the general End recommended in holy Writ, is ſufficient for this purpoſe. That the Obſervation of theſe Solemnities was a primitive Cuſtom, appears by the Rituals and Liturgies, by the conſentient Teſtimony of Antiquity, and by the ancient Tranſlations of the Bible: For inſtance, by the Syriack and Ethiopick Verſions, where the Leſſons appointed for Holy Days, are particularly mark'd. Now the former of theſe Tranſlations comes near the Apoſtolick Age. Farther, our Saviour himſelf kept the Feaſt of the Dedication (h) which was a Solemnity of the Churches Inſtitution. And the chief Buſineſs of theſe Days, being not for Feaſting, not for Entertainment and Diverſion, but the Exerciſe of holy Duties, they are more properly call'd Holy Days than Feſtivals: And tho' they are all of a reſembling Nature, it cannot be inferr'd they all require an equal Regard. As for the People, they may be indulg'd working after Evening Service, if Authority ſhall think fit. The other Names excepted againſt, ſtand in the Kalendar, not that they ſhould be kept as Holy-Days, but upon the ſcore of their being uſeful for preſerving the Memories of ſome eminent Perſons: They are likewiſe ſerviceable for Leaſes, Law-Days, &c.

Anſwer to the 7th.

“Their Propoſal touching the Gift of Prayer, makes the Liturgy, in effect, wholly inſignificant: For what elſe can be the Conſequence, if every Miniſter may put in, and leave out at Diſcretion? As for the Gift, or rather the Spirit of Prayer, it conſiſts in the inward Graces of the Holy Spirit, and not in extemporary Expreſſions: Such unpremeditated Effuſions are only the Effects of natural Parts, of a voluble Tongue and uncommon Aſſurance. But if there is any ſuch Gift as is really pretended, this extraordinary Qualification muſt be ſubject to the Prophets and the Order of the Church (i)

“Conſidering the Miſchiefs coming by impertinent, ridiculous, and ſometimes ſeditious, wicked and blaſphemous Expreſſions, under pretence of giving Liberty for exerciſing the Gift of Prayer; conſidering the Honour of God is ſo highly injur'd, and Religion ſuffers ſo much this way, 'tis reaſonable thoſe who deſire ſuch an Indulgence in publick Devotions, ſhould firſt give the Church Security, that no private Opinions ſhould be put into their Prayers: And that nothing contrary to the Faith, ſhould be utter'd before God, or offer'd up to him in the Church. To prevent which Miſchiefs, the former Ages knew no better way than forbidding the Uſe of any Prayers in publick, excepting ſuch as were preſcrib'd by publick Authority (k).

The Presbyterians Objections againſt the obſolete Language, and miſtaken Senſe in the Tranſlation us'd in the Liturgy, are all true, and all amended.

The Church Commiſſioners proceed to conſider their Exceptions againſt reading Apochryphal Leſſons in the Church. And here they obſerve, “the Presbyterians demand an Alteration upon ſuch Grounds as would exclude all Sermons as well as the Apocrypha. Their Argument is, the holy Scriptures contain all Things neceſſary with reference both to Belief and Practice. This Plea is returned upon them with a Dilemma: If the inſpired Writings, ſay the Church-Commiſſioners, are ſo comprehenſive, to what purpoſe are there ſo many unneceſſary Sermons? Why have we any Thing more than the reading of Holy Scriptures? But if notwithſtanding the Sufficiency of the Old and New Teſtament, Sermons are neceſſary, there is no Reaſon why theſe Apocryphal Chapters ſhould not be reckon'd equally uſeful: For moſt of them deliver excellent Diſcourſes and Precepts of Morality: And 'tis much to be wiſh'd the Sermons of theſe Miniſters were no worſe: If they are afraid theſe Books may by this Regard come up to an equal Authority with the Canon; the Church has ſecur'd them againſt this Apprehenſion, by calling them Apocryphal: Now 'tis the Churches Teſtimony which teaches us to make this Diſtinction. And laſtly, to leave out theſe Apocryphal Leſſons, were to croſs upon the Practice of former Ages.

Anſwer to the 10th.

“That the Miniſter ſhould not read the Communion Service at the Communion-Table, is not reaſonable to demand, ſince it was the Practice of all the primitive Church: And if we do not govern our ſelves by that Golden Rule of the Council of Nice, (Let ancient Cuſtoms be continued) unleſs Reaſon plainly requires the contrary, we ſhall give Offence to ſober Chriſtians by a cauſeleſs Departure from Catholick Uſage, and put a greater Advantage in the Hands of our Adverſaries, than 'tis to be hop'd our Brethren the Diſſenters would willingly allow. As for the Prieſt's ſtanding at the Communion-Table, it ſeems an Invitation to the holy Sacrament, and reminds us that 'tis the Duty of ſome of us at leaſt, to receive every Sunday: And tho' we happen to neglect our Duty, 'tis fit the Church ſhou'd ſuggeſt Recollection, and keep her ſtanding.

Anſwer to the 11th.

“'Tis not reaſonable the Word Miniſter ſhould only be us'd in the Common-Prayer: For ſince ſome Parts of the Liturgy may be perform'd by a Deacon and others, ſuch as Abſolution and Conſecration, by none under the Order of a Prieſt, 'tis fit ſome ſuch Word as Prieſt ſhould be us'd for thoſe Offices which are appropriated to his Character: The Term Miniſter being of too low and lax a Signification for this purpoſe. The Word Curate likewiſe ſignifys thoſe who are entruſted by the Biſhop with the Cure of Souls, and therefore very fit to be us'd. Sunday being a very ancient Diſtinction of the Day upon which our Saviour roſe from the Dead (l), there is no Reaſon that Name ſhould be diſus'd.

Anſwer to the 12th.

“Singing of Pſalms in Metre, continue the Church-Commiſſioners, is no Part of the Liturgy, and by conſequence no part of our Commiſſion.

Anſwer to Number 15.

“In Anſwer to the 15th Objection, they alledge, that the Churches Phraſe in her Prayers, (h) Joh. 10. 22.

(k) Concil. Carthag. Can. 106. Concil. Milev. Can. 12.

is no more offenſive than St. Paul's: This Apoſtle in his Epiſtles to the Corinthians, Galatians, and others, calls them in general the Churches of God ſanctifyed in Chriſt Jeſus, and Saints by their Vocation. And yet amongſt theſe, there were many, who upon the ſcore of their open Irregularities, could not properly be ſtyl'd ſuch: However, St. Paul denominates the whole from the greater part, and puts the reſt in Mind of their Profeſſion, what they have undertaken in their Baptiſm, and the Privileges and honourable Diſtinctions to which that Sacrament has given them a Title.

Anſwer to the 16th Objection.

“As to the Connexion of the Parts of the Liturgy, 'tis conformable to the Example of the Churches of God, and has as much Coherence as uſually occurs in many Petitions of the ſame Pſalm. And the Method of theſe Offices they muſt believe to be admirable and beyond Exception, till the Presbyterians can ſuggeſt a better, which is not yet done.

“The Collects by their Brevity, are beſt ſuited to Devotion, and reſemble thoſe ſhort, but prevalent Prayers in Scripture, Lord be merciful to me a Sinner. Son of David have Mercy on us. Lord increaſe our Faith.

After this, proceeding to the Remainder of the Objection, they ſubjoin “We cannot imagine why the repeated Name and Mention of the Attributes of God, ſhould not be moſt acceptable to any Perſon religiouſly diſpos'd; or how this Repetition ſhould ſeem any Burthen, ſince David magnified one Attribute of God's Mercy ſix and twenty Times together (m). Nor can we conceive why the Name and Merits of Jeſus ſhould be leſs comfortable to us than to former Saints and Martyrs: And ſince the Hopes of obtaining our Petitions are founded upon the Attributes of God, ſuch Prefaces of Prayers as are taken from the Divine Perfections, are not to be cenſured as unſuitable and caſual, though they ſhould have no ſpecial Reference to the following Petitions.

Anſwer to the 17th Objection.

From hence they advance to the 17th Exception: “And whereas 'twas objected there was no preparatory Prayer in our Liturgy for God's Aſſiſtance or Acceptance, they anſwer, this is plain miſreporting the Common-Prayer. For beſides a preparatory Exhortation, there are ſeveral Prayers upon the Heads in which 'tis pretended they are deficient. The Inſtances are theſe; Deſpiſe not, O Lord, humble and contrite Hearts. That thoſe Things may pleaſe him that we do at this preſent. O Lord open our Lips, &c.

Anſwer to the 18th Objection.

“As to the Presbyterians Objection againſt the Churches Confeſſion being couched in general Terms, the Epiſcopal Divines anſwer, that this is rather a Perfection, than a Diſadvantage: That the Offices are intended for common Uſe: That general Services would ceaſe to be ſuch, by deſcending to Particulars. To come cloſer to the Caſe: When Confeſſion of Sins is general, all Perſons may and muſt join in it, conſidering in many things we offend all. But if the Enumeration of Sin was particular, it would not be ſo well ſuited to the Uſe of the Congregation: For it may well be ſuppoſed to happen, that ſome Perſons may by God's Grace, have been preſerved from ſeveral of thoſe Sins recited: And therefore by confeſſing themſelves guilty, they would lie to God Almighty, and thus ſtand in need of a new Confeſſion. As for Original Sin, they conceive it ſufficiently acknowledg'd in the Churches confeſſing, that without God's Help, our Frailty cannot but fall; and that our mortal Nature can do no good thing without him.

“And whereas the Presbyterians complain'd of the Want of ſtated Forms for ſeveral publick Occaſions; the Church-Commiſſioners anſwer, they are not conſcious of any ſuch Defect: However, if any ſuch Thing can be made good, the Church will provide accordingly.

“The Diſſenters complain, the Liturgy goes too much upon Generals, in their Applications for God's Grace and Protection, and inſtance in theſe Expreſſions; That we may do God's Will; that we may be kept from all Evil. Now theſe, reply the Church-Commiſſioners, are almoſt the very Terms in the Lord's-Prayer. So that they muſt reform that, before they can pretend to mend our Liturgy in theſe Petitions.

The principal Demand of the Presbyterians, was, “That thoſe which impoſe any Ceremonies, eſpecially the Surplice, the Sign of the Croſs, and Kneeling might be abrogated. Their Reaſons for this Demand, are theſe.

1. “'Tis doubtful, as the Presbyterians argue, whether God has empower'd Men to impoſe ſuch ſignificant Signs. For though they call them ſignificant, they have no real Goodneſs in the Judgment of the Impoſers themſelves: For they call them Things indifferent, and therefore they cannot fall under St. Paul's Rule of Omnia decenter, neither are they ſuitable to the Simplicity of Goſpel Worſhip.

2. Becauſe 'tis a Violation of the Royalty of Chriſt, and an Impeachment of his Laws as inſufficient. Their other two Reaſons drawn from their being ſcrupled by ſeveral learned and orthodox Men; and giving Occaſion to Diviſions and Perſecution, have been mentioned already.

The Church-Commiſſioners, before they anſwer particularly to theſe Reaſons, premiſe ſome general Rules for ſupporting their following Diſcourſe.

Five general Rules laid down by the Church-Commiſſioners.

1. “They obſerve, that God has not only given a Power, but likewiſe commanded the impoſing whatever ſhall be truly decent and becoming his publick Service. That after St. Paul had laid down ſome particular Rules for Praying, Thankſgiving, Propheſying, &c. he concludes with this general Precept, Let all Things be done ἐυσχημόνως, in a decent manner: And that there may be Uniformity in theſe Circumſtances of Decency, the Apoſtle adds, let there be a τάξις, a Rule, or Canon for that purpoſe.

2. “Superiours, not Inferiours, muſt be Judges of what is decent and convenient: Thoſe who have Authority to order that every Thing be done decently, muſt of Neceſſity firſt judge of the quality of Things.

3. “Theſe Rules for Decency made and enjoyn'd by Superiours, ought to be obey'd by Inferiours, till 'tis made as clear that they are not bound to obey in the particular Caſe, as 'tis evident in general, that 'tis their Duty to obey their Superiours: For if the Exemption from Obedience is leſs clear than the command to obey, it muſt be Sin not to obey.

4. “Pretence of Conſcience is no diſcharge from Obedience, for the Law, as long as it continues, binds to Obedience: 'Tis the Apoſtles Doctrine, Ye muſt needs be Subject *. As to the pretence of a tender or reluctant Conſcience, this Plea can never diſable the Law: For it neither takes away the Authority of the Legiſlator, nor makes the Matter of the Law unlawful. Beſides, if pretence of Conſcience was a ſufficient excuſe for Non-Obedience, Laws would ſignify nothing; for every Body might pretend this Plea; which if allow'd, Anarchy and Confuſion muſt inevitably follow.

5. "Tho' Charity moves for Compaſſion, and may diſpoſe Superiours to relieve thoſe that are really over-ſcrupulous and perplex'd; yet we muſt not break God's Command out of good nature: And therefore, we muſt not ſuffer the Publick-Service to be indecently or diſorderly perform'd, for the Eaſe of tender Conſciences.

Their Anſwer to Particulars.

"Having premis'd this general Anſwer, the Church-Commiſſioners proceed to argue that thoſe Things which they call Indifferent, becauſe neither expreſly commanded, nor forbidden by God Almighty, have ſomething of natural Proportion, Goodneſs and Decency in them; and for this Reaſon they are impos'd: Thus by St. Paul's Rule †, and many others in Scripture, Authority is given to Governours, to impoſe Signs, which certainly are never the worſe, becauſe they carry a Signification of Decency and Regard. On the other ſide, if the Church ſhould enjoyn the uſe of Ceremonies which were wholly inſignificant; ſuch an Exerciſe of Power might rather be queſtion'd.

2. "To make ſuch Laws upon the ſcore of Decency is no Violation of Chriſt's Royalty: 'Tis only exerciſing a Branch of that Authority granted to his Church: And therefore diſobeying ſuch Commands of Superiours, is a plain Oppoſition to his Sovereignty. Farther, Making Laws for the ſake of Decency, does by no Means imply a charge of Inſufficiency upon our Saviour's Inſtitutions. For 'tis evident by the Precepts themſelves, that our Saviour never intended to determine every minute Circumſtance of Time, Place and Manner: He only commanded the ſubſtance of Religious Duties in general, and directed to the right ends of the Performance. As to other Matters, our Lord left every Man to the Suggeſtions of Reaſon for private Services; and appointed Governours of the Church to determine ſuch Particularities for the Publick. Thus for inſtance, Our Saviour commanded Prayers, Faſting, &c. But Time and Place for theſe Duties are undetermin'd. Thus by Parity of Reaſoning, to make Laws for regulating the Points of Decency, is no Imputation upon his Oeconomy: For 'tis plain it was not his deſign to ſtate theſe Matters. He has left us Governours for this Purpoſe: Their Commiſſion is expreſs to all imaginable Advantage: As my Father ſent me, ſo ſend I you. Obey thoſe that have the Rule over you. He has likewiſe told us, that if we will not hear his Church, we muſt be reckon'd no better than Heathens and Publicans.

"And whereas the Non Conformiſts plead they cannot obey the Commands of the Church for fear of violating the Precept, which forbids adding to the word of God *. To this the Church-Commiſſioners anſwer, Theſe Miniſters do not well conſider, that 'tis no Addition to the Word of God to command things for Order and Decency, provided they are not enjoyn'd as God's immediate Inſtructions, but only as Regulations of humane Authority. But on the other Hand, to affirm that Superiours are not allow'd to command things unforbidden by God Almighty, is an undeniable Addition to the Word of God. And likewiſe to deny Eccleſiaſtical or Civil Governours that Power which the Scriptures have given them, is diminiſhing God's Word, which is no leſs forbidden in the Text laſt mention'd.

"And ſuppoſing ſome People continue perplex'd, and under Scruples; the Church may notwithſtanding, without Sin inſiſt upon her Commands for complying with decent Ceremonies. And all this without being guilty of offending our weak Brother: For here the ſcandal is taken, and not given. 'Tis the Prejudice and Miſtake of the ſcrupulous Perſon that diſturbs himſelf; and therefore he may be juſtly ſaid to lay the ſtumbling Block in his own way.

"Neither will the Caſe of St. Paul's not eating Fleſh if it offended his Brother ‖, do any Service to the Complainants. For here it muſt be obſerv'd, the Apoſtle ſpeaks of things not commanded by God or his Church; of Matters which had nothing of Decency or Significancy for Religious Purpoſes. And therefore in a Caſe thus foreign and unrelated to Divine Worſhip, St. Paul was willing to reſign his Liberty, rather than offend his Brother. But if any Man ſhould venture to break a juſt Law or Cuſtom of the Church, the Apoſtle marks him for a Contentious Perſon †.

"That theſe Ceremonies have occaſion'd many Diviſions as 'tis pretended, is no more their Fault, than the Miſunderſtandings between the neareſt Relations, accidentally conſequent upon the Preaching of the Goſpel *, can be fairly charg'd on the Chriſtian Religion.

"After this they proceed to juſtify the uſe of the Surplice by alledging, that both Reaſon and Experience may inform us, that Decency in Ornament and Habit ſtrike the Senſes, and excite Reverence and Regard: Upon this View they are made uſe of in the Equipage of Princes, and in Courts of Juſtice. And why then ſhould the Service of God be refus'd this common Advantage? and to come to the particular Caſe, no Habit is more ſuitable at Holy Miniſtrations than white Linen: 'Tis an Emblem of Purity and Beauty: Angels have appear'd in this Dreſs, and therefore what Colour can be more proper for thoſe whom the Scripture dignifies with that Name *? And that this Habit was anciently us'd in the Church, we may learn from St. Chryſoſtom (n).

"The Croſs, continue theſe Epiſcopal Divines, was always us'd in the Church in immortali Lavacro (o). To teſtify therefore our Communion with the Saints of former Ages, as our Creed teaches us; and to ſignify we are not aſham'd of the Croſs of Chriſt: For theſe Reaſons they conceive it proper this Ceremony ſhould be continued, and cannot imagine it ſhould trouble the Conſcience of any Perſon that deſires to be ſatisfy'd.

"As to the Poſture of Kneeling, they argue it beſt becomes the Solemnity of the Holy Euchariſt: That the moſt valuable Bleſſings ought to be receiv'd with the greateſt Marks of Reverence and Submiſſion. That Poſtures of Familiarity are not acceptable to God Almighty upon ſo ſolemn an occaſion, may be “ collected from, Malachi 1. 6, 8. That when the Church us'd ſtanding at her (p) Prayers, the Manner of Receiving was More Adorantium: That ſince this Poſture of Standing has been diſus'd, and Kneeling practis'd inſtead of it; ſince this Circumſtance is thus alter'd by the Churches Appointment, to ſtand at the Communion now, when we kneel at Prayers, would be by no Means decent; neither was it ever the Cuſtom of the beſt Times.

“ The Church-Commiſſioners conclude their general Anſwer with taking Notice, that there were ancient Liturgies in the Church, as appears plainly from St. Chryſoſtom's, St. Baſil's and others: And the Greeks, ſay they, mention St. James's, much older than the reſt. And tho' we cannot trace entire Liturgies thro' all the Centuries of Chriſtianity; yet that there were ſuch in the earlieſt Ages, may certainly be concluded from the Fragments remaining: Such as, Surſum Corda, &c. Gloria Patri, Benedicite, Hymnus, Cherubinus, &c. Vere Dignum & Juſtum, &c. Dominus vobiſcum & cum Spiritu tuo, with ſeveral others: And notwithſtanding the Liturgies now extant may be interpolated; yet where the Forms and Expreſſions are agreeable to Catholick Doctrine, they may well be preſum'd uncorrupted Remainders, and Primitive Uſage; eſpecially ſince General Councils are ſilent as to the Original of theſe Liturgies (a).

“ To this Anſwer the Non-Conformiſts put in a Reply too long to inſert. And here I ſhall only obſerve, that tho' they could not break the Anſwer of the Epiſcopal Commiſſioners: Tho' Truth is inflexible, and the nature of the Cauſe made it impar Congreſſus: Yet it muſt be ſaid, they did not make the worſe Defence, nor ſhew'd themſelves unqualify'd with Parts and Learning.

Some farther Exceptions of the Non-Conformiſts to the Common-Prayer.

As to their more particular Exceptions againſt the Rubrick and the Offices in the Common-Prayer; they ſeem not altogether free from Prejudice, and a diſputing Inclination. To give ſome Inſtances: “ In the Litany they would have, from all other deadly Sin, alter'd to from all other heinous Sins. From ſuddain Death, they mov'd might be chang'd to unprepar'd dying ſuddainly. They take check at the Churches praying for all that travel, and inſiſt the Expreſſion may be qualify'd, to thoſe that travel. In the Office for the Viſitation of the Sick, they except to the Form of Abſolution, preſs for declarative and conditional Expreſſions; as I pronounce thee abſolv'd if thou doſt truly repent and believe: To this the Church-Commiſſioners Anſwer, “ That the Form of Abſolving in the Liturgy is more agreeable to the Scriptures than that which theſe Miniſters deſir'd. For where the Apoſtles and their Succeſſors the Biſhops and Prieſts, are commiſſionated for this Purpoſe *, 'tis declar'd, whoſe Sins ye remit, they are remitted, not whoſe Sins you pronounce remitted; neither needs the Condition be expreſs'd, being always neceſſarily underſtood.

“ In the Office for Churching of Women, they would have this Prayer with the Reſponſal omitted; O Lord ſave this Woman thy Servant: Anſw. Which putteth her Truſt in thee. The Reaſon of their Exception is, That it may happen a Woman may come to give Thanks for a Child born in Adultery or Fornication. But to this the Epiſcopal Divines Reply, That in ſuch Caſes ſhe is to do Penance before ſhe is Church'd. And which is the laſt Caſe that I ſhall mention, they except againſt the Rubricks enjoyning the Woman to offer the accuſtom'd Offerings: This they pretend looks too like a Jewiſh Purification. To this the Church-Commiſſioners return, That Offerings are requir'd as well under the Goſpel, as under the Law; and that when we give Thanks for ſpecial Bleſſings and Deliverance from Danger, 'tis a proper occaſion for ſuch Religious Acknowledgments. The reſt of the Non-Conformiſts Objections, tho' all of them not altogether ſo ſlender as ſome of thoſe recited, receiv'd a ſufficient Anſwer from the Church-Commiſſioners (r). But I ſhall detain the Reader no longer upon this Subject. However, it may not be improper to obſerve, there were ſome few Conceſſions for Alteration agreed to on the Church-es ſide (s).

Baxter's Reform'd Liturgy.

Beſides the Exceptions already mention'd by the Non-Conformiſts, there were larger Additions or new Forms referred to Baxter's Management. This Divine went a great way in his Commiſſion, and drew up an entire Service which he entituled the Reform'd Liturgy. This tho' perform'd by a ſingle Hand, not well practis'd in Antiquity, was read by the Miniſters and generally approv'd. The Common-Prayer is very much alter'd in this Compoſition: The Additions and Omiſſions are conſiderable; and both Matter and Form remarkably different. 'Twas laid before the Biſhops and other Divines in the Commiſſion. In the recommendatory Addreſs before it, the Non-Conformiſts had the Modeſty to declare, that if any of thoſe Rules or Directions upon Debate ſhall be judg'd by the Commiſſioners unneceſſary or overlong, we ſhall be very ready (ſay they) to ſubmit either to the Alteration, or Omiſſion of them. At laſt, in the cloſe of their Application, they deſire the ſeveral particulars thereof, may be inſerted into the reſpective Places of the Liturgy to which they belong; and be left to the Miniſters Choice to uſe the one or the other, according to his Majeſty's gracious Declaration concerning Eccleſiaſtical Affairs (t).

The Non-Conformiſts deſire a perſonal Conference between the Epiſcopal and Non-Conformiſt Divines.

To proceed; About ten Days before the Commiſſion expir'd, the Non-Conformiſts deſir'd a perſonal Conference with the Biſhops upon the Subject of the Papers exchang'd. This Requeſt being agreed, three of each Party were pitch'd on to manage the Diſpute: The Biſhops choſe Dr. Pearſon, Dr. Gunning, and Dr. Sparrow: The Miniſters Managers were Dr. Bates, Dr. Jacomb, and Mr. Baxter: When they met, the Conference through want of Order, frequent Interruptions, and Perſonal Reflections, turn'd to no Account.

Time being thus ſpent to little purpoſe, Biſhop Coſens at laſt produc'd a Paper, containing an Expedient to end the Controverſy. The principal thing in this Paper was a Propoſal to put the Complainants upon diſtinguiſhing between things they charg'd as Sinful, and others, which they oppos'd upon the ſcore of inexpediency. The three Diſputants on the Miniſters ſide, were deſir'd to draw up their Senſe upon this Subject againſt the next Morning. This was accordingly done and deliver'd, but in their own names only: For here they would not pretend to repreſent their Party. In this Diſcourſe they charge the Rubrick and Injunctions of the Church with eight Things, flatly ſinful and contrary to the Word of God: They are theſe, 1. That no Miniſter be admitted to baptize without the tranſient Image of the Croſs. 2. That no Miniſter be permitted to read or pray, or exercife the other Parts of his Office that dares not wear a Surplice. 3. That none be admitted ted to Communion in the Lord's-Supper, that dare not receive it Kneeling; and that all Miniſters be enjoyn'd to deny it to ſuch. 4. That Miniſters are oblig'd to pronounce all baptiz'd Infants regenerate by the Holy Ghoſt, whether they are Children of Chriſtians or not. 5. That Miniſters be forc'd to deliver the Sacrament of the Body and Blood of Chriſt unto the unfit, both in Health, and Sickneſs, and that with perſonal Application, putting it into their Hands: And that ſuch are forc'd to receive it, tho' againſt their own Wills, in the Conſcience of their Impenitency. 6. That Miniſters are forc'd to abſolve the unfit, and that in abſolute Expreſſions. 7. That Miniſters are forc'd to give Thanks for all whom they bury, as Brethren whom God has deliver'd and taken to himſelf. And, 8. That none may be a Preacher that dares not ſubſcribe, there is nothing in the Common-Prayer-Book, Book of Ordination, and the Nine and Thirty Articles, that is contrary to the Word of God (u).

But this Charge looks like naked Affirmation: For ought appears, they either begged the Queſtion, or elſe fail'd in the Proof. Beſides, in the fifth and ſixth Articles, they went upon a Suppoſition evidently falſe. For by the Common-Prayer Book, the Prieſt was not forc'd to adminiſter either the holy Euchariſt, or the Abſolution, to Perſons unfit. This way of Management on the ſide of the Nonconformiſts, gave but a ſlender Proſpect of an Accommodation. However, the Epiſcopal Divines being willing the others ſhould go their whole Length, and exert their Force, 'twas at laſt agreed to argue in Writing. The moſt remarkable Things in this Debate were theſe Two.

Firſt, They had a long Argument about ſettling the Senſe and Application of Rom. 14 1, 2, 3. Him that is weak in the Faith, receive you, but not to doubtful Diſputations, &c. But the meaning of a reſembling Text having been diſcuſs'd in the Church-Commiſſioners Anſwer, I ſhall wave the Recital of what paſs'd upon this Head. Only here it may be obſerv'd, that the Presbyterian Miniſters were the Opponents.

In the other part of the Diſpute, the Queſtion was, Whether it was ſinful to enjoin Miniſters to deny the Communion to thoſe that would not receive it kneeling? And here the Epiſcopal Divines who oppos'd, urg'd ſeveral Arguments, that Things in their own Nature indifferent, might become neceſſary as to their Uſe, when commanded by lawful Authority. In this Debate, Baxter ſeems to have been either perplex'd in his Underſtanding, or indiſpos'd for cloſing the Difference: For no Propoſition could be made plain enough to gain his Aſſent. For inſtance, the Epiſcopal Divines arguing thus; That a Command which commands only an Act in it ſelf lawful, is not ſinful. This was deny'd by Baxter, upon the ſcore that ſome unlawful Circumſtance might hang upon the Command, or becauſe the Penalty might be over-charg'd. The Opponents reinforc'd their Propoſition thus: That Command which commandeth an Act in it ſelf lawful, and no other Act whereby any unjuſt Penalty is injoined, nor any Circumſtance whence directly, or per accidens, any Sin is conſequent, which the Commander ought to provide againſt, is not ſinful. This Baxter deny'd, for this dark Reaſon; "Becauſe the firſt Act commanded, may be accidentally unlawful, and be commanded by an unjuſt Penalty, though no other Act or Circumſtance be ſuch. This, beſides the Obſcurity of the Anſwer, appears no more than a Repetition of what he had anſwer'd before. However, to diſentangle this Divine, the Opponents endeavour to ſet the Argument in a ſtronger Light, if poſſible: To this purpoſe they improve their Propoſition thus: That Command which commandeth an Act, in it ſelf lawful, and no other Act whereby any unjuſt Penalty is enjoined, nor any Circumſtance whence directly or per accidens, any Sin is conſequent, which the Commander ought to provide againſt, hath in it all Things requiſite to the Lawfulneſs of a Command, and particularly cannot be guilty of commanding an Act per accidens unlawful, nor of commanding an Act under an unjuſt Penalty (w). This Propoſition thus demonſtratively couch'd, was deny'd by Baxter for his Reaſons laſt mention'd. His Talent lay in retiring to foreign Diſtinctions, and Miſapplications of the Rules of Logick. But whether this involving the Argument, and raiſing a Miſt, was Art, or Infirmity, is hard to determine: However, let the moſt charitable Conſtruction paſs: This Cavilling and Chicane, as it appear'd at leaſt in Baxter's Management, was complained of in Print, by Bp. Morley (x). This Prelate takes notice, that Baxter's denying that plain Propoſition laſt mention'd, was not only a frivolous and falſe manner of arguing, but likewiſe deſtructive of all Authority, Human and Divine: That the rejecting Propoſitions of ſuch Evidence, ſtrikes the Church out of all Authority for making Canons for the ſetling of Order and Diſcipline: And more than this, ſuch a Sceptical Length of denyal takes away all Legiſlative Power from the King and Parliament, and even from God himſelf. For no Act can be ſo good in it ſelf, but that it may lead to a Sin by Accident: And if to command ſuch an Act be a Sin, then every command muſt be a Sin (y).

Baxter's unſupported manner of arguing.

And thus the Conference at the Savoy ended without an Accommodation: Whether the Encouragement the Non-Conformiſts receiv'd from the King, and the Miniſtry, the Aſſurances they might have from ſome leading Members in Parliament, or their Intereſt they reckon'd on with the People; whether all, or any of theſe Motives made them ſtand off, and leſs complyant, is farther than I ſhall pronounce.

The Conference at the Savoy ends without an Accommodation.

Before I take leave of this Subject, I ſhall juſt mention thoſe Church Commiſſioners who had the greateſt Share in the Debate. Henchman then Biſhop of Salisbury, and afterwards of London, is reported well acquainted with the Fathers and Councils: He diſcours'd with great Temper, but was ſtrongly againſt large Abatements, and Schemes of Comprehenſion. This Prelate, together with Sheldon and Morley, are ſaid to have had the chief Management of this Affair. Dr. Pearſon, afterwards Biſhop of Cheſter, diſputed with great Exactneſs. The Miniſters on the other ſide had a particular Regard for him, and believ'd that if this Divine had been an Umpire in the Controverſy, his Conceſſions would have gone a great way: And to mention only one more, Dr. Gunning afterwards Biſhop of Ely, had a principal Part in the Debate: He had a ready Pronunciation, and argued with great Learning and Vigour. His Regard for the Practice of Antiquity made him adhere ſtrictly to the Ceremonies and Conſtitution of the Church: And he thought it by no means reaſonable to give up Uſages and Regulations, ſo primitively ſettled, and ſupported.

At the Cloſe of the laſt Day it was mutually agreed, that the Report of the Conference ſhould be deliver'd to the King in Writing: And that each Party ſhould give in this general Account, "That the Church's Welfare, that Unity and "Peace, and his Majeſty's Satisfaction, were "Ends upon which they were all agreed: But

“ as to the Means, they could not come to any Harmony.

Soon after this Conference the Non-conformiſt Commiſſioners drew up an Account of their Performance, together with a Petition to his Majeſty for thoſe Alterations and Abatements which had been lately promiſ'd. It was preſented by Biſhop Reinolds, Bates, Manton and Baxter. Part of their Addreſs runs thus:

The Non-conformiſt Addreſs the King for the Benefit of his late Declaration.

——— As your Majeſty, under God, is the Protection whereto your People fly, and as the ſame Neceſſities ſtill remain, which drew forth your Gracious Declaration, we moſt humbly and earneſtly beſeech your Majeſty, that the Benefits of the ſaid Declaration may be continued to your People, and in particular, that the Additions may be made to the Liturgy, that are therein expreſs'd.--------We ſhall wait in Hope, that ſo great a Calamity of your People as would follow the Loſs of ſo many able, faithful Miniſters as rigorous Impoſitions would caſt out, ſhall never be recorded in the Hiſtory of your Reign: But that theſe Impediments of Concord being forborn, your Kingdoms may flouriſh in Piety and Peace, &c.

Id. p. 176.

But this Application fail'd of Succeſs. The King might probably be of Opinion, that theſe Miniſters came off with Diſadvantage, and ſunk in the Controverſy.

May 8. 1661.

While the Debate at the Savoy was on foot, a new Parliament met at Weſtminſter: The Members of both Houſes were generally well affected to the Church and Crown. And, not to mention other things, of this we have an Inſtance in their Order for burning the National Vow and Covenant by the common Hangman.

May 22.

A new Parliament meets at Weſtminſter.

At the ſummoning this Parliament, the Church was not perfectly re-eſtabliſh'd: And the King, as has been obſerv'd, had granted a Commiſſion to a certain Number of Epiſcopal and Presbyterian Divines, to treat an Union at the Savoy: For theſe Reaſons it was once almoſt reſolv'd by the Court, not to call a Convocation with the Parliament. Before this Matter was fully ſettled, Dr. Heylin wrote a Letter to a Principal Miniſter of State to ſolicit the King, that the Clergy might be continued in their ancient Privilege of holding Synods. I ſhall give the Reader only ſome part of this Application.

Dr. Heylin's Letter to a Miniſter of State.

My LORD,

----“ If 'tis objected, ſays the Doctor, That the Commiſſion, now on foot, for altering and explaining certain Paſſages in the publick Liturgy, may either paſs inſtead of a Convocation, or elſe is thought to be neither compatible nor conſiſtent with it; I hope far better in the one, and muſt profeſs, that I can ſee no Reaſon in the other. For, firſt, I hope that the ſelecting ſome few Biſhops and other learned Men of the lower Clergy, to debate on certain Points contained in the Common-Prayer Book, is not intended for a Repreſentation of the Church of England, which is a Body more diffuſed, and cannot legally ſtand bound by their Acts and Counſels. And if this Conference be for no other purpoſe, but only to prepare Matters for a Convocation (as ſome ſay it is not) why may not ſuch a Conference and Convocation be held at once? For neither the ſelecting of ſome learned Men out of both the Orders for the compoſing and reviewing of the two Liturgies digeſted in the Reign of King Edward VI. proved any Hindrance in the calling of thoſe Convocations which were held both in the Second and Third, and in the Fifth and Sixth of the ſaid King's Reign. Nor was it found, that the holding of a Convocation together with the firſt Parliament under Queen Elizabeth, proved any Hindrance to that Conference or Diſputation which was deſigned between the Biſhops and ſome learned Men of the oppoſite Parties: All which conſider'd, I do moſt humbly beg your Lordſhip to put his Majeſty in mind of ſending out his Mandates to the two Archbiſhops for ſummoning a Convocation (according to the uſual Form) in their ſeveral Provinces; that this poor Church may be held with ſome degree of Veneration, both at home and abroad.

Your LORDSHIP's, &c.

Upon the Strength and Seaſonableneſs of this Application, the King, 'tis probable, diſpatch'd his Mandates for a Convocation in each Province; the Writs for ſummoning the Parliament having been iſſu'd ſome unuſual time before. His Majeſty's Writ to William Archbiſhop of Canterbury for meeting his Suffragans and Clergy at St. Paul's, London, was dated April the 11th.

Seſſion 2.

At the time appointed the Convocation was opened with Divine Service, and a Sermon preached in Latin by Dr. Thomas Pierce on Acts 15. 28. And the Archbiſhop being ſomewhat diſabled by Age and ill Health, the Biſhop of London preſided. On the 16th of May the Convocation met upon Prorogation in the Collegiate Church at Weſtminſter *. And here Dr. Fearn, Dean of Ely, elected Prolocutor in the former Seſſion, was preſented to Sheldon, and confirmed. After this the Clergy of the lower Houſe being diſmiſs'd, the Biſhops conſulted for a Form of Prayer to be uſed on the 29th of May, and another for the 30th of January. The drawing theſe Forms was referred to two ſeveral Committees, each conſiſting of four Biſhops, and eight of the inferior Clergy.

The Convocation at York ſend Proxies to London, to tranſact with the Province of Canterbury.

Upon the 10th of June, this Summer, the King directed his Writ to Accepted Frewen Archbiſhop of York, to ſummon a Convocation for that Province. And upon the 22d of November following, his Majeſty in a Leter to the ſaid Archbiſhop, impower'd this Synod to review the Common-Prayer and the Ordinal, and to make ſuch Additions or Alterations as they thought proper. But his Majeſty requiring all poſſible Expedition, and this Northern Synod conſidering they were too far diſtant for conſulting with the Canterbury Convocation; and that the ſending Diſpatches to London, and receiving them from thence, would take up too much time: For this Reaſon the Upper and Lower Houſe agreed to make Proxies to tranſact in their Names, with the Province of Canterbury; obliging themſelves to abide by their Vote, under the Forfeiture of all their Goods and Chattels. Their Repreſentatives furniſh'd with Procurational Letters for this purpoſe, were John Berwick D. D. and Dean of St. Paul's, London. John Earles, D. D. and Dean of Weſtminſter. Henry Fearn, D. D. and Dean of Ely. Henry Bridgeman, D. D. and Dean of Cheſter. Robert Hich, D. D. Archdeacon of Leiceſter. Matthew Smalwood, D. D. Andrew Sandiland* Clerk, Rector of Skeringham, and Proxy for the Clergy of the Archdeaconry of the Eaſt-Riding in the County of York. Humphry Floyd Clerk, Proxy for the Chapter of York. And here we are to obſerve, that the Commiſſion of theſe Gentlemen was limited to the Buſineſs of reviewing the Common-Prayer, and Book for Ordination *.

Epiſcopacy reſtored in Scotland.

In the Beginning of this Year, a Parliament was held at Edinburgh in Scotland, where amongſt other things relating to Religion, 'tis expreſly declared, " That there is no Obligatitn upon this Kingdom (of Scotland) by Covenant, Treaties or otherwiſe, to endeavour by Arms, a Reformation of Religion in the Kingdom of England, or to meddle with the Government and publick Adminiſtration of that Kingdom.— And farther, his Majeſty, with Advice and Conſent of the Eſtates of Parliament, does diſcharge and inhibit all his Majeſty's Subjects within this Kingdom, that none of them preſume upon any Pretext of any Authority whatſoever, to require a Renewing or Swearing of the ſaid League and Covenant, or of any other Covenants, or publick Oaths concerning the Government of the Church or Kingdom, without his Majeſty's ſpecial Warrant and Approbation (z).

A Recital of the Acts relating to the Church there.

September 6.

About this Time, Mr. James Sharp, Mr. Hamilton, Mr. Barwell, and Mr. Loghton, all in Presbyterian Orders, came to London; where, after being ordained Deacons and Prieſts, they were conſecrated Biſhops by the Biſhop of Wincheſter, with the Aſſiſtance of two other Engliſh Prelates. At this Solemnity, they expreſly diſclaim'd the Validity of their former Ordination: They likewiſe procur'd a Proclamation, declaring the King's Pleaſure for reſtoring the Government of the Church by Archbiſhops and Biſhops, as it was ſettled in the Year 1637. It was likewiſe farther ſignify'd in this Inſtrument, that his Majeſty had nominated and preſented Archbiſhops and Biſhops to their reſpective Sees, to exerciſe and enjoy the ſame Authority, with which the Prelates govern'd that Church in the Reign of his Royal Grandfather.

Purſuant to this Proclamation, the Privy-Council of Scotland ſtrictly diſcharged all Eccleſiaſtical Meetings at Synods, Presbyteries, &c. till they ſhould be authoriz'd for that Purpoſe by the Archbiſhop and Biſhops.

Jan. 9. 1662. according to the Scotch Computation where the Year begins on the 1*ſt of* Jan.

At the ſecond Seſſion, begun at Edinburgh upon the 8th of May 1662, the Reſtitution of Epiſcopacy was confirm'd by Act of Parliament. The Statute ſets forth; That his Majeſty and his Eſtates of Parliament, taking to their ſerious Conſideration, that in the Beginning of, and by the late Rebellion within this Kingdom, in the Year One Thouſand Six Hundred and thirty Seven, the ancient and ſacred Order of Biſhops was caſt off; their Perſons and Rights were injur'd and overturned, and a ſeeming Parity among the Clergy factiouſly and violently brought in, to the great Diſturbance of the publick Peace, the Reproach of the Reformed Religion, and Violation of the excellent Laws of the Realm, for preſerving an orderly Subordination in the Church: And therewithal conſidering what Diſorders and Exorbitances have been in the Church, what Encroachments upon the Prerogative and Right of the Crown, what Uſurpations upon the Authority of Parliaments, and what Prejudice the Liberty of the Subject hath ſuffered by the Invaſion made upon the Biſhops and Epiſcopal Government which they find to be the Church-Government, moſt agreeable to the Word of God, moſt convenient and effectual for the Preſervation of Truth, Order and Unity, and moſt ſuitable to Monarchy, and the Peace and Quiet of the State; therefore his Majeſty with Advice and Conſent of his Eſtates of Parliament, hath thought it neceſſary, and accordingly doth hereby redintegrate the State of Biſhops to their ancient Places and undoubted Privileges in Parliament, and to all their other accuſtomed Dignities, Privileges and Juriſdictions, and doth hereby reſtore them to the Exerciſe of their Epiſcopal Function, Preſidence in the Church, Power of Ordination, inflicting of Cenſures, and all other Acts of Church-Diſcipline, which they are to perform, with Advice and Aſſiſtance of ſuch of the Clergy as they ſhall find to be of known Loyalty and Prudence (a).

By another Statute 'tis Enacted, That whatſoever Miniſter ſhall without a lawful Excuſe to be admitted by his Ordinary, abſent himſelf from the Viſitations of the Diocefs, which are to be performed by the Biſhop, or ſome of the Miniſters to be appointed by him, or from the Dioceſan Aſſembly; or who ſhall not according to his Duty concur therein, or who ſhall not give them Aſſiſtance in all the Acts of Church Diſcipline, as they ſhall be required thereunto by the Archbiſhop or Biſhop of the Dioceſs, every ſuch Miniſter ſo offending, ſhall for the firſt Fault, be ſuſpended from his Office and Benefice till the next Dioceſan Meeting; and if he amend not, ſhall be deprived, and the Church and Benefice to be provided for as the Law alloweth in other Caſes of Vacancies.

By this Act likewiſe, all Meetings or Conventicles in Houſes for Religious Exerciſes, are prohibited; and none are permitted to preach in Publick, or in Families, or teach any publick School, or be Tutors to Children of Perſons of Quality, without a Licenſe from the Ordinary of the Dioceſe (b).

And to mention another Proviſion in this Seſſion, all Perſons in publick Truſt or Office, are oblig'd to ſign the following Declaration.

I A. B. do ſincerely affirm and declare, that I judge it unlawful to Subjects, upon Pretence of Reformation, or other Pretence whatſoever, to enter into Leagues and Covenants, or take up Arms againſt the King, or thoſe commiſſionated by him: And that all theſe Gatherings, Convocations, Petitions, Proteſtations, and erecting and keeping of Council Tables, that were uſed in the Beginning, and for carrying on of the late Troubles, were unlawful and ſeditious. And particularly, that theſe Oaths, whereof the one was commonly called, The National Covenant (as it was ſworn and explained in the Year one thouſand ſix hundred and thirty eight, and thereafter) and the other entitled A Solemn League and Covenant, were, and are in themſelves unlawful Oaths, and were taken by, and impos'd upon the Subjects of this Kingdom, againſt the fundamental Laws and Liberties of the ſame. And that there lieth no Obligation upon me, or any of the Subjects from the ſaid Oaths, or either of them, to endeavour any Change or Alteration of the Government either in Church or State, as it is now eſtabliſh'd by the Laws of the Kingdom.

Id. Act 3.

Before I take Leave, I muſt obſerve, that an Act for reviving the right of Patronages, ſeiz'd by the Presbyterians paſs'd this Seſſion.

Ld. Chancellour Hide's Speech againſt the Diſſenting Preachers.

To return to England: At the opening of the Parliament at Weſtminſter, the Lord Chancellor Hide harangu'd with great Vehemence againſt the Diſſenting Preachers: "He tells the Lords and Commons they were the great Phyſicians of the Kingdom; and then applying this Character, he ſuggeſts there is a ſort of your Patients, that I muſt recommend to your utmoſt vigilance, utmoſt Severity, and to no part of your Lenity and Indulgence; ſuch who are ſo far from valuing your Preſcriptions, that they look not upon you as their Phyſicians, but their Patients; ſuch who inſtead of repenting of any thing they have done amiſs, repeat every Day the ſame Crimes, for the Oblivion whereof the Act of Indemnity was provided. Theſe are the Seditious Preachers, who cannot be contented to be diſpenſed with for their full Obedience to ſome Laws eſtabliſh'd, without reproaching and inveighing againſt thoſe Laws how eſtabliſh'd ſoever; who tell their Auditories, that the Apoſtle meant, when he bid them ſtand to their Liberties, that they ſhould ſtand to their Arms; and who by repeating the very Expreſſions, and teaching the very Doctrine they ſet on Foot in the Year 1640. ſufficiently declare, that they have no Mind that twenty Years ſhould put an end to the Miſeries we have undergone. What good Chriſtian can think without Horror, of theſe Miniſters of the Goſpel, who by their Function ſhould be Meſſengers of Peace, and are in their Practices the only Trumpets of War, and Incendiaries towards Rebellion? —— And if the Perſon and Place can improve and aggravate the Offence, as no doubt it does before God and Men; methinks the Preaching Rebellion and Treaſon out of the Pulpit, ſhou'd be as much worſe than the advancing it in the Market, as poyſoning a Man at a Communion, would be worſe than killing him at a Tavern.

And after having gone on with great Force and Severity of Language, he concludes thus, "If you do not provide for the thorough quenching theſe Firebrands, King, Lords and Commons ſhall be their meaneſt Subjects, and the whole Kingdom kindled into one general Flame.

A. D. 1662.

The Rhetorick and Intereſt of this great Miniſter might poſſibly make an Impreſſion upon both Houſes, and occaſion the paſſing the Act for Uniformity in the condition it now ſtands. This Bill receiv'd the Royal Aſſent May the 19*th*, when his Majeſty prorogu'd the Parliament to the 18*th* of February.

The Act for Uniformity.

This Act being prefix'd to the Book of Common-Prayer, and lying open to general View, I ſhall be ſhort in the recital of the contents: By this Statute, all and ſingular Miniſters are bound to uſe the Morning Prayer, Evening Prayer, and all other Common-Prayer, in ſuch Order and Form as is mention'd in the Book. And that every Parſon, Vicar, or Miniſter ſhall before the Feaſt of St. Bartholomew, 1662. after the reading of the ſaid Book, declare his unſeigned Aſſent and Conſent to the uſe of all Things in the ſaid Book in theſe Words.

I A. B. do here declare my unſeigned Aſſent and Conſent to all and every thing contained and preſcribed in, and by the Book entituled; "The Book of Common-Prayer, and Adminiſtration of the Sacraments, and other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church of England; together with the Pſalter or Pſalms of David, pointed as they are to be ſung or ſaid in Churches, and the Form or Manner of Making, Ordaining and Conſecrating of Biſhops, Prieſts and Deacons.

The Penalty for refuſing was Deprivation: Farther, every Miniſter and School-Maſter are bound at their Admiſſion to their Promotion or Employment, before the Feaſt of St. Bartholomew above-mention'd, to ſubſcribe the Declaration following.

"I. A. B. do declare, That it is not lawful, upon any pretence whatſoever, to take Arms againſt the King; and that I do abhor the traiterous Poſition of taking Arms by his Authority againſt his Perſon, or againſt thoſe that are commiſſion'd by him; and that I will conform to the Liturgy of the Church of England, as it is now by Law eſtabliſh'd. And I do declare, that I do hold there lies no Obligation upon me or on any other Perſon, from the Oath commonly called the Solemn League and Covenant, to endeavour any Change or Alteration of Government either in Church or State, and that the ſame was in it ſelf an unlawful Oath, and impoſed upon the Subjects of this Realm againſt the known Laws and Liberties of this Kingdom.

This Declaration, excepting the Clauſe for Conformity to the Church of England, had already been couch'd in the Form of an Oath in the beginning of this Seſſion: And requir'd of all Magiſtrates and Officers in Corporations (c). And a Year forwards, the ſubſcribing the Declaration was enjoyn'd all Veſtry-Men, in Cities or Towns Corporate.

The Militia-Act paſs'd this Seſſion; being farther explanatory of the Conſtitution upon this Head; I ſhall tranſcribe part of it. The Statute begins thus.

Foraſmuch as within all his Majeſty's Realms and Dominions, the ſole Supreme Government, Command and Diſpoſition of the Militia, and of all Forces by Sea and Land, and of all Forts and Places of Strength is, and by the Law of England, ever was the undoubted Right of his Majeſty and his Royal Predeceſſors, Kings and Queens of England; and that both or either of the Houſes of Parliament, cannot nor ought to pretend to the ſame; nor can, nor lawfully may raiſe or levy any War offenſive or defenſive againſt his Majeſty, his Heirs, or lawful Succeſſors, &c. (d).

Theſe Statutes are remarkably extenſive and determining: They point particularly againſt all Evaſion and Reſerve: The force of Language could not, one would think, ſecure the Crown better, nor barr Reſiſtance more effectually than this Proviſion.

To proceed a little farther with the Statute for Uniformity, by which 'tis enacted, That no Perſon ſhall be capable of any Benefice, or preſume to conſecrate and adminiſter the Sacrament of the Lord's-Supper, before he be Ordain'd Prieſt by Epiſcopal Ordination, upon pain to forfeit for every Offence, the Sum of an hundred Pounds.

And which is the laſt Branch I ſhall mention 'tis provided that none be receiv'd as a Lecturer or permitted to preach or read any Sermon or Lecture in any Church or Chapel, unleſs approv'd and licens'd by the Archbiſhop or Biſhop, and ſhall read the Thirty Nine Articles of Religion, with a Declaration of an unfeign'd Aſſent to the ſame (e).

(e) 13. & 14. Car. 2. c. 4.

About two thouſand of the Non-conforming Miniſters ejected.

This Act preſs'd hard upon the Principles of the Presbyterian Miniſters, and tho' the Grounds for Non-complyance were not the ſame to every individual Perſon, yet about two thouſand of them loſt their Preferments upon ſcrupuling ſome Parts of the Statute. Now if theſe Divines wou'd have ſubſcrib'd the Declaration, own'd the Dioceſan for Head of their Communion, taken Orders from the Biſhops, forbore Oppoſition to the eſtabliſh'd Church, and not perpetuated their Singularities by Ordaining others: Provided they would have advanc'd thus far; a Queſtion may be ask'd whether they might not have been diſpens'd with for their Non-conformity in other Matters, and ſuffer'd to enjoy their Livings? But whether theſe Terms were offer'd and refus'd, before the Bill paſs'd, is more than I can diſcover. But had the Church and Government relax'd to theſe Conditions, I find it would have been ſhort of Satisfaction to the moſt moderate Non-conformiſts (f). However, to ſay nothing more, the Misfortune of their Perſuaſion cannot be remember'd without regret: Thoſe who quit their Intereſt are certainly in earneſt, and deſerve a charitable Conſtruction: Miſtakes in Religion are to be tenderly us'd, and Conſcience ought to be pitied, when it cannot be reliev'd.

To begin: The Biſhop of London as Preſident, and the reſt of the Biſhops conſulted touching a Subſcription to the Three Articles in the Thirty Sixth Canon *: And referr'd the drawing up a Form of Subſcription to a Committee of Biſhops. It was likewiſe reſolv'd by the Upper-Houſe, that no Ordination of Clerks ſhould be made by any Biſhop but only within the four Ember-Weeks ſolemnly appointed for that Purpoſe: And that no Biſhop ſhould Ordain beyond the Bounds of his own Diſtrict, unleſs by Letters dimiſſory firſt obtain'd from the Lord Archbiſhop of Canterbury. Three Forms of Prayer for the Fifth of November, the Thirtieth of January, and the 29th of May, were brought up into the Upper-Houſe, and unanimouſly approv'd; and the care of tranſlating the Book of Common-Prayer into Latin, was committed to Dr. John Earl, Dean of Weſtminſter, and Dr. John Pearſon. A few Days forward, the Preſident and Biſhops held a Debate upon a Meſſage receiv'd from the Houſe of Commons, touching Reverent and Uniform Geſtures and Demeanours at the time of Divine Service: And here it was agreed by the Majority that the Conſtitution in the Book of Canons, made in the Year 1603. and entituled, Of Solemn Reverence to be us'd in Time of Divine-Service; 'twas agreed, I ſay, this Conſtitution ſhould be laid before the Houſe of Commons, having been firſt conſider'd by the Lower-Houſe of Convocation. After two Days, this Conſtitution was brought up to the Biſhops from the Lower-Clergy, with ſome Amendments, to which their Lordſhips agreed. In December following, His Majeſty ſet forth a Declaration, in which, amongſt other Things, “He declar'd his Reſolution to maintain the Act of Uniformity; only he ſhould diſpenſe with ſome Matters in it. And in his Speech at the next Seſſion, he concluded with a ſmooth Intimation of ſome Indulgence granted to Diſſenters. The mention of this Favour was couch'd in wary and gentle Expreſſions, and which ſeem'd almoſt to give up the Diſpenſing Power. His Majeſty's Words were theſe. That if the Diſſenters wou'd demean themſelves peaceably and modeſtly, he could heartily wiſh he had ſuch Power of Indulgence, to uſe upon occaſion.

The King's Declaration for inſinuating an Indulgence to the Non-conformiſts.

The Houſe of Commons might probably ſuſpect, this Toleration might comprehend more Perſuaſions than they deſir'd ſhould be ſhelter'd: And over and above, they might be apprehenſive, the Diſpenſing in this Manner would carry the Prerogative too far, preſs the Conſtitution, and bear down upon Property, and Civil Right. In ſhort, they reſolv'd to preſent an Addreſs, importing that it was the humble Advice of their Houſe, that no Indulgence be granted to Diſſenters from the Act of Uniformity. They likewiſe order'd a Committee to collect and bring in the Reaſons of the Houſe for this Vote. The next Day a Report was made to the Houſe from the Committee by Sir Henage Finch, his Majeſty's Sollicitor General: And after ſome Amendments the Addreſs was agreed, and preſented by the Speaker to his Majeſty at the Banqueting-Houſe at White-Hall. The Commons Remonſtrance upon this Head

“We have conſider'd, ſay they, the nature of your Majeſty's Declaration from Breda, and are humbly of Opinion, that your Majeſty ought not to be preſs'd with it any farther.

“Becauſe it is not a Promiſe in it ſelf, but only a gracious Declaration of your Majeſty's Intentions, to do what in you lay, and what a Parliament ſhould adviſe your Majeſty to do; and no ſuch Advice was ever given, or thought fit to be offer'd; nor could it be otherwiſe underſtood, becauſe there were Laws of Uniformity then in being, which could not be diſpenſed with but by Act of Parliament.

“That they who do pretend a Right to that ſuppoſed Promiſe, put the Right into the Hands of the Repreſentatives, whom “they choſe to ſerve for them in this Parliament, who have paſs'd, and your Majeſty conſented to, the Act of Uniformity. If any ſhall preſume to ſay, that a Right to the Benefit of this Declaration doth ſtill remain after this Act paſſed.

“It tends to diſſolve the very Bonds of Government, and to ſuppoſe a Diſability in your Majeſty and the Houſes of Parliament, to make a Law contrary to any part of your Majeſty's Declaration, though both Houſes ſhould adviſe your Majeſty to it.

“We have alſo conſider'd the Nature of the Indulgence propos'd, with reference to thoſe Conſequences that muſt neceſſarily attend it.

“It will eſtabliſh Schiſm by a Law, and make the whole Government of the Church precarious, and the Cenſures of it of no Moment or Conſideration at all.

“It will no way become the Gravity or Wiſdom of a Parliament, to paſs a Law at one Seſſion for Uniformity, and at the next Seſſion (the Reaſons of Uniformity continuing ſtill the ſame) to paſs another Law to fruſtrate or weaken the Execution of it.

“It will expoſe your Majeſty to the reſtleſs Importunity of every Sect or Opinion, and of every ſingle Perſon alſo, who ſhall preſume to diſſent from the Church of England.

“It will be a Cauſe of increaſing Sects and Sectaries, whoſe Numbers will weaken the true Proteſtant Profeſſion ſo far, that it will at leaſt be difficult for it to defend it ſelf againſt them: And which is yet farther conſiderable, thoſe Numbers, which by being troubleſome to the Government, find they can arrive to an Indulgence, will, as their Numbers increaſe, be yet more troubleſome, that ſo at length they may arrive to a general Toleration, which your Majeſty hath declar'd againſt; and in time ſome prevalent Sect will at laſt contend for an Eſtabliſhment, which, for ought can be foreſeen, may end in Popery.

“It is a thing altogether without Precedent, and will take away all means of convicting Recuſants, and be inconſiſtent with the Method, and Proceedings of the Laws of England.

“Laſtly, It is humbly conceiv'd, that the Indulgence propos'd will be ſo far from tending to the Peace of the Kingdom, that it is rather likely to occaſion great Diſturbance. And on the contrary, that the aſſerting of the Laws and Religion eſtabliſh'd, according to the Act of Uniformity, is the moſt probable means to produce a ſettled Peace and Obedience throughout your Kingdom: Becauſe the Variety of Profeſſions in Religion, when openly indulg'd, doth directly diſtinguiſh Men into Parties, and withal gives them Opportunity to count their Numbers; which, conſidering the Animoſities, that out of a Religious Pride will be kept on foot by the ſeveral Factions, doth tend directly and inevitably to open Diſturbance.

“Nor can your Majeſty have any Security, that the Doctrine or Worſhip of the ſeveral Factions, which are all govern'd by a ſeveral Rule, ſhall be conſiſtent with the Peace of your Kingdom.

The King inclin'd to make the Diſſenters eaſy.

His Majeſty gave them hearty Thanks for their Addreſs, acknowledg'd that never any King was ſo happy in a Houſe of Commons, as himſelf in this; telling them withal, that their Paper and Reaſons being long, he ſhould take time to conſider them, and ſend them a Meſſage.

By this Anſwer, and his late Declaration, we may collect, the King was unwilling to part with the Toleration. Whether this Unwillingneſs proceeded from good Nature, or to make a Return to ſome of the Nonconformiſts for promoting the Reſtoration; or becauſe he thought the publick Tranquillity might be better preſerv'd by ſuch Uſage: Which of theſe Motives, or whether all of them affected his Majeſty, cannot certainly be determin'd: But 'tis pretty plain, He was not a little deſirous the Indulgence ſhould have paſs'd, and that the non-complying Divines ſhould have been gently treated, and ſuffer'd to live at their Eaſe.

The King's Inſtructions for augmenting poor Vicaridges, &c.

The next remarkable Occurrence was the providing a better Maintenance for the Clergy. The Appropriations of Rectories made by the Popes to Religious Houſes; the ſecular Views of ſome great Perſons of the Temporalty at the Reformation, continuing the Alienation of the great Tithes, and ſettling them upon the Laity; and farther Depredations being afterwards made upon the Patrimony of the Church. This unfortunate Conduct had reduc'd many of the Parochial Clergy to a lamentable Condition. In many Towns the whole Profits were appropriated, and only a ſlender Stipend allow'd to the Perſon officiating. In many others a Vicaridge was ſettled, but ſo meanly endow'd, that a Vicar, tho' without the Charge of a Family, cou'd not tolerably ſubſiſt upon it. This Miſmanagement of the conſecrated Revenues has been the Calamity and Scandal of the Nation. For without a competent Settlement for the Parochial Clergy, it was reaſonably concluded the Church of England could never be happily eſtabliſh'd. And in regard many of the impropriate Rectories were annex'd to Sees, to Cathedral and Collegiate Bodies, and other Eccleſiaſtical Dignities, 'twas thought proper the Precedent for Reſtitution, ſhould be ſet by the Biſhops and Clergy: Theſe Eccleſiaſticks being at that Juncture particularly furniſh'd for augmenting ſlender Livings, upon the Score of the conſiderable Fines lately receiv'd by them. For this purpoſe a Bill was depending in Parliament for laying down Rules and Proportions to be obſerv'd in the Augmentation of poor Vicaridges, and other Cures not competently endow'd. But the Diſadvantages ariſing from the paſſing ſuch a Bill being foreſeen, or at leaſt ſuſpected, it was thought more adviſeable to refer the Matter to the King's Inſtructions. Purſuant to this Suggeſtion, his Majeſty directed his Letters to the Archbiſhops, Biſhops, Deans and Chapters, “That forthwith Proviſion be made for the Augmentation of all ſuch Vicaridges and Cures where the Tithes and Profits are appropriated to them and their Succeſſors, in ſuch manner, that they who immediately attend upon the Performance of Miniſterial Offices in every Pariſh, may have a competent Portion out of every Rectory impropriate, &c.

They are anſwer'd by the Clergy-Impropriators.

Theſe Letters were readily comply'd with, and very conſiderable Augmentations made in moſt of the Pariſhes appropriated to Eccleſiaſtical Corporations: But Lay Impropriators ſtuck too cloſe to the Point of Intereſt, and refus'd to be govern'd by his Majeſty's Direction.

ction. 'Tis true, many of the Houſe of Commons ſeem'd well diſpos'd to a Remedy for this Evil, and ſeveral Reſolves were made to this purpoſe: But theſe pious Advances came to nothing. The Miſcarriage is ſuppos'd to have happen'd, either by the Members being diverted and call'd off by the King's preſſing for Supplies, by the Covetouſneſs of Impropriators, or by the Diſaffection of ſome Lay Patrons, who envy'd the Clergy a better ſupported and independent Condition.

Bp. Sanderſon's Death. Jan. 29. 1662--3.

In January laſt Sanderſon Biſhop of Lincoln departed this Life. He was youngeſt Son of Robert Sanderſon, of Gilth-Wait-Hall, Eſq; in Yorkſhire, by Elizabeth Daughter of Richard Carr, Gent. of Buthar-Wait-Hall in Ecclesfield, in the ſame County. He was educated at Lincoln College in Oxon, where he was Regius Profeſſor of Divinity. In the Year 1647. he was principally concern'd in drawing up the Univerſities Reaſons againſt the Covenant and Negative Oath formerly mention'd. The next Year he was turn'd out of his Profeſſorſhip and Canonry of Chriſt Church by the Parliament Viſitors. After this he retir'd to Boothby Pannel in Lincolnſhire, where he was plunder'd and impriſon'd. In his younger time he was inclin'd to Calviniſm: But having argued the Quinq-Articular Controverſie with Dr. Hammond, he came off from Calvin and Twiſs, and diſlik'd both the Supra, and Sub-lapſarian Schemes. Soon after the Reſtoration he was promoted to the See of Lincoln, aſſiſted at the Conference of the Savoy, but did not engage much in that Debate. He was a Prelate of conſiderable Learning: The Talent which diſtinguiſh'd him moſt, was the Reſolution of Caſes of Conſcience, in which he was particularly eminent. His principal Works are, De Juramenti Obligatione Prælectiones ſeptem. De Obligatione Conſcientiæ Prælectiones Decem. Nine Caſes of Conſcience in Engliſh, and a Volume of Sermons in Folio *.

The Death of Archbiſhop Juxton.

The next Summer in June, William Juxton Archbiſhop of Canterbury died in his Palace at Lambeth, and was buried in the Chapel of St. John's College, Oxon. to which he was a conſiderable Benefactor. He receiv'd his Education in this Society, and was ſome time afterwards Student in Grays-Inn. In the late Reign he was firſt preferr'd to the Biſhoprick of Hereford, next to that of London, and upon the Reſtoration was tranſlated to the See of Canterbury: But part of his Character being touch'd already, I ſhall add nothing farther. Upon his Death Gilbert Sheldon Biſhop of London was made his Succeſſor, and Humphry Henchman Biſhop of Sarum remov'd to London.

And of Primate Bramhal.

About this time John Bramhal Archbiſhop of Armagh departed this Life. He was a Gentleman of an ancient Family, deſcended from the Bramhals of Bramhal-Hall in Cheſhire. He was educated in Cambridge, where he commenc'd Doctor of Divinity. Being benefic'd in Yorkſhire he engag'd a Jeſuit in a Conference about Tranſubſtantiation, and had the Advantage in the Diſpute. Upon this, he was made Chaplain to Mathews Archbiſhop of York, and not long after Prebendary of York and Rippon. In 1633. he reſign'd his Preferments in England, and ſettled in Ireland: Where by the Recommendation of the Lord Deputy Strafford, he was made Biſhop of Derry. At his coming to Ireland he found the Revenues of the Church miſerably waſted; and procur'd ſeveral Acts of Parliament for ſecuring the Eccleſiaſtical Revenue. And not ſtopping at the preventing future Encroachment, he regain'd the Rights of the Church by Argument, Law and Purchaſe; got Fee Farms ſurrender'd, and recover'd between thirty and forty thouſand Pounds per Annum in four Years time. To conclude: At the Reſtoration he was made Archbiſhop of Armagh, and Speaker of the Houſe of Lords in the Parliament at Dublin. To take leave of his Memory, he was very conſiderable in the argumentative part of Learning, a great Controverſial Divine, a good Governour and Stateſman, and furniſh'd with Courage ſuitable to his Character and Principles. He was far from being ſtraitlac'd in his Notions, and uncharitable in his Cenſures; being famous for his Diſtinction between Articles of Peace and Articles of Faith (i).

Some of the Presbyterian Miniſters communicate with the National Church.

To proceed: Several of the Nonconforming Divines, tho' they believ'd the Terms for Miniſterial Conformity impracticable, yet made no ſcruple of joyning in Lay-Communion with the eſtabliſh'd Church. Thus, after the Exerciſe of their Miniſtry, they uſually came to their Pariſh Church at Divine Service, and were ſometimes communicated there. And this is ſuppos'd to have been the Riſe of Occaſional Conformity (k).

July the 27th, 1663. A farther Account of the Convocation.

The Church being now brought forward to ſo good a Settlement, the Convocation acquieſc'd, and mov'd little farther. This Seſſion ended with the Prorogation of the Parliament this Summer. From this time till the Diſſolution of the Parliament in the Year 1678, the Clergy met moſtly for Form ſake. As for Synodical Buſineſs there was little done, excepting three things of no great Importance *. This ſmall Buſineſs was a Committee appointed to inſpect a new Grammar, May the 4th, 1664: An Order about a Latin Prayer Book, May the 18th: And a Petition, October 11. 1667, agreed to be preſented to the King for a Patent on Behalf of Dr. Duport, to have the ſole Liberty of printing his Greek Tranſlation of the Pſalms for ſeven Years. And thus the Reader can expect nothing farther from the Convocation.

Acts relating to the Church made in the Parliament at Edinbourgh.

Upon the 18th of June, a third Seſſion of the firſt Parliament began at Edinbourgh. The Preamble of the firſt Act ſets forth, That it was his Majeſty's expreſs Pleaſure, that in the Conſtitution of Parliaments, and chooſing Lords of the Articles at this Seſſion, and in all Time coming, the ſame Form and Order ſhould be kept which had been us'd before theſe late Troubles, eſpecially in the Parliament holden in the Year 1633; and the manner of Election of Lords of the Articles being now ſeen and conſidered by the Eſtates of Parliament, they did in all Duty humbly acquieſce in his Majeſty's Pleaſure. And in Proſecution thereof, the Clergy retired to the Exchequer-Chamber, and the Nobility to the Inner-Houſe of the Seſſion (the Barons and Burgeſſes keeping their Places in the Parliament Houſe). The Clergy made Choice of Eight Noblemen to be on the Articles: And the Nobility made Choice of Eight Biſhops: Both theſe Diviſions are named. This being done, to ſpeak in the Language and Order of the Act; the Clergy and Nobility met together in the Inner Exchequer Houſe, and having ſhewn their Elections to each other, they jointly made Choice of Eight Barons and Eight Commiſſioners of Boroughs, who were likewiſe named. After this, they repreſented the whole Ele-

(l) Car. 2. Parl. 1. Seſſ. 3. cap. 1.

I ſhall give the Reader Part of one Act more paſs'd this Seſſion relating to the Eſtabliſhment and Conſtitution of a National Synod. By this Statute 'tis enacted, there ſhall be a National Synod of the Church of Scotland: “And that this Synod for the lawful Members thereof, ſhall conſiſt and be conſtitute of the Archbiſhops of St. Andrews and Glaſcow, and the Remanent Biſhops of theſe two Provinces, of all Deans of Cathedral Churches, of Archdeacons, of all the Moderators of Meetings for Exerciſe, allowed by the Biſhops of the reſpective Dioceſes, and of one Presbyter or Miniſter of each Meeting, to be elected by the Moderator and Plurality of Presbyters of the ſame, and of one or two from the Univerſity of St. Andrews, one from Glaſgow, one from the King's College, one from Marſhal's College of Aberdeen, and one from the College of Edinborough. And this Synod thus conſtitute, is to meet at ſuch Places and Times as his Majeſty by his Proclamation ſhall appoint; and is to debate, treat, conſider, conſult, conclude, and determine upon ſuch pious Matters, Cauſes and Things concerning the Doctrine, Worſhip, Diſcipline, and Government of this Church, as his Majeſty ſhall from Time to Time, under his Royal Hand, deliver or cauſe to be deliver'd to the Archbiſhop of St. Andrews, Preſident of the ſaid National Aſſembly, to be by him offer'd to their Conſideration. 'Tis likewiſe declar'd, that unleſs his Majeſty or his Commiſſioner are preſent, no National Aſſembly can be kept. 'Tis farther Enacted, that no Act, Canon, Order, or Ordinance ſhall be own'd as an Act of the National Synod of the Church of Scotland, excepting that which ſhall be conſider'd, conſulted and agreed upon by the Preſident, and major Part of the Members above ſpecify'd (m).

The Clergy give way to be tax'd by the Commons in Parliament.

I am now to remark an extraordinary Change in the manner of taxing the Clergy. Soon after the planting of Chriſtianity in England, the Church, as has been obſerved, was largely endow'd, and the Eſtates of the Clergy cover'd in ſome Meaſure from the common Burthens. 'Tis true, in the Saxon Reigns they were charged with contributing towards Pontage, Murage, and Expedition: And the Conqueror afterwards put the Biſhops and Religious Houſes under Knights Service. This, notwithſtanding the Credit of the Tenure, was reckon'd a great Oppreſſion (n). However, this Impoſition affected but a few of the Rectories, or other Eccleſiaſtical Endowments of leſſer Value. No ſmall part of the Clergy being therefore exempt from publick Charges, farther Projects for making them more ſerviceable to the Government, were ſet on foot. Sometimes the Popes taxed the Church for the King's Uſe, and ſometimes upon an extraordinary Emergency, the Biſhops were prevail'd with to enjoin their Clergy the granting a Subſidy to the King, by way of Benevolence: And that their Property might not be encumber'd, they had Letters of Security from the Crown, to prevent this Aid being drawn into a Precedent againſt them. Theſe Contributions to the Publick, were commonly made at Dioceſan Synods. And here either their Biſhops, their Archdeacons, or other Proctors of their own chooſing, were empower'd for this purpoſe. Thus the Matter reſted till the Reign of King Edward the firſt. This Prince, after ſome other Experiments, fix'd at laſt, upon an Eſtabliſhment which has in ſome meaſure, been ever ſince continued. His Method was this: Having iſſued out his cuſtomary Writs for the Biſhops to come to the Parliament, he inſerted a new Clauſe in the Writs directed to theſe Prelates, which from the firſt Word, is call'd the Præmunientes Clauſe. It runs thus: The Biſhop is required to give Notice to the Prior, or Dean and Chapter of his Cathedral Church, to the Archdeacons and all the Clergy of his Dioceſe; that they, the ſaid Prior or Dean, and Archdeacons in their proper Perſons, the Chapter by one, and the Clergy by two well qualify'd Proxies ſufficiently empowered by the ſaid Chapter and Clergy; ſhould by all means, be preſent at the Parliament with him, to do and conſent to thoſe Things, which, by the Bleſſing of God, ſhall by their common Advice, happen to be ordain'd in the Affairs ſpecify'd: And the executing this Command, he was by no means to omit (o). The Deſign of this New Aſſembly, was to tranſact Matters of Civil Right, and grant Aids to the Crown, in the Name of the whole Body of the Clergy.

(o) Prynnes Regiſter pt. 1.

Whether the inferior Clergy ſate in the ſame Houſe with the Commons; how long they appeared in this Civil Capacity, and acted as Members of Parliament; and whether this Cuſtom was diſcontinued in the Reign of King Henry the Sixth, I ſhall not enquire. But let that be as it will, 'tis certain the Præmunientes Clauſe inſerted in the Biſhop's Writ, was kept on and executed *, and the Clergy gave Subſidies for their own Body, as before. The Proportion which every one was to pay, was aſſeſs'd by Eccleſiaſtical Commiſſioners, and the Money levy'd by Methods of their own Appointment. In caſe of Non-payment, the Cenſures of the Church were exerted: And if the Sheriff prov'd negligent in executing the Writ, de excommunicato capiendo, the Biſhops had Priſons in their reſpective Dioceſſes, to mortify thoſe who prov'd refractory. Beſides, we may reaſonably conclude, 'twas within the Juriſdiction of the Dioceſans, to ſequeſter the Profits of thoſe Incumbents, who refuſed to comply with the Aſſeſſment. Theſe Aids from the Reign of King Henry the Eighth downwards, are generally confirmed by Act of Parliament: And therefore from this Time, I ſuppoſe the Property of the Clergy came under the Compulſion of the Laws, and the Money might be levy'd by way of Diſtreſs. The Provincial Convocation of the Clergy is to be conſider'd under a Capacity diſtinct from that abovementioned, and met only for tranſacting Church Buſineſs. This Aſſembly was ſometimes conven'd by the Archbiſhop's Mandate, without any Authority from the King. Of this we have an Inſtance as late as Archbiſhop Warham, about the Beginning of the Reign of King Henry the Eighth (p). However, theſe two different Conventions grew by degrees, as it were, into one Body: The Provincial Writs, and the Præmunientes Clauſe, generally bringing the

the Clergy together at the ſame time. And to return more directly to the Matter in hand: It has all along been the Cuſtom for the Engliſh Clergy to tax themſelves. The Rebellion in the Reign of King Charles the Firſt, and the following Uſurpations, were the firſt that broke in upon this Privilege. For now the Diſſenting Miniſters, either out of voluntary Compliance, Affectation of Popularity, or becauſe they wanted Proxies to repreſent their Body, had their Benefices tax'd with the Laity, in the pretended Parliaments. But when the King returned, this ancient Right of the Church was reſtor'd with him: And thus the Matter continued for three Years. For inſtance, in the 15th Year of this Prince's Reign, the Clergies Grant of four Subſidies was confirm'd by Act of Parliament (q). But now, as it happen'd, ſome of the Biſhops and Clergy fell into Sentiments much different from thoſe of their Predeceſſors: They began to think this cuſtomary Method of taxing themſelves, ſomewhat burthenſome. They thought, 'tis poſſible, the Expectations of the Court might be ſet too high upon them this way; and that the Commons were often diſcontented, unleſs they overcharg'd themſelves, and ſwell'd their Subſidies beyond a reaſonable Proportion. How well theſe Jealouſies were founded, I ſhall not examine: But 'tis ſuppoſed, the being apprehenſive of ſuch Inconveniences, brought Archbiſhop Sheldon and ſome other leading Prelates, into a Concert with the Lord Chancellor Hide, the Lord Treaſurer, and ſome others of the Miniſtry. And now at a Conſultation it was concluded the Clergy ſhould ſilently wave the Cuſtom of taxing their own Body, and ſuffer themſelves to be included in the Money-Bills prepar'd by the Commons: And to encourage their Aſſent to this Ceſſion, two of their four Subſidies were to be remitted; and over and above, they had the Promiſe of a Clauſe for ſaving their ancient Rights. This Security was accordingly given, and a very clear comprehenſive Proviſo inſerted in the Statute for this purpoſe (r). The Act ſtands thus.

(q) 15 Car. 2. cap. 10.

(r) 16 & 17 Car. 2. cap. 1. Rot. Parl.

A full and expreſs Clauſe for reſerving their ancient Right.

> Provided always, and be it Enacted by the Authority aforeſaid, that all Spiritual Promotions, and all Lands, Poſſeſſions, or Revenues annexed to, and all Goods and Chattels growing, or renewed upon the ſame or elſewhere, appertaining to the Owners of the ſaid Spiritual Promotions, or any of them, which are or ſhall be charged, or made contributory to this Act towards the Payments aforeſaid, during the Time therein appointed (which was to be rais'd, levy'd, and paid in the Space of three Years) ſhall be abſolutely freed and diſcharged from the two laſt of the four Subſidies granted by the Clergy to his Majeſty, his Heirs and Succeſſors, by an Act made in a former Seſſion of this preſent Parliamevt, Entitled, A Act for confirming of four Subſidies granted by the Clergy, any Clauſe or Thing in the ſaid Act to the contrary notwithſtanding. —— Provided always, that nothing herein contained, ſhall be drawn into Example to the Prejudice of the ancient Rights belonging unto the Lord's Spiritual and Temporal, or Clergy of this Realm, or unto either of the ſaid Univerſities, or unto any Colleges, Schools, Alms-Houſes, Hoſpitals, or Cinque-Ports.

That the Clergy were Gainers by this Change, is more than appears; Were they allowed to elect ſome of their Function to repreſent them in the Houſe of Commons, the quitting their ancient Right would be more intelligible. But ſuch a Choice will not paſs the Committee of Elections. The conſenting therefore to be tax'd by the Temporal Commons, makes the Clergy more dependent on a foreign Body, takes away the Right of diſpoſing of their own Money, and lays their Eſtates in ſome meaſure at Diſcretion. And being in no Condition to give Subſidies, and Preſent the Crown, 'tis well if their Convocation Meetings are not ſometimes diſcontinued, if they do not ſink in their Significancy, lie by for want of a Royal Licenſe, and grow leſs regarded when their Grievances are offer'd. And here I cannot forbear ſaying, their having the Liberty of Polling for Parliament Men, ſeems ſhort of an Equivalent for the Privileges reſign'd. However, the Reader may ſee there is an expreſs Clauſe in the Act for reſerving their Right, and returning them to their former Circumſtances.

But if this ſhould be inſiſted on, 'tis a great Queſtion, in the Opinion of a late Hiſtorian, whether the Houſe of Commons would allow the ſaving Clauſe abovementioned (s). Does this learned Writer then ſuppoſe this extraordinary Uſage would be the Conſequence of ſuch a Claim? He grants the Clauſe for reſerving the Right to tax themſelves, is ſufficiently plain and explicit. Can he then imagine thoſe Gentlemen who repreſent the Commons, would ſtrain the Statute, and deny the Subject the Benefit of the Conſtitution? Or are the Clergy the only People that muſt claim no Advantage from the Laws? Muſt they fare the worſe on the ſcore of their Character, and ſuffer for their Commiſſion from Chriſt Jeſus? Does not ſuch a Suppoſition ſound harſhly, and imply ſomewhat of Reflection on a Chriſtian Legiſlature?

The Oxford Act againſt Conventicles.

To proceed: The Behaviour of the Nonconformiſts grew more unacceptable to the Government. It cannot be deny'd there was ſome Umbrage given for Jealouſy and Caution. Some Phanaticks took Service under the Dutch, againſt their own Prince and Country: For which they were attainted in the Oxford Parliament. And even ſome of the moderate Diſſenters diſcover'd a Diſinclination to a War with Holland. Farther, the Conventiclers in Scotland appear'd bold and mutinous, and were ſuppoſed to correſpond with ſome of that Party in England. Now to be better inform'd of the Numbers and Strength of theſe diſſenting and diſaffected People, Orders were ſent from the Archbiſhop of Canterbury to the Suffragans of his Province, "Requiring them punctually "to obſerve all the Canons and Rules con- "cerning Ordination, and that for the future "they yearly certify the Names of all ordain'd "by them, and that they forthwith make a Re- "turn of the Names and Degrees of all the "Benefic'd Clergy, and of Lecturers, School- "Maſters, Uſhers, and Practioners of Phyſick, "as likewiſe of all ejected Nonconformiſt Mi- "niſters with their Place of Abode and Man- "ner of Life. The Returns of the ſeveral Biſhops are ſtill remaining in Lambeth Library.

'Tis farther provided, That thoſe who were reſtrain'd from coming to any City, Town Corporate, &c. as aforeſaid, or any other Perſon who ſhall refuſe to take the Oath abovemention'd, and not frequent Divine Service at Church, ſhall not be allow'd to teach any publick or private School, or take any Boarders. An Act for the Union of Churches in Cities, &c.

Another Act paſs'd this Seſſion, for uniting Churches in Cities and Towns Corporate. I ſhall inſert the Preamble, which begins thus: Foraſmuch as the ſettled Proviſion for Miniſters in moſt Towns Corporate within this Realm, is not ſufficient for the Maintenance of able Miniſters fit for ſuch Places, whereby mean and ſtipendiary Preachers are entertain'd to ſerve the Cures there; who wholly depending upon the good will and liking of their Auditors, have been, and are hereby under Temptation of too much complying, and ſuiting their Doctrine, and teaching to the Humour, rather than good of their Auditors; which has been a great occaſion of Faction and Schiſm, and of the Contempt of the Miniſtry: The Lords and Commons in Parliament aſſembled, being deeply ſenſible of the evil Conſequences thereof, and piouſly deſiring able Miniſters in ſuch Places, and a competent Maintenance for them in the Union of Churches; which is alſo become neceſſary by Reaſon of the great Ruin of many Churches and Pariſhes in the late ill Times and otherwiſe. 'Tis therefore enacted, &c.

By this Statute, no Union was to be good, where the ſettled Maintenance exceeded an hundred Pounds per Annum clear. 'Tis likewiſe farther enacted, That all Proprietors of Tithes, or Owners of Impropriations may lawfully convey, annex, and unite the ſaid Tithes or any part of them to any Pariſh or Chappelry, within the Kingdom of England, or Dominion of Wales, where ſuch Tithes ſhall lye. They are likewiſe enabled to ſettle the ſame in Truſt for the Benefit of the ſaid Parſonage or Vicaridge, or of the Curate, where the Parſonage is impropriated, and no Vicar endow'd: And this Settlement they are allow'd to make without any Licenſe of Mortmain. And laſtly, 'tis lawful for the Parſons, Vicars, and Incumbents, to take, receive and purchaſe to themſelves and Succeſſours, Lands, Tenements, Rents, Tithes or other Hereditaments, without any Licenſe of Mortain (u).

When the King recover'd his Dominions, the Hierarchy of Ireland, reviv'd to their former Condition. To give the Church and Crown, a firmer Eſtabliſhment in that Kingdom, the Act for Uniformity paſs'd this Year. The Preamble of this Statute being ſomewhat remarkable, ſhall be tranſcrib'd: It ſtand thus.

The Subſtance of the Engliſh Act of Uniformity paſs'd in the Parliament at Dublin.

Whereas nothing conduceth more to the Honour of God, the ſetling the Peace of a Nation, which is deſired of all good Men, or to the Advancement of Religion than an univerſal Agreement in the publick Worſhip of Almighty God; and to the Intent that we his Majeſty's Subjects of this his Kingdom of Ireland, may in this Church of Ireland, hold the ſame Conformity of Common-Prayers, and Adminiſtration of the Sacraments and other the Rites and Ceremonies of the Church, according to the uſe of the Church of England: Together with the Pſalter or Pſalms of David, pointed as they are to be ſung or ſaid in Churches, and the Form, or Manner of Making, Ordaining, or Conſecrating of Biſhops, Prieſts and Deacons, which was recommended unto both Houſes of Convocation here Aſſembled in Ireland; to conſider whether the ſame Form of publick Worſhip might not be profitably received, as the publick Form of Divine Service in this your Majeſty's Kingdom of Ireland.

Whereupon both Houſes of Convocation did diligently conſider the ſame, and after mature conſideration, well weighing the great Advantages that muſt neceſſarily ariſe unto the whole Kingdom, from the Uniformity of publick Prayers did fully approve and allow the ſame.

The ſubſtance of the Act, being the ſame with that paſs'd in England, in the 14*th* Year of this Reign, ſhall be omitted (w).

The ſame Seſſion an Act paſs'd in the Parliament at Dublin, for diſabling Spiritual Perſons from holding Biſhopricks, Benefices, or Eccleſiaſtical Dignities in England and Ireland, at the ſame Time (x).

An Eſſay to accommodate the Difference between the Non-conformiſts of England.

Mr. Calamy in his Abridgment of Baxter's Life reports, that the Lord Keeper Bridgman, deſir'd to diſcourſe Dr. Manton and Baxter upon the Subject of a Comprehenſion and Toleration: At their waiting upon him, it was agreed to go firſt upon the Buſineſs of Comprehenſion: Dr. Wilkins, and one Mr. Burton, were conſulted upon this occaſion. The Point of Re-ordination ſtuck moſt between them: At laſt Sir Matthew Hale ſuggeſted a Temper to adjuſt the Difference. The Expedient was, That thoſe Non-conformiſts who had been Ordain'd before, ſhould be admitted into the Miniſtry of the Church of England with this Form. Take thou legal Authority to preach the Word of God, and Adminiſter the Holy Sacraments in any Congregation of England, where thou ſhalt be lawfully appointed thereunto. It was likewiſe agreed that Ceremonies ſhould be left indifferent, the Liturgy alter'd, and that thoſe who could not be comprehended, ſhould be Indulg'd: And for Security, to the Government, the Names of the Teachers and all the Members of the Congregation, were to be Regiſter'd: A Bill was accordingly drawn by the Chief-Juſtice Hales, againſt the enſuing Parliament: But when the Houſes ſat the Epiſcopal Party cruſh'd the Deſign, and carry'd a Vote againſt bringing in a Bill of this nature (y).

A. D. 1669.

In September the next Year, the Diſſenters were inform'd that a publick Acknowledgment of the Clemency of his Majeſty's Government, and the Liberty enjoy'd under it, would be an acceptable Application. Upon this an Addreſs was preſented by Dr. Manton, Dr. Bates, Dr. Jacomb, and Mr. Imeſs. The King receiv'd them graciouſly in the Earl of Arlington's Apartments, and promis'd to do his utmoſt to get them comprehended within the publick Eſtabliſhment.

Id. p 589.

This Year at the Parliament at Edinborough, the Aſſertory Act of the King's Spiritual Supremacy was made. 'Tis pen'd in ſtrong comprehenſive Language: The Words are theſe.

The Aſſertory Act of the Parliament at Edinborough. Novemb. 1669.

His Majeſty, with Advice and Conſent of his Eſtates of Parliament, doth hereby enact, aſſert and declare, that his Majeſty hath the Supreme Authority and Supremacy over all Perſons, and in all Cauſes Eccleſiaſtical within his Kingdom; and that by Virtue thereof, the ordering and diſpoſal of the external Government, and Policy of the Church doth properly belong to his Majeſty and his Succeſſours, as an inherent Right to the Crown: And that his Majeſty and his Succeſſours may ſettle, enact and emit ſuch Conſtitutions, Acts and Orders, concerning the Adminiſtration of the external Government of the Church, and the Perſons imploy'd in the ſame; and concerning all Eccleſiaſtical Meetings, and Matters to be propoſed and determined therein, as they in their Royal Wiſdom ſhall think fit (z).

The Archbiſhop of Glaſcow turn'd out by this Act, and Reſtor'd.

By Virtue of this Act (whether ſtrain'd or not I ſha'n't examine) Burnet Archbiſhop of Glaſcow was diſpoſſeſs'd of his See; and Dr. Leighton put in his Place: This remove was made by the High-Commiſſioner Lauderdail: However, the Court being ſenſible this was puſhing the Regale to an unuſual extent; gave Leighton only the Title of Commendator of Glaſcow, till Archbiſhop Burnet was prevail'd with to ſign a Reſignation. But this being look'd on as an involuntary Ceſſion, the Scottiſh Biſhops were ſhock'd at it. The Archbiſhop of Canterbury likewiſe and the Engliſh Prelates thought the common Intereſt of their Order affected, and that the Epiſcopal Authority was ſtruck at in the Glaſcow Precedent.

In ſhort, They ſollicited ſo heartily in the Cauſe, and repreſented the Buſineſs in ſo perſuaſive a Manner to the King; that his Majeſty revok'd his Proceedings, and Archbiſhop Burnet was reſtor'd.

An Act againſt thoſe who aſſaulted the Clergy.

The next Seſſions an Act paſs'd againſt Invaders of Miniſters, as the Title runs. And here 'tis enacted and declar'd, That whatſoever Perſon or Perſons ſhould be found guilty of the aſſaulting the Lives of Miniſters, or robbing their Houſes, or actually attempting the ſame, ſhall be puniſh'd with the pain of Death, and the Confiſcation of their Goods (a). How well this Act has been ſince regarded, the Period of my Hiſtory will not give me leave to enquire.

To return to England: In the Parliament at Weſtminſter, an Act paſs'd for preventing and ſuppreſſing Seditious Conventicles: "By this Statute if any Perſon upwards of Sixteen ſhould "be preſent at any Aſſembly, Conventicle or "Meeting, under Colour or Pretence of any "exerciſe of Religion, in any other Manner "than according to the Liturgy and Practice "of the Church of England, where there was "five Perſons or more beſides thoſe of the "ſaid Houſhold; or if they met in the Fields, "where there were five Perſons met for the "Purpoſes above-mention'd; in ſuch Caſes "the Offenders were to be fined five Shillings "for the firſt Offence, and ten Shillings for "the ſecond. And the Preachers and Teachers in any ſuch Meetings were to forfeit "twenty Pounds for the firſt, and forty for "the ſecond Offence. And laſtly, thoſe who "knowingly ſuffer'd any ſuch Conventicle in "their Houſes, Barns, Yards, &c. were to "forfeit twenty Pounds *.

An Act for ſuppreſſing ſeditious Conventicles.

Promotions in the Church.

To ſay ſomething concerning Promotions in the Church: The Honourable Nathanael Crew, Son to the Lord Crew, and Clerk of the Cloſet to his Majeſty, Biſhop elect of Oxon; and Dr. Thomas Wood, late Dean of Litchfield, Biſhop elect of Coventry and Litchfield, were on Sunday July the ſecond, ſolemnly Conſecrated in the Chapel at Lambeth by the Lord Archbiſhop of Canterbury; aſſiſted by the Biſhops of London, Ely, Lincoln, Worceſter and Rocheſter. On Sunday October 1. Dr. Henry Bridgeman Dean of Cheſter, was, in the Cathedral of that City, Conſecrated Biſhop of Man by the Biſhop of Cheſter, deputed for that Purpoſe by Stern Archbiſhop of York; the Biſhops of St. Aſaph, Bangor and Clougher, aſſiſting at the Solemnity: On February the 12th following, John Coſens, Lord Biſhop of Durham, remarkably eminent for his Loyalty and Learning, departed this Life.

Beſide his Devotions already mention'd; he wrote a Scholaſtical Hiſtory of the Canon of the Scriptures. This Tract written at Paris, is a very learned and ſolid Juſtification of the Church of England, as to this Branch of the Controverſy. The extending the Canon by the Council of Trent, being ſufficiently diſprov'd from the Fathers and Catholick Tradition. After the See of Durham had been kept vacant ſome Time, Crew Lord Biſhop of Oxon was tranſlated thither.

When the War broke out a ſecond Time between England and Holland, the King, who ſeem'd inclin'd to favour the Diſſenters, thought this a proper Juncture to quiet the Minds of his Subjects, and ſet them at eaſe in Matters of Religion. To this purpoſe, by the Advice of his Privy Council, he publiſh'd the Declaration following.

The King's Declaration for an Indulgence.

CHARLES REX,

——"Our Care and Endeavours for the "Preſervation of the Rights and Intereſt of "the Church, have been ſufficiently manifeſted to the World by the whole Courſe "of our Government ſince our happy Reſtoration, and by the many and frequent ways "of Coercion that we have uſed for reducing "all erring or diſſenting Perſons, and for compoſing the unhappy Differences in Matters "of Religion, which we found among our "Subjects upon our Return; but it being "evident, by the ſad Experience of twelve "Years, “ Years, that there is very little Fruit of all thoſe forcible Courſes, we think our ſelf obliged to make uſe of that ſupreme Power in Eccleſiaſtical Matters, which is not only inherent in us, but hath been declared and recognized to be ſo by ſeveral Statutes and Acts of Parliament: And therefore we do now accordingly iſſue this our Declaration, as well for the quieting the Minds of our good Subjects in theſe Points, for inviting Strangers in this Conjuncture to come and live under us, and for the better Encouragement of all to a chearful following of their Trade and Callings, from whence we hope, by the Bleſſing of God, to have many good and happy Advantages to our Government; as alſo for preventing, for the future, the Danger that might otherwiſe ariſe from private Meetings and ſeditious Conventicles.

“ And in the firſt place, We declare our expreſs Reſolution, Meaning and Intention to be, That the Church of England be preſerved and remain entire in its Doctrine, Diſcipline, and Government, as now it ſtands eſtabliſh'd by Law; and that this be taken to be, as it is, the Baſis, Rule, and Standard of the general and publick Worſhip of God, and that the Orthodox conformable Clergy do receive and enjoy the Revenues belonging thereunto; and that no Perſon, tho' of a different Opinion and Perſuaſion, ſhall be exempt from paying his Tithes, or other Dues whatſoever. And farther we declare, That no Perſon ſhall be capable of holding any Benefice, Living, or Eccleſiaſtical Dignity or Preferment of any kind in this our Kingdom of England, who is not exactly conformable.

“ We do in the next place, declare our Will and Pleaſure to be, That the Execution of all and all manner of Penal Laws in Matters Eccleſiaſtical, againſt whatſoever ſort of Nonconformiſts or Recuſants, be immediately ſuſpended; and they are hereby ſuſpended. And all Judges, Judges of Aſſize, and Goal-Delivery, Sheriffs, Juſtices of the Peace, Mayors, Bailiffs, and other Officers whatſoever, whether Eccleſiaſtical or Civil, are to take notice of it, and pay due Obedience thereunto.

“ And that there may be no Pretence for any of our Subjects to continue their illegal Meetings and Conventicles, we do declare, That we ſhall from time to time allow a ſufficient Number of Places, as they ſhall be deſired, in all Parts of this our Kingdom, for the Uſe of ſuch as do not conform to the Church of England, to meet and aſſemble in, in order to their publick Worſhip and Devotion; which Places ſhall be open and free to all Perſons.

“ But to prevent ſuch Diſorders and Inconveniences as may happen by this our Indulgence, if not duly regulated, and that they may be the better protected by the Civil Magiſtrate, our expreſs Will and Pleaſure is, That none of our Subjects do preſume to meet in any Place until ſuch Places be allow'd, and the Teacher of that Congregation be approved by us.

“ And leſt any ſhould apprehend, that this Reſtriction ſhould make our ſaid Allowance and Approbation difficult to be obtain'd, we do farther declare, That this our Indulgence, as to the Allowance of the publick Places of Worſhip, and Approbation of the Preachers, ſhall extend to all ſorts of Nonconformiſts and Recuſants, except the Recuſants, of the Roman Catholick Religion, to whom we ſhall in no wiſe allow publick Places of Worſhip, but only indulge them their Share in the common Exemption from the Execution of the Penal Laws, and the Exerciſe of their Worſhip in their private Houſes only.

“ And if, after this our Clemency and Indulgence, any of our Subjects ſhall preſume to abuſe this Liberty, and ſhall preach ſeditiouſly, or to the Derogation of the Doctrine, Diſcipline, or Government of the eſtabliſh'd Church, or ſhall meet in Places not allow'd by us; we do hereby give them warning, and declare, we will proceed againſt them with all imaginable Severity: And we will let them ſee, we can be as ſevere to puniſh ſuch Offenders, when ſo juſtly provok'd, as we are indulgent to truly tender Conſciences.

Given at our Court at Whitehall this 15*th Day of* March, in the Four and Twentieth Year of our Reign.

February 4, 1672-3.

The next Seſſion of Parliament, the King in his Speech to both Houſes, acquainted them, he had granted an Indulgence, and was reſolv'd to ſtand by it. The Lord Chancellour Shaftsbury dilated upon what his Majeſty had deliver'd. 'Twas in this Speech that he apply'd that remarkable Sentence, Delenda eſt Carthago, to the Hollanders: And endeavour'd to prove a Competition for Intereſt and Trade, between England and the United Provinces: And that the Dutch would always be Enemies to his Majeſty's Kingdoms, upon this Principle.

The Commons remonſtrating againſt it, 'tis recall'd.

The Commons being apprehenſive the diſpenſing Power might make the Scale too heavy on the Crown ſide, remonſtrated againſt it: And in their Addreſs acquainted his Majeſty, that conſidering his Declaration of Indulgence, they found themſelves bound in Duty to inform him, that Penal Statutes in Matters Eccleſiaſtical, cannot be ſuſpended but by Act of Parliament. The King in his Anſwer endeavour'd to prevail with them to ſolicit no farther, but drop the Motion. But the Houſe not being ſatisfy'd with what his Majeſty had offer'd, repeated their Application, and argued againſt the Legality of diſpenſing to ſuch Compaſs and Latitude. In ſhort, they preſs'd the Complaint with ſo much Vigour, that his Majeſty found himſelf oblig'd to comply: And thus the Indulgence was recall'd, and taken off the File.

Soon after this Addreſs, the Commons reſolv'd, Nemine Contradicente, That a Bill be brought in for the Eaſe of his Majeſty's Subjects, who are Diſſenters in Matters of Religion from the Church of England. This Bill paſs'd the lower Houſe, but was thrown out by the Lords.

A Scotch Act of Parliament againſt unlawful Ordinations.

To go back a little to the Parliament at Edinbourgh; where an Act paſs'd againſt unlawful Ordinations. The Statute ordains, That no Perſon or Perſons whatſoever preſume to appoint or ordain any Perſon to the Office and Work of the Miniſtry, except thoſe who have Authority approved by the Laws of the Kingdom for that Effect; and that no Perſon take Ordination from any but ſuch as are thus lawfully authorized to give the ſame: Declaring hereby all pretended Ordinations of any Perſons ſince the Year 1661. which have not been, or hereafter ſhall not be according to the Appointment of the Law, to be null and invalid (b). By the way, the Reader may obſerve, John Duke of Lauderdale was High Commiſſioner of Scotland during the firſt, ſecond, third and fourth Seſſions of this ſecond Parliament.

Another Statute in this Seſſion ſets forth, "That upon the 13th of Auguſt 1670. an Act had been made againſt Conventicles: And that upon the 20th of the ſaid Month in the Year aforeſaid, another Act paſs'd againſt Separation, and withdrawing from the publick Meetings for Divine Worſhip. Theſe Acts being only temporary Proviſions for three Years, (excepting his Majeſty ſhould think fit to prolong the Term) "They are now continued three Years forward, and as much longer as his Majeſty ſhall pleaſe to appoint. 'Tis likewiſe farther enacted, That no outed Miniſter, not licens'd by his Majeſty's Council, nor other Perſon not authoriz'd nor tolerate by the Biſhop of the Dioceſe preſume to preach, expound Scripture, or pray in any Meeting, excepting in their own Houſes, and to thoſe of their own Family: But in the next Clauſe the Statute is explain'd to a Senſe of Relaxation, and gives leave for four Perſons to be preſent beſides thoſe of the Family (c).

The Sacramental Teſt enacted.

At Weſtminſter this Seſſion of Parliament, the Sacramental Teſt was enacted: 'Tis entitl'd, An Act to prevent Dangers which may happen from Popiſh Recuſants. By this Statute all Perſons in Office, Civil or Military, are oblig'd to take the Oaths of Allegiance and Supremacy, and to receive the Sacrament of the Lord's-Supper, according to the Uſage of the Church of England, in ſome Pariſh Church, upon ſome Lord's-Day. Such Perſons are likewiſe required to ſubſcribe the following Declaration.

I A. B. do declare, that I do believe that there is not any Tranſubſtantiation in the Sacrament of the Lord's-Supper, or in the Elements of Bread and Wine, at, or after the Conſecration thereof by any Perſon whatſoever. The Forfeiture of breaking thro' the Act, beſides a Diſability of proſecuting any Suit, or acting in the Capacity of other Subjects in ſeveral Reſpects, is Five Hundred Pounds. There are however, ſome ſaving Proviſo's which need not be mentioned (d). Upon the paſſing this Act, the Duke of York, who was High Admiral of England, and the Lord Treaſurer Clifford, laid down their Places. This Year a reconciling Motion between the Church and Nonconformiſts, was ſuggeſted by the Earl of Orrery, who deſired Baxter to draw up the Terms. Baxter gave in Propoſals for this Purpoſe, which being much the ſame with thoſe offer'd by the Presbyterians at the Savoy-Conference, need not be repeated. The Earl of Orrery, ſome time after his receiving Baxter's Propoſals, return'd them with Biſhop Morley's Animadverſions. In ſhort, both ſides keeping at the uſual Diſtance, the Buſineſs came to nothing (e).

When the next Seſſion of Parliament drew near, Biſhop Morley and Biſhop Ward are reported inclin'd to Abatements, and taking the Nonconformiſts by the Hand. Upon this Encouragement, 'tis probable, Dr. Tillotſon and Dr. Stillingfleet deſired a Meeting with Dr. Manton, and Dr. Bates, with Pool and Baxter, in order to adjuſt an Accommodation: And 'twas pretended there were ſeveral Lords Spiritual and Temporal in the ſame Sentiment. Baxter is ſaid to have met only Tillotſon and Stillingfleet at firſt. And here, after ſeveral Schemes diſlik'd, they fix'd upon one they agreed to. This was communicated to the Nonconformiſts, and approv'd by them. But when the Biſhops peruſed the Draught, they could by no means aſſent to the Conceſſions. When the Treaty broke off, Tillotſon in a Letter to Baxter, acquainted him, That as Circumſtances ſtood, ſuch an Act (as it ſeems the Nonconformiſts mov'd for) could not paſs in either Houſe, without the Concurrence of a conſiderable Part of the Biſhops, and his Majeſty's Countenance, which at preſent he ſaw little Reaſon to expect. The Terms of Union were little different from thoſe abovementioned to the Earl of Orrery.

Not long after, Biſhop Henchman departing this Life, the honourable Henry Compton D. D. Son to the loyal and brave Earl of Northampton, was tranſlated from Oxon to London: And upon the Vacancy of the See of Oxon, the learned Dr. Fell Dean of Chriſt-Chriſt, was conſecrated for that Dioceſs. The next Year Anthony Sparrow Biſhop of Exeter was tranſlated from thence to Norwich, and Dr. Thomas Lamplugh, Dean of Rocheſter, preferr'd to the Biſhoprick of Exeter.

At the Seſſion of Parliament, the Year following, an Act paſs'd for confirming and perpetuating Augmentations made by Eccleſiaſtical Perſons to ſmall Vicaridges and Curacies. Theſe Augmentations, as the Reader may remember, were granted by the Biſhops and dignify'd Clergy, ſoon after the Reſtoration. 'Tis provided, That no future Augmentations ſhall be confirmed by vertue of this Act, which ſhall exceed one Moiety of the clear yearly Value above all Reprizes of the Rectory impropriate, out of which the ſame ſhall be granted or reſerved (f).

Oats his Narrative of the Popiſh Plot.

The next thing which occurs is Titus Oates's Narrative of a Plot carry'd on by the Jeſuits, and other Roman Catholicks, againſt his Majeſty's Life, the Proteſtant Religion, and the Government of this Kingdom. This Oates had received Orders in the Church of England, and officiated as a Curate in Kent. He was afterwards reconciled to the Church of Rome and enter'd in the College of St. Omers. And thus, as he reports, coming to a cloſe Correſpondence with Jeſuits and Prieſts, he was let into the Deſign diſcover'd by him. To confirm his Teſtimony, he referr'd himſelf to Letters and Papers in the Cuſtody of Coleman then Secretary to the Duke of York. Theſe Letters were afterwards ſeiz'd and publiſh'd. As to the Contents 'tis ſomewhat foreign to this Work: But touching the main and blackeſt Part of the Plot, I ſhall give the Reader the Judgment of an Author who ſeems by no means inclin'd to blanch, or extenuate Matters of this kind. "What Superſtructure, ſays he, might have been afterwards built upon an unqueſtionable Foundation, (meaning Coleman's Letters) and how far ſome of the Witneſſes of that Plot might come to darken Truth by ſubſequent Additions of their own, muſt be deferr'd till the Great Account to be made before a Higher Tribunal: And till then, a great Part of the Popiſh Plot, as it was then ſworn to, will in all humane Probability, lie among the darkeſt Scenes of our Engliſh Hiſtory (i).

An Act for diſabling Papiſts from ſitting in either Houſe of Parliament.

The two Houſes now under Apprehenſions of the Increaſe of Popery, and the Danger which might ariſe from that Quarter, paſs'd a Bill, which was ſign'd by the King, for the more effectual preſerving the King's Perſon and Government, by diſabling Papiſts from ſitting in either Houſe of Parliament. "I *A. The Long Parliament diſſolved.

On the 24th of January, the Long-Parliament which had ſate 17 Years, was diſſolv'd, and another ſummon'd to meet at Weſtminſter on the 6th of March following. The Convocation for the Province of Canterbury, met on the third of April, but did no Buſineſs.

May 3. Abp. Sharp aſſaſſinated.

In May following, James Sharp Arhbiſhop of St. Andrews, was murthered by nine Cameronian Aſſaſſines. Theſe Wretches aſſaulted him on the Road in his Coach; firſt wounded ſome of his Retinue and his Daughter, and then gave him two and twenty Wounds with Sword and Piſtol. He was a Prelate of great Natural Parts, well improv'd with Books and Buſineſs. He had a Share in retrieving the Scottiſh Church and Government; and did his Part towards the reſtoring Epiſcopacy and the Royal Family.

In England, the new Parliament being diſſolved this Summer, another was ſummon'd to meet at Weſtminſter on the 17th of October, but was by ſeveral Prorogations continued till the 21ſt of October 1680. From this time the Seſſion held till the 10th of January following, and then being prorogu'd to the 20th of the ſame Month, the Houſes were diſſolv'd. The next Day after the Meeting of the Parliament, both the Convocations were aſſembled, and continued to the 21ſt of January, but nothing of Buſineſs was done by either of them.

A. D. 1680.

The Convocation does no Buſineſs during the two enſuing Parliaments.

This Year the Lord Biſhop of London, in hopes to recover the Diſſenters to the Communion of the Church, wrote to Monſieur Le Moyne Profeſſor in Divinity at Leyden, to Monſieur L'Angle Preacher to the Reform'd Church at Charenton near Paris, and to Monſieur Claude another learned French Divine, who had ſignaliz'd himſelf againſt Monſieur Arnauld's Perpetuity of the Faith. The Deſign of his Lordſhip's Letters was, to receive the Judgment of theſe Divines upon the Controverſie between the Nonconformiſts and the Church of England.

Part of Mr. Le Moyne's Letter to the Lord Biſhop of London, touching the Nonconformiſts.

I ſhall give the Reader Part of their Anſwers ſent to the Biſhop upon this Head. To begin: Monſieur Le Moyne ſpeaking of Epiſcopal Government, declares himſelf thus: "What is there in it that is dangerous, or may reaſonably give an Alarm to any Man's Conſcience? If ſuch a Form of ſpiritual Adminiſtration is capable of depriving us of eternal Happineſs, or ſhutting up the Paſſages to Heaven, who could poſſibly get thither for more than fifteen hundred Years together? For during this whole Time, no Churches in the World have been under any other Government. If Epiſcopacy was thus deſtructive of Truth and future Happineſs, is it imaginable that God would have given it ſuch Marks of open Approbation, and ſuffer'd his Church to be thus tyrannically oppreſs'd for ſo many Centuries? For who have all along govern'd this ſpiritual Society? Who have been the Members both of General, Provincial, and Dioceſan Councils? Who are they that have combated the Hereſies with which the Church has been diſturb'd thro' every Age? Were not theſe Fathers the Biſhops? And has it not been the Effect of their prudent Conduct, next under God, that the Word of God has made its way againſt all Oppoſition, and that Truth has triumph'd over Error? And without tracing the Hiſtory of the Church to its Beginning; Who was it that recover'd England in the laſt Century from the Miſperſuaſions they lay under? Who was it that reviv'd primitive Belief in ſo wonderful a manner? Was not all this compaſſed by the Miniſtry, the Zeal, and Reſolution of the Biſhops? After a great deal more to this purpoſe, he takes notice that all the Proteſtants of France, thoſe of Geneva, thoſe of Switzerland, Germany and Holland, have a profound Veneration for the Church of England. How comes it to paſs then, that the Engliſh ſhould be thus ſingular in their Conduct, thus unhappy in their Belief, as to break with them? Is not this plainly coming to a Rupture with all the Churches of Antiquity, with all the Eaſtern Churches, with all the Proteſtant Churches, who have always had a great Regard for the Engliſh Communion, upon the ſcore of the Purity of her Doctrine and Conſtitution? Is it not a ſtrange degree of Severity and Aſſurance, to excommunicate her without Mercy, and to imagine themſelves the only Perſons in England, or indeed in the whole Chriſtian World, that are predeſtinated to eternal Happineſs, and maintain thoſe Truths that are neceſſary to Salvation? Certainly one might draw a very diſadvantageous Parallel between theſe Teachers and Pope Victor, who would needs excommunicate the Aſian Churches, becauſe they would not keep the Eaſter Feſtival upon the ſame Day it was obſerv'd at Rome: The Compariſon might be carry'd farther between theſe Miniſters and the Audeans, who went off from the Communion of the Church, and would not endure the Biſhops ſhould be any thing wealthy: Between them and the Donatiſts, who would maintain no Spiritual Correſpondence with thoſe who had been ordain'd by Biſhops that had been Traditors; the Donatiſts, I ſay, who fancied their Society the only true Church, and that the Spouſe in Canticles fed his Flock in the South.

Mr. De L'Angle's Letter upon the ſame Subject. Octob. 31.

To take leave of Monſieur Le Moyne, who has ſufficiently diſcover'd his Opinion in what has been recited already. Monſieur De L'Angle ſhall be the next. After ſome introductive Lines of Ceremony, he comes cloſe to the Queſtion, and argues upon the following Acknowledgement: "Since, ſays he, the Church of England is a true Church, ſince her Worſhip and Doctrines are pure, and have nothing in them contrary to the Word of God; and ſince at the Engliſh Reformation, Epiſcopacy, the Liturgy, and Ceremonies now us'd, were jointly eſtabliſh'd at the ſame time; 'tis without doubt, the Duty of all the Reformed of that Kingdom, to keep themſelves inſeparably united to your Church. And thoſe who decline ſuch Conformity, upon pretence they muſt inſiſt upon more plain and unornamented Ceremonies, and have leſs Inequality amongſt the Miniſters, are undoubtedly guilty of a great Sin. For Schiſm is the moſt terrible Evil can poſſibly happen to the Church.

After this, he cites the Authorities of Calvin and Beza, in Approbation of the Engliſh Epiſcopacy (k). In the cloſe of the Letter, Monſieur De L'Angle acquaints his Lordſhip, Mr. Claude is entirely of the ſame Opinion. However, it may not be amiſs to let this laſt Divine ſpeak a little for himſelf.

To paſs over ſome of his Letter more remote from the Controverſie in hand, I ſhall begin with that part of it in which he delivers his Judgment concerning the Independents: "I could wiſh with all my Soul, ſaith he, that thoſe who fly out ſo far, as to think of nothing leſs than coming to an abſolute Rupture, and throwing off all Dependence and Subordination, in order to give every particular Congregation a ſort of Sovereign Government: I could wiſh theſe People wou'd thoroughly conſider, whether their Scheme is not a direct Contradiction to the Spirit of Chriſtianity, which is a Spirit of Union and ſocial Correſpondence, and not of Diviſion. That they would conſider, that tho' the Principle of the Reformed Churches will by no means ſuffer Men ſhould have Dominion over their Faith, and govern the Conſcience at Diſcretion; and that ſuch arbitrary and implicit Methods are deſtructive to Religion: That notwithſtanding this, it does by no means follow, that 'tis lawful for Chriſtians to take Check at Diſcipline, to throw off the Yoke of Government, and deprive themſelves of thoſe Aſſiſtances which are the Conſequences of general Union; and that ſuch a Subordination in the Parts of this Spiritual Society, is very ſerviceable to ſecure orthodox Belief, and regular Practice. And laſtly, I deſire they would conſider, that the ſame Reaſon which makes them inſiſt upon the Independence of one Congregation upon another, will carry them much farther than they deſire, and may be made uſe of to break the Union of particular Congregations, and make every ſingle Perſon independent of each other. For one Congregation has no more Right to claim an Independency of other Congregations, than one ſingle Perſon has to ſet up himſelf independent of others in the ſame Congregation. This Principle therefore muſt of neceſſity deſtroy all Diſcipline, throw the Church as far as in us lies, into a horrible Confuſion, and expoſe the Heritage of our Lord to the Reproach of the Adverſaries.

Novem. 29. Stylo novo. 1680. Monſieur Claude's Letter upon the ſame Argument.

"As for thoſe amongſt you, continues Monſieur Claude, who are call'd Presbyterians, tho' I perſuade my ſelf, they are not unfurniſh'd with Knowledge, Judgment and Zeal, yet I could wiſh with all my Heart, they had ſhewn more Temper in reſenting the Scandal, they fancy has formerly been given them by the Biſhops, and that they had diſtinguiſh'd the Order, from the Men. Perſons in publick Stations are not only liable to Miſcarriage, but it may happen that the moſt holy and conſiderable Functions, are ſometimes manag'd by ill People; and in this Caſe both Reaſon and Religion will tell us, that the Miniſter and the Employment ought not to be intermixt and thrown together. And ſince at preſent, by the Bleſſing of God, there is no ſuch Pretence for Diſguſt, and that my Lords the Biſhops are remarkable for their Piety, their Zeal, and Conſtancy to their Religion; I hope the Advantage of their Example will have a good Effect upon the Generality, compoſe the Minds of thoſe formerly diſaffected, and ſweeten their Diſpoſition. Beſides, the Diſſenters ſhould pleaſe to conſider, that if the Epiſcopal Government is attended with ſome troubleſome Inconveniences, as I do not queſtion but it may be; ſo on the other ſide, the Presbyterian Conſtitution is not without very great Diſadvantages. No Order, or Function, where mortal Men have the Manage“ment of it, is exempt from Inconveniences. Equality amongſt the Miniſtry, is ſubject to Blemiſhes and Exceſſes, no leſs than Superiority. The ſafeſt and moſt prudent Conduct therefore, is not to run from one Settlement to another, nor to hazard the ſhaking the whole Frame in hopes of a better Conſtitution, tho' we had both Authority and Power to make ſuch an Experiment. Prudence, Juſtice, and Chriſtian Charity, will by no means give us leave to puſh the Point thus far, and venture on ſuch dangerous Extremities, only for a different Form of Government. The beſt Expedient is to endeavour the drawing towards a Temper, and leſſen, as much as may be, the Inconveniences we are afraid of, and not to have Recourſe to violent Remedies. My Lord, I make no ſcruple to call the ſetting up private Meetings, declining the publick Congregations, and withdrawing themſelves from your Lordſhip's Government, violent Remedies. Such Practice is apparently no better than a formal Schiſm; a Crime in its own Nature hateful to God and Men, and for which, both thoſe, who ſet it up, and encourage it, muſt expect to give an Account at the Great Day (l). The Remainder is too long to be inſerted. From what has been already recited, 'tis plain theſe three celebrated Divines have juſtify'd the Communion of the Church of England, and given the Cauſe againſt the Diſſenters.

March 21. 1680-1.

In the latter end of this Year the Parliament was ſummon'd to Oxon, and diſſolv'd after one Week's ſitting: The Convocation was order'd to meet at St. Paul's London, March 22d, but was firſt prorogu'd, and afterwards diſſolv'd without doing any Buſineſs.

This Summer a Parliament was held at Edinborough, his Royal Highneſs the Duke of York being High-Commiſſioner. The firſt Act relates to Religion, and ſtands thus.

Our Sovereign Lord, with the Advice and Conſent of the Eſtates of Parliament, ratifies and approves all and whatſoever Laws, Acts and Statutes, made by his Royal Grandfather and Father of Bleſſed Memory, or made and paſt in any of his Majeſty's former Parliaments; for ſettling and ſecuring the Liberty and Freedom of the true Kirk of God, and the Proteſtant Religion, preſently profeſs'd within this Realm, and all Acts made againſt Popery, and Ordains the ſame to ſtand in full Force and Effect, and to be put in execution according to the Tenour and Purport of theſe Acts, as if they were ſpecially mention'd and ſet down herein (m).

The Scotch Teſt.

This Seſſion a Teſt was enacted for the farther ſecurity of the eſtabliſh'd Religion, and Government. This ſolemn Engagement was to be ſworn by all Perſons in publick Truſt, in the Church, in the State, and the Army. And here to ſay ſomewhat more particularly, the National Covenant and the Solemn League and Covenant are renounc'd: The endeavouring any Alteration either in Church or State, is diſclaim'd: The Defence of the Crown as fully engag'd for, and the Doctrine of Non-Reſiſtance as ſtrongly aſſerted, as can well be expreſs'd (n).

The Power and Juriſdiction of the Church own'd by the State to continue the ſame 'twas formerly during the three firſt Centuries under Heathen Princes.

Thoſe who refuſe to ſwear purſuant to the Tenour of this Act, are declar'd incapable of all Offices and publick Truſt, both in Church and State: And were to be puniſh'd over and above with the loſs of their Moveables, and Life rent eſcheat. But notwithſtanding the heavy Penalties of this Statute, the Teſt was generally refuſ'd by the Scottiſh Biſhops and Clergy, till 'twas explain'd to an inoffenſive Senſe by the King and Council, and the inherent Rights of the Church expreſly guarded and reſerv'd. This being a Matter of conſiderable Moment, and much to the Commendation of the Scottiſh Hierarchy, the Reader ſhall have the publick Inſtruments of this Proceſs inſerted at large.

An Act of Council explanatory of the Teſt, Edinborough the third Day of November. 1681.

“Foraſmuch as ſome have entertain'd Jealouſies, and Prejudices, againſt the Oath and Teſt appointed to be taken by all Perſons in publick Truſt, Civil, Eccleſiaſtick or Military in this Kingdom, by the ſixth Act of his Majeſty's third Parliament, as if thereby they were to ſwear to every Propoſition, or Clauſe in the Confeſſion of Faith therein mention'd; or that Invaſion were made thereby upon the Intrinſick Spiritual Power of the Church, or Power of the Keys; or as if the preſent Epiſcopal Government of this National Church, by Law Eſtabliſh'd, were thereby expos'd to the hazard of Alteration, or Subverſion; all which are far from the Intention and Deſign of the Parliament's impoſing this Oath, and from the genuine Senſe and Meaning thereof: Therefore his Royal Highneſs, his Majeſty's High-Commiſſioner, and the Lords of Privy-Council do allow, authorize, and impower the Archbiſhops, and Biſhops, to adminiſter this Oath and Teſt to the Miniſters and Clergy in their reſpective Dioceſſes in this expreſs Senſe; that though the Confeſſion of Faith, ratify'd in Parliament, one thouſand five hundred ſixty and ſeven, was fram'd in the Infancy of our Reformation, and deſerves it's due Praiſes; yet by the Teſt we do not ſwear to every Propoſition, or Clauſe therein contain'd; but only to the true Proteſtant Religion, founded on the word of God, contain'd in that Confeſſion, as it is oppos'd to Popery, and Phanaticiſm.

“Secondly, That by the Teſt, or any Clauſe therein contain'd, no Invaſion, or Encroachment, is made, or intended upon the Intrinſick Spiritual Power of the Church, or Power of the Keys, as it was exerciſed by the Apoſtles, and the moſt pure and primitive Church, in the firſt three Centuries after Chriſt, and which is ſtill reſerv'd intirely to the Church.

“Thirdly, That the Oath and Teſt is without any prejudice to the Epiſcopal Government of this National Church; which is declar'd by the firſt Act of the ſecond Seſſion of his Majeſty's firſt Parliament, to be moſt agreeable to the word of God, and moſt ſuitable to Monarchy, and which upon all occaſions, his Majeſty has declar'd he will inviolably, and unalterably preſerve; and appoints the Archbiſhops, and Biſhops to require the Miniſters in their reſpective Dioceſſes, with the firſt Conveniency, to obey the Law, in ſwearing and ſubſcribing the aforeſaid Oath and Teſt, with certification; that the Refuſers ſhall be eſteem'd Perſons diſaffected to the Proteſtant Religion, and to his Majeſty's Government, and that the Puniſhment appointed by the aforeſaid Sixth Act of his Majeſty's third Parliament, ſhall

Charles Rex.

“ Moſt dear, and moſt intirely belov'd Brother; right truſty and well belov'd Couſins, and Councellours, right truſty and well beloved Councellours, and truſty and well beloved Councellours, we greet you well: Whereas by one of your Letters directed unto us, bearing date the 8th Inſtant, we do find that ſome having entertain'd Scruples, and Prejudices againſt the Teſt, by miſtaking the true Senſe and Meaning thereof: And others having put falſe and unjuſt Gloſſes, and Sences upon it, tending to defeat its excellent Deſign for the ſecurity of our Government, and that upon this account you found it neceſſary, by an Act of that our Council (which we have ſeen) to declare its true, and genuine Sence, and to allow, and impower the Biſhops to Adminiſter the ſame, in this Senſe to the Clergy in their reſpective Dioceſſes; we are ſo well pleas'd with that explanatory Act, that we will not delay to ſend you our chearful Approbation thereof, with our hearty Thanks for your Zeal in our Service upon all Occaſions, eſpecially in what relates to the Security of the Perſons, Rights, Intereſts, and Privileges of our orthodox Clergy, which we do now (as we have often done before) in a particular manner recommend to your Care, as a Matter wherein you may render unto us the moſt acceptable Services; and therefore we expect that you will upon all fit Occaſions, give them all poſſible Encouragement, as thoſe whom we have receiv'd, and will conſtantly ſhelter under our Royal Protection, againſt all their Enemies: So We bid you heartily Farewel.

“ Given at our Court at Whitehall the Fifteenth Day of November, One Thouſand Six Hundred Eighty and One, and of Our Reign the Thirty Third Year.

By his Majeſty's Command,

MORRAY.

And here it may not be improper to advertize the Reader, that by the Scottiſh Conſtitution, the King and Council are the authentick Interpreters of the Legiſlature; and their Explanation of the Senſe of an Act ſtands for Law, unleſs afterwards diſallow'd in Parliament, which never happen'd in the preſent Caſe.

And thus upon the whole, we have a full Acknowledgment from the State, of the Churches Independency in Spiritual Matters: That the Power of the Keys, as 'twas exercifed by the Apoſtles, and by other Eccleſiaſtical Governours through the firſt three Centuries, is ſtill reſerv'd entirely to the Church as a peculiar and unalienable Juriſdiction. From whence the next Inference is, that the Chriſtianity of Princes implies no Ceſſion of Authority in the Hierarchy, or the forfeiture of any Branch of our Saviour's Commiſſion to the Apoſtles and their Succeſſors the Biſhops.

Soon after his Royal Highneſs return'd to England, Seven of the Scotch Biſhops wrote to the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, to acquaint him, how ſenſible they were of the Benefit of the Duke's Adminiſtration. Their Letter ſtands thus.

May it pleaſe your Grace,

Edinborough March 9. 1682. But by the Engliſh Computation, 1681--2.

“ His Royal Highneſs having paſs'd from hence on Monday laſt, being call'd by the King to attend his Majeſty at New-Market; We ſhould prove very defective in Duty and Gratitude, if upon this Occaſion, we ſhould forget to acknowledge to your Grace, how much this poor Church, and our Order, do owe to his Princely Care and Goodneſs, that his Majeſty and the worthy Biſhops of England, may from you receive the juſt Account thereof.

The Scotch Biſhops Letter by way of Acknowledgment of the Benefit of the Duke's Adminiſtration.

“ Since his Royal Highneſs's coming to this Kingdom, we find our Caſe much changed to the better, and our Church and Order, (which through the Cunning and Power of their Adverſaries, were expoſed to extreme Hazard and Contempt) ſenſibly reliev'd and reſcued; which, next to the watchful Providence of God (that mercifully ſuperintends his Church) we can aſcribe to nothing, ſo much as to his Royal Highneſs's gracious owning and vigilant Protection of us.

“ Upon all Occaſions he gives freſh Inſtances of his eminent Zeal againſt the moſt unreaſonable Schiſm, which by Renting, threatens the Subverſion of our Church and Religion, and concerns himſelf as a Patron to us, in all our Publick and even Perſonal Intereſts: So that all Men take notice of his ſignal Kindneſs to us, and obſerve, that he looks on the Enemies of the Church, as Adverſaries to the Monarchy it ſelf: Nor did we ever propoſe or offer to his Royal Highneſs, any rational Expedient which might conduce for the Relief or Security of the Church, which he did not readily embrace and effectuate.

“ The Peace and Tranquillity of this Kingdom is the Effect of his prudent and ſteddy Conduct of Affairs; and the Humours of our wicked Fanaticks, are much reſtrain'd from dangerous Eruptions, upon their Apprehenſions of his Vigilance and Juſtice: For they dread nothing ſo much as to ſee him upon the Head of his Majeſty's Councils and Forces againſt them.

“ We hope your Grace will make our dutiful Acknowledgment to his Royal Highneſs for all his Princely Favours to us, and give him the moſt firm Aſſurance of our moſt ſincere Endeavours to ſerve him, and of our moſt fervent Prayers for his Temporal and Eternal Happineſs, as the bounden Duty of,

That theſe Seven Biſhops were ſolicited for this Acknowledgment; That they were careſs'd or over-aw'd into a Compliment; And that they wanted Matter of Fact to ſupport their Letter, is an uncourtly and uncharitable Suppoſition, and argues they had nothing of that Truth and Reſolution requir'd in their Character. However, ſomething of this is glanc'd at by a late Hiſtorian (o). The Duke, it ſeems, muſt have a Blow at all Adventures: For 'tis not uncuſtomary with this Learned Author, to take extraordinary Freedom with that Prince's Memory.

The Decree of the Univerſity of Oxford.

Upon the breaking out of the Rye-Houſe Plot, and ſome other bold Practices againſt the Government, the Univerſity of Oxon thought it their Duty to do their Part for diſabling ſuch treaſonable Attempts. To this purpoſe they paſs'd a ſolemn Cenſure of 27 Propoſitions extracted from modern Authors, who moſt of them had either acted in, or abetted the late Rebellion. This Decree was drawn up in Latin by the Profeſſor in Divinity, paſs'd the Convocation on Saturday July 21. and was preſented to his Majeſty in Engliſh on the 24th of the ſame Month. “ We decree, judge and declare all and every of theſe Propoſitions to be Falſe, Seditious and Impious, and moſt of them to be alſo Heretical and Blaſphemous, Infamous to Chriſtian Religion, and deſtructive of all Government in Church and State.

“ We farther decree, That the Books which contain the aforeſaid Propoſitions, and impious Doctrines, are fitted to deprave good Manners, corrupt the Minds of uneaſie Men, ſtir up Seditions and Tumults, overthrow States and Kingdoms, and lead to Rebellion, Murther of Princes, and Atheiſm it ſelf. And therefore we interdict all Members of the Univerſity from the reading of the ſaid Books, under the Penalty in the Statutes expreſs'd. We alſo order the before-recited Books to be publickly burnt by the Hand of our Marſhal, in the Court of our Schools.

“ Likewiſe we order, That, in perpetual Memory hereof, theſe our Decrees ſhall be entred into the Regiſtry of our Convocation; and that Copies of them being communicated to the ſeveral Colleges and Halls within this Univerſity, they be there publickly affix'd in the Libraries, Refectories, or other fit Places where they may be ſeen and read of all.

The reſt may be omitted.

Thoſe who blame theſe Gentlemen of the Univerſity, as if they ſet the Obedience of the Subject too high, do not ſeem to have fully conſider'd that the Homilies and Statutes (p) make Submiſſion to the Crown no leſs abſolute, the Paſſive Chain altogether as heavy, and ſtrike the Reſiſting Principle as ſtrong, as any Inference which can be drawn from the Oxford Decree.

The Cambridge Addreſs publiſh'd about this time, is particularly remarkable for Loyalty, and Elocution, and deſerves to be remembred: It was preſented to the King at New-Market, by the Vice Chancellour Dr. Gower. 'Tis this:

The Cambridge Univerſity Addreſs.

Sir,

“ We your Majeſty's moſt Faithful and Obedient Subjects of the Univerſity of Cambridge,

“ have long, with the greateſt and ſincereſt Joy, beheld what we hope is in ſome meaſure the Effect of our own Prayers, the generous Emulation of our Fellow Subjects, contending who ſhould firſt and beſt expreſs their Duty and Gratitude to their Sovereign, at this time eſpecially, when the ſeditious Endeavours of unreaſonable Men have made it neceſſary to aſſert the ancient Loyalty of the Engliſh Nation, and make the World ſenſible, that we do not degenerate from thoſe prime Glories of our Anceſtors, Love and Allegiance to our Prince.

“ That we were not earlier ſeen in thoſe Loyal Crowds, but choſe rather to ſtand by, and applaud their honeſt and religious Zeal, we humbly preſume will not be imputed to the want of it in our ſelves, either by your Majeſty, or your People; for it is at preſent the great Honour of your Univerſity, not only to be ſtedfaſt and conſtant in our Duty, but to be eminently ſo, and to ſuffer for it, as much as the Calumnies and Reproaches of factious and malicious Men can inflict upon us: And that they have been hitherto able to do no more than vent the Venom of their Tongues; that they have not proceeded to Plunder and Sequeſtration, to violate our Chapels, rifle our Libraries, and empty our Colleges, as once they did, next to the over-ruling Providence of Almighty God, is only due to the Royal Care and Prudence of your moſt Sacred Majeſty.

“ But no Earthly Power, we hope, no Menaces or Miſery, ſhall ever be able to make us renounce or forget our Duty. We will ſtill believe and maintain, that our Princes derive not their Title from the People, but from God; that to him only they are accountable, that it belongs not to Subjects either to create, or cenſure, but to honour and obey their Sovereign, who comes to be ſo, by a Fundamental Hereditary Right of Succeſſion, which no Religion, no Law, no Fault, or Forſeiture, can alter or diminiſh.

“ Nor will we ever abate of our well-inſtructed Zeal for our moſt holy Religion, as it is profeſs'd and eſtabliſh'd by Law in the Church of England, that Church that hath ſo long ſtood, and is ſtill the Envy and Terror of her Adverſaries, as well as the Beauty and Strength of the Reformation.

“ It is thus that we have learned our own, and thus we teach others their Duty to God and their Prince: In the conſcientious Diſcharge of both which, we have been ſo long protected and encourag'd by your Majeſty's moſt juſt and gracious Government, that we neither need nor deſire any other Declaration than that Experience, for our Aſſurance and Security for the future.

“ In all which Grace and Goodneſs we have nothing to return: We bring no Names and Seals, no Lives and Fortunes, well capable of your Majeſty's Service, or at all worthy of your Acceptance: Nothing but Hearts and Prayers, Vows of a zealous and laſting Loyalty; our ſelves and Studies, all that we can, or ever ſhall be able to perform, which we here moſt ſincerely promiſe, and moſt humbly tender at your Majeſty's Feet, a mean and worthleſs Preſent; but ſuch an one as we hope will not be diſdain'd by the moſt gracious and indulgent Prince that Heaven ever beſtow'd upon a People.

Michaelmas-Term, A.D. 1684.
Oats indicted for Perjury.

Titus Oats, now in the Declenſion of his Credit, was indicted at the King's Bench, and at the Old Baily for Perjury; but his Tryal was deferr'd till Hilary-Term. And ſince thus much of Oats his Hiſtory has come in the way, the Reader may probably expect not to be left in ſuſpence about the Iſſue. We may obſerve therefore, that in May the next Summer, he was proſecuted for the ſame Crime upon two Indictments, and found guilty. The Particulars upon which he was convicted, are the Diſproof of ſome material Circumſtances ſworn by him at the Tryals of Ireland, Whitebread, and others (q). Oats liv'd to a favourable Juncture for reverſing theſe Judgments, and brought his Writs of Error for that purpoſe: However, after a full Debate upon the Cauſe, the Lords could not be prevail'd with to blanch his Character, or reſtore him to the Capacity of being an Evidence in any Court (r).

A.D. 1684-5.
The King's Death.

To return: At the latter End of this Year, the King fell ſick of an Apoplexy, and dy'd at Whitehall on the 6th of February. To conclude in a Word or two, by way of Character: He was a Prince of extraordinary natural Endowments, of great Quickneſs and Penetration, and admirably qualify'd for the Station he was born to. But theſe Advantages were not without Abatements in private Life. It muſt be granted, his Pleaſures were too ſtrong for him. Theſe Sallies prov'd unſerviceable to his Exchequer, and drove him upon Inequalities in the Adminiſtration. Thus, being ſometimes exhauſted, he ſtoop'd his Authority to Diſadvantage, and careſs'd a Party, no Friends to the Crown. However, in the latter End of his Reign, he recollected himſelf for Buſineſs, recover'd his Ground, and dy'd with the Faction at his Feet. He married Donna Catharina, Infanta of Portugal, but had no Iſſue by her.

LEO Epiſcopus Servus Servorum Dei, chariſſimo in Chriſto Filio, Henrico Angliæ Regi, Fidei Defenſori, Salutem & ampliſſimam Benedictionem. Ex ſupernæ Diſpoſitionis arbitrio, licet imparibus meritis, univerſalis Eccleſiæ Regimini præſidentes, ad hoc cordis noſtri longe lateque diffundimus cogitatus, ut Fides Catholica, ſine qua nemo proficit ad ſalutem, continuum ſuſcipiat incrementum; & ut ea, quæ pro cohibendis conatibus illam deprimere, aut pravis mendacibuſque commentis pervertere & denigrare molientium, ſana (Chriſti Fidelium præſertim dignitate regali fulgentium) doctrina ſunt diſpoſita, continuis proficiant incrementis, partes noſtri Miniſterii & operam impendimus efficaces. Et ſicut alii Romani Pontifices Prædeceſſores noſtri Catholicos Principes, prout rerum & temporum qualitas exigebat, ſpecialibus favoribus proſequi conſueverunt, illos præſertim qui procelloſis temporibus, & rabida Schiſmaticorum & Hæreticorum fervente perfidia, non ſolum in Fidei Serenitate & Devotione illibata Sacroſanctæ Romanæ Eccleſiæ immobiles perſtiterunt, verum etiam tanquam ipſius Eccleſiæ legitimi Filii, ac fortiſſimi Athletæ Schiſmaticorum & Hæreticorum inſanis furoribus ſpiritualiter & temporaliter ſeſe oppoſuerunt: Ita etiam nos Majeſtatem tuam, propter excelſa & immortalia ejus erga nos & hanc ſanctam Sedem, in qua permiſſione divina ſedemus, opera & geſta condignis & immortalibus Præconiis & Laudibus efferre deſideramus, ac ea ſibi concedere, propter quæ invigilare debeat, a Grege Dominico Lupos arcere, & putrida Membra, quæ myſticum Chriſti Corpus inficiunt, ferro & materiali gladio abſcindere, & Nutantium Corda Fidelium in Fidei ſoliditate confirmare. Sane cum nuper dilectus Filius Johannes Clarke, Majeſtatis tuæ apud nos Orator, in Conſiſtorio noſtro coram venerabilibus Fratribus noſtris Sanctæ Romanæ Eccleſiæ Cardinalibus, & compluribus aliis Romanæ Curiæ Prælatis, Librum, quem Majeſtas tua, Charitate, quæ omnia ſedulo & nihil perperam agit, Fideique Catholicæ Zelo accenſa, & Devotionis erga nos & hanc ſanctam Sedem fervore inflammata, contra Errores diverſorum Hæreticorum ſæpius ab hac ſancta Sede damnatos, nuperque per Martinum Lutherum ſuſcitatos, & innovatos tanquam nobile & ſalutare quoddam Antidotum compoſuit, nobis examinandum, & deinde Authoritate noſtra approbandum obtuliſſet, ac luculenta Oratione ſua expoſuiſſet Majeſtatem tuam paratam ac diſpoſitam eſſe, ut, quemadmodum veris rationibus & irrefragabilibus Sacræ Scripturæ ac Sanctorum Patrum Authoritatibus, notorios Errores ejuſdem Martini Lutheri confutaverit, ita etiam omnes eos ſequi & defenſare præſumentes totius Regni viribus & armis perſequatur: Noſque ejus libri admirabilem quandam & Cœleſtis Gratiæ rore conſperſam Doctrinam diligenter accuratéque introſpexiſſemus; Omnipotenti Deo a quo omne datum optimum & omne donum perfectum eſt, immenſas Gratias egimus, qui optimam & ad omne Bonum inclinatam mentem tuam inſpirare, eique tantam Gratiam ſuperne infundere dignatus fuit, ut ea ſcriberes, quibus ſanctam ejus fidem contra novum Errorum damnatorum hujuſmodi ſuſcitatorem defenderes, ac reliquos Reges & Principes Chriſtianos tuo exemplo invitares, ut ipſi etiam Orthodoxæ Fidei & Evangelicæ Veritati in periculum & diſcrimen adductæ, omni ope ſua adeſſe opportuneque favere vellent. Æquum autem eſſe cenſentes, eos, qui pro Fidei Chriſti hujuſmodi defenſione pios labores ſuſceperunt, omni laude & honore afficere, volenteſque non ſolum ea quæ Majeſtas tua contra eundem Martinum Lutherum abſolutiſſima Doctrina, nec minori Eloquentia ſcripſit, condignis laudibus extollere ac magnificare, Authoritateque noſtra approbare & confirmare, ſed etiam Majeſtatem ipſam tuam tali honore ac titulo decorare, ut noſtris ac perpetuis futuris temporibus Chriſti fideles omnes intelligant, quàm gratum acceptumque nobis fuerit Majeſtatis tuæ munus hoc præſertim tempore nobis oblatum: Noſque Petri, quem Chriſtus in Cœlum aſcenſurus Vicarium ſuum in Terris reliquit, & cui curam Gregis ſui commiſit, veri Succeſſores ſumus, & in hac ſancta Sede, qua omnes Dignitates ac Tituli emanant, ſedemus; Habita ſuper his cum iiſdem Fratribus noſtris matura deliberatione, de eorum unanimi conſilio & aſſenſu, Majeſtati tuæ titulum hunc (viz.) Fidei Defenſorem donare decrevimus, prout te tali titulo per præſentes inſignimus; Mandantes omnibus Chriſti fidelibus, ut Majeſtatem tuam hoc titulo nominent, &, cum ad eum ſcribant, poſt dictionem Regi, adjungant Fidei Defenſori. Et profecto hujus tituli excellentia ac dignitate, ac ſingularibus meritis tuis diligenter perpenſis & conſideratis, nullum neque dignius, neque Majeſtati tuæ convenientius nomen excogitare potuiſſemus: Quod quoties audies & leges, toties propriæ virtutis optimique meriti tui recordaberis; Nec hujuſmodi titulo intumeſces, aut in ſuperbiam elevaberis, ſed ſolita tua Prudentia humilior, & in Fide Chriſti, ac Devotione hujus ſanctæ Sedis, a qua exaltatus fueris, fortior & conſtantior evades, ac in Domino omnium bonorum largitore lætaberis, perpetuum hoc & immortale gloriæ tuæ Monumentum Poſteris tuis relinquere, illiſque viam oſtendere, ut ſi tali titulo ipſi quoque inſigniri optabunt, tali etiam opera efficere, præclaraque etiam Majeſtatis tuæ veſtigia ſequi ſtudeant; quam prout de nobis ac Dominica Sede optimè merita eſt, unà cum Uxore ac Filiis ac omnibus qui a te ac ab illis naſcentur, noſtra Benedictione, in nomine illius a quo illam concedendi poteſtas nobis data eſt, largâ ac liberali manu benedicentes. Altiſſimum illum, qui dixit, per me Reges regnant, & Principes imperant, & in cujus manu Corda ſunt Regum, rogamus & obſecramus, ut eum in ſuo ſancto Propoſito confirmet, ejuſque Devotionem multiplicet, ac præclaris pro ſancta Fide geſtis ita illuſtret, ac toti Orbi Terrarum conſpicuum reddat, ut Judicium quod de ipſa facimus, eam tam inſigni titulo decorantes, a nemine falſum aut vanum judicari poſſit: Demùm mortalis hujus vitæ finito curriculo, ſempiternæ illius Gloriæ Conſortem atque Participem reddat.

Invictiſſimo, Illuſtriſſimoque Principi ac Domino, Domino Henrico Octavo, Regi Angliæ & Franciæ, Domino ſuo Clementiſſimo.

An. Dom. 1525. Londini in Ædibus Pynſonianis Anno Domini milleſimo quingenteſimo viceſimo ſexto, ſecunda Decembris. Cum privilegio a Rege indulto.

GRatiam & Pacem in Chriſto Jeſu Domino & Salvatore noſtro Amen. Quanquam vereri merito debuerim, Sereniſſime Rex, Illuſtriſſimeque Princeps, Litteris Majeſtatem tuam tentare; Ut qui mihi conſcius maxime ſum, graviſſime offenſam eſſe Majeſtatem tuam Libello meo: Quem non meo Genio, ſed incitantibus iis, qui Majeſtati tuæ parum favebant, ſtultus & præceps edidi: Tamen Spem & Auſum mihi facit non modo Regia illa Clementia, ſic mihi Literis & Verbis indies cantata à quamplurimis: Ut cum mortalem ſeſe noverit, immortales Inimicitias ſervaturam eſſe non credam: Verum etiam quod fide dignis teſtibus didici, Libellum ſub Majeſtatis tuæ nomine in me editum non eſſe Regis Angliæ, ut videri volebant, ſubdoli Sophiſtæ; Qui Majeſtatis tuæ titulo abuſi, non ſenſerunt quam ſibi ipſis periculum in Regia Ignominia pararent: Præſertim illud monſtrum, & publicum Odium Dei & Hominum Cardinalis Eboracenſis, peſtis illa Regni tui: Ita & nunc vehementer pudefactus, metuam oculos coram Majeſtate tua levare; Qui paſſus ſim levitate iſtâ me moveri in talem tantumque Regem, per malignos illos Operarios, præſertim cum ſim Fex & Vermis, quem ſolo contemptu oportuit victum aut neglectum eſſe. Accidit ad hæc, quod me ſerio compulit, quantumvis abjectum ſcribere, Majeſtatem tuam cœpiſſe favere Evangelio, & non parum tædere iſtius generis Hominum perditorum. Hoc ſanè Nuncium fuit vere Evangelion, i. e. lætum Nuncium Cordi meo. Quare his literis, proſterno me pedibus Majeſtatis tuæ quantum poſſum humillime; Et per Chriſti Crucem & Gloriam oro & obſecro, Majeſtas tua dignetur ſeſe ſubmittere, & veniam donare in quibuſcunque Majeſtatem tuam læſi: Sicut Chriſtus oravit, & dimittere debita nos quoque invicem juſſit. Deinde ſi Majeſtati tuæ non videbitur contemnendum, ut alio Libello publico Palinodiam cantem, & nomen Majeſtatis tuæ rurſus honorem; Det mihi clementem aliquam Significationem, tum in me mora non erit ulla, faciam illud libentiſſimè. Quamvis enim ſim homo nihili ad tuam Celſitudinem comparatus; tamen, non parum fructus Evangelio & Gloriæ Dei hinc ſperare licebit; ſi mihi ad Regem Angliæ ſcribendi de Evangelii cauſa fuerit copia facta. Interim Majeſtatem tuam (ut cœpit) Dominus augeat; Ut pleno Spiritu, & obediat & faveat Evangelio; Nec ſinat Aures Regias & Animum occupari peſtilentibus Syrenum vocibus, quæ nihil niſi Hæreticum Lutherum vociferari nôrunt. Tua vero Majeſtas apud ſe cogitet, quidnam mali poſſim docere, qui aliud nihil doceam quam Fide Jeſu Chriſti Filii Dei, pro nobis paſſi & ſuſcitati, ſalvos fieri oportere; ſic ut teſtantur Evangelia & Epiſtolæ Apoſtolorum. Hoc enim eſt Caput & Fundamentum Doctrinæ meæ, ſuper quod poſtea ædifico, & doceo Charitatem erga proximum, Obedientiam erga politicos Magiſtratus, tum Crucifixionem Corporis peccati, ut itidem præſcribit Chriſtiana Doctrina. Quid in his Capitibus Doctrinarum mali eſt? Expectetur tamen, audietur & judicetur primum. Cur damnor neque auditus neque convictus! Porro quod Abuſum & Tyrannidem Pontificum taxo: Qui alia quam iſta prædicta capita, imo contraria, docent; Interim Pompæ, Ventribus, imo Regnis & Principatibus, omniumque opibus innitentes, nonne id ipſum & vulgus ſentit & damnat, atque ipſimet coguntur confiteri? Cur non emendant ſeſe, & recta docent, ſi odio & correptione liberi eſſe volunt? Videt Majeſtas tua Sereniſſima quanti Principes in Germania, quot Politiæ, deinde quot viri ſapientiſſimi mecum faciant; & (Deo Gratia) indemnatum cupiant. Quorum numero utinam Chriſtus Majeſtatem tuam aſcribat, & ab iſtis Animarum Tyrannis ſeparet. Quid mirum vero ſi Cæſar & aliqui Principes in me ſæviunt?

Nonne ut Pſalmus ſecundus dicit, Adverſus Dominum & Chriſtum ſuum fremunt Gentes, meditantur Populi, conſpirant Reges Terræ, & conveniunt Principes? Ut mirandum potius ſit ſi aliquis Principum ac Regum Evangelio faveat.

Huic Miraculo in Majeſtate tua quàm opto ex totis Medullis aliquando gratulari. Et ipſe Dominus (quo præſente & volente hæc ſcribo) cooperetur verbis meis, ut Rex Angliæ brevi fiat perfectus Diſcipulus Chriſti, Evangeliique Profeſſor, tum Lutheri Clementiſſimus Dominus Amen. Reſponſum (ſi viſum fuerit Majeſtati tuæ) expecto clemens & benignum. Wittenbergiæ primo Septembris Anno Domini 1525.

Regiæ Majeſtati tuæ ſubjectiſſimus Martinus Lutherus manu propria.

SAlva ſit tua Celſitudo: Jam conſultis omnibus iſtis, ut aiunt, mutis Magiſtris, quos ad manum habere potui, diligenterque ſingulorum excuſſis Opinionibus, & Rationibus expenſis, comperio, quòd & tuæ Sublimitati nuper ſcripſi, magnum inter eos eſſe diſſidium, pluribus aſſerentibus id eſſe Divino Jure prohibitum; aliis contra pertinaciter affirmantibus id Divino Juri nullo pacto repugnare. Et profecto penſitatis utrinque Rationibus æqua lance, mihi videor perſpicere facilem Enodationem omnium Argumentationum, quas illi producunt, qui negant id divino Jure licere; aliorum vero non ita facilem, ut & nunc mihi perſuaſiſſimum ſit non poſſe quavis ratione ſolida comprobari; quod prohibitum ſit Divino Jure (quod hodie vim habet) ne viz. Frater defuncti Fratris abſque Liberis, Conjugem accipiat. Quod ſi verum ſit, & etiam non dubito certiſſimum eſſe, quis jam, attenta plenitudine Poteſtatis, quam Chriſtus Pontifici contulit, negare queat poſſe Pontificem diſpenſare, quatenus ob aliquam arduam cauſam, Frater Fratris ſui defuncti ſine Liberis, Uxorem ſibi copulet: Cæterum ut concedam pares utriuſque partis eſſe Rationes, & neutras alteris præponderare, ſed velut in Æquilibrio ſtare ſuſpenſas, quum poſſint utrinque pari facilitate ſolvi, me tamen iſtud impelleret, ut ſim in partes Pontificis inclinatior atque propenſior, quod ſciam iſtud ab utraque parte tributum amplitudini Poteſtatis Pontificiæ, nimirum ut ambiguos Scripturarum locos, auditis in ea re Theologorum & Juriſperitorum ſententiis, liceat interpretari; alioquin fruſtra dixiſſet ei Chriſtus, quicquid ſolveris in Terra erit ſolutum in Cœlis, & quicquid alligaveris in Terra erit alligatum in Cœlis. Quùm igitur apertiſſimè conſtat Pontificem haud ſemel facto ſuo declarâſſe, quod liceat in prædicto caſu diſpenſare cum ſecundo Fratre, hoc ſolum me vehementer moveret ad aſſentiendum, etiamſi potiores Rationes & Probationes non attuliſſet, ſed eſſent, ut dixi, pares in Aſſertionibus ſuis.

Verum nunc cum planè perſpiciam & Rationes efficaciores eſſe pro parte eorum, qui Pontificis Poteſtatem in hac re tuentur, quumque præter hoc, advertam quibus verbis & quam pleniſſimè tradita ſit Pontifici Poteſtas a Chriſto, quum & denique clariſſimis Teſtimoniis intelligam ejuſmodi Diſpenſationem effectui ſæpius commendatam, nullus omnino ſcrupulus mihi ſupereſt, quin iſtud Pontifici liceat, nimirum ut cum Fratre diſpenſat, quatenus alterius Fratris abſque Liberis defuncti, Conjugem accipiat. Habet itaque paucis tua Celſitudo quid ego ſuper hac re ſentiam, jam reliquum eſt ut Celſitudini tuæ proſperam & longævam optem Incolumitatem.

A decretal Bull drawn up in England, and tranſmitted to Rome: The Purport of it is, to prevent a Reverſal of the Legate's Sentence in the Buſineſs of the Divorce.

DIlecto &c. Salutem & Apoſtolicam Benedictionem. Sedis Apoſtolicæ ſuprema Authoritas poteſtatis ſuæ copiam ſic omnibus exhibet, ut pro cauſarum, perſonarum & temporum qualitate, remedia ſingulis ad ædificationem ſubminiſtrare, & cauſas ad Canonum Sanctiones expenſas æquiſſima certiſſimaque lance trutinans, laborantibus conſcientiis & fluctuantibus conſulere, ſummamque ipſis tranquillitatem ſtatuere contendat. Cum itaque clariſſimus in Chriſto Filius noſter Henricus Octavus Angliæ Rex, Fidei Defenſor, & Dominus Hiberniæ ſua nobis conqueſtione monſtraverat, quod ab annis hinc decem & octo Nobilem Mulierem Catharinam Ferdinandi quondam Regis Hiſpaniarum Filiam, Illuſtris Principis Arthuri Fratris ſui defuncti quondam Uxorem, Hortatu, Suaſu & Conciliis eorum, quibus ſe totum in prima Regni ſui Adminiſtratione crediderat, quadam Sedis Apoſtolicæ Diſpenſatione prætenſa, ſibi bonâ fide Matrimonio copulâſſet, ac ab eo tempore hactenus cum eadem tanquam cum Uxore cohabitâſſet, prole interim Fæminea ſuſcepta, & ſuperſtite ex eadem, ac jam tandem poſt deſperatam Prolem maſculam, de ſtabilienda ac confirmanda ejuſdem Filiæ ſuæ ſucceſſione cogitaret, luſtratiſque ſcriniis dictam ſuper Matrimonio præfato Diſpenſationem faceret proferri, doctorumque virorum judicio examinari, cujus quidem Diſpenſationis tenor ſequitur, & eſt talis &c.

Cotton. Libr. Vitell. B. 12. Febr. 1527.

Quidam Sanctionum & Canonum Eccleſiaſticorum conſulti datum dictæ cum narratis ejuſdem conferentes, aliaſque nonullas circumſtantias, quæ tum ante dictæ Diſpenſationis impetrationem, quæ poſt eandem impetratam intervenerunt, ponderantes, tum quòd cauſa, quæ in Bulla prætenſa eſt, pacis continuandæ, viz. quæ ipſa tum coaluerat fœderibus percuſſis firma conſtiterat, mutuis etiam populorum commerciis aucta, nullum ſui violationis timorem incutiens, qui juſtus & non omnino vanus dici poſſit, nec urgentiſſima proinde nec evidentiſſima videretur, qualem Prohibitionis relaxatio exigat & requirat; tum quod preces falſæ erant, dum narrabatur Prædeceſſori noſtro, eundem chariſſimum Filium noſtrum tum cupere cum chariſſima dicta Domina Catharina contrahere Matrimonium, ad hoc ut pacis fœdera diutiùs continuarentur, cum, eo tempore, ut aſſerit, impetrationem prorſus ignoraret, & per Ætatis immaturitatem, duodecimum viz. annum non excedentis, affectum hujuſmodi inducere non poterat; tum quod Proteſtatione poſtmodum interveniente, & vim Renuntiationis habente, Diſpenſatio tunc per Renuntiationem extincta videretur: Denique quod Principes inter quos fœdera conſervarentur, ante mandatam executioni Bullam, fatis conceſſerant: Bullam ipſam tum ex ſurreptionis & abreptionis vitiis, quam aliis etiam de cauſis minus validam & efficacem eſſe renuntiârunt & retulerunt, ſcrupulum dicti Regis animo & conſcientiæ gravem injicientes, eamque illi opinionem inducentes, ut Matrimonium prædictum non conſiſtere, neque hactenus jure conſtitiſſe judicârit. Porro autem, cum frequentius apud ſe, ut aſſerit, animo volverit, & meditaretur, quales exitus hujuſmodi Nuptiæ præfatæ habuerint, ex quibus viz. aliquot partus maſculi imperfecti parumque vitales prodiere, atque ideo ſe omni ſpe Succeſſoris prorſus deſtitui, quo ſuam familiam ad paucos redactam conſervaret, occurrente ſimul memoriæ divina interminatione, quæ Fratris ſui turpitudinem revelanti, & illius Uxorem contra S. Sancta Dei præcepta accipienti, inſcribitur, præſertim ubi Diſpenſatio non interveniat, quæ ex omni ſua parte valeat & conſiſtat; Nonullis etiam affirmantibus noſtram non eatenùs poteſtatem patere, ut in ea ſpecie gratiam faciamus, etiamſi, ut ſcribit, de noſtræ poteſtatis plenitudine non dubitat, juſtè duntaxat & legitimè interpoſitæ, quam ſummam in Terris agnoſcit & veneratur, ad improbandas illas Nuptias, tantum undique videt conſenſum, ut illas animo abhorreat, nec aliorum rationibus poſſit diſſuaderi, quin abominandas eas judicet, & Divinæ Majeſtati odioſas. Denique idem chariſſimus Filius noſter debita cum inſtantia nos precibus ſollicitaverit, quatenus Perſonæ ſuæ, & Regni nobis ſemper devotiſſimi, rationem habentes, maturo judicio ab anguſtiis liberemus, quibus ſe uſu præſentis Matrimonii per legem Conſcientiæ privatum, nec ad aliud per leges publicas ante ſententiam admiſſum, vehementer conqueritur comprehenſum eſſe.

Nos igitur conſiderantes quot, quanta, tum in Sedem Apoſtolicam, tum in Fidem Chriſtianam, Officia præ cæteris exhibuerit, promeritus eo nomine ut noſtræ viciſſim poteſtatis gratiam uberrimam & promptiſſimam referat, aliamque illius cauſam atque privati eſſe, ex qua nimirum pendeat ſalus plurimorum, nec poſſe dictæ cauſæ Deciſionem diutiùs proferri & protelari ſine gravi diſcriminis periculo, dicti vero Principis cruciatu maximo, quæ nos ex gratitudinis viciſſitudine minuere debeamus, qua decet feſtinatione procedi facientes, ut ad finem celerrimè perducatur: De Conſilio Fratrum noſtrorum, quorum in hac cauſa tam gravi atque urgenti judicium adhibuimus, ac etiam eorum, quos & Sacræ Theologiæ peritiſſimos, & Juris Eccleſiaſtici callentiſſimos, deſuper conſulendos, audiendoſque putavimus, quoniam vitia & defectus prædictos ejuſmodi eſſe comperimus, quæ penſata præfatæ Prohibitionis natura, vires ipſius Bullæ meritò enervarent; quo magis viz. atteſtamur & palam facimus, quanta Animi cura & ſollicitudine præfati chariſſimi Filii noſtri Conſcientiam hujuſmodi ſcrupulis & difficultatibus impediri, implicari, atque vexari ſuſtineamus, cum alioquin te dilectum Filium noſtrum Cardinalem Eboracenſem, in illa Provincia & Apoſtolicæ Sedis Legatum, à præclaris Animi tui virtutibus, ad Juſtitiam vero & Æquitatem propenſiſſimo ſinceriſſimoque affectu nobis ſic commendatum & cognitum habeamus, ut tibi merito ſoli omnem noſtram authoritatem, cum in hac cauſa expedienda, tum etiam in reliquis committendam putaverimus, digniſſimus quidem nobis exiſtimatus, qui partes noſtras tractes, & vices abſentis poſſis ſupplere: Te tamen dilectum Filium ---- (ſcilicet Cardinalem Campegium) à nobis ſpecialiter iſthuc deſtinandum duximus, ut conjunctim in hac cauſa procedere poſſitis, ita nihilominus propter incertum caſuum eventum, mandatam authoritatem temperantes, ut altero veſtrûm nolente, aut impedito, alter omnia exequi, & cauſam ſine debito valeat terminare. Vobis, ut præfertur, conjunctim, &, ut præfertur, diviſim, ad cognoſcendum & procedendum ſummariè & de plano, ſine ſtrepitu & figura judicii, ac de & ſuper viribus dictæ Bullæ ſive Diſpenſationis inquirendum, ipſamque Bullam ſive Diſpenſationem, ſi de vitiis prædictis, aut eorum aliquo tali probationi conſtiterit, quæ licet aliàs minus clara videatur, Animo tamen religioſo, Conſcientiæque veſtræ, aut ejus veſtrûm, qui in hac cauſa proceſſerit, diviſim, ut præfertur, ſatisfecerit, & veriſimile apparuerit, vel pacem, quæ in Bulla prætenditur, ſine hujus Matrimonii Contractu conſiſtere poſſe & continuari, vel dictum chariſſimum Filium noſtrum, ut allegabatur, non cupiiſſe contrahere Matrimonium ad hoc, ut pacis fœdera conſervarentur; vel denique Principes in Bulla nominatos, inter quos fœdera per illud Matrimonium continuatum iri allegabatur, ante mandatam executioni Bullam fatis conceſſiſſe, ipſam nullam, minus validam, ex ſurreptione & obreptione inefficacem, irritam, & inanem fuiſſe ſemper, & eſſe pronuntiandam & declarandam: Matrimonium autem prædictum, quod ejuſdem virtute conſiſtere videtur, nullum ſimul, ac minus legitimum eſſe, ac pro nullo minuſque legitimo haberi debere, decernendum: Ipſos porro contrahentes ab omni Contractu matrimoniali hujuſmodi liberos, à Conſortio conjugali, quod hactenus obſervârunt, ſeparari debere, ſententiandum & authoritate noſtra ſeparandum. Denique, utrumque ad contrahendum cum alio, vel alia, novum Conjugium ineundi, Licentiam & Facultatem tribuendum & concedendum, citra omnem recuſationem, aut appellationis interpoſitionem, committimus & demandamus vices noſtras; ac vos conjunctim, aut altero veſtrûm, nolente, ut præfertur, aut impedito diviſim, ad præmiſſa exercenda & expedienda, plenæ finalique executioni demandanda, Vicarios noſtros & noſtrum Vicarium, ut ſi quo alio nomine uti poterimus, quod demandatam in prædictis Authoritatem ampliaret, cum omni poteſtatis plenitudine, tam abſolutæ, quam ordinariæ, quatenus vel ad præfati Matrimonii congruam Diſſolutionem, vel novi contrahendi firmam Conſtitutionem, expedire videbitur aut pertinere; ita etiam ut Authoritate præſentis Commiſſionis noſtræ, cum omnibus illis Canonibus, ad validiorem, efficacioremque Proceſſus veſtri firmitatem poteritis diſpenſare, quæcunque eidem obſtare putabuntur, omnemque defectum, quacunque ex cauſa contingentem, noſtræ Authoritatis interpoſitione, Diſpenſatione Apoſtolica ſupplere poſſitis & valeatis, tam Prolem ex primo Matrimonio ſuſceptam, propter bonam fidem Parentum, ſi ita expedire viſum fuerit, legitimam decernendo, pronuntiando, & promulgando, quam ex ſecundo Matrimonio ſuſcipiendam; Legitimitatem etiam utriuſque Prolis, Cenſuris & Pœnis Eccleſiaſticis quibuſcunque, per modum Decreti aut Sanctionis perpetuæ muniendo & vallando, omnibus validioribus & efficacioribus modis & formis quæ de jure concipi & excogitari poterunt, facimus, conſtituimus, & ordinamus per præſentes: Et quicquid per vos conjunctim, ut præfertur, aut diviſim procedentes, per Cognitionem judiciariam & ſummariam, aut extrajudiciariam, Proceſſus quoſcunque faciendo, pronuntiando aut promulgando, eoſdemve executioni mandando, Diſpenſationes quaſcunque aut Gratias in præmiſſis concedendo & faciendo, & generaliter in aliquibus prædictorum poteſtatem noſtram, vel ordinariam, vel abſolutam exercendo, ut præfertur, actum, geſtum, decretum, diſpenſatum, pronuntiatum, mandatum, aut executum fuerit, id omne & totum, quum primum poterimus, ratum, gratum, & firmum habentes, in validiſſima & efficaciſſima forma confirmabimus, nec eorum aliqua unquam infirmabimus, aut infringemus, aut eorum alicui contraveniemus, nec interim revocabimus; Declarantes etiam & proteſtantes per præſentes, noſtræ intentionis eſſe, ut præſens Commiſſio vel Delegatio Authoritatis noſtræ, perpetuo effectu gaudeat, & uſque ad finalem prædictorum concluſionem extremumque terminum durat & conſiſtat, non obſtantibus quibuſcunque Decretis, Sententiis, Mandatis, Reſcriptis, Literis aut Brevibus in contrarium, deinceps per nos tanquam Irritatoriis, Derogatoriis, aut Revocatoriis præſentis Conceſſionis noſtræ, emittendis, deſtinandis aut promulgandis: Quibus omnibus expreſsè per præſentes derogantes, & illa omnia pro nullis, caſſis, irritis & inanibus reputantes, ac talia eſſe ac haberi, iſtiſque omnino anteriora judicari, præſentia vero poſteriora, & poſt illa repetita, emiſſa, & deſtinata cenſeri, ac tanquam ultima ac poſteriora, contrariis ſic deinceps emittendis derogare debere, & cæteris contrariis non obſtantibus quibuſcunque.

JUlius Papa II. dilecte Fili & dilecta in Chriſto Filia Salutem & Apoſtolicam Benedictionem. Romani Pontificis præcellens Authoritas conceſſa ſibi deſuper utitur poteſtate, prout (perſonarum, negotiorum & temporum qualitate penſata) id in Domino conſpicit ſalubriter expedire. Oblatæ nobis nuper pro parte veſtra Petitionis ſeries continebat, quòd cum alias tu Filia Catharina, & tunc in humanis agens quondam Arthurus, chariſſimi in Chriſto Filii noſtri Henrici Angliæ Regis Illuſtriſſimi Primogenitus, pro conſervandis Pacis & Amicitiæ Nexibus & Fœderibus, & inter præfatum Angliæ ac chariſſimum in Chriſto Filium noſtrum Ferdinandum Regem, & chariſſimam in Chriſto Filiam noſtram Elizabeth. Reginam, Catholicos Hiſpaniarum & Siciliæ, Matrimonium per verba legitimè de præſenti contraxeritis, illudque carnali copula conſummaveritis; quia tamen Dominus Arthurus Prole ex hujuſmodi Matrimonio non ſuſcepta, deceſſit, & hujuſmodi vinculum Pacis & Connexitatis inter præfatos Reges & Reginam, ita firmiter non veriſimiliter perduraret, niſi etiam illud alio Affinitatis vinculo confoveretur & confirmaretur: Ex his & certis aliis cauſis, deſideratis Matrimonium inter vos per verba legitimè de præſenti contrahere: Sed quia deſiderium veſtrum in præmiſſis adimplere non poteſtis, Diſpenſatione Apoſtolica deſuper non obtenta; Nobis propterea humiliter ſupplicari feciſtis, ut vobis providere in præmiſſis de Diſpenſationis Gratia, & Benignitate Apoſtolica dignaremur. Nos igitur, qui inter ſingulos Chriſti fideles, præſertim Catholicos Reges & Principes, Pacis & Concordiæ Amœnitatem vigere intenſis deſideriis affectamus, his & aliis cauſis Animum noſtrum moventibus, hujuſmodi Supplicationibus inclinati, vobiſcum, aut aliquo impedimento Affinitatis hujuſmodi ex præmiſſis proveniente non obſtante, Matrimonium inter vos contrahere, & in eo, poſtquam contractum fuerit, remanere liberè & licitè valeatis, Autoritate Apoſtolica per præſentes diſpenſamus: Et quatenus forſan jam Matrimonium inter vos de facto, publicè vel clandeſtinè contraxeritis, ac carnali Copula conſummaveritis. Vos, & quemlibet veſtrum ab exceſſu hujuſmodi, ac Excommunicationis Sententia, quam propterea incurriſtis, eadem Autoritate abſolvimus; ac etiam vobiſcum ut in hujuſmodi Matrimonio, ſic de facto contracto, remanere, ſeu illud de novo contrahere, inter vos liberè & licitè valeatis ſimiliter diſpenſamus; Prolem ex hujuſmodi Matrimonio, ſive contracto, ſive contrahendo, ſuſcipiendam legitimam decernendo. Volumus autem, ſi hujuſmodi Matrimonium de facto contraxiſtis, Confeſſor per vos, & quemlibet veſtrûm eligendus, pœnitentiam, quam adimplere teneamini, propterea vobis injungat. An Addreſs of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal to the Pope upon the Subject of the King's Marriage.

July the 30th 1530. Lord Herbert pag. 303.

SAnctiſſimo in Chriſto Patri & Domino Domino Clementi, divina Providentia ejus nominis Papę ſeptimo, oſculatis pedibus omni cum humilitate fœlicitatem pręcamur, & optamus perpetuam, in Domino noſtro Jeſu Chriſto. Beatiſſime Pater, tametſi cauſa Matrimonii, Invictiſſimi & Sereniſſimi Principis Domini noſtri Anglię Francięque Regis Fidei Defenſoris & Domini Hibernię, multis ipſa per ſe Argumentis veſtrę Sanctitatis opem imploret atque efflagitet, ut illud quam celerrime finem accipiat, quem nos, ſummo cum deſiderio, jamdiu deſideravimus, & longa, ſed hactenus vana ſpe a veſtra Sanctitate Expectavimus : Non potuimus tamen committere ut Rebus noſtris Regnique ſtatu, ex hac litis Protelatione in tantum diſcrimen adducto omnino ſileremus, ſed quod Regia Majeſtas noſtrum Caput, atque adeo anima omnium noſtrum, & in cujus verbis nos, tanquam Membra conformia, juſta compagine capiti coherentia, multa ſolicitudine veſtram Sanctitatem precati, & fruſtra tamen precati ſumus, id nos literis noſtris doloris gravitate adducti ſeorſim & ſeperatim flagitaremus. Sufficere ſane alioqui debuiſſet, Cauſæ ipſius Juſtitia eruditiſſimorum virorum calculis paſſim probata, celeberrimarum Academiarum ſuffragiis judicata, ab Anglis, a Gallis, ab Italis, prout quiſque apud eos cæteros eruditione antecellit, pronunciata & definita, ut ſanctitas veſtra etiam nemine petente & Reclamantibus quibuſcunque, ſuo ore, ſuaque Authoritate aliorum ſententias confirmaret; præſertim cum Cauſæ definitio eum Regem, illud Regnum reſpiciat, quod de ſede illa Apoſtolica tam multis nominibus bene meritum ſit: Precibus autem nihil opus fuiſſet, niſi quatenus homines doloribus indulgent, & preces non neceſſarias interdum effundere ſolent. Cæterum quum apud ſanctitatem veſtram nec ipſius Cauſæ Juſtitia, nec beneficiorum acceptorum recordatio, nec optimi Principis tam aſſiduæ & diligentes preces quicquam profecerint, ut obtineatur à vobis quod Paternæ Pietatis officium exigebat; adauctus ſupra modum in nobis miſeriarum ac calamitatum recordatione doloris cumulus ſingula etiam Reipublicæ noſtræ membra vocalia facit, & verbis & literis conqueſtionem edere compellit. Nam quæ tandem infelicitas, ut quod duæ Academiæ noſtræ, quod Academia Pariſienſis, quod multæ aliæ Academiæ in Gallia, quod paſſim doctiſſimi eruditiſſimi & integerrimi viri domi foriſque verum affirmant, & pro vero defendere tam verbis quam calamo ſe paratos oſtendunt, id pro vero non obtineat a ſede Apoſtolica ille Princeps cujus ore atque Præſidio ſua ſtat ſedis Apoſtolicæ Authoritas à tam multis ac Populis etiam Potentiſſimis tam valide impetita, quibus partim ferro, partim calamo, partim voce atque authoritate ſæpius in ea cauſa reſtitit; & tamen ſolus illius authoritatis beneficio non fruitur, qui curavit ut eſſet qua alii fruerentur. His quid reſponderi poſſet non videmus, & malorum interim Pelagus Reipublicæ noſtræ imminere cernimus, ac certum quoddam diluvium comminari, aut quod diluvio par eſt, multa cæde ac ſanguine reſtinctam olim ſucceſſionis controverſiam denuo reducere. Habemus enim ſummis virtutibus Principem, certiſſimo titulo Regem, indubitatam Regno Tranquillitatem daturum, ſi ſobolem ex corpore maſculam nobis reliquerit; cujus in vero matrimonio ſola ſpes eſſe poteſt: Matrimonio autem vero tantum illud nunc obſtat, ut quod de priore Matrimonio tot docti viri pronunciant, id utique veſtra ſanctitas ſua Authoritate declaret. Hoc autem ſi non vult, & qui Pater eſſe debeat, Nos tanquam Orphanos relinquere decrevit, & pro abjectis habere, ita certe interpretabimur, Noſtri nobis curam eſſe relictam, ut aliunde nobis remedia conquiramus. Sed ad hoc ne adigamur, ſanctitatem veſtram oramus ut Regi noſtro in tam ſanctis deſideriis adeſſe, &, ſine mora aut dilatione, favere velit, vehementer obſecramus, ut judicio ſuo comprobet quod viri Doctiſſimi affirmant, per illam quam nobis ex Paſtorali officio debet pietatem ex mutuo cordis affectu obteſtamur, ne claudantur Paterna viſcera, tam obſequentibus, tam benevolis, tam morigeris Filiis. Cauſa Regiæ Majeſtatis noſtra cujuſque propria eſt, à Capite in Membra derivata, dolor ad omnes, atque injuria ex æquo pertinet, omnes in ejus Majeſtate compatimur, quibus facile ſanctitas veſtra mederi poſſet, nec poſſet modo, ſed ex Paterna Pietate deberet. Quod ſi vel id non fecerit, vel facere quidem diſtulerit ſanctitas veſtra, hactenus ſane conditio noſtra erit miſerior, quod tam diu ſine fructu fruſtra laboratum ſit, ſed non omni remedio prorſus deſtituta. Sunt quidem remedia extrema ſemper duriora, ſed morbum omnino utcunque levare curat ægrotus, & in malorum commutatione non nihil eſt ſpei; ut ſi minus ſuccedat quod bonum eſt, ſequatur ſaltem quod eſt minus malum, & id etiam temporis curſu facile tolerandum. Iſta autem ut ſecum conſideret ſanctitas veſtra iterum atque iterum rogamus, in Domino Jeſu Chriſto, cujus vices in terris ſe gerere, profitetur, idque ut nunc factis conetur oſtendere; ut veritatem doctiſſimorum hominum, vigiliis ac laboribus inventam, probatam & confirmatam, ad Dei Laudem & Gloriam ſua ſententia & pronunciatione velit illuſtrare. Interim vero Deum Optim. Maxim. quem ipſam eſſe veritatem certiſſimo teſtimonio cognoſcimus, comprecabimur; ut veſtræ ſanctitatis conſilia ita informare atque dirigere dignetur, ut, quod ſanctum, juſtum ac verum eſt, à veſtra ſanctitatis authoritate obtinentes, ab omni alia aſſe quendæ veritatis moleſtia liberemur.

Paper Office.

Venerabilibus fratribus Archiepiſcopis & Epiſcopis, ac dilectis filiis Abbatibus, Nobilibuſque viris, Ducibus, Marchionibus, Comitibus, Baronibus, Militibus ac Doctoribus Parlamenti Regni Angliæ, Clemens Papa VII.

VEnerabiles fratres & dilecti filii Salutem & Apoſtolicam benedictionem. Multa ſunt in veſtris literis die 13. Julii datis ac nobis ſuperioribus diebus redditis quæ gravius accepiſſemus, niſi ea affectui, ſtudioque veſtro erga chariſſimum in Chriſto Filium noſtrum, Regem veſtrum condonanda arbitraremur. Itaque ſedato animo ad eas literas reſpondebimus, tantum ut doceamus quam immerito de nobis conqueſti ſitis, neque oportuiſſe tantum à vobis tribui privato erga Regem ſive officio ſive amori veſtro, ut nos duobus ingrati adverſus ſerenitatem ſuam animi, ac denegatæ juſticiæ, graviſſimis nominibus incuſaretis. Nos quidem agnoſcimus Regem veſtrum ea omnia quæ in veſtris literis enumeratis, ac multo etiam plura promeritum, manebitque perpetuo non modo apud nos ſed ad Poſteros noſtros memoria ejus in ſedem Apoſtolicam meritorum. Fatemurque nos non modo Pontificiæ Perſonæ quam gerimus, ſed privato noſtro nomine tantum ſerenitati ſuæ debere, ut nunquam beneficiis parem gratiam relaturi videamur. Sed quod attinet ad Controverſiam quæ de Matrimonio eſt inter ſerenitatem ſuam & Catharinam Reginam, tantum abeſt, ut denegando juſtitiam, Regis ſpem fruſtrari voluerimus, ut ultro ab altera parte, tanquam plus æquo in partes Majeſtatis ſuæ propenſi, reprehendamur. Sed, ut paulo altius perpetuum animi noſtri erga Regem veſtrum tenorem repetamus: Cum primum, tribus ferme ab hinc Annis, Regii Oratores ad nos hanc Cauſam detuliſſent; animi noſtri propenſionem potius quam juris rigorem ſecuti, commiſimus illam dilectis filiis noſtris Thomæ Cardinali ſanctæ Ceciliæ Eboracen. in Regno Angliæ Legato, & Laurentio Cardinali Sanctæ Mariæ in Tranſtiberim Campegio à noſtro Latere miſſo, Presbyteris Cardinalibus in Regno atque adeo domi ipſius Regis, audiendam & terminandam; ſatis fecimuſque tum quantum in nobis fuit, ſerenitatis ſuæ voluntati. Verum cùm Regina ſuſpectum illud in partibus judicium habere cepiſſet, & à gravaminibus ſibi, ut dicebat, per eoſdem Legatos illatis ad ſedem Apoſtolicam appellâſſet procuratoribus etiam ad dictam appellationem proſequendam conſtitutis, ne tum quidem deſiderari paſſi ſumus noſtram erga ipſum Regem benevolentiam. Nam tamet ſi cauſæ hujuſmodi appellationis Commiſſio negari non poterat, tamen Concordia potius quam via juris terminari hanc Controverſiam cupientes, omnes moras in Commiſſione dictæ cauſæ appellationis concedenda interpoſuimus, eo pretextu, quod eſſet de majoribus Cauſis, meritoque ad Conſiſtorium rejicienda. Habita vero deinde ſuper hoc cum venerabilibus fratribus noſtris S. R. E. Cardinalibus, aliquoties conſultatione, fuit aliquamdiu dilatum Negotium; ſed tandem unanimi omnium Cardinalium voto concluſum eſt, Commiſſionem cauſæ Appellationis hujuſmodi per nos negari non poſſe. Itaque commiſſa eſt audienda & ſubinde in dicto Conſiſtorio nobis referenda & terminanda. Nam cum omnibus in rebus conſiderate procedere debemus, tum in hac potiſſimum quæ Regias & illuſtres Perſonas tangit, & in quam totius Chriſtianitatis oculos conjectos eſſe videmus. Poſt quæ deinde nullus Regius legitimus procurator comparuit, qui aut ſcripto aut verbo de juribus Regis doceret; ideoque factum, ut lis adhuc decidi non potuerit. Quippe cum ex actis & productis, non ex amore & benevolentia decidenda ſit. Quamobrem nulla cauſa eſt, cur nobis aſcribatis litis quam dicitis protelationem; de qua miramur vos queri, cum illam oratores ipſius Regis alibi, & præſertim Bononiæ, a nobis petierint & impetrarint, invitiſſimis quidem & reclamantibus Reginæ Procuratoribus. Cum itaque nunquam per nos ſteterit, quin hæc lis, omnibus rebus mature diſcuſſis, terminaretur, non videmus quibus rationibus nitatur querimonia veſtra; niſi forte id dicitis, tot eſſe Regis erga nos ac ſedem Apoſtolicam beneficia, ut quoquo modo in ejus voluntatem Cauſam diffinire oportuerit; id enim oſtenditis ſatis aperte cum dicitis, in cauſa, ab eruditiſſimis viris Anglis, Gallis, Italis, ac tot Academiarum ſuffragiis probata, & jam nemine petente, ac reclamantibus quibuſcunque, ſententiam a nobis ferri debuiſſe. Qua in re non parum prudentiam & modeſtiam veſtram requirimus. Nam non videmus, quibus rationibus freti poſtuletis, ut, in cauſa maximi momenti, ſententiam feramus, nemine petente, ac cæteris reclamantibus, cum adverſa pars continue opponat totius Chriſtianitatis ſcandalum, tot annorum Matrimonium ad Supplicationem Clariſſimorum Regum Henrici Patris, ac Ferdinandi Catholici, ex diſpenſatione hujus ſanctæ ſedis conſtitutum; præterea filiam extantem, & plures Reginæ partus; & adverſus opiniones Doctorum, quas pro vobis allegatis, multorum etiam ipſi Doctorum, graviſſimorumque virorum judicium, & pro ſe facientia divini juris mandata adducant; Argumentis hauſtis non modo ex Latinis, ſed etiam ex uberrimis in hac re Hæbreorum fontibus; nobis tamen in neutram adhuc partem inclinantibus, ſed æquas aures præbentibus, cum cauſam hanc graviſſimam, & ad totam Rempublicam Chriſtianam ac poſteritatem omnem pertinere exiſtimemus. Nam ex iis quas pro vobis facere Doctorum hominum atque Univerſitatum Opiniones ſcribitis paucæ admodum venerunt in manus noſtras, nobis non legitimè, nec Regis nomine, ab Oratoribus præſentatæ; illæque nudæ tantum illorum hominum Opiniones, nullis adſcriptis rationibus cur ita ſentiant, nullaque Sacrorum Canonum & Scripturæ, quæ tantum ſpectare debemus, authoritate ſubnixæ. Poſtulare autem; ut, in Regis Gratiam, quicquam temerè atque inconſiderate ſtatuamus, nec æquum nec veſtra ſapientia dignum eſt; nam tametſi multum Serenitati ſuæ debemus, tamen in judicando pluris facere cogimur eum, per quem Reges regnant, & Principes imperant, & veri Patris officium eſt proſpicere, ne nimia facilitate plus æquo indulgeamus filiis noſtris, irretiremus enim non ſolum noſtram, ſed ſerenitatis ſuæ Conſcientiam, immatura ſententia; quæ non rectè prolata, pernicioſo univerſæ Chriſtianitati noceret exemplo. Nam quod Regno veſtro diluvium impendere dicitis, id multo magis timendum eſſe arbitraremur, ſi ſententiam, quæ recta juſticiæ via ac ratione ferenda eſt, præcipitaremus; ac nimio erga Regem veſtrum amore provecti, à juſtitia atque officio noſtro diſcederemus. Maſculam autem Prolem, non vos magis optatis quam nos Serenitati ſuæ: Atque utinam tanto Regi ſimiles filios, ac non regni tantum, ſed etiam virtutum hæredes haberet Chriſtiana Reſpublica: Sed pro Deo non ſumus, ut Liberos dare poſſumus. Quod autem dicitis nolle nos auctoritate noſtra ſecundum veritatem de priore Matrimonio declarare, quod tot docti viri pro ipſo Rege pronuncient, vellemus nos quidem omnibus in rebus Serenitati ſuæ gratificari; poſſe autem ita debemus, ut non deſtruamus; deſtrueremus enim ſi quid contra juris Ordinem ſtatueremus, etiamſi oculis noſtris exploratiſſima res eſſet. Cæterum quod eſt in extremo literarum veſtrarum, niſi petitionibns veſtris ſatisfecerimus, vos exiſtimaturos veſtri vobis curam eſſe relictam, atque aliunde remedia conquiſituros, nec veſtra prudentia nec Religione dignum Conſilium, ab eoque ut abſtineatis, Paterna Charitate vos monemus. Nec tamen ulla medici culpa eſſet, ſi ægrotus, curationis impatiens, quicquam in ſe ſtatuerit, quod adverſaretur ſaluti. Nos quidem quæ rectè ac ſine pernicie dari poſſunt, remedia non denegamus; Quis enim infirmatur & ego non infirmor? Quis ſcandalizatur, & ego non uror? Os meum patet ad vos Filii dilectiſſimi, & vos ut filios chariſſimos monemus: Sed nec Regem ipſum cujus cauſam agitis, probaturum fuiſſe credimus, ut ita ſcriberetis: Cognitam enim & perſpectam habemus ejus Probitatem, ut ne ultro quidem oblatum, quod æquum non eſſet, accepturum fuiſſe putemus: & tametſi veſtrum omnium interceſſionem magnificamus, tamen noſter erga Serenitatem ſuam amor, non patitur ſe cujuſque cohortatione precibuſque excitari: nec meminimus fruſtra unquam Serenitatem ſuam a nobis petiiſſe quod cum noſtro & hujus ſanctæ ſedis honore concedere poſſemus, paremque oſtendemus perpetuo voluntatem. Denique quod ad hanc cauſam attinet, nos quidem nullam ejus expeditioni moram interponemus, quin cum inſtructa, & partes auditæ fuerint, terminetur: Nobis ſummopere cupientibus veſtrum Regem, & ipſam Reginam, noſque ipſos moleſtiſſimo hoc Negotio liberari. Hoc tantum à ſerenitate ſua & Devotionibus veſtris requirimus, ne plus, ob ſumma ejuſdem Regis beneficia, à nobis exigatis, quam quod ſine offenſa Dei perſolvere poſſimus: cum in cæteris omnia à nobis expectare poſſitis, quæ habita officii ac Perſonæ quam gerimus, & Juſtitiæ ratione expectari debent. Datum Romæ apud Sanctum Petrum, ſub annulo Piſcatoris, Die xxvii. Septembris 1530.

SUperioribus Diebus Pontifex Secreto, veluti rem quam magni facere, mihi propoſuit Conditionem hujuſmodi concedi poſſe veſtræ Majeſtati ut duas Uxores habeat. Cui dixi nolle me Provinciam ſuſcipere ea de re ſcribendi, ob eam Cauſam quod ignorarem an inde veſtræ Conſcientiæ ſatisfieri poſſet, quam veſtra Majeſtas imprimis exonerare cupit. Cur autem ſic reſponderem illud in Cauſa fuit, quod ex certo loco, unde quæ Cæſariani moliuntur aucupari ſoleo, exploratum certumque habebam, Cæſarianos illud ipſum quærere & procurare: Quem vero ad Finem id quærant pro certo exprimere non auſim: Id certe totum veſtræ Prudentiæ conſiderandum relinquo-------

Indictione quarta Pontificatûs dicti Sanctiſſimi Patris in Chriſto Anno octavo, in Domo Capitulari Weſtminſter prædicta iterum congregata, nos Willielmus Arch. antedictus noſtrique Suffraganei, cæterique Prælati, & Clerus antedictus veſtræ Regiæ Majeſtati conceſſimus ſummam centum millium librarum, ſumptibus & expenſis omnium noſtrorum prædictorum colligendam, levandam, & ad uſum veſtræ Regiæ Majeſtatis perſolvendam, locis & terminis in ea parte aſſignatis & limitatis, prout in quodam Scripto Certificatorio, veſtræ Celſitudini per nos facto, & ſub ſigillo noſtri Archiepiſcopatûs prædicti plenius continetur: Cujus Conceſſionis Forma ſequitur in hæc Verba.

Si naturaliter obligamur eis benefacere, qui de nobis præ cæteris bene meriti ſunt (ut certe obligamur) profecto niſi humanitatis officia, & naturæ jura fœdè violare voluerimus, non poſſumus prætermittere vel præterire quin Illuſtriſſimo & Potentiſſimo Domino noſtro Henrico Octavo, Angliæ & Franciæ Regi Invictiſſimo, Fidei Defenſori, & Domino Hiberniæ, pro ſuis ingentibus & incomparabilibus beneficiis aliquam animi noſtri gratam Significationem, non tantum per verbalem gratiarum & laudum Actionem, ſed etiam per realis & pecuniariæ benevolentiæ ſpontaneam oblationem oſtendamus. Tanta enim ſunt Illuſtriſſimæ ejus Majeſtatis in nos merita, quòd nullis Laudibus æquari, nullis Gratiis referri, nullis Officiis rependi, nedum noſtris Præmiis aut Muneribus recompenſari queant. Etenim ſicut ſuperioribus diebus, univerſalem Eccleſiam (cujus humillima Membra ſumus) ſtudioſiſſimè Calamo, & ſumptuoſiſſimè Bello contra Hoſtes defendit, tam potenter & invictè quod & nominis & famæ æternam Gloriam inde promeruit, atque ad Cælos viam aperuit & ingreſſum ſibi patefecit, atque præterea totam Chriſti Eccleſiam generaliter, & nos ſuos ſubditos peculiariter, tali merito ſibi perpetuo & obligatiſſime devinxit: Sic impræſens quam plurimos Hoſtes, maximè Lutheranos, in perniciem Eccleſiæ & Cleri Anglicani (Cujus ſingularem Protectorem, Unicum & Supremum Dominum, & quantum per Chriſti legem licet etiam Supremum Caput ipſius, Majeſtatem recognoſcimus) Conſpirantes ac in Prælatorum & Cleri famam & Perſonas, ſparſis famoſis libellis, mendaciis & maledictis, jampridem hoc animo debachantes, ut illorum æſtimationem læderent, & vulgo contemnendos propinarent: Sapientiſſima ejus Majeſtas, ut decebat, piam Fidei & Eccleſiæ defenſorem, ſuis Laboribus, ſuis Rationibus & Conciliis, immo ſuis Monitis, Edictis, & Authoritate taliter contudit & repreſſit, quod illorum audacia cæpit refrigeſcere, quæ maximum Tumultum contra Eccleſiam videbatur excitatura: Qui tametſi in ſola Eccleſiæ Poteſtate præludebant, tamen forſan intendebant non ſolum Prælatorum, ſed etiam omnium Principum poteſtatem enervare, & Evangelii imitationem ſimulantes, atque Sanctum quandam Hypocriſin ſuis inceptis pretendentes, eò reſpiciebant, ut tandem Confœderata nequiſſima multitudine inſurgerent, & bona Chriſto data diriperent, ac in Eccleſiarum Poſſeſſiones violenter irrumperent: Quem metum atque periculum Rex noſter Invictiſſimus a nobis repulit, & curavit ut in quiete ſecuraque pace Deo miniſtrare, & Curæ Animarum Populi Majeſtati ejus commiſſæ, debitè inſervire poſſimus. Quocirca ne Illuſtriſſima ejus Majeſtas ſuam Benevolentiam, & Excellentiſſima Beneficia præfata in omnino ingratos ſe contuliſſe judicet & quia ſumme confidimus, quod ejus celſitudo ex ſua in Deum ingenti pietate, proque Clariſſimo Fidei Defenſoris nomine, quod præ cæteris Regibus longè honoratiſſimum jam olim promeruit, Chriſti Fidem & Eccleſiam ſolito zelo contra Hæreticos & alios oppugnatores potenter defendet: Et ut omnibus & ſingulis Prælatis Clericis, & Religioſis in ſacris Ordinibus conſtitutis, Abbatiſſis, Prioriſſis, etiam Sanctimonialibus Cantuarienſis Provinciæ, atque quibuſvis Judicibus, Advocatis, Regiſtrariis, & Scribis, Procuratoribus ad Judicia conſtitutis, ac Apparitoribus cæteriſque qui intra Cantuarienſem Provinciam, Poteſtatem aut Juriſdictionem, ut Judices, eorumve Deputati, in aliquibus Curis Spiritualibus exercuerunt, aut ejuſdem Juriſdictionis exercitio aut executioni, ſicut Advocati, Regiſtrarii, Scribæ, Procuratores ad Judicia, & Apparitores, Miniſtri fuere, generalem Gratiam, & Pardonationem de omnibus eorum Tranſgreſſionibus, Pœnalium Legum, & Statutorum hujus Regni, tum Cœterorum tum etiam Statutorum de Proviſoribus & Præmunire, in tam amplis modis & forma, prout ſuæ Majeſtati, ex ſolita ſua Benignitate, in Subditos ſuos ſæpius oſtendere placuit, concedere dignetur, nobis in iis condonatis, quæ nobis humillimis ſuis Subditis prodeſſe, & ab Anguſtiis quibus verſamur liberare potuerit. (Quod ut faciat humillimè provoluti in Genua ante Pedes ejuſdem Celſitudinis Supplices deprecamur.) Nos Prælati & Clerus dictæ Provinciæ Cantuarienſis in Convocatione, &c. The laſt Form of Submiſſion required by the King of the Clergy; and to which the Lower Houſe only conſented.

Dr. Atterbury's Rights, &c. of an Engliſh Convocation. Apendix, p. 537. A.D. 1532. Cotton Libr. Cleop. VI. F. fol. 96.

WE your moſt humble Subjects, daily Orators and Beadſmen of your Clergy of England, having our ſpecial Truſt and Confidence in your excellent Wiſdom, your Princely Goodneſs, and fervent Zeal to the Promotion of God's Honour, and Chriſtian Religion, and alſo in your Learning, far exceeding in our Judgment the Learning of all other Kings and Princes that we have read of, and doubting nothing but that the ſame ſhall continue and daily increaſe in your Majeſty.

Firſt, Do offer and promiſe in verbo Sacerdotii, here unto your Highneſs, ſubmitting our ſelves moſt humbly to the ſame, that we will never from henceforth preſume to attempt, alledge, claim, or put in ure; or to enact, promulge, or execute any Canons, Conſtitutions, or Ordinances Provincial, or by any other Name whatſoever they may be call'd in our Convocation in time coming, (which Convocation is always, hath been, and muſt be aſſembled only by your Higheſſes Command or Writ) unleſs your Highneſs by your Royal Aſſent, ſhall licenſe us to make, promulge, and execute the ſame, and thereto give your moſt Royal Aſſent.

Secondly, That whereas divers of the Conſtitutions Provincial, which have been heretofore enacted, be thought to be not only much prejudicial to your Prerogative Royal, but alſo over much onerous to your Highneſſes Subjects, (your foreſaid Clergy is contented) it be committed to the Examination and Judgment of thirty two Perſons, whereof ſixteen to be of the upper and nether Houſe, of the Temporalty, and other ſixteen of the Clergy; all to be choſen and appointed by your moſt noble Grace: So that finally, which ſoever of the ſaid Conſtitutions ſhall be thought and determin'd by the moſt part of the ſaid thirty two Perſons not to ſtand with God's Laws, and the Laws of your Realm, the ſame to be abrogated and taken away by your Highneſs and the Clergy, and to be abolite as of no Force and Strength.

Thirdly, That all other of the ſaid Conſtitutions being view'd and approbate by the ſaid thirty two Perſons, which by the moſt part of their Judgments do ſtand with God's Laws, and your Highneſs, to ſtand in full Strength and Power, your Graces Royal Aſſent once impetrate and fully given to the ſame.

Num. XXIV.

King Henry the Eighth's Letter to Archbiſhop Cranmer, authorizing him to give a final Determination concerning the Marriage between the King and Catharine of Spain.

Ex Biblioth. R.Harley Armig. April, An. Dom. 1533.

MOST Reverend Father, &c. we greet you well. Doing you to underſtand, that the twelfth Day of this Month of April, we received Letters from you, dated at Lambeth the 11th of the ſaid Month. In which Letters ye writ, that, foraſmuch as our great Cauſe of Matrimony (which has long depended in Queſtion) is divulgated, as it is thought throughout all Chriſtendom, and it is ſo commented of the Mouths of no ſmall Number of our People, that many of 'em fear not to ſay and report, that thereof, is likelihood hereafter to enſue great Inconvenience, Dangers and Perils to this Realm, and much Uncertainty to our Succeſſion, whereby our ſaid People is ſeem'd to be not a little offended. Whereupon ye, whom God and we have ordain'd Archbiſhop of Canterbury, and Primate of all this our Realm of England; to whoſe Office it has been and is appertaining, by the Sufferance of us and our Progenitors, as ye write your ſelf moſt juſtly and truly, to order, judge and determine mere Spiritual Cauſes within this our Realm. Having due Conſideration to the ſaid Inconveniences, Dangers and Perils, and Incertainty, if the ſaid Cauſe of Matrimony, ſhould be ſuffer'd ſtill to continue in Queſtion undecided; and alſo reducing to your Remembrance, the great Blame that has been arrected to the Clergy of this our Realm, eſpecially to the Heads and Preſidents of the ſame; becauſe they have not hitherto ſtudied and travell'd for Remedies to exclude and put out of doubt ſuch Uncertainty, Inconveniences, Perils and Dangers, being moved in your Conſcience by reaſon of the Premiſes to endeavour your ſelf as far as you may, by reaſon of your ſaid Office of Primacy, to ſet ſome Direction and End in the ſaid Cauſe of Matrimony, according to the Pleaſure of Almighty God. And thereupon ye duly recognizing, that it becomes you not, being our Subject, to enterprize any part of your ſaid Office, in that ſo great and weighty Cauſe pertaining to us, being your Prince and Sovereign, without our Licence obtain'd ſo to do. And therefore in your moſt humble wiſe, ye ſupply unto us, in your ſaid Letters, to grant unto you our Licence to proceed to the Examination and final Determination of the ſaid Cauſe, in Exoneration of your Conſcience towards God; and for the ſatisfying of your bounden Duty towards us, our Realm, Succeſſion and Poſterity, in avoiding of the ſaid Inconvenience. And finally, in the end of your ſaid Letters, ye beſeech us to pardon your Boldneſs and rude Writing in that ſaid Behalf, and to take the ſame in good Senſe and Part as you do mean, calling God to your Record, that only for the Zeal you have to the Premiſes, ye have written the ſaid Letters, and for none other Intent, Cauſe, or Purpoſe.

My Lord, where you write in the laſt part of your ſaid Letters, whereunto we make you firſt Anſwer, that ye be mov'd only by the Zeal you have to Juſtice, and for the Exoneration of your Conſcience againſt God, to write as you do unto us, we cannot of Reaſon be diſcontented therewith, but condignly praiſe you therein, and for that we perceive that ye have ſuch a good Mind and fervent Zeal to do juſtice according to your Office, for the quieting of our Realm, and for the excluding of ſuch Dangers and Perils as be in your ſaid Letters mention'd; and alſo for putting our Succeſſion and Poſterity out of Queſtion, Doubt and Uncertainty, we cannot but much commend and laud your good and vertuous intended Purpoſe in that behalf.

In Conſideration whereof, albeit we being your King and Sovereign, do recognize no Superior in Earth, but only God, and not being ſubject to the Laws of any other earthly Creature; yet, becauſe ye be under us by God's Calling and ours, the moſt principal Miniſter of our Spiritual Juriſdiction within this our Realm, who we think aſſuredly is ſo in the Fear of God, and Love towards the Obſervance of his Laws, (to the which Laws, we as Chriſtian King, have always heretofore, and ſhall ever moſt obediently ſubmit our ſelf) will not therefore refuſe (our Preheminence and Authority to us and our Succeſſors in this Behalf nevertheleſs ſav'd) your humble Requeſt, Offer and Towardneſs, that is to mean, to make an end according to the Will and Pleaſure of Almighty God, in our ſaid great Cauſe of Matrimony, which has ſo long depended (as our Saviour Chriſt knows) undetermin'd, to our great and grievous Inquietneſs and Burthen of our Conſcience.

Wherefore we inclining to your humble Petition, by theſe our Letters ſeal'd with our Seal, and ſign'd with our Sign Manual, do licenſe you to proceed in the ſaid Cauſe, and to the Examination and final Determination of the ſame; not doubting but that you will have God and the Juſtice of the ſaid Cauſe only before your Eyes, and not to regard any earthly or worldly Affection therein; for aſſuredly, the thing that we moſt covet in this World, is to proceed in all our Acts and Doings, as may be moſt acceptable to the Pleaſure of Almighty God our Creator, and to the Wealth and Honour of us, our Succeſſion and Poſterity, and the Surety of our Realm and Subjects within the ſame.

Num. XXV.

The Archbiſhop of York and the Biſhop of Durham's Letter to the King: In which they report their Meſſage delivered to the Queen; and her Anſwer upon the Sentence of Divorce, pronounced May the 20th, 1533.

Paper Office.

PLeaſe it your Highneſs to underſtand, that this Day we repaired to the Princeſs Dowager, and there I, the Archbiſhop of York, for an Introduction, did declare to her the effect of our Commiſſion, and ſaid to her. 1*ſt*. That your Highneſs neſs had often ſent unto her divers of your Counſel, and amonſt 'em me one, to declare to her the Invalidity of the Marriage between your Highneſs and her. 2dly. That Carnal Knowledge, which is the great Key of the Matter, is ſufficiently proved in the Law, as alſo ſome that were of her Counſel do avow. 3dly. That upon proof ſo ſufficiently made of Carnal Knowledge, Divorce was made between your Highneſs and her. 4thly. That upon Divorce made by lawful Sentence, ſhe was admoniſhed to leave the Name of a Queen, and not to account or call call herſelf hereafter your Highneſs's Wife. 5thly. How that after your Highneſs was diſcharged of the Marriage made with her, you contracted new Marriage with your deareſt Wife Queen Anne. 6thly. That foraſmuch as (thanked be God) fair Iſſue is already ſprung of this Marriage, and more likely to follow by God's Grace, that the whole Body of the Realm gathered together in Parliament, hath for the Stabliſhment of this Iſſue by your deareſt Wife Queen Anne, and the Succeſſion coming of this Marriage, made Acts and Ordinances againſt all them that wou'd in Word or in Deed withſtand 'em: And that for theſe Purpoſes we were ſent unto her Grace, to the intent ſhe might underſtand the true purport of theſe Acts with the Pains, leaſt by Ignorance ſhe ſhould fall in any of 'em, and ſo I declared the Act. Which things being thus declared unto her, ſhe being upon it in great Choler and Agony, and always interrupting our Words, to the aforeſaid Points made theſe Anſwers following. To the 1ſt. That ſhe took the Matrimony between your Highneſs and her to be good, and ſo wou'd always account herſelf to be your Highneſſes lawful Wife, in which Opinion, ſhe ſaid, ſhe wou'd continually till Death perſiſt. To the 2d. She utterly denied that ever Carnal Knowledge was had between her and Prince Arthur, and that ſhe wou'd never confeſs the contrary, and with a loud Voice, when mention was made of this Point, ſhe ſaid, they lied falſly that ſo ſaid. To the 3d ſhe anſwer'd, That ſhe is not bound to ſtand to the Divorce made by my Lord of Canterbury, whom ſhe call'd a Shadow, and that altho' he had given Sentence againſt her, yet the Pope had given Sentence with her, whom ſhe took for Chriſt's Vicar, and therefore wou'd always obey him as his faithful Daughter. To the 4th ſhe anſwer'd, That ſhe wou'd never leave the Name of a Queen, and wou'd always take her ſelf for your Highneſſes Wife. To the 5th ſhe ſaid, That this Marriage, made after her Appeal which ſhe made by your Highneſſes Leave and Conſent, is of no value. To the 6th ſhe anſwer'd, That ſhe is not bound to the Acts of Parliament, foraſmuch as ſhe is your Highneſſes Wife, and not ſubject to your Highneſs, and alſo becauſe theſe Acts were made by your Highneſſes Subjects in your favour, your Highneſs being Party in this matter, with diverſe other unſeeming Words. Unto which her Anſwer, I the Biſhop of Durham replying, Foraſmuch as ſhe had ſaid in her Communication, that both I and the reſidue of her Counſel had always ſhew'd unto her that her matter was juſt and good, I ſaid, that all the Queſtion whereupon we were conſulted at ſuch time as the Legates were here, depended only upon the Validity of the Bull and Brief. Albeit I ſaid, that ſith that time divers other Queſtions had riſen, and had been debated by many Univerſities, the chief of Chriſtendom, of which one was Bononia, the Pope's own Town, and by 'em concluded, that after the Deceaſe of the Brother who had Carnal Knowledge with his Wife, the Brother living might not marry the ſaid Wife by any Diſpenſation of the Pope, becauſe it was forbidden by the Law of God. And foraſmuch as the Pope (albeit the ſaid Concluſions have been by learned Men ſent from your Highneſs declared unto him) never made anſwer, to maintain lawfully his Power to the contrary, but rather, in Confirmation of the Opinions of the ſaid Univerſities, ſaid at Marſile, that if your Grace wou'd ſend a Proxie thither he would give the Sentence for your Highneſs againſt her, becauſe that he knew that the Cauſe was good and juſt; which his Saying was according alſo to an Epiſtle decretal, ſent hither by the Legate Campegius, whereof the Effect was, that if Marriage and Carnal Knowledge was had betwixt Prince Arthur and her, the Legates ſhould pronounce for the Divorce, according whereunto Proofs were brought in before the Legates, and alſo ſince before the Convocations of this Realm and the Biſhops of Canterbury, and by 'em allowed and approved as ſufficient and lawful; whereby it doth plainly appear that the Sentence given by the Pope to the contrary was not valeable, becauſe it pronounced the Diſpenſation which he had no Power to grant, ſeeing it was againſt the Law of God, to be good, therefore I had now chang'd my former Opinion, and exhorted her to do the ſemblable, and to forbear to uſurp any more the Name of a Queen, ſpecially for that the Sentence which ſhe ſticketh ſo greatly unto, was given after your Grace's Appeal to the Council General, and intimate to the Pope, ſo that it cou'd not be valeable, and that if ſhe wou'd ſo do, ſhe might thereby attain much quietneſs for herſelf and her Friends, and that ſhe being conformable ſo to do, I doubt not but your Highneſs wou'd ſuffer her to have about her ſuch Perſons as ſhou'd be to her Pleaſure, and intreat her as your Grace's moſt deareſt Siſter, with all Liberty and Pleaſure; with divers other things which by her much interlacing I was forc'd to anſwer unto. The Specialties whereof and of her Obſtinacy, that ſhe will no ways ne for any Peril or loſs of her Life and her Goods, relinquiſh the Name of a Queen, we do remit for tediouſneſs unto the Wiſdoms and Directions of my Lord of Cheſter, Maſter Almoner, and Mr. Redell, who as they have very ſubſtantially wiſely, and effectually ordered themſelves in the Execution of the Premiſes, ſo we doubt not they will ſincerely report the Circumſtances unto your Highneſs: Whom we beſeech Almighty God long to preſerve in much Honour, to his Pleaſure, and your Highneſſes Deſire. A Letter from the Univerſity of Cambridge to K. H. VIII. congratulating his Majeſty for throwing off the Pope's Supremacy, and ſuppreſſing Superſtition.

Bibl. Cotton. Cleop. E. vi. fol. 242.

Octavius Auguſtus Princeps invictiſſime cum veteranus quidam illi pro tribunali ſedenti libellum timidius porrigerat. Quid (inquit) trepidas commilito tamquam ſi ſtipem Elephanto dares? Ægre nimirum tulit modeſtiſſimus Imperator, quod quam lenitatem & animi moderationem toto orbe notam illuſtremque eſſe voluit, eam ejus Miles ita timide reformidaret. At nos immenſa Clementia meritorumque Magnitudo tuorum, & ardens ille atque inflammatus in pietatem amor, quem in tua Majeſtate cernimus, ita conſolatur & ad ſe invitat, ut quod alioqui ne optare quidem aut ſperare fuiſſemus auſi, id tuæ Majeſtatis in virtutem ac religionem animi impetu & ardore abuſi, etiam petere audeamus. Acceptis enim duobus à tua Majeſtate Beneficiis, quibus nihil majus aut populus accipere aut melius Princeps dare, aut omnino uberius homo homini conferre, præſtareve poteſt, Pace nimirum & pura purgataque Religione: Nova quidem & alia petere, cum quæ dediſti ſint maxima, nec volumus nec debemus. Quæ autem ad hæc defendenda & ſarta tecta conſervanda pertinent, ſi poſtulaverimus, & velle illud tuam Majeſtatem, & jubere ſperamus. Quamquam alteram ita tua Serenitate tutatam fuiſſe cernimus, nihil ut quiſque amplius exoptare poſſit. Alteram tanto ſtudio inchoatam vidimus, ut omnia jam ſperare queamus. Nam cum initio fauſtiſſimi tui Regni ſubactis Scotis, Gallos ad conditiones pacis adegiſti; illa tum fuerunt fundamenta pacis & quietis jacta, tot ut jam annos ad hunc uſque diem, non nemo fortaſſe cupiit, nemo tamen auſus eſt eam convellere.

Ad Religionem vero corrigendam, quæ longè à prima puritate receſſerat, ſero animum adjeciſti; non profecto ſero, ſi quanta res quam parvo ſpatio in illa emendanda & corrigenda, tranſacta confectaque ſit, reputemus; ſed nimirum certe ſero, ſi quanto deſiderio veræ Religionis tua Majeſtas, quanto amore jam agnitæ pietatis populus flagret, velimus conſiderare. Illa quoque quæ ingenti labore, magnoque ſtudio in vineam Domini repaſtinanda refodiendaque peregeris, non ſolum paranda, ſed etiam fruenda fuerant.

Utque tanquam excellens artifex non ſpecioſum præclarumque opus ederes, & ad exitum perduceres; ſed operis etiam tui pulchritudine diu multumque oblectatus, ante actorum laborum fructum jucunda factorum memoria retineres. Quanquam Sublimitatis tuæ labores, & defixas in Evangelium propagandum cogitationes, reſpiciens Deus, ut reſipiſcentem populum & ad leges ſuas converſum aliquo magno bono afficeret; tandem, inquam, aliquando pignus illud amoris erga nos ſui Principem Edvardum infantem, tali parente dignum, ad nos demiſit, ut eſſet cui non ſolum Florentiſſimi Regni, ſed etiam ſinceræ tuæ Fidei Germanæque Religionis Hæreditatem relinqueres. Hujus de cauſa noctes ac dies ſtudere intelligimus; omnemque operam tuam ac ſollicitudinem eò conferre, ut quod in Religione purganda feliciter fortunatiſſimeque ſit inchoatum, quod quidem adhuc relinqui videtur, id Chriſto bene ſecundante perficias quamprimum, & abſolvas. Quid igitur inchoatum dicimus, quid relictum? Annon Romanus Pontifex ejectus eſt? Ejicitur. Annon ejus Diplomata, Condonationes, Indulgentiæ, cæteræque Bullæ ac Nugæ ſunt exploſæ? Exploduntur. Annon bona Monachorum pars, quorum Vita ſuperſtitioſa, Religio vana, Ritus monſtroſi fuerant, ſublata eſt? Tolluntur. Annon indignus Cultus Imaginum ac Sanctorum prohibitus eſt? Prohibetur. Annon Fraterculorum Gens, Natio ex fraudibus & Mendaciis concreta, Romani Pontificis Idolum, Papiſticæ Vanitatis Seminarium, & veterum Phariſiorum & Philoſophorum Reliquiæ, exactæ ſunt? Exiguntur.

Intelligimus nos jamdiu abuti patientia tua, clementiſſime Princeps, niſi quod hæc recordatio pulcherrimorum factorum tuorum quæ nobis eſt jucunda, eſt ut ſperamus & Majeſtati tuæ non ingrata. Quid igitur deſideramus? Quid petimus? Quæ hactenus facta ſunt, ea ſunt omnia ſummo conſilio, ſummaque prudentia geſta. Quicquid enim fuit Errorum & Nebularum, id omne Serenitatis tuæ vigilantia pepulit, diſturbavit, diſſipavit, evertit. Et erat hoc quidem primum, ſed tamen intelligit illa tua Majeſtas non ſemper ſatis eſſe adverſam aciem profligare & fundere, niſi tuam quoque diligenter munias & conſerves. Non ſufficit quantumlibet procul effugâſſe hoſtem, niſi diſpoſitis præſidiis, & per ſtationes idoneas collocato milite, quam longiſſime a tuis muris eundem coerceas.

Magna res eſt, quam es exorſus. Divinum eſt & non humanum Inceptum, religioſiſſime Princeps; Chriſtus ipſe primus hæc jecit Fundamenta, ſecuti Apoſtoli, & tamen quam brevi tempore Zizanium ſuccrevit, adolevit Superſtitio, Pontificia Tyrannis impoſita eſt! Etenim umbra quamvis longe abigatur, niſi accenſis identidem Luminibus aſſiduè repulſa fuerit, quam mox revertit; & hominum fere genus magis Tenebris delectatur quàm Luce. Quamobrem innitendum eſt ſedulo & omni ope in id incumbendum, non ſolum ut ea quæ nunc tua Serenitas habet totius Orbis Lumina, puros ac ſinceros radios emittant, ſed ut ſi quod illis humanitùs contingat, novæ ut Lampades novæque Faces poſſint accendi; qui quanto ſint copioſiores & denſi magis, tanto majorem veræ Lucis proventum, tanto debiliores fore Tenebras, oportet ſperare. Neque vero committendum eſt, ut ex Agro Dominico malæ tantum Herbæ, vitioſæque ſtirpes evellantur, ſed adhibenda eſt opera ut etiam bonæ magno numero foveantur & conſerantur. Quid igitur anticipamus Conſilia tua, & quid faciendum ſit ipſi præibimus? Minimè vero, neque enim ignoramus iſta tuam Sublimitatem agitare & tota mente revolvere quomodo de Pietate vera quam optimè merearis, & Chriſtianam Religionem quam latiſſimè exaugeas, neque id parca & maligna, ſed liberali ac magnifica, vereque Regia Manu. Sed ſi quid tale Majeſtas tua cogitârit, aut animo deſtinaverit, noſtri fuit officii ſubmonere, ſuppliciterque petere, ut huc ad noſtram Academiam flectos oculos: Quæ cum ſemper ſinceriori Religioni maximè faverit, talem Principem qui in ſecernenda depurandaque Doctrina Chriſti, tantum laborem collocaverit, non potuit non eximiè præter cæterorum Subditorum conditionem amare.

Movet nos Fraterculorum Ruina, non quidem quod eos exactos dolemus, quos non ſolum inutiles, ſed etiam pernicioſos Chriſtianæ Religioni fuiſſe duximus; ſed, ut exoptemus & vehementer cupiamus, quæ Domicilia Superſtitioni olim & vanæ Religioni dedicata fuerunt, ut eadem Doctrina Chriſti, boniſque litteris edocendis, aliquando inſerviant.

Atque illud quidem ſupremis precibus a Deo Opt. Max. tuaque Majeſtate petimus, id in ſummis Votis atque Optatis noſtris habemus; quibus ex Ædibus cum Cœnobia dicebantur, ignavus Fucorum Grex, & magnus Impoſtorum numerus evolare ſolebat; ut eadem Collegia facta, vel juvenum præclaros indoles ad diſcendum vel ſeniorum eruditam Turbam ad concionandum, videamus emittere. Quibus noſtris Precibus, ſi tua Majeſtas annuat, cum omnia feceris quæ non ſolum ad conſervandam, ſed etiam ad ornandam tuam Rempub. pertinent, tamen ad innumerabilia tua in Religionem Chriſtianam Beneficia, quod fieri jam poſſe non videbatur, maximus hoc tuo facto cumulus accedet, Jeſus Chriſtus Sereniſſimam Majeſtatem tuam diu ſervet ac tueatur.

This Letter was written after the Diſſolution of the Abbeys, as appears by one Clauſe, in which they deſire the Monaſteries may be turn'd into Colleges for the Incouragement of Preachers, or the Improvement of young People in other Parts of Learning.

The Univerſity of Oxford wrote to the King on a reſembling Subject. In their Addreſs they take notice of the Reſtoration of Learning, and congratulate with him upon the Suppreſſion of the Tyranny and Superſtition of the Court of Rome. Amongſt other Acknowledgments they make his Majeſty one for excepting the Univerſities in the Act of Parliament from the Payment of Firſt Fruits and Tenths. In the Cloſe of the Letter they addreſs him to protect them in their antient Privileges againſt the Encroachment of their Neighbours, by which, I ſuppoſe, they mean the Town of Oxford. Their Addreſs runs thus.

SEreniſſimo Principi Henrico ejus nominis VIII. Angliæ & Franciæ Regi, Domino Hyberniæ, Fidei Defenſori, necnon Eccleſiæ Anglicanæ immediatè poſt Chriſtum in Terris Capiti ſupremo, Cancellarius, & univerſus Oxonienſium Cœtus, Salutem.

Quum alia ſunt permulta, Henrice Regum Clariſſime, quæ ſacræ Majeſtatis tuæ nomen Orbi commendant, illud tamen, communi omnium ſententia, cum primis illuſtrat, quod nihil jam diu tibi ſit antiquius, nihil magis quicquam in Votis habeas, quam Angliam tuam non multis antè ſæculis Barbaram prorſus & Incultam, a fæda Barbarie, reſuſcitatis ubique meliorum Literarum Studiis, vindicare, & ab umbratili ac falſâ quadam Religione, quæ paulatim Romanorum Pontificum Impoſturis irrepſit, ad Pietatem ac verum Numinis Cultum reducere. Nam cum non aliud conſtet eſſe Munus, quod magis Chriſtianum Principem deceat, quam in hunc totis nervis ſcopum incumbere, huc labores omnes, omniaque Conſilia referre, ut Subditi fiant non tam claris literis, quam pietate inſignes, quis jure negaret te Optimi Regis Officio abundè perſunctum eſſe, cujus potiſſimum Opera tantus ubique bonorum pariter ac literatorum proventus, per omnes Regni tui partes exoriatur; ut Britannia in qua Patrum noſtrorum memoria omnium ferè bonarum Artium Studia frigebant, ſic te Principe, ſinceriores Diſciplinas colat, ut in ea non parum multi ſint, qui cum Veteribus ipſis Literarum Proceribus jure optimo queant de Eruditionis Palma concertare; ſic Pietatis Studium amplectatur ut nuſquam omnino magis ad Chriſti Regulam ac puræ Religionis Præſcriptum, hodiè vivatur. Nec mirum ſanè in Regno tuo Virtutis ac Literarum Segetem paſſim renaſci, quum a te, penes quem ſumma rerum eſt, hæc imprimis coluntur; ſicut Subditis tuis vel calcar eſſe poſſis, quo hiſce rebus acrius inſiſtant, quodque facilè maximum eſt, cum harum rerum ſtudioſis ita ex Animo faveas, ut non alios libentius ad ſummos provehas honores, quam quos vel Vitæ integritas, vel eximia Literarum peritia, vel utrumque horum tibi commendant. Accedit etiam quod Academias, quæ ſunt veluti Fontes Virtutis & Literarum Seminaria, ſic Regiâ Autoritate tueris, ſic inauditâ Liberalitate foves, ſic denique melioris Literaturæ Profeſſoribus ornas, ut unus ipſe multorum Beneficia Regum, qui eaſdem primitus in publicam Utilitatem inſtituere, tua penitus Munificentia obſcurâris. Quare nè ſingula perſequamur, vel unum illud Argumento eſt ſanè quam luculento, te Virtute & Literis promovendis eſſe natum, quod tàm benignè Decimarum nuper ac Primitiarum Solutionem, tua ac Senatus Autoritate, eiſdem condonâras. Quod ſanè tàm benignum Facinus, ita Sacratiſſime Majeſtatis tuæ nomen Immortalitati commendatum conſecrârit, ut nunquam ſalvis Literis, ulla Ætatis vel Oblivionis Injuria intercidere poterit. Quod vero noſtrarum eſt partium, ſedulo quidem ac pro virili parte connitemur omnes, ut tanta demum Beneficentia digni judicemur, hoc eſt, ut pro tuis maximè Votis Literis ſimus juxta ac morum Probitate inſigniter conſpicui. Atqui in tales poterimus viros minori cum negotio evadere, ſi tua nunc tandem Celſitudo non gravabitur, bitur, ſimul & Litigiis iſtis, quæ nobis jamdiu cum vicinis noſtris interceſſerint, finem imponere ſimul & Privilegia nobis reſtituere, quæ ab illuſtriſſimis olim Majoribus tuis, noſtræ in publicam ſtudiorum utilitatem, Academiæ ſunt conceſſa. Quæ ut propediem reſtituas tuam Sublimitatem tam vehementer obſecramus, quam iis ad communem Studiorum Tranquillitatem, maximè indigemus. Quod ſi Sacratiſſima Majeſtas tua noſtris annuere precibus, vel querelis potius juſtiſſimis, pro ſua bonitate dignabitur, quod unam pręſtare poſſumus, Deum Opt. Max. pro tua ſalute perpetuis interpellare precibus non ceſſabimus, in quo valeat Celſitudo tua quam diutiſſimè.

Biblioth. Cotton. Cleop. vi. F. ii. Fol. 131. An. Dom. 1535.

HEnricus Octavus Dei Gratia Angliæ & Franciæ Rex, Fidei Defenſor, Dominus Hibernię, ac in Terris ſupremum totius Eccleſię Anglicanę ſub Chriſto Caput, dilectis nobis A. B.

C. D. ſalutem. In Terris ſupremam Eccleſię Anglicanę ſub Chriſto auctoritatem, etſi Regię noſtrę Dignitati, ut pręcellenti jam inde ab adepto primum divina diſponente gratia, hujus Regni noſtri Anglię Sceptro, jure nobis competierit, nunc demum exerere quodam modo impellimur. Nempe quum hi, qui curam illius & Regimen, ſibi potiſſimum arrogabant, ſuis potius ipſorum privatis commodis, quam publicę illius ſaluti, aut compendio conſulentes, eam tandem eò calamitatis tum nimia licentia & in officiis eis commiſſis oſcitantia, tum ſuis malis exemplis, devenire paſſi ſunt, ut non ab re metuendum ſit, nè illam Chriſtus ſuam non agnoſcat ſponſam. Quamobrem noſtrę Regię Excellentię, cui prima & ſuprema poſt Deum Auctoritas in quoſcunque hujus Regni noſtri incolas, nullo ſexûs, ætatis, ordinis aut conditionis habito diſcrimine, ſacro teſtante eloquio, cælitùs demandata eſt; ex muneris hujuſmodi debito potiſſimum incumbit dictam Eccleſiam vitiorum vepribus, quantum cum Deo poſſumus, purgare, & virtutum Seminibus & Plantis conſerere. Porro cum hi qui in eadem de cæteris antehac cenſuram ſibi vendicabant de ſe vero nullam à quovis mortalium haberi ſuſtinebant tum aliis Hominibus plura indies corrigenda committant, tum ex eorum corruptis moribus majori præ cæteris ſint plebi offendiculo: ut non immeritò iidem & bonorum omnium, ſi boni, & malorum omnium ſi contra, certiſſimi ſint Authores. Ab his igitur veluti Fonte & Scaturigine ad Univerſitatem hujus Regni noſtri, & Eccleſiæ Anglicanæ Reformationem jure auſpicandam eſſe duximus; haud vanam ſpem habentes, quod Fonte primitùs purgato purus deinde & limpidus decurret Rivus. Cæterum quia ad ſingula hujus Regni noſtri loca, pro præmiſſis exequandis noſipſi perſonaliter obire non valemus, alios quorum vicariâ fide freti munus hujuſmodi, veluti per Miniſtros exequamur, qui quod vices noſtras in ea parte ſuppleant, in partem ſollicitudinis aſciſſimus, & vocamus. Cum itaque nos alias per dilectum nobis Thomam Cromwel Secretarium noſtrum primarium & Rotulorum noſtrorum Magiſtrum ſive Cuſtodem noſtrum, ad Cauſas Eccleſiaſticas quaſcunque noſtrâ auctoritate, uti ſupremi Capitis dictæ Eccleſiæ Anglicanæ, quomodolibet tractandum ſeu ventilandum, atque ad exercendum, expediendum & exerendum omnem & omnimodam Juriſdictionem, Auctoritatem ſive Poteſtatem Eccleſiaſticam, quæ nobis tanquam ſupremo Capiti hujuſmodi competit, aut quovis modo competere poſſit, aut debeat ubilibet, infra Regnum noſtrum Angliæ & loca quæcunque nobis ſubjecta, Vicemgerentem, Vicarium Generalem, ac Comiſſarium Specialem, & Principalem cum poteſtate alium vel alios Commiſſarium ſive Commiſſarios, ad præmiſſa vel ex eorum aliqua ordinandâ & deputanda, per alias Literas noſtras patentes, ſigillo noſtro majori conjunctas, conſtituerimus, præfecerimus & ordinaverimus prout ex tenore Literarum noſtrarum hujuſmodi plenius liquet.

Quia tamen & ipſe noſtris & totius Regni noſtri negotiis præpeditus exiſtit, quo minus præmiſſa perſonaliter obire & exequi poſſit. Idem Thomas Cromwell Vicemgerens, Vicarius Generalis & Officialis Principalis noſter hujuſmodi, vos A. B. C. D. prælibatos ad infra ſcripta omnia & ſingula vice & nomine noſtris exequenda, Commiſſarios noſtros deputaverit, ordinaverit & conſtituerit. Num. XXXIV.

A Form for Inſtalling or Conſecrating an Abbeſs; compos'd by Theodorus Archbiſhop of Canterbury.

Ordo Romanus. Hittorpius. p. 163.

IN Ordinatione Abbatiſſæ, Epiſcopus debet Miſſam cantare, & eam benedicere hoc modo: Poſt Antiphonam ad Introitum, & datam Orationem, & reliquum officium Miſſæ, uſque ad Evangelium, proſternat ſe electa ante altare retro Epiſcopum, cum duabus vel tribus de ſororibus ſuis, fiantque ibi Litaniæ. Deinde, Pater noſter. Cum Precibus iſtis, ſalvam fac Ancillam tuam Domine Deus meus ſperantem in te. Dominus conſervet eam, & vivificet eam. Et beatam faciat eam in Terra. Dominus cuſtodiat introitum tuum & exitum tuum ex hoc nunc & uſque in ſæculum. Dominus cuſtodiat te ab omni malo. Cuſtodiat animam tuam Dominus. Mittat tibi Dominus Auxilium de Sancto. Et de Sion tueatur te. Nihil proficiet Inimicus in eam. Et filius Iniquitatis non nocebit ei. Eſto illi Domine Turris Fortitudinis, a facie Inimici. Exurge Domine, adjuva eam. Et libera eam propter nomen tuum. Domine, exaudi Orationem meam, & Clamor meus ad te veniat. Precibus finitis, Benedicat eam Epiſcopus, inclinato Capite dicens: Dominus vobiſcum: Et cum Spiritu tuo. Sequitur Oratio.

Oremus.

Concede, quæſumus Omnipotens Deus, Affectui noſtro tuæ miſerationis effectum, & Famulam tuam quam ad Regimen Animarum elegimus, Gratiæ tuæ dono proſequere, ut te largiente, cum ipſa tibi noſtra Electione placeamus. Per Dominum noſtrum.

Tunc Imponat ei Manum ſuper Caput, dicens hanc Præfationem.

Verè dignum & juſtum eſt, æquum & ſalutare: Nos tibi ſemper, & ubique Gratias agere Domine Sancte, Pater Omnipotens, æterne Deus.

Reſpice, quæſumus, ſuper hanc Famulam tuam, quam in tui nominis vice Cuſtodem Monacharum ordinamus. Immitte ei Domine Spiritum Sapientiæ & Intellectûs, Spiritum Conſilii & Fortitudinis, Spiritum Scientiæ & Pietatis, & reple eam Spiritu timoris tui quatenus tua Gratia præventa, nihil contra tuum præceptum faciat, doceat, conſtituat, vel jubeat: Sed magis mentes diſcipularum tam exemplis bonorum operum, quam verbis inſtruat: Et quæ diſcipulabus docuerit eſſe contraria, in operibus ſuis judicet non agenda. Sit in omnibus operibus ſuis provida & conſiderata: Sit ſobria & caſta, ſit vita probabilis, ſit ſapiens & humilis, ſit benigna & charitativa, ſit in pauperum Peregrinorum ſuſceptione aſſidua, ſit in Hoſpitalitate hilaris, ſit pia & miſericors, & ſemper Miſericordiam ſuperexaltet judicio, ut ipſa a te æquiſſimo judice veniam conſequatur. Fac eam Domine te ſolum ex totius viribus ſuis diligere, jejunium amare, corpus caſtigare, delicias non appetere, tribulatis ſubvenire, neminem odiſſe, zelum injuſtum & invidiam non habere, ſuſpicionem omnino devitare, in tuo nomine pro inimicis exorare. Fac eam ſemper agnoſcere, quia tibi redditura eſt rationem villicationis ſuæ, & quantas ſub curâ ſuâ animas habuerit, ipſas ſine dubio ante ſedem Majeſtatis ſuæ ſit latura. Quaproptèr tibi piiſſimo Paſtori ſupplicamus, ut ad Humilitatis noſtræ Orationes, cor ejus gratia tua illuſtres, quo poſſit quæque ſingula ita diſcernere atque temperare, ut fortes habeant quod cupiant, & infirmæ quod non refugiant. Da illi Domine Spiritum compunctionis, ut Cæleſtia ſempèr diligat, & inextinguibilem Gehennæ ignem ante mentis oculos ſibi proponat, quatenus ſupernorum dulcedine gaudiorum, & infernalium amaritudine tormentorum, ſemetipſam irrepræhenſibilem cuſtodiat, ut cum creditis ſibi Ovibus in tremendo examine gaudeat, & cum omnibus Sanctis tuis immarceſcibilem Cæleſtis Regni coronam accipiat. Per Dominum &c. Tunc det ei Regulam, dicens:

Accipe Regulam a Sanctis Patribus nobis traditam, ad regendum nobis cuſtodiendumque gregem tibi a Deo creditum, quantùm Deus ipſe te confortaverit, ac fragilitas humana permiſerit.

Oratio.

Domine Deus Omnipotens, qui Sororem Moyſis Mariam præeuntem cum cęteris Mulieribus inter ęquoreas Undas cum Tympanis & Choris lętâ mente ad Littus Maris venire feciſti, te ſupplices deprecamur pro Famula tua, quę hodie materna in Cathedrâ ſuper univerſas Subditas ſibi Abbatiſſa conſtituitur, ut ita Monaſtica norma tueatur cunctas Famulas tuas, quatenus ad ęternam Gloriam te auxiliante cum omnibus illis introeat lęta, ibique exultans cum Angelis canens Cantica nova, ſequatur agnum quocumque ierit, Chriſtum Dominum noſtrum. Qui tecum vivit & regnat Deus.

Benedictionem velaminum require retrò in Conſecratione ſanctarum Virginum. Ancilla Dei Virgo, cum ad Conſecrationem ſui Epiſcopi offertur, in talibus Veſtibus applicetur, qualibus ſemper uſa eſt Profeſſioni & Sanctimonię aptis. Procedente ergo Epiſcopo ad Officium more ſolenni, imponatur Antiphona ad Introitum, & cętera uſque ad Evangelium: profeſſa illa de religioſi Habitus obſervatione perpetuâ, proſternatur ante Altare toto Corpore, obſecrans intentè Conſecrationum Largitorem, & imponat Schola Litaniam. Quâ finitâ, tâ, eâdemque Ancillâ Dei erectâ, & humilitèr ante Altare nudo Capite inclinatâ, Epiſcopus dicat hanc Præfationem in ejus Conſecrationem.

Præfatio.

Oremus, Fratres chariſſimi, Miſericordiam Domini: Ut illud donum tribuat huic Puellæ, quæ Deo votum vovit, veſtem candidam perferre cum integritate Coronæ in Reſurrectionem Vitæ æternæ, quæ futura eſt nobis.

Sequitur Benedictio.

Famulam tuam, Domine, tua Cuſtodia muniat Pietatis, ut Virginitatis ſanctæ propoſitum, quod te inſpirante ſuſcepit, te protegente illæſum cuſtodiat. Per.

Alia.

Deus, qui Habitaculum tuum in Corde pudico fundâſti, reſpice ſuper hanc Famulam tuam, ut quæ Caſtigationibus aſſiduis poſtulat, tuâ Conſolatione percipiat. Per.

Sequitur Benedictio.

Benedicat te Deus Pater, & Filius, & Spiritus Sanctus, in omni Benedictione ſpirituali, ut maneas ſine Macula ſub Veſtimento Sanctæ Mariæ Matris Domini noſtri Jeſu Chriſti. Qui vivit. Ad miſſam. Preces Famulæ tuæ, quæſumus Domine. Ut ſupra. Secreta. Votivis, quæſumus, Domine, Famulæ tuæ adeſto muneribus, ut te Cuſtode ſervata, Hæreditatem Benedictionis æternæ percipiat. Per.

Hanc igitur Oblationem Famulæ tuæ N. quam tibi offerimus ob diem natalis ſui, quo eam ſacro Velamine protegere dignatus es, quæſumus Domine placatus accipias, pro qua Majeſtati tuæ ſupplices fundimus preces, ut in numerum Sanctarum Virginum eam tranſire præcipias, quatenus tibi ſponſo ſuo venienti cum Lampade inextinguibili poſſit occurrere, atque intra Regna Cœleſtia Gratias tibi referat, Choris Sanctarum Virginum ſociata. Dieſque noſtros, &c.

Mabillon de Liturg. Gallican. lib. 3. pag. 311.

Omnipotens ſempiterne Deus, adjuva quas Virginitatis honore dignatus es decorare. Perferant inchoati operis conſummatum affectum, & votorum ſuorum expediant inſtitutum: Virginali habitu perfectam tibi offerant plenitudinem; & initia ſua perducere mereantur ad finem: Ut matura Sanctimoniæ cumulent merita, & centenarium munus de perfecto agone Virginitatis accipiant.

Conſecratio Virginum.

Caſtum veri Dei Cultum incorruptâ Religione retinentes, inviolabilis naturæ Dominum ſuppliciter oremus: Ut hanc Famulam ſuam corroboret: quæ ſanctam & maximam acceptabilem Deo Virginitatem, adſumptis ſpiritalium Cogitationum viribus, dedicavit, bene concepto mentis propoſito perſeveret: ut Virginitas, quæ Eccleſiæ comparatur, & ſimilitudine divinæ Immortalitatis induitur, Perennitatis Gratiam conſequatur. Per Dominum.

Deus, caſtorum Corporum benignus habitator, & incorruptarum Deus Amator Animarum, Deus qui humanam Subſtantiam in primis hominibus diabolica fraude vitiatam, ita in verbo tuo, per quod omnia facta ſunt, reparas, ut eam non ſolum ad primæ originis innocentiam revoces; ſed etiam ad experientiam bonorum, quæ in novo ſæculo ſunt habenda, perducas; & obſtrictos adhuc conditione Mortalium, jam ad ſimilitudinem provehas Angelorum: Reſpice Domine ſuper has Famulas tuas: Quæ in Manu tua Continentiæ ſuæ Propoſitum conlocantes, tibi devotionem ſuam offerunt, à quo ipſa Vota ſumpſerunt. Quomodo enim Animus mortali Carne circumdatus, legem naturæ, libertatem licentiæ, vim conſuetudinis, & ſtimulos ætatis evinceret: Niſi tu per liberum Arbitrium hunc amorem Virginitatis clementer accenderes; tu hanc Cupiditatem in earum Corde benignus aleres; tu fortitudinem miniſtrares? Effuſa namque in omnes Gentes gratia tua, ex omni Natione quæ eſt ſub Cœlo, in Stellarum innumerabilem numerum Novi Teſtamenti Hæredibus adoptatis, inter cæteras Virtutes, quas Filiis tuis non ex Sanguinibus, nec Voluptate Carnis, ſed de tuo Spiritu genitis, indidiſti, etiam hoc donum in quorumdam mentes de largitatis tuæ fonte defluxit: Ut cum Honorem Nuptiarum nulla interdicta minuiſſent, ac ſuper Copulam tua Benedictio permaneret: Exiſterent tamen ſublimiores Animæ, quæ non hoc concupiſcerent, quod habet mortale Conubium; ſed hoc eligerent, quod præmittit divinum Chriſti Eccleſiæque Sacramentum. Agnovit Auctorem ſuum beata Virginitas; & æmula Integritatis Angelicæ illius Thalamo, illius Cubiculo ſe devovit, qui ſic perpetuæ Virginitatis eſt Sponſus, quemadmodum perpetuæ Virginitatis eſt Filius. Implorantibus ergo auxilium tuum Domine, & confirmari ex Benedictionis tuæ Conſecratione cupientibus da Protectionis tuæ Munimen: Nè Hoſtis antiquus, qui excellentiora Studia ſubtilioribus infeſtat inſidiis, ad obſcurandam perfectæ Continentiæ Palmam per aliquam ſerpat mentis Incuriam: & rapiat de propoſito Virginum, quod etiam moribus decet ineſſe Nuptiarum, ſit in eis, Domine, per donum Spiritûs tui prudens Modeſtia: Et quod ſunt profeſſa cuſtodiant, ſcrutatori Pectorum non Corpore placituræ, ſed Mente. Tranſeant in numerum Sapientium Puellarum; ut cœleſtem Sponſum accenſis Lampadibus cum Oleo præparationis expectent: Nec turbatæ improviſi Regis adventu, ſecuturæ cum lumine, ut præcedentium Choro jungantur, occurrant: Nec excludantur cum ſtultis. Regalem Januam cum ſapientibus Virginibus licenter introeant; & in Agni tui perpetuo Comitatu probabiles manſura Caſtitate permaneant. Per.

Accipe Puella Pallium, quod perferas ſine macula ante Tribunal Domini noſtri Jeſu Chriſti: Cui flectit omne Genu Cœleſtium, & Terreſtrium, & Infernorum. Benedicat te Conditor Cœli & Terræ, Deus Pater Omnipotens: Qui te eligere dignatus eſt ad inſtar Sanctæ Mariæ Matris Domini noſtri Jeſu Chriſti ad integram & immaculatam Virginitatem, quam profeſſa es coram Deo & Angelis ſanctis. Idcirco ſerva Propoſitum; ſerva Caſtitatem per Patientiam: Ut Coronam Virginitatis tuæ accipere merearis. Nunc exoro Domini noſtri Jeſu Chriſti divinam Miſericordiam; ut hanc Virginem conſecrare ac ſanctificare dignetur uſque in finem. Per.

Benedicat te Deus Pater, & Filius, & Spiritus Sanctus omni Benedictione ſpirituali: Ut maneas ſine Macula ſub Veſtimento Sanctæ Mariæ Matris Domini noſtri Jeſu Chriſti. Qui tecum vivit & regnat in ſæcula ſæculorum.

Num. XXXIV.

The Opinion of Gardiner Biſhop of Wincheſter concerning the Articles preſented to the King's Highneſs by the Princes of Germany at the Conference at Smalcald*: Where the Articles were propos'd to the King's Agents the Biſhop of* Hereford, &c. An. 1536.

As touching the firſt Article.

Cleop, V. fol. 213. Gardiner was then Ambaſſador in France.

IF this Article be granted, then ſhall the King's Highneſs be bound unto the Church of Germany; and without their Conſent may not do that the Word of God ſhall permit, unleſs the common Conſent doth concur hereunto.

Whereupon if this Capitulation be lawful, and ſhall bind, then ſhall the Biſhop of Rome draw it for an Argument to his part, that the Word of God may be reſtrain'd to a common Aſſent.

Wherefore a League or Band herein, in ſuch Terms, is in my Judgment incompatible: For by the Word of God, both they may reform their Opinion without our Aſſent, and we without theirs, whatſoever League were made to the contrary.

And as for the World, inaſmuch as the King's Highneſs being of the eſtate of a King, and in his Realm an Emperor, and Head of the Church of England: And among the Princes of Germany, only Dukes, and lower Degrees, ſuch alſo as knowledge the Emperor for their ſupreme Lord. By reaſon whereof, the ſame Reaſons whereby we prove by Scripture the King's Majeſty Head of the Church of England, we prove alſo the Emperor Head of their Churches: How ſhall they, then, without the Conſent of the Head of their Church, which is the Emperor, eſtabliſh with us the Agreement upon their Religion? Or how ſhall we without derogating the King's Cauſe of his Prerogative and Supremacy, covenant with them in that behalf, whom we know are no Heads of their Church, but inferior Members, as long as they knowledge a ſuperior in the ſame Church; that is to ſay, themſelves as Subjects to the Emperor? For as we muſt be order'd by our Head the King's Highneſs, ſo will the Emperor alſo that they ſhould be ruled by him, according to the Word of God. If they herein will not agree with us, then ſhall we vary in a great matter. For either they muſt deny the Emperor their Superior, wherein they be very ſcrupulous, and ſeem to attribute very much unto him: Or elſe granting that, they muſt according to our opinion, which is Truth, grant him the Head of the Church; then it follows that without him they can eſtabliſh nothing; But ſuch as he alone by the Word of God may reform at all times.

As touching the ſecond.

The King's Highneſs might make ſuch a Promiſe unto them as is contain'd in this Article, and thereby be bound, ſo as by the Word all were diſcuſs'd. But on their part, I ſee not how their Promiſe can ſtand, and be ſure, becauſe they knowledge a Subjection to the Emperor.

To the third Article, as concerning the Council to be indicted as they have anſwer'd to the Biſhop of Rome.

Inaſmuch as the King's Highneſs hath nothing to do with the Emperor, I ſee not how his Grace ſhould agree to any Council to be indicted by the ſaid Emperor; and yet this Article doth import that effect; in that it makes an Exception of ſuch a Council as ſhould be indicted according to the Anſwer made to Peter Paul.

As touching the fourth Article.

The King's Highneſs may accompliſh this Article on his part, but I ſee not how they cou'd do any thing again for their part, in letting the Council, for as much as touches them in caſe the Emperor wou'd as Emperor call the Council.

To the fifth Article.

Me ſeemeth the word Aſſociation ſounds not well, ne it were convenient that the King's Highneſs ſhou'd have any lower place than to be Chief, Principal, and Head of the League; and the reſt not to be Aſſociate but Adherent and Dependent hereunto as Contrahents: and if any were, only the Duke of Saxony to be Aſſociate; whom for that he is Elector, the King's Highneſs has been accuſtom'd to write his Couſin, &c. The reſt of the Articles concerning mutual Defence and Money, be very good for the ſaid Princes, for they ſhall be ſure of a great Prince to their Friend; and herewith a Sum of Money in hand, wherewith they might be per caſe relieved: But as for a Reciproque I ſee none to the King's Highneſs for their part again; inaſmuch as they be ſo far off, and call themſelves the Emperor's Subjects.

Finally, when they deſire to have all things agreed unto before they ſend an Ambaſſador to the King's Highneſs, they ſpeak therein wiſely for their own Commodity; for ſo ſhall they ſtill obtain the Glory that they ſhall then ſend unto us, not to learn of us, but to inſtruct and teach us; not to ſue to us, but to direct our Church in ſuch Ceremonies, as by their Deliberation ſhou'd be commun'd off and concluded.

Thus, Mr. Secretary, according to your Letters I write unto you what I think; That is to ſay, what Doubts and Scrupuloſities I find in the matters: wherein per caſe I write ſomewhat amiſs becauſe I underſtand not fully how they take the Emperor in Germany; ne what will be their opinion in him: But if they take him as I gather by their other Writings they do, then our Matters by way of League ſhall be ſo much the more perplexed with them, I would rather adviſe the King's Highneſs, to give them Money wherewith to defend Truth, than to enter any League with ſuch Men, which as I fear cannot be faſt bound again, and dwell alſo ſo far off. To hear their Ambaſſadors, to commune alſo with them, to diſcuſs the very Truth, were very good; but upon the Word of God to make a new Knott, whereof the one end ſhall be in Germany, ſhall declare rather a Change of a Bond of Dependency, than a Riddance thereof: If the King's Highneſs can induce them wholly and uniformly to agree upon the mere Truth, it ſhall be an honourable Deed, beſide the ſecret Merit thereof: But in caſe a Bond were made, and then any of them ſhould ſwerve from any piece of the Capitulation by force of the Emperor, a Grief and Diſpleaſure ſhould enſue without any Commodity of redreſſing the ſame: I write the worſt, for that ever needs Remedy, the beſt needs no Commendation; and the beſt I doubt not, ſhall be followed with you. One thing I have thought good to put you in remembrance of, that it were well done, that they were moved there in Germany, to agree upon the King's Stile, becauſe of his Supremacy, as well as upon the Cauſe of Matrimony; wherein God has given Sentence for the moſt part by the death of the Dowager, and this Cauſe is now ſo neceſſary as the other; for ſince my coming hither I have been aſſay'd herein; and one ſaid, he thought they in Germany would not agree thereunto, for fear of giving unto the Emperor overmuch Authority over them; upon which Occaſion I made in this Anſwer my firſt Reaſon unto you: The King our Maſter has a ſpecial Caſe, becauſe he is Emperor in himſelf, and has no Superior: Other Kings that knowledge an Emperor, had rather ſuffer any Man elſe than the Emperor to be the Head of their Church: This I doubt not by your Wiſdom you can conſider, and the Emperor, which is too great already, they will in no wiſe make him greater.

Num. XXXV.

Biblioth. Cotton, Cleop. E. VI. Fol. 319. An. Dom. 1533. Decemb.

FIrſt, It was moved to ſend for all the Biſhops of the Realm, and eſpecially for ſuch as live neareſt the Court, and examine 'em apart, whether they can prove the Pope Superior to a General Council; or whether he has any more Authority by the Law of God within this Realm, than any other foreign Biſhop.

Secondly, Provided 'twas prov'd, (which I perceive was not much queſtion'd) that the Authority of a General Council was paramount to the Pope's, that then this Doctrine ſhould be publickly ſet forth and preach'd by the Biſhops and Clergy throughout the Realm. And particularly the People ſhou'd be taught, that the Power formerly exercis'd by the Popes in this Realm, was both a Breach of the divine Law, and an Invaſion upon General Councils: And that this Uſurpation in England, got footing only by the connivance of Princes.

Item, That this Doctrine ſhou'd be preach'd, not only by the Prelates and ſecular Clergy, but likewiſe by all the Religious in their reſpective Houſes.

Item, That the King's Appeal from the Pope, to a General Council, ſhou'd be printed and affix'd to every Church Door throughout England. That in Caſe any Fulminations ſhou'd be diſcharg'd againſt the King or Kingdom, it may then appear to the World, that Cenſures ſignifie nothing, as being poſterior to the King's Appeal.

Item, That Copies of the Appeal ſhou'd be tranſmitted into all parts of Chriſtendom, eſpecially into Flanders: That the Injuſtice of the Biſhop of Rome may be apparent to foreign Princes.

Item, That all the Nobles of this Realm, as well Spiritual as Temporal, ſhou'd write a Remonſtrance to the Pope, upon the Subject of the Injuries and Uſurpations upon the King and Kingdom.

Item, 'Twas moved to ſend Spies into Scotland, to feel the Pulſe of that Court, and get Information, whether that Nation is concerting Meaſures with any foreign Prince.

Item, 'Twas thought adviſeable that ſome Perſons of Management might be diſpatch'd into Germany, to ſound the Inclination of the Princes of the Empire, and conclude a League with 'em. The ſame Method was to be taken, and the ſame Negociations carry'd on with the Hans Towns, and with the Cities of Nurembergh and Auſburgh.

The Merchants likewiſe in Brabant were to be applied to for the Purpoſe abovemention'd.

Item, a Regulation to be made for Queen Catharine's (call'd the Princeſs Dowager) and the Lady Mary's Houſe; that is, to appoint their Servants, and ſettle the Train of their Domeſtick.

The Reſolution of the Council concerning ſome of theſe Propoſitions.

Firſt, The Suggeſtions mention'd in the firſt Article with the Circumſtances depending, were referred to the Dean and Almoner, and other Doctors, who were to conſult their Books, and return their Anſwer to the Lords of the Council within a Week. The Biſhops of London, Lincoln and Bath, were likewiſe ſummon'd to appear before the Council. Decemb. the 2d, 1533.

As to the other Articles relating to the Doctrine in the firſt, the Council will determine nothing, till the return of the Anſwers above-mention'd.

As to the Remonſtrance, a Minute was order'd to be drawn up by the Almoner: and that in the firſt place a Copy of an old Letter ſent to the Pope by the Nobility, in the Reign of King Edward the Firſt; and likewiſe a late Letter ſent to the Court of Rome, for the Redreſs of Grievances, ſhould be laid before the Council.

Num. XXXVII.

The Opinion of certain of the Biſhops and Clergy touching a General Council, in the Reign of King Henry the Eighth.

Paper Office.

THO' that in the old Times, when the Empire of Rome had his ample Dominion over the moſt part of the World, the firſt four General Councils which at all times have been of moſt Eſtimation in the Church of Chriſt, were call'd and gather'd by the Emperor's Commandment, and for a godly Intent that Hereſies might be extinct, Schiſms put away, good Order and Manners in the Miniſters of the Church, and the People of the ſame eſtabliſh'd, like as many Councils more were call'd till now of late, by the Negligence, as well of the Emperor as other Princes, the Biſhop of Rome hath been ſuffer'd to uſurp this Power; yet now, foraſmuch that the Empire of Rome, and the Monarchy of the ſame, has no ſuch general Dominion, but that many Princes have abſolute Power in their own Realms, and an whole intire Monarchy, no other Prince may by his Authority call a General Council: But that if any one or more of theſe Princes for the eſtabliſhing of the Faith, for the Extirpation of Schiſms, do lovingly, charitably, with a good ſincere Intent to a ſure Place, require any other Prince, or the reſt of the great Princes be content to agree, that for the Wealth, Quietneſs and Tranquillity of all Chriſtian People, by his or their free Conſent a General Council might be aſſembled; That Prince or thoſe Princes, ſo requir'd, are bound by order of Charity for the good Fruit that may come of it, to condeſcend and agree thereunto, having no lawful Impediment, nor juſt Cauſe to the contrary. The chief Cauſes of the General Councils are before expreſs'd.-------- In all the ancient Councils of the Church in Matters of the Faith, and in Interpretation of Scripture, no Man made diffinite Subſcription but Biſhops and Prieſts, foraſmuch as the Declaration of the Word of God pertains unto them.

St. John cap. xx. v. 22, 23.

Acts xx. v. 28.

The Words of John in his 20th Chapter, Sicut miſit me Pater, & ego mitto vos, &c. has no reſpects to a King's or Princes Power; but only to ſhew how that the Miniſters of the Word of God, choſen and ſent for that intent, are the Meſſengers of Chriſt, to teach the Truth of his Goſpel, and to looſe and bind Sin, &c. As Chriſt was the Meſſenger of his Father. The Words alſo of St. Paul in the 20th Chapter of the Acts; Attendite vobis & univerſo Gregi in quo vos Spiritus Sanctus poſuit Epiſcopos, regere Eccleſiam Dei, were ſpoken unto the Biſhops and Prieſts to be diligent Paſtors of the People, both to teach 'em diligently, and alſo to be circumſpect that falſe Preachers ſhou'd not ſeduce the People, as follows immediately after in the ſame place. Other places of Scripture declare the Highneſs and Excellency of Chriſtian Princes Authority and Power, the which of a truth is moſt high; for he hath Power and Charge generally over all, as well Biſhops and Prieſts as others: The Biſhops and Prieſts have charge of Souls within their own Cures, Power to miniſter Sacraments, and to teach the Word of God, to the which Word of God Chriſtian Princes knowledge themſelves ſubject: And in caſe the Biſhops be negligent, 'tis the Chriſtian Princes Office to ſee 'em do their Duty.

In a Paper drawn up in a fair Hand againſt the Pope's Uſurpation, and concerning the Authority of General Councils, theſe two Propoſitions amongſt others occur.

Cotton Libr. Cleop. E. vi. fol. 329.

Firſt, "That a General Council lawfully conven'd is and ought to be ſuperiour to all Juriſdictions, (either uſurp'd and ſuffer'd as the Papal, or juſtly holden as the King's) in all Matters concerning the Faith, and Direction of the whole Church of Chriſt, which ought to be judged thereby, and by the Decrees of the ſame, only and by none other, they being conſonant to the Law of Chriſt.

Secondly, "That Princes have two ways principally, when none other can prevail, to attain Right. i. e. In Cauſes concerning the Soul, being mere ſpiritual, Appellation to a General Council: In Temporal Cauſes the Sword only: Except by Mediation of Friends the matter may be compounded.

This Paper ſeems to have been written ſoon after the King had appeal'd from the Pope to a General Council.

Reſponſio H. 8. Regis Angliæ ad Bullam Papalem Pauli tertii. Paper Office.

QUandoquidem nulli obſcurum eſſe poteſt, quam indefeſſe, & ſedulo, Chriſti Honorem & Gloriam, deinde Sacroſancti Evangelii curſum, dignitatem, lucem, & ornamentum quærere, illuſtrare, ornare, promovereque ac propagare ad reipublicæ Chriſtianæ uſum & commodum, noſtrique Regni Anglicani fructum & incrementum, omni qua potuimus ſinceritate veritate, ope, induſtria, & diligentia, ſemper & ubique ſtuduerimus, ac nunc etiam non omnino negligimus, præſertim reputantes quantum ex officio divinitus demandato nobis ſit injunctum, quamque dura & acerba adminiſtrati principatûs ratio, a nobis tandem ſit exigenda, viſum eſt non admodum abſurdum, (quanquam profecto ut libere & ex animi ſententia loquamur, minime neceſſarium, rium, utpote orbi univerſo, quantumlibet tacentibus nobis, clarius ac manifeſtius, quam vel ut à nobis dicendum ſit, vel ut ab aliis honeſtè ac probè diſſimulari, poſſit) teſtimonio præſentium fidem facere; primum Principibus Chriſtianis, deinde reliquis Orthodoxis omnibus quotquot veritatem, non autem ſimulationem amplectuntur, nos nullo unquam tempore recuſaſſe, aut ſubterfugiſſe, liberum, verum, purum, catholicum, pium, chriſtianum & ſincerum ac generale Concilium; quinimmo ſæpe id & per quam anxiè, tum propter communem Eccleſiæ ſalutem, & utilitatem, tum propter morum, & abuſuum in Eccleſia reformationem ac emendationem, ſummis votis expetiviſſe, quemadmodum una nobis cum certum eſt bonos viros omnes, apud omnes gentes cum totis ſtudiis expetere: Quis enim, præſertim iſta tempeſtate, hoc turbulentiſſimo tempore, non vere id & ex animo expeteret? non efflagitaret & non omnibus denique votis expoſceret? quando Chriſti, ejuſque ſponſæ Eccleſiæ vera doctrina, quæ Chriſtianorum omnium pabulum eſſe debet, prorſus eſt profligata, oppreſſa, & proculcata, quando Chriſti fides, & Religio, tot, tamque indignis modis eſt tractata fœdataque: Quando ſit ubique, & tam impunè impietas in Chriſti contemptum, & ignominiam, graſſatur, & regnat: denique cum ſurſum ac deorſum volvuntur omnia.

Verum ut in liberum ac pium concilium hujuſmodi, hactenus ſemper propenſi fuimus, & in præſenti ſumus, erimuſque, Præterea (Deo vitam prorogante & ceptis noſtris feliciter aſpirante) omnino in futuro; quo ſcilicet tranquillitas Eccleſiæ Catholicæ reſtituatur, & ſalubris aliqua medicina afflictis rebus opem ferat, ita in concilium violentum, impium, inſincerum, nepharium, & illegitimum, neque ipſi conſentiemus, neque authoris erimus amicis, ut ipſi rei tam impiæ tamque periculoſæ temere unquam conſentiant:

Cum itaque nuper fama & rumore, magis quam certa aliqua ſignificatione, aut intimatione conſueta intellexerimus Paulum, Epiſcopum Romanum, de facto quum id de jure non potuit, Synodum, ſeu (ut ipſe appellat) & generale & œcumenicum Concilium Mantuæ in Partibus Italiæ celebrandum temere & illegittime nulliterque & inique indixiſſe, ac multos Principes & Prælatos, ad Synodum & locum hujuſmodi, pari temeritate, injuria, & nullitate, evocâſſe, ſtatim ob oculos verſabatur quod in eo loco, eoque ex conſeſſu, ſi quid tandem poſſent, fraus, impoſtura calliditas, machinatio, dolus, improbitas, ambitio, auri ſacra fames, largitio vel hypocriſis, expectandum eſt ubi Paulus ac ſui Complices & Confederati lapidem omnem Moturi ſunt, quo regnum ſuum papiſticum, & tyrannidem conſolidare, ac ſtabilire poſſunt & valeant.

Verum hujus rei curam cogitationemque ut inutilem nihilque pene ad nos, niſi quod Reipublicæ Chriſtianæ bene conſultum eſſe cupimus, ſpectantem; denique indignam quæ noſtra ſtudia occuparet rejecimus, deque arduis & gravibus Regni noſtri negotiis, ut par erat, cum ejuſdem Regni primatibus, viriſque doctiſſimis conſultandum deliberandumque fore cenſuimus.

Porro dextrè tractatis ac compoſitis Regni negotiis, quum incidenter de Synodo, mentio denuò fuiſſet oborta, ſuccurrebat diligentius, & quibus de rebus inter ipſum Paulum cæteroſque Catholicos Principes & Chriſtianos impræſentiarum controverteretur; & quæ remedia (quando nullo modo hic eſſe connivendum videbatur) eſſent exercenda.

Quanquam vero certò & haud dubiè fuerimus perſuaſi, nihil nobis, ſubditiſque noſtris commercii eſſe cum illo homine; denique nos aut ſubditos noſtros in aſſerta illa Synodo hujuſmodi neque comparere, neque nuncium aut procuratorem aliquem (attenta rei magnitudine & importantia) illuc mittere quavis ratione obligatos eſſe; tamen quo infirmitati aliorum juxta regulam evangelicam conſulamus, tum ut orbis intelligat non libidine aliqua animi, ſed honeſtis ac juſtis rationibus permotos fuiſſe nos, quominus aut ipſi veniremus, aut nuncium vel procuratorem aliquem hujuſmodi mitteremus; dicimus, proponimus & allegamus, necnon ad omnem juris effectum, qui exinde ſequi poſſit & valeat, proteſtamur, citra tamen ipſius Epiſcopi Romani prætenſæ juriſdictionis, & auctoritatis prorogationem, aut in ipſum ipſiuſque prætenſam juriſdictionem, & uſurpatam auctoritatem, conſenſum: Quod cum mos indicendorum Conciliorum Epiſcopoſque tum alios, tum ipſum quoque Romanum evocandorum, antiquitus is fuiſſe traditur, ut non unius Romani Epiſcopi arbitrio, ſed Imperatorum, Regum & Principum, auctoritate, conſenſu, voluntate & mandato, indicerentur & fierent, (id quod ex optimis & probatiſſimis quibuſque authoribus & teſtibus manifeſtius eſt quam ut poſſit inficiari) non debuit, immo non potuit Paulus prædictus (adhibitis ſecum Cardinalibus creaturis (ut blaſphemus ille blaſpheme appellat) ſuis, & conjuratis aliquot Epiſcopis, omnia ut illi libeat licere affirmantibus) citra Chriſtianorum Principum conſenſum, voluntatem, auctoritatem ac mandatum, Synodum aut indicere, aut (quod ſe facturum glorioſè jactitat) in illa præſidere.

Quis enim ferat, aut æquum putet (niſi planè ſtupidus is ſit, & rerum tam divinarum quam humanarum omnium imperitus æſtimator) eum (Romanum dico qui cæteris Epiſcopis par eſt & æqualis, nec ullam de jure divino ſuperioritatem prærogativamq; ſupra cæteros Epiſcopos habeat, aut habere poſſit, ea eſſe animi confidentia, elatione & ſuperbia, audacia denique & arrogantia, ſupra quam dici poſſit ſacrilega & nefanda, ut citra Chriſtianorum Principum conſenſum & auctoritatem, generale Concilium indicere, Reges & Principes reluctantes, ac invitos imperioſè ad id evocare: Denique invitis omnibus contra expreſſum Dei verbum, ſacroſanctamque illius voluntatem in Chriſtianorum cœtu dominari; regnare in hominum conſcientiis, & (ut ſemel finiam) ſub concordiæ & unitatis prætextu, quo incautos fallat, in cauſa propria (ubi de ipſius ſuorumque falſa & improba Doctrina, de nonnullis Traditionibus impiis & nephariis; denique de ementito hactenus illius primatu & imperio agitur, de quo certè apud omnes juſtiſſima eſt querela cum is judicandus ſit) judicare poſſe cenſeatur; ac omnia tàm divina, quàm humana figere, & refigere pro arbitrio. Quod ſi Concilium illi indicere licuiſſet (id quod non licere & jam diximus, perpetuoque dicemus, aſtipulantibus nobis quotquot eruditi ſunt, & Pontifici ipſi Romano minime obærati) tamen belligerantibus inter ſe Principibus Chriſtianis, & tot tantiſque rerum tumultibus, occupatis, non conveniebat profecto ad Concilium vocare, diemque ac locum præfigere, priuſquam concordia, pax & tranquillitas inter illos Principes coaleſcens, orbi fuiſſet reddita.

Nam id primum niſi actum fuerit, quid aliud eſt Concilium indicere, quam vel oleum & operam (quod aiunt) perdere? negligentibus ſcilicet illis intereſſe, & intentos animos redintegrandis rebus adhibere, vel omnia in rem & utilitatem ſuam agere, dum illis bello & tumultibus vehementer implicitis, non vacat, aut non libet videre, quid interim tumultuantibus illis perficere deſignet: Quorum alterum ut imperitum arguit, ita alterum impoſtorem plane, & vafrum hominem probat.

Porro tam diſtantem & remotum locum, tam plenum periculis, tamque expoſitum & obvium injuriis, adhæc tam vicinum & propinquum ipſius Pauli ditionibus, conſanguineis & amicis, denique in quo tanta tamque magna fertur illius eſſe potentia & fortitudo, aſſignare; quid aliud eſt obſecro, quam eos qui vel aliquantulum rerum uſu ſapiunt, ne talem locum accedant planè deterrere, vel parum cautos & oſcitantes, veluti in naſſam pellicere.

Quis enim niſi demens prorſus, & plane mente captus, ſciens prudenſque ac volens, manifeſtis ſe exponat periculis, in hoſtium ſinu ſe reponat, ac ad mortem per violentam injuriam, non autem per juſtitiam, ultroneum ſe, cum vitare liceat, offerat temere; quod ſane facturus erit quiſquis is fuerit, minimè dubium eſt, qui Cremonæ vicinam Mantuam hac tempeſtate adiverit, & libidini Romani Pontificis & imperio fuerit adverſatus.

Quam vero non ſint ſecura & tuta, immo quam plena periculis, & quam obnoxia adverſis caſibus, & injuriis, iis præſertim qui ab ipſo Epiſcopo Romano diverſum ſentiunt, omnes quotquot & locorum & rerum ſtatus, ac ſæculi hujus calamitatis ac miſeriæ vel mediocrem cognitionem habuerint, non difficulter pronunciabunt putabuntque.

Ad hæc periculi etiam nonnihil ex defectu ſalvi Conductûs, de quo nihil hactenus dictum fuit, oritur ab illis quorum ea ſunt loca concedendi, qui cum non ſit præſtitus, temeritatem profecto argueret illius qui cum juſtus timor & metus eum excuſant, periculoſo nihilominus itineri ſe committeret: Et præſtitus quidem, (rebus ſic ſe habentibus, ut habent, & tam potentibus Principibus inter ſe tam atrociter contendentibus, nihil habet in ſe ſolidi & firmi: Sed adeo fragilem lubricamque cautionem continet & complectitur, ut qui illum habeat, ſecurus magis quam tutus plerumque cenſeri poſſit. Cujus rei fidem, etiamſi nihil eſſet aliud, facere poſſunt non pauci in papiſticis illis Conciliis olim neglecti ſalvi Conductûs, & contemptæ promiſſiones.

Sed hæc cum ſint nobiſcum aliis Principibus communia, deſinemus illa perſequi; perſequemur autem nunc (quanquam carptim & breviter cum nulli non ſunt nota quæ deinceps dicturi ſumus) ea quæ privatim & ſeorſim nos reſpiciunt. Qualia ſunt quod idem Paulus animo eſt in nos hoſtili, & pluſquam capitali, non raro id neque diſſimulanter oſtendens, ſed palàm & apertè. Deinde quod nuper cum quibuſdam Rebellibus Subditis noſtris, Confœderationes, & Conſpirationes iniverit & fecerit in noſtrum, Regni noſtri contemptum, præjudicium, offenſam, & injuriam, Rebellionem in Dominiis noſtris non chriſtianè ſed malicioſè & fraudulenter concitando, ac Subditos noſtros, quantum in ipſo fuit, ut nobis rebellarent, repugnarentque ſollicitando; denique mediis illicitis, nunc pecuniis & præmiis, nunc fictis honoribus & titulis, nunc blandiciis ac promiſſis pertrahendo, non pacem veniens mittere in terram, ſed gladium, ac gladium quidem alium quam Chriſtus vel intellexerat, vel unquam exercebat.

At valeant ingratiſſimi homines, indigni qui vel hominum vocabulum habeant, quorum ſeditioſos conatus, quanquam Deo benè fortunante, irritos reddidimus, tutum tamen non videtur ad loca præſertim tam remota, in tantis rerum turbinibus, nos conferre, aut commiſſum nobis gregem negligenter deſerere; nè abſentibus ſcilicet nobis, aſtuta vulpecula, imo verius ſanguinarius & rapax Lupus, incuſtoditum, & defenſore ſuo carentem Gregem, crudeliter invadat, miſereque dilaniet; tranquillitatem Chriſtianorum non ferens, ſed cædem depopulationem, & ruinam quærens.

Manet quidem haud dubiè, & alta mente repoſtum manebit, quod illius Epiſcopi Romani ſuper omnes Gentes, Eccleſias & Regna, prætenſum uſurpatumque primatum non agnoſcimus, quamquam nec agnoſcere debeamus. Dolet illi non licere tyrannidem in regno noſtro (quod licuit olim conniventibus majoribus noſtris, & ut tunc ferebant tempora permittentibus) exercere. Iniquiſſimo fert animo non poſſe immenſam auri vim fictis ac mendacibus titulis, indulgentiarum præſertim & diplomatum, congerere, & pro arbitrio exportare; denique in hoc Regno non facere quod libet.

Verum utcunque res ceciderit, nos hæc illi tamen cum tanto Religionis Chriſtianæ detrimento, ac Regni noſtri non præjudicio ſolum, ſed pernicie, haud unquam conceſſuri permiſſurive ſumus.

Porro cum nihil neque ſacroſanctum, aut honeſtum, nihil denique quod aut Evangelicis Litteris congruat, aut bonis moribus proficiat, in eo Concilio (ſi ex principio & malè jactis fundamentis quid deinceps ſecuturum ſit liberè liceat pronunciare) ipſi Epiſcopo Romano ſtatuere ſit animus, niſi forſan (quod verſuti plerumque ſolent) ſub ſpecie aliqua honeſtatis quædam in hominum gratiam concedet, quo deinceps liberius homines fallat minime ſuſpicaces, non putavimus æquum, immo nec ſalva conſcientia debuimus, nos, aut ſubditi noſtri, procuratorem vel nuncium, tot refragantibus rebus, & exiſtentibus impedimentis, ad eum locum, eam perſonam mittere, cujus juriſdictioni nullatenus nos ſubici certum eſt; & quam veluti competentem in hac parte, nos & Subditi noſtri, ex cauſis prædictis, aliiſque juſtiſſimis, nos & illos, reſpectivè moventibus, neque hic agnoſcimus, neque (altiſſimo noſtros conatus benè ſicuti ſperamus moderante) agnituri unquam ſumus: Id quod (quo magis fidem adhibeas) chriſtiane ac pie Lector, expreſsè ac dilucidè dictum teſtatumque hic eſſe voluimus: Præſertim cum hoc Concilium, quin verius Conciliabulum (cur enim non ita appellare ſit liberum, cum magis hoc, quam illud quadret) à Paulo prædicto indictum deſignatumque, non eò ſpectare videmus quo ſui & ſuorum impii errores, & abuſus corrigantur & reformentur: ſed ad opprimendum Veritatem Evangelicam, Regnumque Papiſticum, Antichriſti autem Imperium, ſtabiliendum ornandumque.

Itaque quid facturi ſint alii Chriſtiani Principes & Fideles prorſus neſcientes, ac quid denique nobis viſum eſt paucis aperientes, (quod noſtrum factum bonos omnes boni conſulturos eſſe minimè dubitamus) Deum Optimum Maximum cujus nutu, ac renatu diſponantur ac fiunt omnia, ex animo precamur, ut miſeriarum humanarum, de piiſſima ac infinita illa & immenſa ſua benignitate, miſertus, ſublatis ubique diſcordiis, ac gravibus rerum tumultibus, liberum tandem, ſincerum, purum, verum, catholicum ac chriſtianum œcumenicum Concilium, de conſenſu Principum congregatum, (quo de illius honore & gloria, Chriſtianorum omnium utilitate & fructu, catholicè, concorditer ac unanimiter tractetur, (ſuo Gregi Chriſtiano, cujus cauſa & amore, tot tamque diros & indignos cruciatus, tormenta, & afflictiones, unigenitus Dei Filius in hoc mundo ſua ſponte perpeſſus eſt, concedere dignetur. Pro quo celebrando quemadmodum hactenus nihil omnino prætermiſimus, quod ut fieret expedire videbatur; ita nec prætermittemus unquam, ubi aliqua vel leviſſima occaſio & opportunitas nobis dabitur.

Et tamen (ut liberè ſincereque & apertè loquamur) ea jam videtur eſſe & rerum, & temporum tam miſeranda conditio, ut quanquam multa non ſolum dici, ſed fieri etiam in Chriſti laudem,nominiſq; ſui propagationem concupiſcimus & optamus, tamen ſic in immenſum veteres errores, & abuſus crevere, & quotidie novi exoriuntur, ut ſalubrem aliquam medicinam, multo facilius ſit optare quam ſperare; adeo quod (quemadmodum nobis videtur) vel nulla jam eſt, tot, tamque gravibus & multiplicibus, denique tam inveteratis, & confirmatis morbis ſanandis, curandiſque medicina ex parte conſentanea, & ſufficiens. Vel ſaltem hæc via eſſe videtur admodum compendiaria, ut ſi ad tollendos corrigendoſque hujuſmodi errores & exceſſus, Concilium tale, loco, tempore, & circumſtantiis legitimis, in hac rerum & temporum malignitate, congregari fieri, & haberi, non poſſit, (id quod modis multis & rationibus pluſquam videtur veriſimile) ſaltem Concilio Provinciali, cum videlicet & vigilantia ſingulorum Principum, in ſua cujuſque ditione, regimine & imperio, exceſſus & abuſus hujuſmodi debitè reformarentur corrigerenturque: Qua quidem in re noſtrarum partium eſſe, obiter & reliquos Chriſtianos Principes noſtro exemplo, factoque & conſilio, redderem admonitos: Ne callidis & vafris ipſius Pauli commentis & fraudibus, ſubſcribere, aut ſe illius uſurpatæ, violentæ, & injuſtæ tyrannidi ſubjicere, ſed Honorem ac Majeſtatem ſuam integram, & ſartam tectam habere velint, ac ut debita reformatio fiat, modis omnibus contendant.

Illud autem (quod minime tacendum eſt) addimus, quod ſi in hoc Mantuæ Concilio (ſic enim Paulus, non Apoſtolus tamen, nec adeo bonus Epiſcopus appellandum cenſet, quanquam nos contrarium, & minime ſic appellandum putamus) quicquam geſtum, tractatum, ordinatum, ſeu concluſum fuerit, quod cum ſacro Evangelio, Religioneque Chriſtiana prorſus, & omnimodò conveniat; qua quidem in re tamen, non Pauli illius judicio, conjuratorumque ſuorum & complicum; ſed ſententiæ & opinioni eorum qui verè & ſincerè Evangelio favent, acceſſuros nos eſſe profitemur: Non quia illic, aut ab ipſo Paulo geſtum & factum fuerit, ſed quoniam revera jure divino eſt congruum, ac rationi humanæ conſonum, accepturi probaturique ſumus: Id quod in Infidelium etiam dictis & factis nos poſſe facere quis neget?

Quod ſi in illo aſſerto Concilio quicquam tractetur, geratur, aut fiat, quod cum Evangelicis Litteris pugnat, aut in Chriſti dedecus, ignominiam, & contemptum cedat; vel denique in Romani Epiſcopi aſſertum, uſurpatumque primatum & imperium, noſtri aut amicorum noſtrorum, vel ſubditorum Regni noſtri præjudicium, gravamen, aut injurias, tendat, (quod ſanè valdè eſt veriſimile futurum, & quaſi certum, ſi ut cæperit, pergat, & ex præteritis futura liceat colligere) id nos non eſſe accepturos probaturoſve, ut rejicere ac reprobare, damnareque protinus, & pro nullo irrito & inani habere velimus: Id quod in caſum & eventum hujuſmodi, etiam exnunc non acceptamus, nec probamus; ſed rejicimus, reprobamus ac damnamus per Præſentes.

Proteſtantes poſtremo, quod fuit, & eſt intentio, animique noſtri propoſitum & voluntas, hanc præſentem Proteſtationem & ſingula contenta in eadem, pro loco & tempore opportunis & congruis, quotiens & quando nobis melius expedire, & magis prodeſſe videbitur, emendare, corrigere, reformare, ac in meliorem & competentiorem formam redigere, necnon eidem addere, ac ab eadem ſubtrahere, juxta & ſecundum Conſilium Doctorum proborumque Virorum, prout juris fuerit & rationis.

Hæc ſunt chriſtiane ac pie Lector, quæ tibi, & per te cæteris omnibus dicta declarataque eſſe voluimus: Nihil addubitantes quin jamdudum tibi perſuaſerimus, Pontificem ipſum Paulum, & aſtute nobiſcum, & iniquè hic egiſſe. Deinde honeſtiſſimas nos habere rationes quamobrem Concilium illud declinavimus, ejuſque Concilii aſſertum mendacemque Parentem, minimè pro Concilii Præſide, aut ſummo illius Authore, vel Judice aut Monarcha, acceptandum putavimus.

Teſtamur autem apud te cæteroſque Catholicos & Fideles, chriſtiane Lector, eam ſinceram Fidem, & Doctrinam nos tenere, & (Deo dante) ſincerè & integrè, quamdiu ſpiritus hos regit artus amplexuros, profeſſuros, & retenturos eſſe, quam vera & catholica Eccleſia hactenus ſemper prædicavit & docuit: Quodque ab hac veræ catholicæ Eccleſiæ unitate nunquam quavis cauſâ vel occaſione diſceſſuri ſumus: Denique quod in tota hac cauſa nihil aliud expectamus aut quærimus, quam Dei gloriam, & publicam chriſtiani orbis utilitatem & Pacem: Quam animi affectionem tam in nobis quam in reliquis Principibus omnibus auctam abunde atque multiplicatam eſſe ſummis votis exoptamus. Quod præſtare dignetur Jeſus Chriſtus, omnis boni & Author & Conſummator: Cui ſit honor & gloria in æternum. Amen.

Num. XXXIX.

King Henry the Eighth's Letter to ſome of the Biſhops, reprimanding them for not reading the Articles lately ſet forth, and for ſpeaking againſt ſome of the Ceremonies of the Church.

Ex Biblioth. R. Harley Armig. Novemb. 20. An. Dom. 1536.

RIght Reverend Father in God, Right Truſty and Welbelov'd we greet you well: And whereas upon the good Opinion which of your Vertue, Learning and good Qualities we had heretofore conceiv'd, purely and plainly to ſet forth the Word of God, and inſtruct our People in the Truth of the ſame, in a ſimple and plain ſort for their better Inſtructions, Unity, Quiet and Agreement in the Points thereof, we advanc'd you to the Room and Office of a Biſhop within this our Realm, and ſo endow'd you with great Revenues and Poſſeſſions; perceiving after that, by the Contrariety of Preaching within this our Realm, our ſaid People were brought into a Diverſity of Opinion, whereby there enſued Contention among 'em, which was only engender'd by a certain contemptuous manner of ſpeaking againſt honeſt, laudable and tolerable Ceremonies,

Uſages and Cuſtoms of the Church, we were enforc'd by ſundry Letters to admoniſh and command you amongſt others to preach God's Word ſincerely, and declare Abuſes plainly, and in no ways contentiouſly to treat of Matters indifferent, which be neither neceſſary to our Salvation, as the good and vertuous Ceremonies of holy Church, ne yet in any wiſe to be contemn'd and abrogate, for that they be Incitements and Motions to Vertue, and Allurements to Devotion. All which our Travel notwithſtanding, ſo little Regards you took to our Advertiſements therein, that we were conſtrain'd to put our own Pen to the Book, and to conceive certain Articles, which were by all you, the Biſhops and whole Clergy of this our Realm in Convocation agree'd on, as Catholick, meet, and neceſſary to be by our Authority, for avoiding of all Contention, ſet forth, read and taught to our Subjects, to bring the ſame in Unity, Quietneſs and good Concord: Suppoſing then that no Perſonage having Authority under us, as ye have, wou'd either have preſum'd to have ſpoken any Word that might have offended the Sentence and Meaning of the ſame, or have been any thing remiſs, ſlack or negligent, in the plain ſetting forth of them, as they be conceived, ſo as by that Means the Fruit of Quiet and Unity ſhou'd not grow thereupon, as we deſir'd and look'd for of the ſame. And perceiving eftſoons by credible Report, that our Labours, Travail and Deſire therein, is nevertheleſs defeated, and in manner, by general and contemptuous Words, contemn'd and deſpis'd: So that by the Abſtinence of direct and plain ſetting forth of the ſaid Articles, and by the fond and contentious manner of ſpeaking, that ye and ſome others of your ſort, do ſtill uſe, againſt the honeſt Rites, Cuſtoms and Uſages, and ceremonial things of the Church: Our People be much more offended than they were before, and in manner exclaim, that we will ſuffer that Injury at your Hands; whereby they think God, us and our whole Realm highly offended; inſomuch as principally upon that Ground, and for the Reformation of your Abuſes therein they have made, this Commotion and Inſurrection whereby they have offended us, damag'd themſelves, and troubled many of our good Subjects. We be now inforced for our Diſcharge towards God, and for the tender Love and Zeal we bear to the Tranquillity, Love and Unity of our ſaid Subjects, again to addreſs theſe our Letters unto you, as a peremptory Warning to adviſe you to demean and uſe your ſelves as ſhall hereafter be declared, upon Pain of Deprivation from your Biſhoprick; and further to be puniſh'd for your Contempt, if you ſhall offend in the contrary, as Juſtice ſhall require for your own Treſpaſs, and as may ſerve for the Example of others. And Firſt, We eſpecially charge and command you, that plainly and diſtinctly, without any Additions, you ſhall every Holy-day, whereſoever you ſhall be within your Dioceſe, when you may ſo do with your Health, openly in your Cathedral Church, or in the Pariſh Church where you ſhall fortune to be, read and declare our ſaid Articles, and in no wiſe in the reſt of your Words, which you ſhall then ſpeak of your ſelf (if you ſpeak any thing) utter any Word that ſhall make the ſame or any Word in the ſame, doubtful to the People.

Secondly, We will and command you, that you ſhall in your Perſon travel from Place to Place in all your Dioceſe, as you may with your Commodity, and endeavour your ſelf every Holy-day to make a Collation to the People, and in the ſame, to ſet forth plainly thoſe Texts of Scripture that you ſhall treat off, and with the ſame alſo, as well to declare the Obedience due by God's Law to your Prince and Sovereign Lord, (againſt whoſe Commandment, they ought in no wiſe, tho' the ſame were unjuſt to uſe any Violence) as to commend and praiſe all the honeſt Ceremonies of the Church, as they be to be prais'd in ſuch plain and reverend ſort, that the People may perceive that they be not contemn'd, and yet learn how they were inſtituted, and how they ought to be obſerv'd and eſteem'd. Uſing ſuch a Temperance therein, that our ſaid People be not corrupted by putting over much Affiance in them, which ſhou'd more offend than the clean ſilencing of the ſame. And that our People may therewith the better know their Duty to us, being their King and Sovereign Lord.

Thirdly, We ſtraitly charge and command you, that neither in your private Communications you ſhall uſe any Words that may ſound to the contrary of this our Commandment; ne that you ſhall keep or retain any Man of any Degree, that ſhall in his Words privately or apertly, directly or indirectly, ſpeak in thoſe Matters of the Ceremonies contemptuouſly or contentiouſly. But we will, in caſe you have, or ſhall have any ſuch Perſon that will not better temper his Tongue; ye ſhall, as an Offender and Seducer of our People, ſend the ſame in ſafe Cuſtody to us and our Council, to be puniſh'd as ſhall appertain, and ſembleably to do with other Strangers, whom ye ſhall hear to be Offenders in that part.

Fourthly, Our Pleaſure and Commandment is, that you ſhall on our Behalf, give ſtrait Commandment upon like pain of Deprivation and farther Puniſhment, to all Parſons, Vicars, Curates and Governours of Religious Houſes, Colleges and other Places Eccleſiaſtical, within your Dioceſe, that they and every of them ſhall, touching the indifferent Praiſe of Ceremonies, the avoiding of Contentions, and contemptuous Communication concerning any of the ſame, and the diſtinct and plain reading of our Articles, obſerve and perform in their Churches, Monaſteries, and other Houſes Eccleſiaſtical aforeſaid, the very ſame Order that is before to you preſcrib'd.

And further, that ye permit nor ſuffer any Man of what Degree ſoever he be in Learning, Stranger or other, to preach in any Place within your ſaid Dioceſe, out of his own Church, by virtue of any Licence by us, or any of our Miniſters, granted before the 15th Day of this Month, neither in your Preſence nor elſewhere; unleſs he be a Man of ſuch Honeſty, Learning and Judgment, as you ſhall think able for that Purpoſe, and one whom in manner you dare anſwer for.

Finally, Whereas we be advertis'd, that divers Prieſts have preſum'd to marry themſelves contrary to the Cuſtom of our Church of England: our Pleaſure is, you ſhall make ſtrict Enquiry within your Dioceſe, whether there be any ſuch Reſiant within the ſame, or no. And in caſe you find that there be any ſuch Prieſts who have preſumed to marry themſelves, and have ſith hence uſed or exerciſed in any thing the Office of Prieſthood, we charge you as you will anſwer upon the Pains aforeſaid, to cauſe 'em to be apprehended, and to ſend 'em up unto us accordingly.

Given under our Signet at our Caſtle of Windſor, the 20th of November, in the 28th Year of our Reign.

Paper Office. An. Dom. 1537.

YE ſhall pray for the Univerſal Catholick Church, both Quick and Dead, and eſpecially for the Church of England and Ireland. Firſt, for our Sovereign Lord the King, ſupream Head in Earth, immediate under God, of the ſaid Church of England and Ireland; and for the Declaration of the Truth thereof, ye ſhall underſtand, that the unlawful Juriſdiction, Power and Authority, of long time uſurped by the Biſhop of Rome in Ireland and England, who then was called Pope; is now, by God's Law, juſtly, lawfully, and upon good Grounds, Reaſons and Cauſes, by Authority of Parliament, and by and with the whole Conſent and Agreements of all the Biſhops, Prelates, and both the Univerſities of Oxon and Cambridge, and alſo the whole Clergy, both of England and Ireland, extinct and ceaſed for ever, as of no Strength, Value or Effect, in the Church of England or Ireland; in the which Church the ſaid whole Clergy, Biſhops and Prelates, with the Univerſities of Oxon and Cambridge, have according to God's Laws, and upon good and lawful Reaſons and Grounds, knowledged the King's Higneſs to be Supream Head in Earth imdiate under God, of this Church of England and Ireland; which their Knowledge confeſſed, being now by Parliament eſtabliſhed, and by God's Laws juſtifiable to be juſtly executed; ſo ought every true Chriſtian Subject of this Land, not only to knowledge, and obediently recognize the King's Highneſs to be Supream Head in Earth of the Church of England and Ireland; but alſo to ſpeak, publiſh and teach their Children and Servants the ſame; and to ſhew unto them how that the ſaid Biſhop of Rome hath heretofore uſurped not only upon God, but alſo upon our Princes. Wherefore, and to the intent that ye ſhould the better believe me herein, and take and receive the Truth as ye ought to do; I declare this not only of my ſelf, which I know to be true, but alſo delare unto you, that the ſame is certified unto me from the Mouth of my Ordinary, the Arcbiſhop of Dublin, under his Seal, which I have here ready to ſhew you; ſo that now it appeareth plainly, that the ſaid Biſhop of Rome, hath neither Authority nor Power in this Land, nor never had by God's Laws; therefore I exhort you all, that ye deface him in all your Primers and other Books where he is named Pope; and that ye ſhall have from henceforth, no Confidence nor Truſt in him, nor his Bulls or Letters of Pardon, which before, with his juggling-caſts of binding and looſing, he ſold unto you for your Money, promiſing you therefore forgiveneſs of your Sins; whereof truth, no Man can forgive Sins but only God; and alſo that ye fear not his great Thunder Claps of Excommunication or Interdiction, for they cannot hurt you: But let us put all our Confidence and Truſt in our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, which is gentle and loving, and requireth nothing of us when we have offended him, but that we ſhould repent and forſake our Sins, and believe ſtedfaſtly that he is Chriſt, the Son of the living God, and that he died for our Sins, and ſo forth, as it is contained in the Creed. And that through him, and by him, and by none other, we ſhall have remiſſion of our Sins, & Pena & Culpa, according to his Promiſes made unto us in many and ſundry Places of Scripture. On this part ye ſhall pray alſo, for the proſperous Eſtate of our young Prince, Prince Edward, with all other the King's Iſſue; and for all Archbiſhops and Biſhops, and eſpecially for my Lord Archbiſhop of Dublin, and for all the Clergy, and namely, for all them that preach the Word of God, purely and ſincerely: On the ſecond part, ye ſhall pray for all Earls, Barons, Lords; and in eſpecial, for the Eſtate of the Right Honourable the Lord Leonard Gray, Lord Deputy of this Land of Ireland, and for all them that be of the King's moſt honourable Council; that God may put them in Mind to give ſuch Council, that it may be to the Pleaſure of Almighty God, and Wealth of this Land. You ſhall pray alſo for the Mayor of this City, and his Brethren, with all the Commonalty of the ſame; and for the Pariſhioners of this Pariſh, and generally for all the Temporality. On the third part, ye ſhall pray for the Souls that be departed out of this World, in the Faith of our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, which ſleep in Reſt and Peace, that they may riſe again with Chriſt in Eternal Life; for theſe, and for Grace, every Man ſay a Patre Noſter, and an Ave, &c.

Regiſt. Cranmer, fol. 67. Octob. 15. An. Dom. 1538.

HEnricus Octavus, Dei Gratiâ, Angliæ Franciæ & Hiberniæ Rex, Fidei Defenſor, &c. Reverendiſſimo in Chriſto Patri Thomæ Cantuarienſi Archiepiſcopo, Johanni Londonienſi, & Richardo Ciceſtrenſi, Epiſcopis, Johanni Ship Dorſet. Nicolao Heath Staff. Thomæ Thurleby Elienſ. ac Richardo Gwent London. Archidiaconis, Sacellanis noſtris, necnon Roberto Barnes & Edvardo Crome, S. T. Doctoribus, ſalutem.

Cum nonnulli, uti accepimus, Anabaptiſtarum errore ſeu potius furore perciti, in hoc noſtrum Angliæ Regnum clàm irrepſerunt, noſtroſque Subditos ſuo peſtiferæ Hæreſeos veneno, inficere moliantur: Noſtri præſertim muneris, eſſe cenſemus hujuſmodi tam publico tamque præſenti animarum diſcrimini, cum primum obviam ire, &c.

Then follows the Powers in the Commiſſion, by vertue of which any three or four of them are authoriſed to enquire after all Perſons ſuſpected for Anabaptiſts or any other erroneous and damnable Hereſie. Theſe Perſons they were to try ſummariè & de plano, and to examine them either judicially, or extrajudicially, as they thought proper. To give final Sentence and Determination, and to confute their Tenents by Scripture and the Doctrine of the Catholick Church. They were likewiſe impower'd to injoin thoſe they had undeceiv'd to abjure their Errors, and impoſe any other Penance at their Diſcretion, and afterwards to reſtore them to Communion. But as for thoſe who were obſtinate and irreclaimable, they were to be excommunicated, deliver'd over to the ſecular Magiſtrate, and puniſh'd according to Law. They had likewiſe an Authority to ſeize all Anabaptiſts Books, to forbid the reading them, to burn and deſtroy them as they thought fit. And laſtly, they had an Authority to execute the Premiſſes, notwithſtanding ſome part of them might be contrary to the cuſtomary Courſe and Forms of Law; The words in the Commiſſion are theſe; Eo non obſtante quod Denuntiatio, Detectio ſive Indictatio contra eoſdem, aut eorum aliquem, in hac parte non præceſſerit, aliquibus Statutis vel Statuto in Parliamentis noſtris in contrarium editis ſeu proviſis, cæteriſque contrariis non obſtantibus quibuſcunque.

In cujus rei teſtimonium, &c. primo die Octobris 1538. Regni noſtri triceſimo.

Num. XLVII.

A Declaration of the Faith, and a Juſtification of the Proceedings of King Henry the Eighth in matters of Religion; or a ſummary Declaration of the Faith, Uſes, and Obſervations in England.

Paper Office. A.D. 1539.

ENgliſhmen have forſaken Satan, his Satellits, and all Works of Darkneſs, and utterly dedecate themſelves to Chriſt his Words, Faith, and to the Works of Light.

Engliſhmen believe in one God, three Perſons in one Eſſence, Fader, Son, and Holy Ghoſt, as the Symbole of Athanaſius according to the Goſpel doth purporte.

Engliſhmen believe in God the Fader Allmighty, Creator of Heaven and Erthe; and in Jeſus Chriſt his Son, and in the Holy Ghoſt, and the Holy Catholick Church, and the Communion of Saints, Remiſſion of Synns, the Reſurrection of the Fleſh, and the Life everlaſting, in ſuch form and manner, as the Symboles of the Apoſtles, and of Nice do declare. And therewith they do deteſt and abhor, the Hereſies of the Arrians, and all others repugnant to the truth of the Goſpel, and the very Word of God.

Engliſhmen ſtyk faſt to the Doctrine of God, in the New Teſtament, and in the Old, conformable to the New, and do eſteeme that it is, Fons aquæ ſalientis in vitam eternam; Alſo they do accept the holy Councills and Doctors, where they be not contrary but conformeable unto the ſame Doctrine.

Engliſhmen deteſt the Anabaptiſts, Sacramentaries, and all other Hereſies and Errors, and with great reverence do ſolemnnize holy Baptiſme, the Sacrament of the bleſſed Body and Blood of Chriſt, and other Sacraments and Sacramentalls, as they have done in Tymes paſt, with all the laudable Ceremonies, and dayly Maſſes; and do the other Service of God in their Churches, as honourably and devoutly, paye their Tythes and Offerings truely, as ever they did, and as any Men do, in any part of Chriſtendome; And beſides that, Preachers do more often preach and declare the Goſpell and true Doctrine of Chriſt, moveing the People to the Glory of God, to Charity, to Hope, to lively Faith, and to good Works, more than ever they did afore.

Engliſhmen have now in hand in every Church and place, almoſt every Man, the Holy Bible, and New Teſtament, in their Mother Tongue, inſtead of the old fabulous and phantaſticall Books, of the Table round, Launcelot du Lake, Huou de Bourdeux, Bevy of Hampton, Guy of Warwick, &c. and ſuch other whoſe unpure Filth and vain Fabuloſity, the Light of God has aboliſhed utterly.

The Ten Commandments of God be obſerved there; the Sonday and Feaſts, hallowed and obſerved; Confeſſion and Communion at Eaſter at the leaſt; the four Embres, the Lent Vigills and Faſts, Fryday and Saturday with Abſtinence of Fleſh.

The States of the Realme of England have by a Law, provided to avoid idle People and Vagabones, to cheriſh and ſuſteyne the Poore, and Impotent: And live ſo, that the Works of Charitie be obſerved as well and better there, then ever they were afore.

This being the Faith, Uſes, and Obſervations of England, how can any wiſe Man, well enform'd thereof, call or eſteem them, or ſuffer them to be called, Erronius, Heritycks, Schiſmatycks, and to ſlander them as Infidells?

The Abuſes, Uſurpations and Superſtitions, reformed, aboliſhed, and baniſhed out of England, whereby Hypocrites and Pharyſys, do wrongfully ſlaunder the moſt noble King of England, and his Subjects; againſt all God's Word, Right and Conſcience; calling them Heritycks and Schiſmatycks where indeed Engliſhmen have done therein, like good Chriſten Men in their Parliament, and by the Advice of all the Eſtates of the whole Realme.

THE great Polling and Exactions, which the Buſhopps and Arcdeacons were wont to take for probate of Teſtaments, have ben moderate by Statute, to a reaſonable Summe.

The Tributes exacted for dead Bodies, called ſome time Mortuaries, levyed by the Curates, whereby the poor Pupills and Widdowes were commonly undone, hath been utterly taken away.

The Exerciſe and Traffique of Merchandiſe, and takeing of Lands in Farme for lucre, and prophane Negotiations, have been taken away from the Prieſts and Spiritual Perſons.

The Diſpenſations and Faculties for Prieſts to have Dualities, Trialities, Pluralities, and tot quot of Benifices, hath been forbidden, and cannot be granted, by the Statutes of England, but only to very fewe.

The benificed Men cum cura be commanded, to make Reſidence upon their Benifices, or els to be ſore puniſhed.

The unlawfull Appellations, and Preventions in ſpiritual Courts have been reformed, and reduced to a Stay, and the Engliſhmen relieved from going ſo far as Rome, for the purſute of the ſame, but all Proceſſes to be determyned within the Realme of England.

That the Biſhopps ſhould be elected and conſecrated within England as the Cuſtome was to conſecrate Byſhoppes, without running to Rome, only for the Payment of the Annatts, being an undue Exaction, and never directly granted to the Buſhoppe of Rome.

That whereas, about ſuch time as there were ſix or ſeven Kings in England, the Biſhopp of Rome for to yoke the Engliſhmen, had forbidden that no Univerſite ſhould be kepte of Theologie or Divinity in England, certain of the ſame Kings did in their Realme, grant a yearly Penny upon every Houſe, called Peter Pence, for the Mainteynance of a Colledge, for their own Nation in Rome, called Collegium Saxonicum, which decay'd long agon, wherefore the Engliſhmen hereafter ſhould be diſcharged of the Payment thereof, for ceaſeing the Cauſe, the Effect ought to ceaſe.

That Diſpenſations for England ſhould be no more bought, nor ſought derely at Rome, but that in Caſes reaſonable, not repugnant to the Law of God, and common Reaſon, Diſpenſations ſhould be granted in England by the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, with the King's Aſſent.

That Biſhoppes created at Rome, upon Biſhopppricks in Turkey, and Barbary, only for a Colour and a Fiction, ſhould from henceforth not be admitted in England, but certain Places moſt meete, and convenient, be appointed within the Realme, whereto Biſhopps Suffragans be aſſigned, for to aid and aſſiſt the Biſhopps, Dioceſſans, and thereupon be conſecrated accordingly.

That for Reformation of ſundry Points in the Decretalls and Provincial Conſtitutions, being too extreame and rigorus, to the prejudice of the Common-wealth, and againſt the Lawes of the Realme; the King ſhould appoint thirty two learned Perſons, ſixteen whereof to be of the Clergy, and other ſixteen to be of the Temporaltye, to reforme the ſame, at the Examen and Balances of Equity.

Knowledge and Graunts made to the King's Majeſty, by the Clergy and hole Royalme of England.

THE whole Cleargy of Englond, of their free Will and common Aſſent, have ſubmitted themſelves to the King's Highneſs, as to him of whom they had and have immediately, all manner of Juriſdiction and Goods; ſave only ſuch mere Spiritualties, as were graunted unto them, by the Goſpells and Holy Scriptures: Alſo they have knowledged, that without his Aſſent and Confirmation, they could pretend none other.

The whole Cleargie and Realme of England, by Authoritie of the Holy Goſpell, Scripture and Examples of the Bible, have knowledged and affirmed, That the King of England recognizing no Superiour in his Realme, may be called, and is indeed in Earth immediately under Chriſt, ſupreme Head of the Church of England, and that the Authority thereof is due to his Crowne; and likewiſe to all emperial Princes in Chriſtendome upon their Churches, if they will ſo accept it, as in a Book printed and intitled, De Auctoritate Regia & Pontificia, and by infinite other Reaſons it appeareth.

The whole Clergy and Realme, conſidering the Chriſten Lay Perſons, as well as the Clergy, (not being excommunicate by the Word of God) to be Members of the Church; And that the Catholique Church is a Communion and Congregation of all the ſame togeder, called otherwiſe Univerſall, which is but one in the World, and is alſo called the Apoſtolique Church, whereof Chriſt is the only Head, as the Scripture witneſſes, and in the univerſal Adminiſtration thereof, hath, ne needeth no oon Vicar. And wayinge that Saynt Gregory, a holy Fader, refuſed to take upon him to be Biſhopp univerſall, or Head of the univerſal Church, although he ſhould at that time be Pope of Rome; and alſo finding no part of the Holy Scripture, that giveth any ſuch Authority to any Man, as the Biſhopp of Rome doth pretend, but rather forbiddeth it, and commandeth the contrary. That is if they be Succeſſours of Peter, or of any of the Apoſtles, to take upon them no Majoritie; and Chriſt himſelf by his very Words, in the Day of the Cœnæ, when the Apoſtles ſtrived amongſt them which ſhould be the greater, ſaid, Reges gentium dominantur earum & qui Poteſtatem habent ſuper eos benefici vocantur; vos autem non ſic, ſed qui major eſt, fiat ſicut minor; & qui præceſſor ſicut miniſtrator; and gave himſelfe Example to them, ſaying, Quis major eſt? qui recumbit an qui miniſtrat? Nonne qui recumbit; But what follows? Ego autem (ſayd Chriſt) in medio veſtrum ſum ſicut qui miniſtrat. And in another place, Regnum meum non eſt de hoc mundo, and other like. Remembring alſo that all the places of Holy Scripture, which can be alledged for the Confirmation of the Papace be nothing to ſuch purpoſe, unleſs they be violently wreſted and wringed. As Tu es Petrus & ſuper hanc Petram ædificabo Eccleſiam meam. Chriſt the Son of God living, is the Petra and Foundation of the Prophets and Apoſtles, and not Peter. Et dabo tibi claves Regni Cælorum, & quicquid ſolveris, &c. Altho' he promis'd the Keys to Peter, yet nevertheleſs in the fulfilling of his Promiſe, he granted them no leſs to all other Apoſtles, than to him; Accipite Spiritum Sanctum, ite docete omnes gentes; quorum ſolveritis peccata, &c. quorum retinueritis retenta ſunt, &c. As to the Authority; Petre paſce oves meas, Chriſt knowing that with blaſphemus Oath and Swearing Peter had thrice forſaken him, otherwiſe than any of the Apoſtles, cauſed him to re-knowledge him thrice openly; and that done ſaid, Peter feed my Sheep. He ſaid not thy Sheep, nor be a Tyrant nor a Pope over my Sheep. And to ſay, pay the Didrachme for me and for thee, which is one of the Authorities; And finally to ſay, Peter I have prayed for thee, that thy Faith ſhould not fail, but after that thou ſhalt be converted, confirm thy Bretheren; where Chriſt did mean, that Peter for the forſakeing of him, ſhould not utterly diſſpaire, for he ſhould convert againe. Theſe be all the Reaſons of Holy Scripture they can alledge of any colloure for the Papace. And nevertheleſs, who is the Man of any Judgment that woll well pondre them, and nothing wreſt or wring them farr, that can conclude, that it is as much as to ſay, Peter be thou Pope, and ſupream Head of all the Churches in the World, and thy Church ſhall be the Catholique Church; for theſe Reaſons and ſuch as be conteyn'd in the ſaid Book, De Auctoritate Regia & Pontificia, and innumerable other more Cauſes, and Authorities of Scripture, long to be rehearſed, the Clergy and Realm of oon hole aſſent have declared, That the Biſhop of Rome, is not, nor ought to be called, Caput univerſalis Eccleſiæ, which Title appertayneth only to Chriſt, and to no Man elſe; And that by the poſitive Law, he cannot claime the ſame Title in England nor elſewhere, nor to be Head of any other Church, then of Romes See; but only by the Sufferance of Princes, the which Sufferance, hath been uſurped and induced in the blynd and unlearned World, and the Princes deceived and by the wreſting of the ſaid Scripture, and ſome for private Affections, to permit the ſame, whereby ſince that they had not granted the ſame, but being deceived, and by their ſimple Ignorance beguiled, thinking that Godes Law ſhould have ſo ordained, but now after Knowledge of the Truth, by the which the contrary appeareth unto them. And in reſpect the Popes of ſo long ſeaſon, have ſo miſſuſed the ſame, as all the World knoweth, why ſhould they not looſe that Preheminence gotten by deception and execrabely miſſuſed? And why ſhould not the Princes if it pleaſe them, revoke it unto them, Et repetitis plumis moveat nuda cornicula riſum.

Therefore by one hole Aſſent of the Biſſopps, and Cleargy, Abbotts and others of the Cleargye, with the States of the Realme, the Popes uſurped Authorite, hath been exiled out of England, not without great reaſon, whoſoever woll conſider the thinges well.

The ſaid Cleargye and other Eſtates of the Realme, for the better and more honorable Maintenance of the Royal Authorities, and that leaſt need ſhould be, to put Charges or Impoſitions upon the People, did freely grant and annex to the Crowne, of the ſame, the Annates and firſt Fruits of all Biſhoppricks, Abbeys, aud other Benefices for the Yeare of the Vacation thereof; of; and therewith a yearly Penſion, of the tenth part of the ſaid Benifices, the which like, as they have proceeded from the Royall Majeſtie and Authoritie ; ſo his Grace may lawfully receive them.

Other Proceedings of England; the which although they be godly, yet Calumniators do defame and ſlander the Nation thereby, ſaying, That Engliſhmen have put down the Chriſtian Religion, Churches, Holy days, Pardons, Images, and brent holy Saints and Reliques, and martyred holy Men: Which is a very ſlaunderous and falſe Defamation; as it ſhall appeare by the Truth of their doings as followeth.

AS concerning Religion, the King of England, after that he had taken upon him, his Right, in the Title of Supreame Head, following the Right of the Kings in Judah and Iſrael; took in hand to ſupply the Negligence of the Prelates, and cauſed Viſitations to be made of all States of the Clergy, and enquired of their Life and Converſation, which in the Monks and Friars, ſpecially dwelling in ſmall Houſes, was found ſo vicious, I will ſay no worſe, although I could, that by Authoritye of the reſt of the Cleargy and Parliament, it was decreed ; that all the Houſes of Religion, being under the value of 200 l. Sterl. for their evil Converſation, in now iſe ſhould be ſuffered to ſtand, but within a Year after to be ſuppreſſed, and the Monks thereof ſuffered to have Diſpence, or elſe to go unto other Houſes of that Order ; and that the whole Revenues thereof ſhould be annexed to the Augmentation of the Revenues of the Crown of England, as the Tenths and Annatts had been afore, for ever: And the Houſes and Churches thereof defaced after that ſort and faſhion as other Houſes of Religion, by the Biſhop of Rome's Authorite, (in the Cardinal of York's time,) had been defaced afore.

Sythens that time, other religious Perſons, as well Monks as Friars, ſeeing the Word of God to proſper, knowing that their Profeſſion was but the Inſtitution of Men ; and perceiving the Abuſe that lay hidden under their Cowles and Habitts, have been diſſpoſed through the hole Realme, to ſurrender their Houſes and Lands, to the King's Hands ; beſeeching him to take them: and ſo by Authoritie of all the States of the Realm, his Majeſty authorized to diſſolve the ſame, upon the free ſurrender of ſome, did take their Houſes and Goods, and ſo proceeded to the Diſſolution thereof, giving to the chief Members, and religious Perſons, of the ſaid Religious, ſuch honeſt and ample Penſions, as upon the Revenues of their Rents, could be born: Some other Houſes, in reſpect of the Places they ſtood in, his Grace would not diſſolve: and ſundry yf the King's Highneſs had not, or would not take their Houſes, would forſake them: Now what Fault can be found at this Proceeding? By the King's Authority they had Lands and Goods, with their free Will and Permiſſion, by the aſſent of his Realm ; the ſame be returned again to his Highneſs? what Fault? ye ſhall perchance ſay, the Churches and Burials cannot be applied to other prophane Uſes ; but why was not this Fault found when the ſame was done by the Pope's Authority: And now when a King, the chief Fundator thereof, doth the like, Fault muſt needs be found: What is that elſe to ſay? but that ſuch as is a great Vice in a temporal Man, is no Fault in the Clergy ; as though one was bound to live according to the Law, and not the other, but under the Law of Pleaſure.

The King ſeeing ſuch a multitude of Holydays, of late introduced, to the utter Empoveriſhment of the poor Labourers and Workmen, that had none other thing to live on, and noriſhe their Wife, Children and Family, than their handy Works, hath ordeined, that within the four Terms of the Year, at which the Common Courts of the Law be kept, and in the time of Harveſt, there ſhould be no Holy-days kept, but only the Sunday, the Feaſts of our Lady, and of the Apoſtles, and certain ſpecial beſides. At other Times, the Holy-days ſhould be kept as they were afore. What Perſon, of any Judgment, conſidering this Matter, will not judge the ſame to be very godly and neceſſary to be done?

For abolliſhment of Pardons and Remiſſions, Jubilees, and ſuch Indulgencies, his Majeſty conſidereth, that the Cannons Penitentials, whereupon the Pardons were grounded, be abrogate by the Catholick Church, and that the Injunction of Penance is arbitrary to the Ghoſtly Father ; then ſeeing that there is no ſuch Bond or Obligation, as ſometime it appeareth was, what needeth any Quittance where no Obligation is: and that when God hath pardoned the Offence, what availed or needed a Man's Pardon, ſpecially upon a Statute afterward reputed as inſupportable? And therefore his Grace hath eſtabliſhed not the Alms Deeds, or Acts of Charity to be void ; but the Pardons, Remiſſions and Indulgencies, granted for the Acquittal of a thing whereunto no Man is bound ; as the Scalas Cæli, Jubilees and Indulgencies of Rome be, which yet, and they were available, as they be not, yet the ſimonaick ſelling and buying of them ſhould not be ſuffered.

Touching the Images ſet in the Churches, as Books of the unlearned People, although they be not neceſſary, but rather give a certain Opinion to the Jews, Turks, and Sarazens (who deteſt Idols) to think that we be Idolaters ; yet the King's Highneſs doth tolerate and ſuffer them, ſave that, whereas his Highneſs hath ſeen Idolatries committed about notable Images, which his People thought to have ſome ſpecial Virtue in themſelves, and ran forth to Pilgrimages, to worſhip ſuperſtitiouſly the ſame, ſome of them being no ſuch Image indeed, as ſome of them were ſet forth, as the Image called our Lady, in Worceſter, when her precious Decks and Ornaments, full of Rings, Jewels, Gold and Silver were torn from her, the ſame Image was the Symilitude of a Biſhoppe, like a Gyant, almoſt ten Foot long. At Boxlege, and ſundry other Places, Monks and Friars had deviſed preſtigious Images of Chriſt crucified, and others by Engines, Viſes, and crafty Conveyances, turneing their Eyen, moveing their Lippes, and ſtirring themſelves, when certain Keys and Strings, by the ſaid Monks, Fryars and Prieſts, were bent or pulled in ſecret places, whereby the poor People were deceived and moved to Idollatry. The King's Highneſs inſueing the bleſſed King Ezechias, who deſtroyed the Image of the Serpent, made by Moſes by God's Commandment, for Idollatry, through the which that Image was miſuſed, hath cauſed as many of the Images of that ſorte as he knew, to be avoided, and permitted others as it was convenient.

As for Shrines, Capſes, and Reliquaries of Saints ſo called, altho' the moſt were nothing leſs, for as much as his Highneſs hath found, other Idollatry or deteſtable Superſtition uſed thereabouts, and perceived that they were for the moſt part feigned things ; as the Blood of Chriſt ſo called in ſome place, was but a piece of red Sylke, incloſed in a piece of thyck Glaſs of Chryſtallyne. In an other place, Oyle colloured of Sanguinis Drachonis, inſtead of the Mylk of our Lady, a piece of Chalk or of Ceruſe, our Lady's Girdle, and other innumerable Illuſions, Superſtitions, and apparent Deceipts; and more of the holy Croſſe than three Waines may carry. His Majeſtye therefore hath cauſed the ſame to be taken away, and the abuſyve Pieces thereof to be brent, the doubtfull to be ſett and hydden honeſtly away for fear of Idollatry.

As for the Shryne of Thomas Beckett, ſometime Archbiſhop of Canterbury, which they called St. Thomas, by approbations it appeareth clearly, that his common Legend is falſe; and that at the time of his Death, and long afore, he was reconciled to King Henry II. King of this Realme, Duke of Normandy and Guyene, and had no Quarrell directly with him, but only againſt the Archbiſhop of York, which roſe from proud Preheminences between them; and by the Strife thereof procured frowardly, his own Death, which they untruly called Martyrdome; and happened upon the Arreſt of a Servant of his, whereupon the Gentleman that arreſted him cauſed the whole City to riſe up in armes, and for that he gave opprobrious Words to the Gentleman, which then counſailed him to leave his Stubborneſs, and avoyed out of the way. And he not only called the one of them Band, but alſo took another by the Boſſome, and violently ſhook and plucked him in ſuch manner, that he had almoſt overthrown him to the Pavement of the Church; ſo that upon this Fray, the ſame moved and chaffed, ſtrake him, and ſo in the Throng Beckett was ſlayne; and that he never did acte in his Life ſufficient to prove any Hollineſs, but came to be the King's Chancellour by Mony, was a great Warriour, a brenner of Townes, a croacher of Benifices, a Hunter and Hawker, proud and ſeditious; by Corruption and unlawful Means obtained the Archbiſhopricke of Canterburry, as he himſelfe confeſſed openly to Pope Alex: And as by Writeings and Chronicks of good Record, by his Chapleins and Bretheren the Biſhopps of England made; and ſundry of them above 40 Yeares printed in Paris, and never reproved, (altho' the Mercy of God might be extended unto him) yet nevertheleſs it was arreſted, that his Shrynes and Bones ſhould be taken away, and beſtowed in ſuch place, as the ſame ſhould cauſe no Superſtition afterwards. And foraſmuch as his Head almoſt hole, was found with the reſt of the Bones, cloſed within the Shryne; and that there was in that Church, a great Scull of an other Head, but much greater by the three quarter parts than that part which was lacking in the Head cloſed within the Shryne, whereby it appeared, that the ſame was but a feigned Fiction; If this hede was brent, was therefore St. Thomas brent, aſſuredly it concludeth not. St. Swythyn and other Reliques where abuſe of Ipocraſy was, be laid ſave; and not as it is untruly ſurmized brent, but according to reaſon collocate ſecretly, where there ſhall be no Cauſe of Superſtition given by them; as ſome ſay that for the like Cauſe, the Body of Moyſes was hidden, leaſt the Jews ſhould fall to Idollatrie.

But concerning the putting to Death of ſeveral Noble Men, Abbots and Monks, Prieſts, and other within England, without any Degradation; his Majeſty knowing the Degradation to be but an iddle Ceremonie, introduced for the only Eſtimation of Clerks, Exemption and Impunitie; it hath been ordained that the ſame ſhould not be needful, but like as a Chriſten Thief, can be hanged without rayſeing or ſcrapeing the holy Chriſme from his Fore-head; and the Traytor that hath been hence led without the Mouth and Tongue, wherewith he hath received the Bleſſed Body of our Lord, be raſed or waſhed, can be lawfully hanged, drawn, heded and quartered; why ſhould not a Biſhopp, an Abbot, or any other Traytor in Holy Orders, be executed without Execration or Degradation?

Should the King's Highneſs have ſuffered thoſe Traytors to live, Thomas Moore the Jeaſter, Fiſher of Rocheſter, the glorious Hypocrite, both the Champions of Superſtition and Abuſe; the Cartuſiens and Fryars obſtinate, and other Wool cloathed Wolves, who attribute more to their Cowle and Habit, than to the precious Blood of Chriſt. The holy Maid of Kent, that ſo long brought the People to Idolatrye, by telling them their Sinns, in particular, as tho' ſhe had known them by Revelation; who had Letters from St. Mary Magdalen, brought to her from Heaven, written in Letters of Gold, who had Viſions, Revelations, Extaſies, and ſo much Holineſs, as Sylveſter, Darius, and other the Biſhop of Rome's Nuncios, did kiſs her Feet. She conſpired with Monks Obſervants, the King's Deſtruction; ſhe made ſeditious Propheſies, to move the People to Sedition: What evil yf her Holyneſs diſcloſed ſo with her Fader Confeſſor, with the ſorte of Doctors, that gave her her Leſſon, and the holy Confeſſors that detected to her Mens Confeſſions, with the holy Secretary that wrote in Heaven Mary Magdalen's Letters, and ſuch others were hanged? Should not the Heads of the Inſurrection in York firſt pardon'd, and afterward relapſe, be corrected? The Judges of Exeter, the Lord Mountague and their Adherents, which conſpired the King's and his Iſſues Deſtruction, and to tranſport the Crown of the Realm: were they not worthy to die?

Herein I proceed to no further Particulars, but ſeeing that the very Truth is, that the King's Highneſs never put to death any Man, Authoritate abſoluta, but by ordinary Proceſs; and no Perſon at all hath been condemned, but by twelve of his Peers, irreprovable and indifferent. No noble Lord, without the ſpecial Sentence of twenty four Lords at the leaſt, and ſome of many more, and never put to Execution till they had been indicted in their Countries, and afterwards, arraigned, heard and declared at the length, and as long as they would to the Judges and their Peers, all the Excuſes and Reaſons they could alledge openly for themſelves in the Hall of Weſtminſter, and been by their Peers found guilty, and by the Judges condemned. Who can find in his Heart, knowing this, to think the ſame Prince that ſo hath Judgments miniſter'd by the Law, and by ordinary Juriſdiction, to be a Tyrant? It is plain Malice and Iniquity, ſo to defame and miſreport his noble Grace.

If his Grace, for the Intereſt of Princes and Conſervation of their Rights, that ſeeing the Biſhop of Rome will be Head of the Council, and will admit no Perſons to have Voice there, but ſuch as be of his Sort and Diſpoſition. God knoweth how good it ought to be eſteemed; whereby they do nothing but for their own Advantage and Profit, but oft-times for a Shadow, make ſome Reſtrictions, to get in Mony to the ſaid Biſhopp and Diſciples of Rome, for the Diſpenſation of the ſame; hath for that Conſideration, proteſted to appear nor agree to no manner Council, unleſs it be indicted by the common appearance of Princes in an indifferent Place, free and frank, as well for ſuch as they call Lay, as for the Spiritual. Is he therefore to be called Schiſmatick, Inobedient, or Rebel to Church, ſince the old Uſe was in Times paſt, as now his Grace deſireth; and that Councils kept otherwiſe, be no very Councils, but rather Conciliabula Malignantium. I leave to declare what Fruits and Miſchiefs have followed of ſome of them.

Num. XLIX.

Ex MSS. D. Stillingfleet. Biſhop Burnet Hiſt. Ref. p. 1*ſt Records, Book* III. Number xxi.

The firſt Queſtion.

WHAT a Sacrament is by the Scripture?

Anſwers.

Cant.

The Scripture ſheweth not what a Sacrament is; nevertheleſs where in the Latin Text we have Sacramentum, there in the Greek we have Myſterium; and ſo by the Scripture, Sacramentum may be called Myſterium, id eſt, res occulta ſive arcana.

York.

To the firſt; In Scripture we neither find Definition nor Deſcription of a Sacrament.

Without Prejudice to the Truth, and ſaving always more better Judgment, cum facultate etiam melius deliberandi in hac parte.

London.

To the firſt Queſtion; I think that the Scriptures do uſe this word Sacrament, in divers places, according to the matter it treateth upon, Tobit 12. Rev. 1. Wiſd. 2. 6, 12. Dan. 2. Eph. 1. 3, 5. Col. 1. 1 Tim. 10. Rev 17. as alſo it doth divers other words: Yet what a Sacrament is by Definition, or Deſcription of Scripture, I cannot find it explicated openly. Likewiſe as I cannot find the Definition or Deſcription of the Trinity, nor yet ſuch like things; marry, what other Men can find, being daily and of long Seaſon exercis'd in Scripture, I cannot tell; referring therefore this thing to their better Knowledge.

Rocheſter.

I think that where this word Sacrament is found in the Scripture in the Latin Tranſlations, there in the Greek is found this word Μυστήριον, that is to ſay a Myſtery or a ſecret thing.

Carliſle.

What the word Sacrament betokeneth, or what is the Definition, Deſcription, or Notification thereof, I have found no ſuch plainly ſet out by Scripture. But this I find, that it ſhould appear by the ſame Scripture, that the Latin word Sacramentum, and the Greek word Myſterium, be in manner always uſed for one thing; as much as to ſay as, abſconditum, occultatum, vel in occulto.

Ad Quæſtiones.

Dr. Robertſon.

THOMAS ROBERTSON,

Ad primam reſpondeo, vocem Sacramenti, mihi in ſacris Literis non reperiri in hac ſignificatione, niſi quatenus ad Matrimonium applicatur à Paulo, ubi tamen Græcè habetur Myſterium, & proinde ex meris Scripturis expreſſè definiri non poſſe.

Dr. Cox. I find not in Scripture the Definition of a Sacrament, nor what a Sacrament is.

Dr. Day. I find no Definition in Scripture of this word Sacramentum; howbeit whereſoever it is found in Scripture, the ſame is in the Greek Myſterium, which ſignifieth a ſecret or hid thing.

Dr. Ogelthorp. Non habetur in Scripturis, quid Sacramentum propriè ſit, niſi quod ſubinde Myſterium dicitur: Varia enim, & in Scripturis, & in Eccleſiaſticis Scriptoribus reperitur ejus nominis ſignificatio; ideoque definiri non poteſt.

Dr. Redmayn. I find no Definition of this word Sacrament in the Scripture; nor likewiſe of this word Gratia, or Lex, with innumerable more; and yet what they ſignifie, it is known. So the ſignification of this word Sacrament is plain, it is nothing elſe but a ſecret hid thing, or any Myſtery.

Dr. Edgworth. Like as Angelus, Cœlum, Terra, be ſpoken of in Scripture, yet none of them defined; ſo altho' Sacramentum be ſpoken of in Scripture, yet it hath no Definition there, but is taken divers ways, and in divers ſignifications.

Dr. Symmons. This word Sacrament in Scripture is not defined.

Dr. Treſham. I ſay this word Sacrament, taken in his common ſignification, betokeneth a Myſtery, an hid, or a ſecret thing: But if ye underſtand it in his proper ſignification, as we uſe to apply it only to the ſeven Sacraments, the Scripture ſheweth not what a Sacrament is. And yet leſt any Man might be offended, thinking, that becauſe the Scripure ſheweth not what a Sacrament is, therefore the ſame is a light thing, or little to be eſteem'd: Here may be remembred, that there are ſome weighty and godly things, being alſo of our Belief, which the Scripture ſheweth not expreſly what they are. As for Example; We believe the Son is conſubſtantial to the Father: Item, That the Father is unbegotten; yet the Scripture ſheweth not what is conſubſtantial, nor what is unbegotten, neither maketh any mention of the words. Likewiſe it is true, Baptiſm is a Sacrament, Penance is a Sacrament, &c. yet the Scripture ſheweth not what a Sacrament is.

Reſponſions unto the Queſtions.

EDWARDUS LEYGHTON,

Dr. Leyghton. To the firſt Queſtion, I ſay; That in holy Scripture I never found, and I think there is no Man that will find a Definition or Deſcription of this word Sacramentum; which is as much to ſay in Engliſh, as a Myſtery, a Secret, or a hid Thing.

Dr. Coren. I do read no Definition of this word Sacramentum in Scripture; but ſometimes it is uſed in Scripture to ſignifie a thing ſecret or hid.

Conveniunt. In primo Articulo conveniunt omnes, non ſatis conſtare ex Scriptura, quid ſit Sacramentum; plerique tamen dicunt Græcè appellari, Myſterium, i. e. a ſecret or a hid thing.

Agreement. In the Anſwer unto the firſt Queſtion, they do all agree, that it is not evident by Scripture, what a Sacrament is, but Myſterium, that is, a Secret, or a hid thing.

2. Queſtion.

What a Sacrament is by the antient Authors?

Anſwers.

Canterbury. The antient Authors call a Sacrament Sacræ rei Signum, or Viſibile Verbum, Symbolum, atque Pactio, quâ ſumus conſtricti.

York. To the ſecond; Of St. Auguſtine's words, this Deſcription following of a Sacrament may be gathered; Sacramentum eſt inviſibilis Gratiæ, viſibilis forma. And this thing, that is ſuch viſible Form or ſign of inviſible Grace in Sacraments, we find in Scripture; altho' we find not the word Sacrament, ſaving only in the Sacrament of Matrimony.

London. To the ſecond; I find in Authors this Declaration, Sacramentum eſt ſacræ rei ſignum. Alſo, Inviſibilis Gratiæ, viſibilis Forma. Alſo, Viſibilis Forma inviſibilis Gratiæ Imaginem gerens & Cauſa exiſtens. And of the Verity and Goodneſs of this Deſcription or Declaration, I refer me to the Divines, better acquainted with this matter than I am.

Rocheſter. I think that this word Sacrametut, as it is taken of the old Authors, hath divers and ſundry ſignifications; for ſometimes it is extended to all holy Signs, ſometimes to all Myſteries, ſometimes to all Allegories, &c.

Carliſle. Thomas Waldenſis, who writeth a ſolemn Work de Sacramentis, cauſeth me to ſay, that this word Sacramentum in communi, is defin'd of the antient Authors; who after that he had ſhew'd how that Wyclyff, and before him Berengarius hath ſaid, that Auguſtine defineth Sacramentum thus; Sacramentum eſt ſacrum Signum; and Signum in this wiſe, Signum eſt res præter ſpeciem quam ſenſibus ingerit, aliquid aliud ex ſe faciens in cogitationem venire. He himſelf, with antient Authors, as he ſaith, defineth it thus; Sacramentum eſt inviſibilis Gratiæ viſibilis Forma, vel Sacramentum eſt ſacræ rei Signum: Both theſe Deſcriptions (ſaith he) be of the antient Fathers.

De Doctrina Chriſtiana.

Dr. Robertſon. Sacramentum a vetuſtioribus, quemadmodum fert Hugo de S. Victore, & Thomas Aquinas, nondum reperiri definitum, niſi quod Auguſtinus, interdum vocet Sacramenta, ſacra ſigna aut ſignacula, interdum ſimilitudines earum rerum, quarum ſunt Sacramenta. Et Rabanus, Sacramentum dicitur, quod ſub tegumento rerum corporalium, virtus divina ſecretius ſalutem eorundem Sacramentorum operatur, unde & à ſecretis Virtutibus vel Sacris, Sacramenta dicuntur.

Dr. Cox. The antient Authors commonly ſay, that a Sacrament is, Sacræ rei Signum, or Sacroſanctum Signaculum; but they do not utterly and properly define what it is.

Dr. Day. The antient Doctors take this word Sacramentum diverſly, and apply it to many things.

Dr. Oglethorp. Ex Auguſtino & aliis colligitur, Sacramentum poſſe dici, ſacræ rei ſignum, vel, inviſibilis Gratiæ viſibilis forma, quanquam hæc poſterior Definitio non conveniat omnibus Sacramentis, ſcil. tantum ſeptem iſtis uſitatis; ſed nec his quoque ex æquo, cum non æqualem conferant Gratiam.

Dr. Redmayn. Generally it is taken to ſignify every ſecret Myſtery, and Sacramenta be called, Sacrarum rerum Signa, or ſacra Signacula: And as this word Sacrament particularly is attributed to the chief Sacraments of the Church, this Definition of a Sacrament may be gather'd of St. Auguſt. Inviſibilis Gratiæ viſibilis Forma. And alſo that a Sacrament is a myſtical or ſecret Work which conſiſteth ex Verbo & Elemento. And Cyprian ſaith, Verborum ſolennitas, & ſacri Invocatio nominis, & ſigna Inſtitutionibus Apoſtolicis Sacerdotum miniſteriis attributa, viſibile celebrant Sacramentum, rem verò ipſam Spiritus Sanctus format & efficit.

Dr. Edgeworth. By the antient Authors, Sacramentum hath many ſignifications, ſometimes it is called a ſecret Counſel. Tob. 12. Sacramentum Regis abſcondere bonum eſt. Nebuchadnezzar's Dream was called Sacramentum, Dan. 2. The Myſtery of Chriſt's Incarnation, and of our Redemption is ſo called, Epheſ. 3. and 1 Tim. 3. ſo that every ſecret Thing having ſome privy Senſe or Signification, is called Sacramentum, generally extending the vocable: notwithſtanding in one Signification, Sacramentum, accordeth properly to them that be commonly called the ſeven Sacraments; and hath this Definition taken of St. Auguſtine and others, inviſibilis Gratiæ viſibilis Forma, ut ipſius imaginem gerat & quodammodo cauſa exiſtat.

Dr. Symmons. The antient Authors of Divinity uſe this Word Sacrament in divers Significations, for they call it Myſterium; and ſo the Scripture uſeth it in many Places, as 1 Tim. 3. Tobie 12. Wiſd. 2. Dan. 2. Eph. 1. and 3. The Word Sacrament is alſo uſed for a Figure or a Sign of the old Teſtament, ſignifying Chriſt, as the Paſchal Lamb, and the Brazen Serpent, and divers others holy Signs. It is alſo taken of the holy Authors, to be an holy Sign, which maketh to the Sanctification of the Soul, given to God againſt Sin for our Salvation, as it may be gather'd of them; for this Word Sacrament is called by them, Sacrum Signum; but I have not read any expreſs Definition common to all Sacraments.

Dr. Treſham. This Word Sacrament, in the antient Authors, is oftimes uſed in this general Signification, and ſo (as is beforeſaid) it is a Myſtery, or ſecret thing; and ſometimes the ſame Word is uſed, as applicable only unto the ſeven Sacraments; and is thus deſcrib'd, a viſible Form of an inviſible Grace; and thus alſo, a thing by the which, under the covering of viſible things, the godly Power doth work our Health.

*Dr.*Leighton. To the ſecond, I ſay; that Hugo de Sancto Victore, is one of the moſt antient Authors that I ever could perceive, took upon him to define or deſcribe a Sacrament: Howbeit, I ſuppoſe, that this common Deſcription which the Schoolmen uſe, after the Maſter of the Sentences, viz. Sacramentum eſt inviſibilis Gratiæ viſibilis ſeu ſenſibilis Forma, may be gather'd of St. Auſtin, and divers other antient Authors Words in many Places of their Works.

Dr. Coren. I do find no Definition plainly ſet forth in old Authors; notwithſtanding this Definition, inviſibils Gratiæ viſibilis Forma, may be gathered out of St. Auguſtine.

Con. In ſecundo Articulo conveniunt omnes, Sacramentum eſſe ſacræ rei ſignum. Treſhham, Oglethorpus, & Edgworth, dicunt hanc Definitionem, Sacramentum eſt inviſibilis Gratiæ viſibilis Forma, his Septem convenire. Thurlebeus ait, non convenire omnibus ſeptem, & æquè pluribus poſſe attribui atque ſeptem.

Agreem. In the ſecond they put many Deſcriptions of a Sacrament, as the Sign of a holy Thing, a viſible Word, &c. But upon this one Definition, a Sacrament is a viſible Form of inviſible Grace, they do not all agree. And Dr. Edgworth, Treſham and Oglethorp ſay, that it is applicable only and properly unto this Word Sacrament, as it ſignifieth the Seven Sacraments uſually receiv'd. My Lord Elect of Weſtminſter ſaith, that it agreeth not unto all the Seven, nor yet more eſpecially unto the Seven, than unto any other.

Anſwers.

Canterbury. The Scripture ſheweth not how many Sacraments there be, but Incarnatio Chriſti & Matrimonium, be called in the Scripture Myſteria; and therefore we may call them by the Scripture, Sacramenta. But one Sacramentum the Scripture maketh mention of, which is hard to be revealed fully, as would to God it were, and that is Myſterium Iniquitatis, or Myſterium Meretricis magnæ & Beſtiæ.

York. To the the third, in Scripture we find no preciſe Number of Sacraments.

London. To the third, I find not ſet forth the expreſs Number, with expreſs Declaration of thus many and no more; nor yet of theſe expreſly by Scripture which we uſe, eſpecially under the name of Sacraments, ſaving only of Matrimony.

Rocheſter. I think, that in the Scripture be innumerable Sacraments, for all Myſteries, all Ceremonies, all the Facts of Chriſt, the whole Story of the Jews, and the Revelations of the Apocalypſe may be named Sacraments.

Carliſle. The certain Number of Sacraments or Myſteries, contain'd within Scripture, cannot be well expreſs'd or aſſign'd; for Scripture containeth more than infallibly may be rehears'd.

Dr. Robertſon. De iſtis ſeptem, quæ uſitatè vocamus Sacramenta, nullum invenio nomine Sacramenti appellari, niſi Matrimonium. Matrimonium eſſe Sacramentum, probat Eckius, Hom. 73. & conferre gratiam, ibid.

Dr. Cox. There be divers Sacraments by the Scripture, as in Tobie 12. Sacramentum Regis, the King's Secret. Alſo Nebuchadnezzar's Dream, Dan. 2. is called Sacramentum, Incarnatio Chriſti, Sacramentum, Epheſ. 3. Matrimonium, Sacramentum.

Dr. Day. Taking for Sacraments any thing that this Word, Sacramentum, doth ſignify, there be in Scripture a great Number of Sacraments more than ſeven.

Dr. Oglethorp. Non habetur determinatus Sacramentorum numerus in Scripturis, ſunt enim innumera ferè illic, quæ paſſim vocantur Sacramenta; cum omnis allegoria, omneque Myſterium, dicatur Sacramentum. Quin & ſomnia, ac ſecreta, ſubindè Sacramenta vocantur, Tobie 2. Sacramentum Regis abſcondere bonum eſt; & Dan. 2. Imploremus Miſericordias Dei Cæli ſuper Sacramento iſto, & ſomnio. Paulus etiam Epiſt. 1. Cap. 3. Tim. vocat Myſterium Incarnationis Chriſti Sacramentum; & in Apoc. 1. vocat Sacramentum ſeptem Stellarum. Ac hoc præcipuè obſervandum venit, nullum à ſeptem Sacramentis receptis, hoc nomine appellari, præter ſolum Matrimonium.

Dr. Redmayn. As many as there be Myſteries, which be innumerable; but by Scripture, I think, the ſeven which be named Sacraments, may principally bear the Name.

Dr. Edgeworth. Speaking of Sacraments generally, they be innumerable ſpoken of in Scripture; but properly to ſpeak of Sacraments, there be but ſeven that may be ſo called, of which Matrimony is expreſly called Sacramentum, Epheſ. 5. and, as I think, in the German and proper Signification of a Sacrament; ſo that the indiviſible Knot of the Man and his Wife in one Body, by the Sacrament of Matrimony, is the Matter of this Sacrament; upon which, as on the literal Verity, the Apoſtle foundeth this allegorical ſaying, ego autem dico in Chriſto, & in Eccleſia; for the myſtical ſenſe preſuppoſeth a verity in the letter on which that is taken. Six more there be to which the Definition doth agree, as manifeſtly doth appear by the Scriptures, with the Expoſition of the antient Authors.

Dr. Symmons. In the Scripture there is no certain Number of Sacraments.

Dr. Treſham. I find no more of the ſeven, called expreſly Sacraments, but only Matrimony, but extending the Name of Sacrament in his moſt general Acception; there are in Scripture a great number of Sacraments, whereof the Apoſtle ſaith, ſi noverint Myſteria omnia, &c.

To

D. Leighton. To the third, I ſay, that I find not in Scripture any of theſe ſeven which we commonly call Sacraments, called Sacramentum, but only Matrimonium. But I find divers and many other things called Sacraments in Scripture, as in the 12th of Tobie. Sacramentum Regis abſcondere bonum eſt. Item Apoc. 17. Dicamus tibi Sacramentum. Item 1 Tim. 3. Magnum eſt Pietatis Sacramentum.

Dr. Coren. I cannot tell how many Sacraments be by Scripture for they be above one hundred.

Con. In tertio conveniunt ſatis: non eſſe certum Numerum Sacramentorum per Scripturas. Redmaynus addit, but by Scripture, I think, the ſeven which be named Sacraments, may principally bear the Name. Idem ſentit Edgworth, & ſeptem tantum Matrimonium in Scripturis haberi ſub nomine Sacramenti plerique dicunt.

Agreem. In the third, they do agree, that there is no certain Number of Sacraments by Scripture, but even as many as there be Myſteries; and none of theſe ſeven be called Sacraments, but only Matrimony in Scripture.

4. Queſtion.

How many Sacraments there be by antient Authors?

Anſwers.

Canterbury. By the antient Authors there be many Sacraments more than ſeven, for all the Figures, which ſignified Chriſt to come, or teſtify that he is come, be called Sacraments, as all the Figures of the old Law, and the new Law, Euchariſtia, Baptiſmus, Paſcha, Dies Dominicus, Lotio Pedum, Signum Crucis, Chriſma, Matrimonium, Ordo, Sabbatum, Impoſitio Manuum, Oleum, Conſecratio Olei, Lac, Mel, Aqua, Vinum, Sal, Ignis, Cineres, Adapertio Aurium, Veſtis candida, and all the Parables of Chriſt, with the Prophecies of the Apocalyps, and ſuch other, be called by the Doctors Sacramenta.

York. To the fourth, there is no preciſe number of Sacraments mentioned by the antient Authors, taking the Word Sacrament, in its moſt general ſignification.

London. To the fourth, I find, that St. Auſtine ſpeaketh, de Baptiſmo, de Euchariſtia, de Matrimonio, de Ordinatione Clericorum, de Sacramento Chriſmatis & Unctionis: Alſo I find in the ſaid St. Auſtin, that in the old Law there were many Sacraments, and in the new Law few.

Rocheſter. I think, that in the Doctors be found many more Sacraments than ſeven, viz. Panis Catechumenorum, Signum Crucis, Oleum, Lac, Sal, Mel, &c.

Carliſle. Whereas in Scripture the Number of the Sacraments is uncertain, it cannot be certain in the Expoſition of the Fathers.

Dr. Robertſon. Apud Auguſtinum lego Sacramentum Nuptiarum, Sacramentum Baptiſmi, Sacramentum Euchariſtiæ, quod & Altaris ſive Panis vocat; Sacramentum Ordinationis; Sacramentum Chriſmatis, quod datur per manus Impoſitionem Baptizatis; Sacramentum Unctionis.

Dr. Cox. I find in the antient Authors, that Baptiſm is called Sacramentum, Euchariſtia Sacramentum, Matrimonium Sacramentum, Ordo Sacramentum, Chriſma Sacramentum, Impoſitio Manuum per Baptiſmum Sacramentum, Dilectio Sacramentum, Lotio Pedum Sacramentum, Oleum, Mel, Lac, Sacramenta; and many others.

Dr. Day. There be a great ſort of Sacraments found in the Doctors, after the Acception aboveſaid, more than ſeven.

Dr. Oglethorp. Apud Scriptores Eccleſiaſticos reperiuntur multa plura Sacramenta quam hæc ſeptem.

Dr. Redmayn. Taking this Word Sacrament univerſally for Myſteries, or all ſecret Tokens, there be more Sacraments than can be reckoned; but the ſeven by old Authors may ſpecially obtain the Name. Lotio Pedum is ſpoken of in old Authors, as a ſpecial Sacrament uſed then in the Church, and as it appeareth, having a great Ground in the Scripture; and I think it were better to renew that again, and ſo to have eight Sacraments, rather than to diminiſh the number of ſeven now uſed.

Dr. Edgworth. Dr. Symmons. The antient Authors acknowledge many more than ſeven, for they call in their Writings, all Rites and Ceremonies, Sacraments.

Dr. Treſham. Generally, as many as Myſteries, ſpecially ſeven, and no more of like Nature to them; for although I find not expreſs Mention where Penance is called a Sacrament, yet I think it may be deduced and proved by Cyprian, in his Sermon de Paſſione Chriſti, in theſe Words; denique quicunque fiunt Sacramentorum Miniſtri, per Operationem Authoritas in Figurâ Crucis omnibus Sacramentis largitur effectum, & cuncta peragit nobis quod omnibus nominibus eminet à Sacramentorum vicariis invocatum.: At licet indigni ſint qui accipiunt, Sacramentorum tamen Reverentia, & propinquiorem ad Deum parat acceſſum, & ubi redierint ad cor conſtat ablutionis donum, & reddit effectus Munerum, nec aliàs quæri aut repeti neceſſe eſt Salutiferum Sacramentum; in theſe Words, reddit effectus Munerum; & nec aliàs repeti neceſſe eſt Salutiferum Sacramentum muſt needs be underſtood Penance, and alſo that Penance is a Sacrament: For as our firſt Acceſs to God, is by the Sacrament Baptiſm, which Cyprian there following called Ablutionem primam; ſo if we fall by deadly Sin, we cannot repetere God again, but by Penance; which rerepeating (i. e.) Penance, Cyprian calleth Salutiferum Sacramentum.

Dr. Leyghton. To the fourth, I ſay; That I find in antienter Authors every one of theſe ſeven, which we call commonly Sacraments, called Sacramentum; as in Auſtin every one of them is called Sacramentum but only Penance; which Cyprian calleth Sacramentum. Alſo I find in the antienter Authors divers other things (beſides the ſeven) called Sacraments, as Lotio Pedum in Cyprian, &c.

Dr. Coren. More Sacraments be found in old Authors than ſeven.

Con. In quarto conveniunt, plura eſſe Sacramenta quam ſeptem apud Authores: Redman addit; but the ſeven, by old Authors, may ſpecially obtain the Name. Idem putat Edgworth, & Treſham. Lotio Pedum, he thinketh were better to be renewed, and ſo made eight Sacraments, than the Number of ſeven to be diminiſhed. Treſhamus citat Cyprianum in Serm. de Paſſione Chriſti pro Pœnitentia, quod dicatur Sacramentum, cum alii fere omnes nuſquam appellari aiunt Sacramentum apud Authores, & hic locus apertè agit de Baptiſmo, quod vocat Donum Ablutionis, & Sacramentum ſalutiferum.

Agreem. In the fourth they agree, That there is no determinate Number of Sacraments ſpoken of in the old Authors; but that my Lord of York, Mr. Edgworth, Treſham, Redman, Craiford, and Symons, ſay, That theſe ſeven by old Authors may ſpecially obtain the Name of Sacraments. And the Biſhop of St. Davids ſaith, That there be but four Sacraments in the old Doctors moſt chiefly ſpoken of, and they be Baptiſm, the Sacrament of the Altar, Matrimony, and Penance.

5. Queſtion.

Whether this word Sacrament, be and ought to be attributed to the ſeven only? And whether the

Anſwers.

Canterbury. I know no Cauſe why this word Sacrament ſhould be attributed to the ſeven only. For the old Authors never preſcribe any certain Number of Sacraments; nor in all their Books I never read theſe two Words join'd together, viz. ſeptem Sacramenta.

York. To the fifth; To the firſt part of this Queſtion, this word Sacrament is uſed and applied in Scripture, to ſome things that be none of the ſeven Sacraments. To the ſecond part; the ſeven Sacraments be found in ſome of the antient Authors.

London. To the fifth, I anſwer, That this word Sacrament, in our Language, commonly hath been attributed to the ſeven cuſtomarily called Sacraments, not for that yet, that the word Sacrament cannot be applied any more, but for that the ſeven have been ſpecially of very long and antient ſeaſon receiv'd, continued and taken for things of ſuch ſort.

Rocheſter. I think that the Name of a Sacrament is, and may be attributed to more than ſeven, and that all the ſeven Sacraments be found in the old Authors, tho' all peradventure be not found in one Author. But I have not read Penance called by the Name of a Sacrament in any of them.

Carliſle. Certain it is, that this word Sacrament, neither is nor ought to be attributed to ſeven only, for both Scripture and antient Authors otherwiſe applieth it; but yet nothing letteth, but that this word Sacrament, may moſt eſpecially, and in a certain due Preheminence, be applied to the ſeven Sacraments, of moſt antient Name and Uſage amongſt Chriſtian Men. And that the antient Authors have ſo uſed and applied it, affirmeth the ſaid Thomas Walden, convincing Wycliffe and Berengarius, who enforced the contrary; from Cyprian, and alſo Auguſtine, with other holy Doctors, they may ſo well be gathered.

Dr. Robertſon. Vocabulum, Sacramenti, in ſacris literis nulli Sacramentorum quod ſciam tribuitur, niſi Matrimonio: A vetuſtis ſcriptoribus tribuitur Ceremoniis & Umbris Legis, Incarnationi Chriſti, Figuris, Allegoriis, & Feſtivitatibus: Apud Paulum legitur Divinitatis, voluntatis Divinæ, & Pietatis Sacramentum. Cæterum loquendo de Sacramentis his, quæ ſunt inviſibilis Gratiæ collatæ in Eccleſiâ Chriſti viſibilia ſigna, opinor non plura quam ſeptem inveniri, hiſque magis propriè quam reliquis, ſub hac ratione, tribui nomen Sacramenti.

Dr. Cox. This word Sacrament, is not, nor ought to be attributed to theſe Seven only. Thoſe that we call ſeven Sacraments, be found in old Authors, altho' ſome of them be ſeldom found called by this name Sacrament.

Dr. Day. This word Sacramentum, neither is, nor ought to be ſo attributed unto theſe ſeven, but that it is, and may be attributed to many more things, and ſo the antienter Doctors uſe it. The ſeven Sacraments be found in ancient Doctors, under the Name of Sacrament, ſaving that I remember not that I have read in them, Penance called a Sacrament.

Dr. Oglethorpe. Nomen commune eſt multis aliis rebus, quam ſeptem iſtis uſitatis Sacramentis. Septem Sacramenta, ſeorſim & ſparſim reperiuntur in veterum Monumentis.

Dr. Redmayn. To the ſeven ſpecially and principally, and in general to innumerable more. But I cannot tell whether in any old Author might be found theſe two Words, Seven Sacraments, or this Number limitted; but every one of the ſeven Sacraments, one by one, be found in the old Authors.

Dr. Edgeworth. Sacramentum, in his proper Signification, is and ought to be attributed to the ſeven only; and they be all ſeven found in the Authors.

Dr. Symmons. This word Sacrament, is not only to be attributed to the ſeven, but that the ſeven Sacraments eſpecially conferreth Grace, the old Authors eſpecially accounteth them by the Number of ſeven; and theſe ſeven are found in Authors and Scriptures, although they be not found by the Name of ſeven.

Dr. Treſham. I ſay this word Sacrament is attributed to the ſeven; and that the ſeven Sacraments are found in the ancient Authors.

Dr. Leyghton. To the fifth, I ſay, Firſt, (as before) That this word Sacramentum, is not applied or attributed in Holy Scripture to any of the ſeven, but only to Matrimony. But it is attributed in Scripture, and ancient Authors, to many other things beſides theſe. Howbeit, taking this word Sacramentum, for a ſenſible Sign of the inviſible Grace of God given unto Chriſtian People, as the Schoolmen, and many late Writers take it; I think that the ſeven commonly called Sacraments, are to be called only and moſt properly Sacraments.

Dr. Coren. This word Sacrament, may well be attributed to the ſeven; and ſo it is found in old Authors, ſaving that I do not read expreſly in old Doctors, Penance to be under the Name of a Sacrament, unleſs it be in Chryſoſtome, in the Expoſition ad Hebræ. Homil. 20. Sect. 1. Cap. 10. in Principio.

Non Con. In quinto præter Herefordenſ. Roffenſ. Dayium, Oglethorpum, Menevenſ. & Coxum putant omnes nomen Sacramenti præcipue his ſeptem convenire. Symons addit, The ſeven Sacraments eſpecially confer Grace; Eboracenſ. Curren, Treſham, Symons, aiunt ſeptem Sacramenta inveniri apud Veteres, quanquam Curren & Symons mox videntur iterum negare.

Diſſent. In the fifth; The Biſhops of Hereford and St. Davids, Mr. Day, Mr. Cox, ſay, that this word Sacrament, in the old Authors, is not attributed to the ſeven only, nor ought not to be attributed. The Biſhop of Carliſle alleging Waldenſis. Mr. Curren, Edgworth, Symons, Treſham, ſay, that it is, and may be attributed. And Mr. Curren and Mr. Symons, ſeem to vary againſt themſelves, each in their own Anſwers: For Mr. Curren ſaith, that this word Sacrament is attributed unto the ſeven in the old Doctors, and yet he cannot find, that it is attributed unto Penance. Mr. Symons ſaith, that the old Authors account them by the Number of ſeven; and yet he ſaith, that they be not found there by the Name of ſeven.

6. Queſtion.

Whether the determinate Number of ſeven Sacraments be a Doctrine, either of the Scripture, or of the old Authors, and ſo to be taught?

Anſwers.

Canterbury. The determinate Number of ſeven Sacraments is no Doctrine of the Scripture, nor of the old Authors.

York. To the ſixth; The Scripture maketh no mention of the Sacraments determined to ſeven preciſely, but the Scripture maketh mention of ſeven Sacraments, which be uſed in Chriſt's Church, and grounded partly in Scripture, and no more be in uſe of the ſaid Church but ſeven ſo grounded; and ſome of the ancient Doctors, make mention of ſeven, and of no more than ſeven, as uſed in Chriſt's Church ſo grounded; wherefore a Doctrine may be had of ſeven Sacraments preciſely uſed in Chriſt's Church, and grounded in Scripture.

London. To the ſixth; I think it be a Doctrine ſet forth by the antient Fathers, one from another, taking their Matter and Ground out of Scripture, as they underſtood it; tho' Scripture, for all that, doth not give unto all the ſeven, the ſpecial Names by which now they are called, nor yet openly call them by the Name of Sacrament, except only (as is before ſaid) the Sacrament of Matrimony.

Rocheſter. Albeit the ſeven Sacraments be in effect found both in the Scripture, and in the old Authors, and may therefore be ſo taught; yet I have not read this preciſe and determinate Number of ſeven Sacraments, neither in the Scripture, nor in the antient Writers.

Carliſle. By what is here before ſaid, I think it doth well appear, that both the Scripture of God, and holy Expoſiters of the ſame, would have the ſeven Sacraments both taught, and in due Form exhibited to all Chriſtian People, as it ſhall alſo better appear by what followeth.

Dr. Robertſon. In Scripturâ tantum unum ex iſtis ſeptem Sacramentum vocari invenio, nimirum Matrimonium: Apud veteres reperiuntur omnia hæc ſeptem, a nullo tamen, quod ſciam, nomine ſeptem Sacramentorum celebrari, niſi quod Eraſm. ait ſeptem a veteribus recenſeri: Auguſt. loquens de Sacramentis ad Januarium Ep. 118. ait numerum ſeptenarium tribui Eccleſiæ propriè inſtar Univerſitatis; item objectum fuiſſe Huſſo in concilio Conſtantienti quod infideliter ſenſerit de ſeptem Sacramentis. De perfectione Num. Septenarii, vide Auguſt. lib. 1. de Civ, cap. 31.

Dr. Cox. This determinate Number of ſeven Sacraments, is no Doctrine of Scripture, nor of the old Authors, nor ought not to be taught as ſuch a determinate Number by Scripture and old Authors.

Dr. Day. Neither the Scripture, nor the antient Authors, do recite the determinate Number of the ſeven Sacraments; but the Doctrine of the ſeven Sacraments is grounded in Scripture, and taught by the antient Authors, albeit not altogether.

Dr. Oglethorpe. Septenarius Sacramentorum numerus, Doctrina eſt recentium Theologorum; quam illi partim ex Scripturâ, partim & veterum Scriptis, argutè in ſacrum hunc (ut aiunt) numerum collegerunt.

Dr. Redmayne. I think, as I find by old Authors, the antient Church uſed all theſe ſeven Sacraments; and ſo I think it good to be taught.

Dr. Edgworth. The determinate Number of ſeven Sacraments, is not taught in any one Proceſſe of the Scripture, nor of any one of the old Authors of purpoſe, ſpeaking of them altogether, or in one Proceſs, as far as I can remember; albeit they all ſeven be there, and there ſpoken of in Scripture manifeſtly, and ſo have the old Authors left them in ſundry places of their Writings; and ſo it ought to be taught.

Dr. Symmons. Foraſmuch as the Scripture teacheth theſe ſeven, and ſheweth ſpecial Graces given by the ſame, the which are not ſo given by others, called Sacraments, the old Authors perceiving the ſpecial Graces, have accounted them in a certain Number, and ſo have been uſed by Doctors to be called ſeven, and without Inconvenience may ſo be taught.

Dr. Treſham. I ſay, the determinate Number of ſeven is not expreſſly mentioned in the Scripture, like as the determinate Number of the ſeven Petitions of the Lord's Prayer is not expreſſly mentioned; And as I think the ſeven Petitions to have their Ground in Scripture, even ſo do I think of the ſeven Sacraments, to be grounded in Scripture.

Dr. Leyghton. To the ſixth I ſay, as before, That the old Authors call each of theſe ſeven Sacraments; but be it, I cannot remember that ever I read the determinate, preciſe, and expreſs Number of ſeven Sacraments, in any of the antient Authors, nor in Scripture. Howbeit we may find in Scripture, and the old Authors, alſo mention made, and the Doctrine of each of theſe ſeven, commonly called Sacraments.

Dr. Coren. The determinate Number of ſeven, is a Doctrine to be taught, for every one of them be contain'd in Scripture, tho' they have not the Number of ſeven ſet forth there, no more than the Petitions of the Pater Noſter be called ſeven, nor the Articles of the Creed be called twelve.

Agreement. In the ſixth, Touching the determinate Number of the ſeven Sacraments, the Biſhop of Dureſme, Hereford, St. Davids, and Rocheſter, the Elect of Weſtminſter, Dr. Day, and Dr. Oglethorpe ſay, this preſcribed Number of Sacraments is not found in the old Authors. The Biſhop of York, Drs. Curren, Treſham, and Symmons, ſay the contrary. Concerning the ſecond Part, whether it be a Doctrine to be taught? The Biſhops of Hereford, St. Davids, and Dr. Cox, think it ought not to be ſo taught as ſuch a determinate Number by Scripture. The Biſhops of York, London, Carliſle; Drs. Day, Curren, Treſham, Symmons, Crayford, think it a Doctrine meet to be taught: And ſome of them ſay, that it is founded on Scripture.

7. Queſtion.

What is found in Scripture of the Matter, Nature, Effect, and Virtue of ſuch as we call the ſeven Sacraments; ſo as although the Name be not there, yet whether the thing be in Scripture or no, and in what wiſe ſpoken of?

Anſwers.

Canterbury. I find not in the Scripture the Matter, Nature, and Effects of all thoſe, which we call the ſeven Sacraments, but only of certain of them; as of Baptiſm, in which we be regenerated and pardoned of our Sin by the Blood of Chriſt: Of Euchariſtia, in which we be concorporated unto Chriſt, and made lively Members of his Body, nouriſhed and fed to the everlaſting Life, if we receive it as we ought to do, and elſe it is to us rather Death than Life. Of Penance alſo I find in the Sripture, whereby Sinners after Baptiſm returning wholly unto God, be accepted again unto his Favour and Mercy. But the Scripture ſpeaketh not of Penance, as we call it a Sacrament, conſiſting in three Parts, Contrition, Confeſſion, and Satisfaction; but the Scripture taketh Penance for a pure Converſion of a Sinner in Heart and Mind from his Sins unto God, making no mention of private Confeſſion of all deadly Sins to a Prieſt, nor of Eccleſiaſtical Satisfaction to be enjoin'd by him. Of Matrimony alſo I find very much in Scripture, and among other things, that it is a mean, whereby God doth uſe the Infirmity of our Concupiſcence to the ſetting forth of his Glory, and encreaſe of the World, thereby Sanctifying the Act of Carnal Commixtion between the Man and the Wife to that uſe; yea, altho' one Party be an Infidel. And in this and Matrimony is alſo a Promiſe of Salvation, if the Parents bring up their Children in the Faith, Love, and Fear of God. Of the Matter, Nature, and Effect of the other three, that is to ſay, Confirmation, Order, and extream Unction, I read nothing in the Scripture, as they be taken for Sacraments.

York. To the ſeventh; Of Baptiſm, we find in Scripture the Juſtification by the Word of Chriſt; we find alſo that the matter of Baptiſm is Water, the effect and virtue is Remiſſion of Sins. Of Confirmation, we find that the Apoſtles did confirm thoſe that were baptiſed, by laying their Hands upon them, and that the effect then was the coming of the Holy Ghoſt into them, upon whom the Apoſtles laid their hands, in a viſible ſign of the Gift of divers Languages, and therewith of ghoſtly ſtrength to confeſs Chriſt, following upon the ſame. Of the Sacrament of the Altar, we find the Inſtitution of Chriſt, and the matter thereof, Bread and Wine, the effect, Increaſe of Grace. Of the Sacrament of Penance, we find the Inſtitution in the Goſpel, the Effect, Reconciliation of the Sinner, and the Union of him to the myſtical Body of Chriſt. Of the Sacrament of Matrimony, we find the Inſtitution both in the Old and New Teſtament, and the effect thereof, Remedy againſt Concupiſcence and Diſcharge of Sin, which otherwiſe ſhould be in the Office of Generation. Of the Sacrament of Order, we find, that our Saviour gave to his Apoſtles Power to baptize, to bind and to looſe Sinners, to remit Sins, and to retain them, to teach and preach his Word, and to conſecrate his moſt pretious Body and Blood, which be the higheſt Offices of Order; and the effect thereof Grace, we find in Scripture. Of Extreme Unction, we find in the Epiſtle of the holy Apoſtle St. James, and of the effects of the ſame.

London. To the ſeventh, I find, that St. Auſtin is of this ſentence, that where the Sacraments of the old Law did promiſe Grace and Comfort, the Sacraments of the new Law do give it indeed. And moreover he ſaith, that the Sacraments of the new Law are, factu faciliora, pauciora, ſalubriora, & fœliciora, more eaſier, more fewer, more wholſomer, and more happy.

Rocheſter. The Scripture teacheth of Baptiſm, the Sacrament of the Altar, Matrimony and Penance manifeſtly: There be alſo in the Scripture manifeſt Examples of Confirmation, viz. That it was done after Baptiſm by the Apoſtles, per Manuum Impoſitionem. The Scripture teacheth alſo of Order, that it was done, per Manuum Impoſitionem cum Oratione & Jejunio. Of the Unction of ſick Men, the Epiſtle of St. James teacheth manifeſtly.

Carliſle. I think verily, that of the ſubſtance, effect and virtue of theſe ſeven uſual Sacraments, that are to be taken and eſteemed above others, we have plainly and expreſly mention by holy Scripture. Of Baptiſm, that whoſoever believeth in Chriſt, and is chriſtned, ſhall be ſaved; and except that one be born again of Water and the Holy Ghoſt, he cannot come within the Kingdom of God. Of Matrimony, we have in Scripture, both by name, and in effect, in the Old and New Teſtament, both by Chriſt and his Apoſtle Paul. Of the Sacrament of the Altar, I find plainly, and expreſly, both in the holy Goſpels, and other places of Scripture. Of Penance in like manner. Of Confirmation we have in Scripture, that when the Samaritans, by the Preaching of Philip, had receiv'd the Word of God, and were chriſtned, the Apoſtles hearing of the ſame, ſent Peter and John unto them; who when they came thither, they pray'd for them that they might receive the Holy Ghoſt: Then they laid their Hands upon them, and ſo they receiv'd the Holy Ghoſt: This, ſaid Bede, is the Office and Duty only of Biſhops. And this manner and form (ſaith St. Hierom) as it is written in the Acts, the Church hath kept, that the Biſhop ſhould go abroad to call for the Grace of the Holy Ghoſt, and lay his Hands upon them, who had been chriſten'd by Prieſts and Deacons. Of the Sacrament of Orders, we have, that Chriſt made his Apoſtles the Teachers of the Law, and Miniſters of his Sacraments, that they ſhould duly do it, and make and ordain others likewiſe to do it after them. And ſo the Apoſtles ordain'd Matthias to be one of their Number. St. Paul made and ordain'd Timothy and Titus, with others likewiſe. Of the Sacrament of Extreme Unction, we have manifeſtly in the Goſpel of Mark, and Epiſtle of St. James.

Dr. Robertſon. Materia Sacramentorum eſt Verbum & Elementum, virtus quam Deus per illa dignè ſumentibus conferat gratiam, juxta ſuam promiſſionem, nimirum quod ſint ſacra ſignacula, non tantum ſignantia, ſed etiam ſignificantia. Unde opinor conſtari hanc Sacramentorum vim eſſe in ſacris Literis.

Dr. Cox. I find in Scripture, of ſuch things as we uſe to call Sacraments. Firſt, of Baptiſm manifeſtly. Of Euchariſtia manifeſtly. Of Penance manifeſtly. Of Matrimony manifeſtly. Of Ordering, per Manus Impoſitionem & Orationem manifeſtly. It is alſo manifeſt, that the Apoſtles laid their hands upon them that were chriſten'd. Of the Unction of the ſick with Prayer manifeſtly.

Dr. Day. Albeit the ſeven Sacraments be not found in Scripture expreſſed by name, yet the thing it ſelf, that is, the Matter, Nature, Effect and Virtue of them is found there. Of Baptiſm in divers places; Of the moſt holy Communion; Of Matrimony; Of Abſolution; Of Biſhops, Prieſts and Deacons, how they were ordain'd per Manuum Impoſitionem cum Oratione; Of laying the Apoſtles hands on them that were chriſtned, which is a part of Confirmation; Of Unction of them that were ſick, with Prayer join'd withall.

Dr. Oglethorpe. Natura, vis, effectus, ac uniuſcujuſque Sacramenti proprietas, ſeorſim in Scriptura reperitur, ut veteres eam interpretati ſunt.

Dr. Redmayn. As it appeareth in the Articles which be drawn of the ſaid ſeven Sacraments.

Dr. Edgworth. In Scripture we find of the Form of the Sacraments, as the words Sacramental; and the Matter, as the Element, Oil, Chriſm; and the Patient receiving the Sacrament, and of Grace, and encreaſe of Virtue given by them, as the Effects.

Dr. Symmons. The things are contain'd in Scripture, as Baptiſm, Confirmation, Euchariſtia, Pœnitentia, Extrema Unctio, Ordo, altho' they have not there this name Sacramentum as Matrimony hath; and every one of them hath his Matter, Nature, Effect and Virtue.

Dr. Treſham. I think the Thing, the Matter, the Nature, the Effect, and Virtue of them all be in the Scripture, and all there inſtituted by God's Authority; for I think that no one Man, neither the whole Church hath Power to inſtitute a Sacrament, but that ſuch Inſtitution pertaineth only to God.

Dr. Leyghton. To the ſeventh, I ſay, that we may evidently find in Scripture, the ſubſtance of every one of the ſeven Sacraments, the Nature, Effect, and Virtue of the ſame; as of Baptiſm, Confirmation, Penance, Matrimony, and ſo forth of the reſt.

Dr. Coren. Of the Matter, Nature, Virtue, and Effect, of ſuch as we call Sacraments, Scripture maketh mention: Of Baptiſm manifeſtly; Of the moſt holy Communion manifeſtly; Of Abſolution manifeſtly; Of Matrimony manifeſtly; Of Biſhops, Prieſts, and Deacons, Scripture ſpeaketh manifeſtly, for they were ordered, per Impoſitiones Manuum Presbyterii cum Oratione & Jejunio.

Conveniunt. Conveniunt præter Meneven. naturam ſeptem Sacramentorum nobis tradi in Scripturis. Eboracenſ. effectus ſingulorum enumerat; item Carliolenſ. Londinenſ. non reſpondet Quæſtioni. Treſhamus ait ideo è Scripturis tradi nobis Sacramenta, quoniam tota Eccleſia non habet autoritatem inſtituendi Sacramenta.

Agreement. In the ſeventh they do agree, ſaving this, that the Biſhop of St. David's ſays, that the Nature, Effect, and Virtue of theſe ſeven Sacraments, only Baptiſm, the Sacrament of the Altar, Matrimony, Penance, are contained in the Scripture. The other ſay, That the Nature and the Virtue of all the ſeven, be contained in the Scripture.

8. Queſtion.

Whether Confirmation, cum Chriſmate, of them that be baptis'd, be found in Scripture?

Anſwers.

Canterbury. Of Confirmation with Chriſm, without which it is counted no Sacrament, there is no manner of mention in the Scripture.

York. To the eighth; We find Confirmation, cum impoſitione manuum in Scripture as before; Cum Chriſmate we find not in the Scripture, but yet we find Chriſmation with Oil uſed even from the time of the Apoſtles, and ſo taken as a Tradition apoſtolick.

London. To the eighth; I find in Scripture in many places, De impoſitione manuum, which I think (conſidering the Uſage commonly and ſo long withal uſed) to be Confirmation; and that with Chriſm, to ſupply the viſible appearance of the Holy Ghoſt, which Holy Ghoſt was ſo viſibly ſeen in the primitive Church; nevertheleſs for the perfect Declaration of the Verity hereof, I refer it to the Judgment of Men of higher Knowledge in this Faculty.

Rocheſter. Altho' Confirmation be found in the Scripture, by Example, as I ſaid before, yet there is nothing written de Chriſmate.

Carliſle. The Impoſition of Hands, the holy Doctors take for the ſame which we call Confirmation, done upon them which were chriſtened before, whereof is written in the Acts. And as for Chriſma, it ſhould ſeem by Cyprian, both as touching the Confection and Uſage thereof, that it hath a great ground to be deriv'd out of Scripture, tho' it be not manifeſtly therein ſpoken of.

Dr. Robertſon. Res & effectus Confirmationis continentur in Scriptura, nempè, Impoſitio manuum per Apoſtolos baptizatis, per quam dabatur Spiritus ſanctus. De Chriſmate nihil illic legimus, quia per id tempus Spiritus ſanctus ſigno viſibili deſcenderit in baptizatos. Quod ubi fieri deſierit, Eccleſia Chriſmate ſigni externi loco uti cœpit.

Dr. Cox. I find not in Scripture that the Apoſtles laying their hands upon them that were baptiz'd, did anoint them Chriſmate.

Dr. Day. Confirmation cum Chriſmate I read not in Scripture, but Impoſitionem Manuum ſuper baptizatos, I find there is, which ancient Authors call Confirmation; And Inunction with Chriſma hath been uſed from the primitive Church.

Dr. Oglethorpe. De impoſitione manuum cum oratione, expreſſa mentio eſt in Scripturis, quæ nunc uſitato nomine, à Doctoribus dicitur, Confirmatio. Sacrum Chriſma, Traditio eſt Apoſtolica, ut ex veteribus liquet.

Dr. Redmayn. The Queſtion is not ſimple, but as if it were ask'd, whether Euchariſtia in infermentato, be in the Scripture, or Baptiſmus cum ſale. Impoſition of the Apoſtles Hands, in which was conferr'd the holy Ghoſt for Confirmation of them who were baptiz'd, is found in Scripture. Chriſma is a Tradition deduc'd from the Apoſtles, as may be gather'd by Scripture, and by the old Authors, and the Myſtery thereof is not to be deſpis'd.

Dr. Edgworth. This Sacrament is one unitate Integritatis, as ſome others be: Therefore it hath two parts; of which one, that is, Impoſitio Manuum, is taken, Heb. 6. and Acts 8. The other part, that is, Chriſm, is taken of the Tradition of the Fathers, and ſo uſed from the primitive Church. Vid. Cyp. Epiſt. lib. 1. ep. 12.

Dr. Symmons. Confirmation is found in Scripture, and Confirmation cum Chriſmate is gather'd from the old Authors.

Dr. Treſham. I ſay, Confirmation is found in Scripture, but this additament, cum Chriſmate, is not of the Scripture; yet it is a very ancient Tradition as appeareth by Cyp. de Unct. Chriſm.

Dr. Leyghton. To the eighth Queſtion, I ſay, that Confirmation of them that be baptiz'd, is found in Scripture, but cum Chriſmate it is not found in Scripture; but it was uſed cum Chriſmate in the Church ſoon after the Apoſtles time, as it may evidently appear by the cited Authors.

Dr. Coren. The laying the Biſhops Hands upon them that be chriſtened, which is a part of Confirmation, is plainly in Scripture; and the Unction with Chriſm, which is another part, hath been obſerv'd from the primitive Church, and is called of St. Auſtin, Sacramentum Chriſmatis. Unction of the ſick with Oil, and the Prayer is grounded expreſly in Scripture.

Conveniunt. Conveniunt omnes Confirmationem cum Chriſmate non haberi in ſcripturis. Eboracenſ. Treſham, Coren, Day, Ogelthorpe, Edgeworth, Leighton, Simmons, Redman, Robinſonus, Confirmationem in ſcripturis eſſe contendunt; cæterùm Chriſma eſſe Traditionem Apoſtolicam. Addit Robertſonus, & ubi fieri deſierat miraculum conſecrandi Spiritûs Sancti, Eccleſia Chriſmate ſigni externi loco uti cœpit; convenit illi Londinenſ.

Carliolenſ. putat uſum Chriſmatis ex ſcripturis peti poſſe; putant omnes tum in hoc articulo, tum ſuperiori impoſitionem manuum eſſe Confirmationem.

Agreement. In the eighth they do agree all, except it be the Biſhop of Carliſle, that Confirmatio cum Chriſmate is not found in Scripture, but only Confirmatio cum Manuum Impoſitione. And that alſo my Lord of St. David's denieth to be in Scripture, as we call it a Sacrament. My Lord of Carliſle ſaith, that Chriſma, as touching the Confection and Uſage thereof, hath a ground to be deriv'd out of Scripture. The other ſay, that it is but a Tradition.

9. Queſtion.

Whether the Apoſtles lacking a higher Power, as in not having a Chriſtian King among them, made Biſhops by that neceſſity, or by authority given them by God?

Anſwers.

Canterbury. All Chriſtian Princes have committed unto them immediately of God the whole Cure of all their Subjects, as well concerning the Adminiſtration of God's Word for the Cure of Souls, as concerning the Miniſtration of things political and civil Governance. And in both theſe Miniſtrations, they muſt have ſundry Miniſters under them to ſupply that, which is appointed to their Offices. The civil Miniſters under the King's Majeſty, jeſty, in this Realm of England, be thoſe, whom it ſhall pleaſe his Highneſs for the time to put in Authority under him: as for Example; the Lord Chancellor, Lord Treaſurer, Lord Great Maſter, Lord Privy Seal, Lord Admiral, Maiors, Sheriffs, &c. The Miniſters of God's Word, under his Majeſty, be the Biſhops, Parſons, Vicars, and ſuch other Prieſts, as be appointed by his Highneſs to that Miniſtration: as for Example; the Biſhop of Canterbury, the Biſhop of Dureſme, the Biſhop of Wincheſter, the Parſon of Winwick, &c. All the ſaid Officers and Miniſters, as well of the one ſort as the other, be appointed, aſſign'd, and elected in every place, by the Laws and Orders of Kings and Princes. In the admiſſion of many of theſe Officers, be divers comely Ceremonies and Solemnities uſed, which be not of neceſſity, but only for a good Order and ſeemly Faſhion. For if ſuch Offices and Miniſtrations were committed without ſuch Solemnity, they were nevertheleſs truly committed. And there is no more Promiſe of God, that Grace is given in the committing of the Eccleſiaſtical Office, than it is in committing of the civil Office: In the Apoſtles time, when there was no Chriſtian Princes, by whoſe authority Miniſters of God's Word might be appointed, nor Sins by the Sword corrected, there was no Remedy then for the Correction of Vice, or appointing of Miniſters, but only the Conſent of Chriſtian Multitudes among themſelves, by an uniform Conſent to follow the advice and perſuaſion of ſuch Perſons, whom God had moſt endued with the ſpirit of Counſel and Wiſdom. And at that time, foraſmuch as the Chriſtian People had no Sword, nor Governor amongſt them, they were conſtrain'd of neceſſity to take ſuch Curates and Prieſts, as either they knew themſelves to be meet thereunto, or elſe as were commended unto them by others, that were ſo replete with the Spirit of God, with ſuch Knowledge in the Profeſſion of Chriſt, ſuch Wiſdom, ſuch Converſation and Counſel, that they ought even of very Conſcience to give credit unto them, and to accept ſuch as by them were preſented. And ſo ſometimes the Apoſtles and others, unto whom God had given abundantly his Spirit, ſent or appointed Miniſters of God's Word, ſometimes the People did chuſe ſuch as they thought meet thereunto; and when any were appointed or ſent by the Apoſtles or others, the People of their own voluntary Will, with Thanks did accept them: Not for the Supremity, Impery, or Dominion that the Apoſtles had over them to command, as their Princes or Maſters, but as good People ready to obey the advice of good Counſellors, and to accept any thing that was neceſſary for their Edification or Benefit.

York. To the ninth; We find in Scripture, that the Apoſtles us'd the power to make Biſhops, Prieſts and Deacons; which power may be grounded upon theſe words; Sicut miſit me vivens Pater, ſic ego mitto vos, &c. and we verily think, that they durſt not have uſed ſo high Power, unleſs they had had Authority from Chriſt; but that their Power to ordain Biſhops, Prieſts, or Deacons, by Impoſition of Hands, requireth any other Authority than Authority of God, we neither read in Scripture, nor out of Scripture.

London. To the ninth; I think the Apoſtles made Biſhops by the Law of God, becauſe, Acts 22. it is ſaid, in quo vos Spiritus Sanctus poſuit: Nevertheleſs, I think if Chriſtian Princes had been then, they ſhould have named by right, and appointed the ſaid Biſhops to their Rooms and Places.

Rocheſter. I think that the Apoſtles made Biſhops by Authority given them by God.

Carliſle. That Chriſt made his Apoſtles, Prieſts, and Biſhops, and that he gave them Power to make others like, it ſeemeth to be the very Trade of Scripture.

Dr. Robertſon. Opinor Apoſtolos Authoritate divinâ creaſſe Epiſcopos & Presbyteros, ubi publicus Magiſtratus permittit.

Dr. Cox. Altho' the Apoſtles had no Authority to force any Man to be Prieſt, yet (they moved by the Holy Ghoſt) had Authority of God to exhort and induce Men to ſet forth God's Honour, and ſo to make them Prieſts.

Dr. Day. The Apoſtles made, that is to ſay, ordain'd Biſhops by Authority given them by God; Joh. 20. Sicut miſit me vivens Pater, ita & ego mitto vos. Item Joan. ult. & Act. 20. & 1 Tim. 4. Paulus ordinavit Timotheum & Titum, & præſcribit quales illi debeant ordinare. 1 Tim. 1. Tit. 1.

Dr. Oglethorp. Apoſtoli Authoritate & Mandato Dei, ordinabant ac inſtituebant Epiſcopos, petita ac obtenta prius facultate a Principe ac Magiſtratu (ut opinor) qui tum præerat.

Dr. Redmayn. Chriſt gave his Apoſtles Authority to make other Biſhops and Miniſters in his Church, as he had received Authority of the Father to make them Biſhops; but if any Chriſtian Prince had then been, and ought to have been, the Apoſtles had been obedient Subjects, and would nothing have attempted, but under the permiſſion and aſſent of their earthly Governors: Yet was it meet that they which were ſpecial and moſt elect Servants of our Saviour Chriſt, and were ſent by him to convert the World; and having moſt abundantly the Holy Ghoſt in them, ſhould have ſpecial ordering of ſuch Miniſtry as pertained to the planting and encreaſing of the Faith; Whereunto I doubt not, but a Chriſtian Prince, of his godly Mind, would moſt lovingly condeſcended. And it is to be conſidered, that in this Queſtion, with other like, this word, making of a Biſhop, or Prieſt, may be taken two ways: For underſtanding the word, to ordain or conſecrate, ſo it is a thing which pertaineth to the Apoſtles and their Succeſſors only; but if by this word (making) be underſtood the appointing or naming to the Office; ſo, it pertaineth ſpecially to the ſupreme Heads and Governors of the Church, which be Princes.

Dr. Edgworth. The Apoſtles made Biſhops and Prieſts, by Authority given them of God, and not for lack of any higher Power: Notwithſtanding where there is a chriſten'd King or Prince, the Election, Deputation and Aſſignation of them that ſhall be Prieſts or Biſhops, belongeth to the King or Prince; ſo that he may forbid any Biſhop within his Kingdom, that he give no Orders for Conſiderations moving him, and may aſſign him a time when he ſhall give Orders, and to whom: Example of King David, 1 Chron. 24. dividing the Levites into 24 Orders, deputing over every Order one chief Biſhop, preſcribing an Ordinal and Rule how they ſhould do their Duties, their Courſes; and what Sacrifices, Rites, and Ceremonies they ſhould uſe every day, as the day and time required. And his Son, King Solomon, diligently executed and commanded the ſame Uſages to be obſerv'd in the Temple, after he had erected and finiſh'd it, 2 Chron. 8.

Dr. Symmons. The Apoſtles made Biſhops and Prieſts, by Authority given them of God.

Dr. Treſham. I ſay, That the Apoſtles had Authority of God to make Biſhops; yet if there had been a Chriſtian King in any place where they made Biſhops, they would, and ought, to have deſired Authority alſo of him, for the executing of ſuch their godly Acts, which no Chriſtian King would have denied.

To the ninth, I ſay, that the Apoſtles (as I ſuppoſe) made Biſhops by Authority given unto them of Chriſt: Howbeit I think they would and ſhould have requir'd the Chriſtian Princes Conſent and Licenſe thereto, if there had been any Chriſtian Kings or Princes.

Dr. Coren.

The Apoſtles made Biſhops and Prieſts by Authority given them of God: Notwithſtanding if there had been a Chriſtian King at that time, it had been their Duties, to have had his Licenſe and Permiſſion to do the ſame.

Con.

Omnes conveniunt Apoſtolos Divinitus accepiſſe Poteſtatem creandi Epiſcopos; Eboracenſ. addit, non opus fuiſſe alia Authoritate Apoſtolis quam Divina: Sic Thirleby & Edgworth, Redmaynus diſtinguit de Inſtitutione Presbyteri, Ordinationem & Conſecrationem tribuit tantum Apoſtolicis & eorum Succeſſoribus, Nominationem & Electionem Magiſtratibus: Sic Londinenſ. Leyghtonus, Redman, Treſham, Curren, aiunt petendam fuiſſe Poteſtatem à Magiſtratu Chriſtiano, ſi tum fuiſſet. Robertſonus non reſpondet Qæſtioni, concedit enim datam eſſe Apoſtolis Poteſtatem creandi Epiſcopos ubi Magiſtratus permittit. Oglethorpus putat eas impetrâſſe poteſtatem à Principibus. Carliolenſ. Agreem.

In the ninth, touching the Authority of the Apoſtles in making Prieſts, the Biſhop of York, the Elect of Weſtminſter, Dr. Edgworth, ſay, that the Apoſtles made Prieſts by their own Power, given them by God, and that they had no need of any other Power. The Biſhop of St. David's ſays, that becauſe they lack'd a Chiſtian Prince, by that Neceſſity they ordain'd other Biſhops. Dr. Leyghton, Curren, Treſham and Redmayn, ſuppoſe, that they ought to have aſk'd Licenſe of their Chriſtian Governours, if then there had been any.

10. Queſtion.

Whether Biſhops or Prieſts were firſt? and if the Prieſts were firſt, then the Prieſt made the Biſhop.

Anſwers.

Canterbury.

The Biſhops and Prieſts were at one time, and were not two things, but both one Office in the beginning of Chriſt's Religion.

York.

To the tenth, we think, that the Apoſtles were Prieſts before they were Biſhops; and that the divine Power which made them Prieſts, made them alſo Biſhops; and altho' their Ordination was not by all ſuch Courſe as the Church now uſeth, yet that they had both viſible and inviſible Sanctification, we may gather of the Goſpel, where it is written, Sicut miſit me Pater vivens, & ego mitto vos: & cum hæc dixit, inſufflavit in eos & dixit, accipite Spiritum Sanctum: quorum remiſeritis, &c. and we may well think, that then they were made Biſhops, when they had not only a Flock, but alſo Shepherds appointed to them to overlook, and a Governance committed to them by the Holy Ghoſt to overſee both; for the name of a Biſhop, is not properly a Name of Order, but a Name of Office, ſignifying an Overſeer. And altho' the inferior Shepherds have alſo Cure to overſee their Flock, yet foraſmuch as the Biſhops Charge is alſo to overſee the Shepherds, the Name of Overſeer is given to the Biſhops, and not to the other; and as they be in Degree higher, ſo in their Conſecration we find Difference even from the Primitive Church.

London.

To the tenth, I think the Biſhops were firſt, and yet I think it is not of Importance, whether the Prieſt then made the Biſhop, or elſe the Biſhop the Prieſt; conſidering (after the Sentence of St. Jerome) that in the beginning of the Church there was none (or if it were, very ſmall) Difference between a Biſhop and a Prieſt, eſpecially touching the ſignification.

Rocheſter.

I find in Scripture, that Chriſt being both a Prieſt and a Biſhop, ordain'd his Apoſtles, who were both Prieſts and Biſhops; and the ſame Apoſtles did afterwards ordain Biſhops, and commanded them to ordain others.

Carliſle.

Chriſt made his Apoſtles Exorciſts, as it appeareth in the 10th of St. Matthew, Deacons, Prieſts and Biſhops, as partly there, and after, in the 20th of St. John, Quorum remiſeritis, &c. and where he ſaid, hoc facite in meam Commemorationem. In the Acts, Cæterorum nemo audebat ſe conjungere illis. So that they were all theſe together; and ſo being according to the Ordinance of Chriſt, who had made after them 72 Prieſts, as it appeareth in the 10th of St. Luke, they made and ordain'd alſo others the ſeven principal Deacons, as it is ſhew'd in the 6th of the Acts, where it is ſaid, that they praying, laid their Hands upon them; in the 13th of the Acts, certain there named at the Commandment of the Holy Ghoſt, ſevered Saul and Barnabas to that God had taken them, faſting, praying, and laying their Hands upon them; the which Saul, Ananias the Diſciple had baptiz'd, laying his Hand upon him, that he might be repleniſh'd with the Holy Ghoſt. And Paul ſo made, ordain'd Timothy and Tite, willing them to do likewiſe as he had done, and appointed to be done from City to City. James was ordain'd the Biſhop of Jeruſalem, by Peter, John and James. So that Example otherwiſe we read not.

Dr. Robertſon.

Dr. Cox.

Altho' by Scripture (as St. Hierom ſaith) Prieſts and Biſhops be one, and therefore the one not afore the other: yet Biſhops, as they be now, were after Prieſts, and therefore made of Prieſts.

Dr. Day.

The Apoſtles were both Biſhops and Prieſts, and they made Biſhops and Prieſts, as Titus and Timotheus made Prieſts. Epiſcopatum ejus accipiat alter, Acts 1. Presbyteros qui in vobis ſunt, obſecro & ego Compresbyter, 1 Pet. 5. and in the beginning of the Church, as well that word Epiſcopus, as Presbyter, was common and attributed both to Biſhops and Prieſts.

Dr. Oglethorpe.

Utrique primi à Deo facti, Apoſtoli, Epiſcopi; ſeptuaginta Diſcipuli (ut Conjectura ducor) Sacerdotes. Unde veriſimile eſt Epiſcopos præceſſiſſe, Apoſtoli enim prius vocati erant.

Dr. Redmayn.

They be of like beginning, and at the beginning were both one, as St. Hierom and other old Authors ſhew by the Scripture, wherefore one made another indifferently.

Dr. Edgeworth.

Chriſt our chief Prieſt and Biſhop, made his Apoſtles Prieſts and Biſhops all at once; and they did likewiſe make others, ſome Prieſts, and ſome Biſhops; and that the Prieſt in the Primitive Church made Biſhops, I think no Inconvenience; (as Jerome ſaith) in an Epiſt. ad Evagrium. Even like as Soldiers ſhould chuſe one among themſelves to be their Captain: ſo did Prieſts chuſe one of themſelves to be their Biſhop, for Conſideration of his Learning, Gravity and good Living, &c. and alſo for to avoid Schiſms among themſelves by them, that ſome might not draw the People one way, and others another way, if they lack'd one Head among them.

Dr. Symmons. Chriſt was, and is the great high Biſhop, and made all his Apoſtles Biſhops; and they made Biſhops and Prieſts after him, and ſo hath it evermore continued hitherto.

Dr. Treſham. I ſay, Chriſt made the Apoſtles firſt Prieſts, and then Biſhops, and they by this Authority made both Prieſts and Biſhops, but where there had been a Chriſtian Prince, they would have deſired his Authority to the ſame.

Dr. Leyghton. To tenth.--------

Dr. Coren. The Apoſtles were made of Chriſt Biſhops and Prieſts, both at the firſt; and after them, ſeptuaginta duo Diſcipuli, were made Prieſts.

Con. Menevenſ. Thirleby, Redmanus, Coxus, aſſerunt in Initio eoſdem fuiſſe Epiſcopos & Presbyteros. Londinenſ. Carliolenſ. Symmons, putant Apoſtolos fuiſſe inſtitutos Epiſcopos à Chriſto, & eos poſt ea inſtituiſſe alios & Epiſcopos & Presbyteros, & 72 Presbyteros poſtea fuiſſe Ordinatos: Sic Oglethorpus, Eboracenſ. & Treſham aiunt Apoſtolos primo fuiſſe Presbyteros, deinde Epiſcopos, cum aliorum Presbyterorum credita eſſet illis cura. Robertſonus incertus eſt utri fuere priores, non abſurdum tamen eſſe opinatur, ut Sacerdos conſecret Epiſcopum, ſi Epiſcopus haberi non poteſt. Sic Londinenſ. Edgworth, Dayus, putant etiam Epiſcopos, ut vulgo de Epiſcopis loquimur fuiſſe ante Presbyteros, Leightonus nihil reſpondet.

Agreement. In the tenth, where it is asked, whether Biſhops or Prieſts were firſt? The Biſhop of St. David's, my Lord Elect of Weſtminſter, Dr. Cox, Dr. Redman, ſay, that at the beginning they were all one. The Biſhops, of York, London, Rocheſter, Carliſle; Drs. Day, Treſham, Symmons, Oglethorp, be in other contrary Opinions. The Biſhop of York and Dr. Treſham, think, that the Apoſtles were firſt Prieſts, and after were made Biſhops, when the overſeeing of other Prieſts were committed to them. My Lords of Dureſme, London, Carliſle, Rocheſter; Dr. Symmons and Crafford, think, that the Apoſtles firſt were Biſhops, and they after made other Biſhops and Prieſts. Dr. Coren and Oglethorp ſay, that the Apoſtles were made Piſhops, and the 72 were after made Prieſts. Dr. Day thinks, that Biſhops as they be now a-days called, were before Prieſts. My Lord of London, Drs. Edgworth and Robertſon, think it no Inconvenience, if a Prieſt made a Biſhop in that time.

11. Queſtion.

Whether a Biſhop hath Authority to make a Prieſt by the Scripture, or no? And whether any other but only a Biſhop may make a Prieſt?

Anſwers.

Canterbury. A Biſhop may make a Prieſt by the Scripture; and ſo may Princes and Governours alſo, and that by the Authority of God committed to them, and the People alſo by their Election For as we read, that Biſhops have done it, ſo Chriſtian Emperors and Princes uſually have done it, and the People, before Chriſtian Princes were, commonly did elect their Biſhops and Prieſts.

York. To the eleventh, that a Biſhop may make a Prieſt, may be deduc'd of Scripture; for ſo much as they have all Authority neceſſary for the ordering of Chriſt's Church, deriv'd from the Apoſtles, who made Biſhops and Prieſts, and not without Authority, as we have ſaid before to the ninth Queſtion; and that any other than Biſhops or Prieſts may make a Prieſt, we neither find in Scripture nor out of Scripture.

London. To the eleventh, I think, that a Biſhop duly appointed hath Authority by Scripture to make a Biſhop, and alſo a Prieſt: Becauſe Chriſt being a Biſhop did ſo make himſelf; and becauſe alive, his Apoſtles did the like.

Rocheſter. The Scripture ſheweth by Example, that a Biſhop hath Authority to make a Prieſt; albeit no Biſhop being ſubject to a Chriſtian Prince, may either give Orders to excommunicate, or uſe any manner of Juriſdiction, or any part of his Authority, without Commiſſion from the King, who is ſupream Head of that Church, whereof he is a Member; but that any other Man may do it beſides a Biſhop, I find no Example, either in Scripture, or in Doctors.

Carliſle. By what is ſaid before, it appeareth, that a Biſhop by Scripture may make Deacons and Prieſts, and that we have no Example otherwiſe.

Dr. Robertſon. Opinor Epiſcopum habere Authoritatem creandi Sacerdotem, modo id Magiſtratus publici permiſſu fiat. An vero ab alio quam Epiſcopo id ritè fieri poſſit, haud ſcio, quamvis ab alio factum non memini me legiſſe. Ordin. conferr. Gratiam, vid. Eck. Homil. 60.

Dr. Cox. Biſhops have Authority, as is aforeſaid, of the Apoſtles, in the tenth Queſtion, to make Prieſts, except in Caſes of great Neceſſity.

Dr. Day. Biſhops have Authority by Scripture to ordain Biſhops and Prieſts, John 20. hujus rei gratiâ reliqui te Cretæ ut conſtituas oppidatim Presbyteros, Tit. 1. Act 14.

Dr. Oglethorpe. Autoritas ordinandi Presbyteros data eſt Epiſcopis per Verbum, multiſque aliis quos legi.

Dr. Redmayn. To the firſt part, I anſwer, yea; for ſo it appeareth, Tit. 1. and 1 Tim. 5. with other places of Scripture. But whether any other but only a Biſhop may make a Prieſt, I have not read, but by ſingular Privilege of God, as when Moſes (whom divers Authors ſay was not a Prieſt) made Aaron a Prieſt. Truth it is, that the Office of a godly Prince is to overſee the Church, and the Miniſters thereof; and to cauſe them to do their Duty, and alſo to appoint them ſpecial Charges and Offices in the Church, as may be moſt for the Glory of God, and edifying of the People: And thus we read of the good Kings in the Old Teſtament, David, Joas, Ezekias, Joſias. But as for making, that is to ſay, ordaining and conſecrating of Prieſts, I think it ſpecially belongeth to the Office of a Biſhop, as far as can be ſhew'd by Scripture, or any Example, as I ſuppoſe from the beginning.

Dr. Edgworth. A Biſhop hath Authority by Scripture to make a Prieſt, and that any other ever made a Prieſt ſince Chriſt's time, I read not. Albeit Moſes who was not anointed Prieſt, made Aaron Prieſt and Biſhop, by a ſpecial Commiſſion or Revelation from God, without which he would never ſo have done.

Dr. Symmons. A Biſhop placed by the higher Powers, and admitted to miniſter, may make a Prieſt; and I have not read of any other that ever made Prieſts.

Dr. Treſham. I ſay, a Biſhop hath Authority by Scripture to make a Prieſt, and other than a Biſhop, hath not Power therein, but only in Caſes of Neceſſity.

Dr. Leyghton. To the eleventh, I ſuppoſe, that a Biſhop hath Authority of God, as his Miniſter, by Scripture to make a Prieſt; but he ought not to admit any Man to be Prieſt, and conſecrate him, or to appoint him to any Miniſtry in the Church, without the Prince's Licenſe and Conſent, in a Chriſtian Region. And that any other Man hath Authority to make a Prieſt by Scripture, I have not read, nor any Example thereof.

Dr. Coren. A Biſhop being licenſed by his Prince and ſupream Governour, hath Authority to make a Prieſt by the Law of God. I do not read that any Prieſt hath been order'd by any other than a Biſhop.

Ad

Con. Ad primam partem Quæſtionis reſpondent omnes & convenit omnibus præter Menevenſ. Epiſcopum habere Autoritatem inſtituendi Presbyteros. Roffenſ. Leighton, Curren, Robertſonus, addunt, modo Magiſtratus id permittat. Ad ſecundam partem reſpondent Coxus & Treſham in Neceſſitate concedi poteſtatem ordinandi aliis. Eboracen. videtur omnino denegare aliis hanc autoritatem. Redmayn, Symmons, Robertſon, Leyghton, Thirleby, Curren, Roffen. Edgworth, Oglethorpe, Carliolen. nuſquam legerunt alios uſos fuiſſe hâc poteſtate, quanquam (privilegio quodam) data ſit Moyſi, ut Redmanus arbitratur, & Edgworth. Nihil reſpondent ad ſecundam partem Quæſtionis Londinenſis & Dayus.

Agreement. In the eleventh; To the former part of the Queſtion, the Biſhop of St. David's doth anſwer, That Biſhops have no Authority to make Prieſts without they be authoriz'd of the Chriſtian Princes. The others, all of them do ſay, that they be authoriz'd of God. Yet ſome of them, as the Biſhop of Rocheſter, Dr. Curren, Leighton, Robertſon, add, That they cannot uſe this Authority without their Chriſtian Prince doth permit them. To the ſecond Part the Anſwer of the Biſhop of St. David's is, That Laymen have otherwhiles made Prieſts. So doth Dr. Edgworth and Redmayn ſay, that Moſes, by a Privilege given him of God, made Aaron his Brother Prieſt. Dr. Treſham, Crayford, and Cox, ſay, that Laymen may make Prieſts in time of neceſſity. The Biſhops of York, Dureſme, Rocheſter, Carliſle, Elect of Weſtminſter, Dr. Curren, Leighton, Symmons, ſeem to deny this thing; for they ſay, they find not, nor read not any ſuch Example.

12. Queſtion.

Whether in the New Teſtament be required any Conſecration of a Biſhop and Prieſt, or only appointing to the Office be ſufficient?

Anſwers.

Canterbury. In the New Teſtament, he that is appointed to be a Biſhop, or a Prieſt, needeth no Conſecration by the Scripture; for Election or Appointing thereto is ſufficient.

York. To the twelfth Queſtion; The Apoſtles ordain'd Prieſts by Impoſition of the Hand, with Faſting and Prayer; and ſo following their Steps we muſt needs think, that all the foreſaid things be neceſſarily to be uſed by their Succeſſors: And therefore we do alſo think, that Appointment only, without viſible Conſecration and Invocation for the Aſſiſtance and Power of the Holy Ghoſt, is neither convenient nor ſufficient; for without the ſaid Invocation, it beſeemeth no Man to appoint to our Lord Miniſters, as of his own Authority: Whereof we have Example in the Acts of the Apoſtles, where we find, that when they were gather'd to chuſe one in the place of Judas, they appointed two of the Diſciples; and commended the Election to our Lord, that he would chuſe which of them it pleas'd him, ſaying and praying, Lord, thou that knoweſt the Hearts of all Men, ſhew whether of theſe two thou doſt chuſe to ſucceed in the Place of Judas. And to this Purpoſe in the Acts, we read, Dixit Spiritus Sanctus ſegregate mihi Barnabam, &c. And again, Quos poſuit Spiritus Sanctus regere Eccleſiam Dei. And it appeareth alſo that in the Old Teſtament, in the ordering of Prieſts, there was both viſible and inviſible Sanctification; and therefore in the New Teſtament, where the Prieſthood is above compariſon higher than in the Old, we may not think that only Appointment ſufficeth without Sanctification, either viſible or inviſible.

London. To the twelfth; I think Conſecration of a Biſhop and Prieſt be required, for that in the old Law (being yet but a Shadow and Figure of the new) the Conſecration was requir'd, as appears, Levit. 8. yet the truth of this I leave to thoſe of higher Judgments.

Rocheſter. The Scripture ſpeaketh, De Impoſitione Manus & de Oratione: And of other manner of Conſecrations, I find no mention in the New Teſtament expreſſly; but the old Authors make mention alſo of Inunctions.

Carliſle. Upon this Text of Paul to Timothy; Noli negligere Gratiam quæ in te eſt, quæ data eſt tibi per Prophetiam cum Impoſitione Manuum Presbyterii; St. Anſelm ſaith, This Grace to be the Gift of the Biſhop's Office, to the which God of his mere Goodneſs hath called and preferred him. The Prophecy (he ſaith) was the Inſpiration of the Holy Ghoſt, by the which he knew what he had to do therein. The Impoſition of the Hand is that by the which he was ordain'd and receiv'd that Office: And therefore (ſaith St. Paul) God is my Witneſs, that I have diſcharg'd my ſelf, ſhewing you as I ought to have done. Now look you well upon it whom, that ye take to Orders, leſt ye loſe your ſelf thereby. Let Biſhops therefore, who (as ſaith St. Hierom) hath Power to make Prieſts, conſider well under what Law the Order of Eccleſiaſtical Conſtitution is bounden; and let them not think thoſe Words of the Apoſtle to be his, but rather the Words of Chriſt himſelf.

Dr. Robertſon. Opinor requiri Conſecrationem quandam, hoc eſt, Impoſitionem Manuum, Orationem, Jejunium, &c. Tamen nuſquam hoc munere fungi poſſe, niſi, ubi Magiſtratus invitet, jubeat, aut permittat.

Dr. Cox. By Scripture there is no Conſecration of Biſhops and Prieſts required, but only the appointing to the Office of a Prieſt, Cum Impoſitione Manuum.

Dr. Day. Conſecration of Biſhops and Prieſts I read not in the New Teſtament, but Ordinatio per Manuum Impoſitionem cum Oratione is read there, as in the Places above; and the only Appointment, as I think, is not ſufficient.

Dr. Oglethorpe. Præter Vocationem, ceu Deſignationem externam, quæ vel à Principe fit, vel à populo per Electionem & Suffragia, requiritur Ordinatio alia per Manuum Impoſitionem, idque per verbum Dei.

Dr. Redmayne. Beſides the appointing to the Office, it appeareth, that in the Primitive Church, the Apoſtles uſed certain Conſecration of the Miniſters of the Church, by Impoſition of Hands and Pray'r, Acts 6. and with Faſting, Acts 14, &c. The Office of Prieſthood is too dangerous to ſet upon, when one is but appointed only: Therefore for the Confirmation of their Faith, who take in hand ſuch Charge, and for the obtaining of farther Grace requiſite in the ſame, Conſecration was ordain'd by the Holy Ghoſt, and hath been always uſed from the Beginning.

Dr. Edgworth. Deputation to the Office, is not ſufficient to make a Prieſt or a Biſhop, as appeareth by David and Solomon, who deputed the 24 above-mentioned to their Offices, yet they made none of them Prieſts, nor any other.

Dr. Symmons. The appointing to the Office, per Manuum Impoſitionem, is in Scripture, and the Conſecration of them, hath of long time continued in the Church.

Dr. Treſham. There is a certain kind of Conſecration requir'd, which is Impoſition of the Biſhop's Hands with Prayer, and the appointing only is not ſufficient.

Dr. Leyghton. To the twelfth; I ſuppoſe that there is a Conſecration required, as by Impoſition of Hands; for ſo we be taught by the Enſample of the Apoſtles.

Dr. Coren. In the New Teſtament is required to the making of a Biſhop, Impoſitio Manuum cum Oratione, which I take for Conſecration, and Appointment unto the Office is not ſufficient; for King David, 1 Chron. 24. did appoint twenty four to be Biſhops, who after were conſecrated; ſo that both the Appointment and the Conſecration be requiſite.

Con. Reſpondent Eboracenſ. Londinenſ. Carliolenſ. Leighton, Treſham, Robertſonus, Edgworth, Curren, Dayus, Oglethorp, Conſecrationem eſſe requiſitam. Redmanus ait, eam receptam eſſe ab Apoſtolis, atque à Spiritu Sancto inſtitutam ad conferendam Gratiam. Dayus, Roffenſ. Symmons, aiunt Sacerdotium conferri per Manuum Impoſitionem, idque è Scripturis; Conſecrationem vero diu receptam in Eccleſiâ: Coxus Inſtitutionem cum Manuum Impoſitione ſufficere, neque per Scripturam requiri Conſecrationem. Robertſonus, addit ſupra alios nuſquam hoc munere fungi poſſe quempiam, niſi ubi Magiſtratus invitet, jubeat aut permittat.

Agreement. In the twelfth Queſtion, where it is asked, whether in the New Teſtament be required any Conſecration of a Biſhop, or only appointing to the Office be ſufficient? The Biſhop of St. David's ſaith, That only the appointing. Dr. Cox, That only appointing, cum Manuum Impoſitione, is ſufficient without Conſecration. The Biſhops of York, London, Dureſme, Carliſle, Drs. Day, Curren, Leighton, Treſham, Edgworth, Oglethorp, ſay, that Conſecration is requiſite. Dr. Redmayn ſaith, that Conſecration hath been receiv'd from the Apoſtle's time, and Inſtitute of the Holy Ghoſt to confer Grace. My Lord of Rocheſter, Drs. Day and Symmons, ſay, That Prieſthood is given per Manuum Impoſitionem, and that by Scripture; and that Conſecration hath of long time been received in the Church.

Having now tranſcrib'd at length the Reſolution of this Committee of Biſhops and Divines upon moſt of the Articles, I ſhall be ſhorter upon what remains; and only ſet down the Queſtion, with the Agreement or Diſagreement upon it. But becauſe the Archbiſhop of Canterbury's Opinion is not mentioned in ſumming up the Evidence, I ſhall therefore continue to give it the Reader as it ſtands in the Head of the Article.

13. Queſtion.

Whether (if it fortuned a Chriſtian Prince learned to conquer certain Dominions of Infidels, having none but temporal learned Men with him) if it be defended by God's Law, that he and they ſhould preach and teach the Word of God there, or no? And alſo make and conſtitute Prieſts, or no?

Canterbury. It is not againſt God's Law, but contrary they ought indeed ſo to do; and there be Hiſtories, that witneſſeth, that ſome Chriſtian Princes, and other Laymen unconſecrate, have done the ſame.

Conveniunt. In primâ parte Quæſtionis conveniunt omnes, etiam Laicos, tali rerum ſtatu, non ſolum poſſe ſed debere docere. Menevenſ. Thirlebeus, Leightonus, Coxus, Symmons, Treſham, Redmaynus, Robertſonus, etiam Poteſtatem miniſtrandi Sacramenta, & ordinandi Miniſtros, concedunt illis. Eboracenſ. hanc prorſus Poteſtatem Denegat. Coren credit Principem divinitus illuminandum & conſecrandum fore in Epiſcopum internè, aut aliquem ex ſuis, Pauli exempto. Simile habet Herefordenſis & Carliolenſis. Dayus nihil reſpondet de ordinandis Presbyteris in hac neceſſitate.

Agreem. In the thirteenth; Concerning the firſt part, whether Laymen may preach and teach God's Word? They do all agree, in ſuch a Caſe, that not only they may, but they ought to teach. But in the ſecond part, touching the conſtituting of Prieſts of Laymen, my Lord of York, and Dr. Edgworth, doth not agree with the other; they ſay, that Laymen in no wiſe can make Prieſts, or have ſuch Authority. The Biſhops of Dureſme, St. David's, Weſtminſter, Drs. Treſham, Cox, Leighton, Crayford, Symmons, Redmayn, Robertſon, ſay, that Laymen in ſuch caſe have Authority to miniſter the Sacraments, and to make Prieſts. My Lords of London, Carliſle, and Hereford, and Dr. Coren, think, that God in ſuch a Caſe would give the Prince Authority, call him inwardly, and illuminate him, or ſome of his, as he did St. Paul.

14. Queſtion.

Whether it be forefended by God's Law, that (if it ſo fortune that all the Biſhops and Prieſts of a Region were dead, and that the Word of God ſhould remain there unpreach'd, the Sacrament of Baptiſm, and others unminiſtred) that the King of that Region ſhould make Biſhops and Prieſts to ſupply the ſame, or no?

Canterbury. It is not forbidden by God's Law.

Con. Fatentur ut prius omnes, Laicos poſſe docere. Eboracenſ. Symmons, Oglethorpe negant poſſe ordinare Presbyteros, tamen concedit Eboracenſ. baptizare & contrahere Matrimonia, Edgworth tantum baptizare poſſe; nam ſufficere dicit ad ſalutem. Alii omnes eandem Poteſtatem concedunt, quam prius. Roffenſ. non aliud reſpondet his duabus Quæſtionibus, quam quod neceſſitas non habet Legem.

Agreem. In the fourteenth they agree for the moſt part as they did before, That Laymen in this caſe may teach and miniſter the Sacraments. My Lord of York, Dr. Symmons, and Oglethorpe ſay, they can make no Prieſts, altho' Symmons ſaid they might miniſter all Sacraments, in the Queſtion before, yet my Lord of York, and Edgworth, do grant, that they may chriſten. The Biſhops of London, Rocheſter, and Dr. Crayford, ſay, that in ſuch a caſe, neceſſitas non habet legem.

15. Queſtion.

Whether a Man be bound by Authority of this Scripture, (quorum remiſeritis) and ſuch like, to confeſs his ſecret deadly Sins to a Prieſt, if he may have him, or no?

Canterbury. A Man is not bound by the Authority of this Scripture, quorum remiſeritis, and ſuch like, to confeſs his ſecret deadly Sins to a Prieſt, altho' he may have him.

Con. Eboracenſ. Londinenſ. Dayus, Oglethorpus, Coren, Redmayn, aſſerunt obligari. Coxus, Treſham, & Robertſonus dicunt non obligari, ſi alitèr Conſcientiæ illorum ſatisfieri queat; Menevenſ. nullo modo obligari. Carliolenſ. & Symmons aiunt, ſecundum Veterum Interpretationem hâc Scripturâ quemvis obligari Peccatorum. Roffenſ. Herefordenſ. & Thirleby non reſpondent, ſed dubitant. Leightonus ſolum indoctos obligari ad Confeſſionem. Edgworth tradit duplicem modum Remiſſionis Peccatorem, per Contritionem, ſive Attritionem, & per Abſolutionem: Et quià nemo poteſt certus eſſe, num Attritio & Dolor pro Peccato ſufficiat ad ſatisfaciendum Deo & obtinendam Gratiam, ideò tutiſſiman viam deligendam, ſcilicet, Abſolutionem à Sacerdote, quæ per Promiſſionem Chriſti eſt certa; Abſolvere non poteſt niſi cognoſcat Peccata; ergo Peccata per Confeſſionem ſunt illi revelanda.

In

Agreem. In the fifteenth; concerning Confeſſion of our ſecret deadly Sins. The Biſhops of Yorke, Dureſme, London, Drs. Day, Coren, Oglethorpe, Redmayn, Crayford, ſay, that Men be bound to confeſs them of the ſecret Sins. Drs. Cox, Treſham, Robertſon, ſay, they be not bound, if they may quiet their Conſciences otherwiſe. The Biſhop of St. David's alſo ſaith, that this Text bindeth no Man. Dr. Leighton ſaith, that it bindeth only ſuch as have not the Knowledge of the Scripture. The Biſhop of Carliſle and Symmons, ſay, that by antient Doctors Expoſition, Men be bound, by this Text, to confeſs their deadly Sins.

16. Queſtion.

Whether a Biſhop or a Prieſt may Excommunicate, and for what Crimes? And whether they only may Excommunicate by God's Law?

Canterbury. A Biſhop or a Prieſt by the Scripture is neither commanded nor forbidden to excommunicate; but where the Laws of any Region giveth him Authority to excommunicate, there they ought to uſe the ſame in ſuch Crimes, as the Laws have ſuch Authority in, and where the Laws of the Region forbiddeth them, there they have none Authority at all; and they that be no Prieſts may alſo excommunicate, if the Law allow them thereunto.

Con. Menevenſ. Herefordenſ. Thirleby, Dayus, Leightonus, Coxus, Symmons, Coren, concedunt Authoritatem excommunicandi etiam Laicis, modo a Magiſtratu deputentur. Eboracenſ. & Edgworth prorſus negant datum Laicis, ſed Apoſtolis & eorum Succeſſoribus tantum. Roffenſis, Redmaynus, & Robertſonus ambigunt num detur Laicis. Londinenſ. non reſpondet Quæſtioni: Oglethorpus & Thirleby aiunt, Eccleſiæ datam eſſe Poteſtatem excommunicandi; idem Treſhamus.

Agreem. In the ſixteenth, of Excommunication, they do not agree. The Biſhops of York, Dureſme, and Dr. Edgworth ſay, that Laymen have not the Authority to excommunicate, but that it was given only to the Apoſtles and their Succeſſors. The Biſhops of Hereford, St. David's, Drs. Day, Coren, Leighton, Cox, Symmons, ſay, that Laymen may excommunicate if they be appointed by the high Ruler. My Lord Elect of Weſtminſter, Dr. Treſham, and Dr. Oglethorp, ſay farther, That the Power of Excommunication was given to the Church, and to ſuch as the Church ſhall inſtitute.

Whether Unction of the Sick with Oil, to remit venial Sins, as it is now uſed, be ſpoken of in the Scripture, or in any antient Authors?

Canterbury. Unction of the Sick with Oil, to remit venial Sins, as it is now uſed, is not ſpoken of in the Scripture, nor in any antient Authors.

T. CANTUARIEN. This is mine Opinion and Sentence at this preſent, which I do not temerariouſly define, but do refer the Judgment thereof wholly unto your Majeſty.

Con. Menevenſ. & Coxus negant Unctionem Olei (ut jam eſt recepta) ad remittenda peccata contineri in Scripturis. Eboracenſ. Carliolenſ. Edgworth, Coren, Redmayn, Symmons, Leyghton, Oglethorp aiunt haberi in Scripturis. Roffenſ. Thirleby, Robertſonus, præterquam illud Jacobi 5. Marci 6. nihil proferunt. Herefordenſis ambigit. Treſham vult Unctionem Olei tradi nobis è Scripturis, ſed Unctionis Ceremonias Traditiones eſſe humanas.

Agreem. In the laſt; The Biſhop of St. David's, and Dr. Cox ſay, that Unction of the Sick with Oil conſecrate, as it is now uſed to remit Sins, is not ſpoken of in Scripture. My Lords of York, Dureſme, Carliſle, Drs. Coren, Edgworth, Redmayn, Symmons, Leighton, and Oglethorp, ſay, that it is found in Scripture.

To this I ſhall ſubjoin another Determination upon the Article of Confirmation. And here, excepting the Archbiſhops of Canterbury and York, we have none of the Biſhops or Divines already mentioned. Beſides, by Stokeſley Biſhop of London's being concern'd in this Paper, we may conclude the Article could not be argued after September 1539. for then this Prelate died. But by Thirleby Elect of Weſtminſter's being engaged in the Diſcuſſion of the ſeventeen Queſtions, it is evident theſe were debated in December one thouſand five hundred and forty: For the King's Letters Patent for the founding the See of Weſtminſter, are dated December the 17*th* in the 32. of his Reign, that is, An. Dom. 1540.

Whether Confirmation be inſtituted by Chriſt?

Cranmer Archbiſhop of Canterbury's Paper? Biblioth. Cotton. Cleop. v. fol. 83.

The Anſwer.

There is no place in Scripture that declareth this Sacrament to be inſtitute of Chriſt.

Firſt, For the places alledg'd for the ſame, be no Inſtitutions, but Acts and Deeds of the Apoſtles.

Secondly, Thoſe Acts were done by a ſpecial Gift given to the Apoſtles for the Confirmation of God's Word at that time.

Thirdly, The ſaid eſpecial Gift doth not now remain with the Succeſſors of the Apoſtles.

What is the external ſign?

The Church uſeth Cream for the exterior ſign, but the Scripture maketh no mention thereof.

What is the efficacy of this Sacrament?

The Biſhop in the Name of the Church doth invocate the Holy Ghoſt to give Strength and Conſtancy, with other ſpiritual Gifts, unto the Perſon confirm'd: ſo that the efficacy of this Sacrament is of ſuch value as is the Prayer of the Biſhop, made in the Name of the Church.

Hæc reſpondeo, ſalvo ſemper Eruditiorum & Eccleſiæ Orthodoxæ judicio.

Stokeſley Biſhop of London's Paper.

The firſt Queſtion, Whether the Sacrament of Confirmation be a Sacrament of the New Teſtament inſtituted by Chriſt?

To this I anſwer, that it is.

The ſecond Queſtion, What is the outward Sign, and the inviſible Graces, which be conferr'd in the ſame?

To this I anſwer, That the words Signo te Signo ſanctæ Crucis, & confirmo te, &c. with the Conſignation, with the Cream, Impoſition of Hands of the Prelates, be the ſigns and the increaſe of the Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, and eſpecially of Fortitude, to ſpeak, ſhew, and defend the Faith, and to ſuffer for the ſame, in caſe need be.

The third Queſtion, what Promiſes be made of the ſaid Graces?

I anſwer, That the Facts and Deeds, that be expreſs'd in the Books of the Apoſtles, with the effects enſuing, by the Impoſition of their Hands, upon them, that before had receiv'd Remiſſion of their Sins, joined with the Promiſes of Chriſt, made to his Church, and the continual belief of the Univerſity of the ſame Catholick Church from the time of the Apoſtles hitherto, without Contradiction of any Man, (ignorants and ſuſpects of Hereſie only excepted) makes us, and in my Opinion, without prejudice of other Mens Opinion, ought to ſuffice to make all Men, that hath promiſed to believe the Catholick Church, aſſuredly to think, that God hath made the Promiſes of the ſaid Grace.

Ego Joannes London. ſic reſpondeo, fretus Autoritate & Teſtimonio Antiquiſſimorum, eorumque Doctiſſimorum pariter ac Sanctiſſimorum Virorum, & præcipuè ſanctæ Matris noſtræ Eccleſiæ Catholicæ, cui etiam in non expreſſis in ſacra Scriptura, non multo minus quam ſcriptis, fides adhibenda eſt; niſi tam de Baptiſmo Parrulorum, quam de perpetua Deiparæ Virginis integritate, & id genus compluribus, quibus ſine ſalutis periculo nemo diffidit, licebit ſalva fide contradicere.

The Opinion of ſome other Biſhops and Divines. An Original in their own Hands.

Cleop. E. v. fol. 73. Archbiſhop of York.

1. Whether this Sacrament be a Sacrament of the New Teſtament inſtituted by Chriſt or not?

2. What is the outward Sign and inviſible Grace that is conferr'd in the ſame?

3. What Promiſes be made that the ſaid Graces ſhall be receiv'd by this Sacrament?

That the Sacrament of Confirmation was inſtituted by Chriſt we are induced to think, foraſmuch as the Apoſtles uſed the ſame, and that with much Diligence; as appears, Acts the 8*th* and the 19*th* and gave the ſame by Tradition to the Church: and that the Apoſtles durſt not have taken upon them as of themſelves to inſtitute any Sacrament; and this is the Opinion of St. Clement in the 4*th* Epiſt. whoſe Words are theſe: Omnibus ergo feſtinandum eſt ſine mora renaſci Deo, & demum conſignari ab Epiſcopo, id eſt ſeptiformem gratiam Spiritûs Sancti percipere; quia incertus eſt, uniuſcujuſque exitus vitæ, quum autem regeneratus fuerit per aquam, & poſtmodum ſeptiformi Spiritûs Gratia, ab Epiſcopo ut memoratum eſt confirmatus (quia aliter perfectus eſſe Chriſtianus nequaquam poterit, nec ſedem habere inter perfectos: Si non neceſſitate ſed incuria, aut voluntate remanſerit; ut a beato Petro accepimus, & cæteri ſancti Apoſtoli præcipiente Domino docuerint) demum ex operibus bonis oſtendat in ſe ſimilitudinem ejus, qui eum genuit Patris;

Ad. 1. Queſt. By which words of St. Clement the firſt Queſtion is anſwer'd, That this Sacrament is inſtituted præcipiente Domino.

Ad. 2. Queſt. And by the ſame words appeareth Anſwer to the ſecond Queſtion, That the outward Sign is Conſignatio facta ab Epiſcopo: and that the Graces conferr'd in the Sacrament be the Graces called the ſeven Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt.

Ad. 3. Queſt. And hereby may appear the Anſwer to the third Queſtion, That for ſo much as the ſeven Graces be given in this Sacrament, that theſe Graces proceed by his Promiſe, by whoſe Commandment the Sacrament is inſtituted.

Ad. 1. Queſt. Again, St. Dionys (whoſe Book De Eccleſiaſtica Hierarchia is wholly grounded upon the Traditions Apoſtolick, as he himſelf avoweth) makes mention of this Sacrament as had in uſe in the time of the Apoſtles, after the Rite of the Church that is uſed now with Chriſmation; wherefore ſince the ſaid Apoſtles, as afore is ſaid, durſt not inſtitute any Sacrament, we muſt needs think that the Inſtitution came from Chriſt, the Declaration and Tradition from the Apoſtles.

Ad. 2. Queſt. And to the ſecond Queſtion Anſwer may be made by the words of Saint Dionys, which ſaith, that this Sacrament is Unctio perficiens & Conſummatio poſt Regenerationem, & quod conjungit perfectum & conſummatum Spiritui Sancto, & quod per hoc Sacramentum, datur Spiritus Sanctus.

Ad. 3. Queſt. And ſo Anſwer may be made to the third Queſtion as afore; That ſince the Holy Ghoſt is given by the conferring of this Sacrament, that the Promiſe of Grace in this Sacrament comes from him by whoſe Authority it is inſtituted.

Ad. 1. Queſt. St. Auguſtin alſo writing Contra Petilianum Donatiſtam, ſaith, Quod Sacramentum Chriſmatis in genere viſibilium Sacramentorum, eſt ſacroſanctum ſicut & Baptiſma; which cannot be true, unleſs the Sacrament of Confirmation be inſtituted of Chriſt.

Ad. 1. Queſt. Alſo St. Dionys, St. Clement, and St. Fabian, ſay, That the Sacrament of Confirmation, is a Sacrament performing the Sacrament of Baptiſm; and St. Dyonis ſaith, that he that is baptized is but initiated, that is entered: and that by the Chriſmation of the Buſhoppe he is made perfect, and ſo alſo St. Clement, St. Melchiades, and St. Urban, ſay, that afore the receiving of this Sacrament, Baptizatus non eſt plene Chriſtianus: By which thing it appears, that the Sacrament of Confirmation cannot be inſtitute by Man's Authority, for no Man can perform the Work of God.

Ad. 2. & 3. Queſt. And needs muſt hereof follow that the ſaid Sacrament being inſtituted of Chriſt, the effect thereof muſt be Grace, for he do's nothing inſtitute but to our ghoſtly Wealth: and therefore he doth aſſiſt his Sacrament, as St. Cyprian ſaith, Hic omnibus Eccleſiæ Sacramentis intereſt, quæ ipſe efficit & conſummat: But foraſmuch as St. Clement, St. Melchiades, and St. Urban ſay, that Baptizatus non eſt perfecte nec plene Chriſtianus, priuſquam confirmatur ab Epiſcopo; leſt any Man ſhould hereof conceive Error, that if without Contempt of this Sacrament any Man already baptized and forthwith dying ſhould not be taken for a full and perfect Chriſtian Man, as to the effect of his Salvation; the holy Buſhoppe of Rome, and Martyr Melchiades Words do well avoid, which be theſe. The Holy Ghoſt which deſcended upon the Waters of Baptiſm gave full Innocency at the Font; but in Confirmation it gives encreaſe to Grace: and for becauſe whilſt we live in this World, we muſt paſs amongſt our inviſible Enemies in great Danger, therefore in Baptiſm we are regenerate to Life; after Baptiſm we are confirm'd and ſtrengthened to fight: in Baptiſm we are cleanſed, after Baptiſm we are ſtrengthened; and altho' to them that ſhall ſtrait paſs out of this World, the benefits of Regeneration doth ſuffice; yet to them that ſhall live, the helping of Confirmation is neceſſary; Regeneration by it ſelf ſaves, Confirmation arms and ſtrengthens to fight, &c. And after this manner muſt the ſaying of the Council of Orleance be underſtood, that he that is baptized ſhall never be a chriſten'd Man, unleſs he be chriſten'd by the Confirmation of the Buſhoppe; and ſo by the words of the ſaid St. Melchiades, amongſt other things does appear, that one ſpecial effect of the Sacrament of Confirmation, is ghoſtly ſtrength to fight, which effect is alſo ſhew'd by divers other Writers.

My Lord of Ely.

Whether this Sacrament be a Sacrament of the New Teſtament inſtituted by Chriſt or no?

As touching this Sacrament of Confirmation, as 'tis now uſed, there is no expreſs mention made in the New Teſtament of the Inſtitution thereof by Chriſt; but the holy and ancient Fathers have taken it for a Sacrament of the New Teſtament, grounding themſelves upon the Acts of the Apoſtles.

What is the outward Sign and inviſible Graces which be conferr'd in the ſame?

The outward Sign is Impoſition of Hands or the anointing with Chriſm and the Prayer, and it is not to be doubted, but the Receivers of this Sacrament, receive ſuch Graces as be neceſſary for them (according to the Promiſe of Chriſt made unto the Church, and to the Miniſters of the ſame) even as it pleaſes him, Qui dividit ſingulis prout vult, as ſaith St. Paul, what Promiſes be made that the ſaid Graces ſhall be received by this Sacrament?

Reſponſ. ut ſupra.

The Impoſition of Hands derived from the Apoſtles time was not only given to Men of Years and Diſcretion, firſt examin'd by the Biſhop before the Congregation, of the Articles of their Faith, and promptneſs to profeſs the ſame againſt all Perſecutors; but alſo to Infants and Younglings, following the Example of Chriſt, which put his holy Hands upon the Infants pray'd for, and bleſt them.

As touching the Miniſters of this Sacrament, foraſmuch as in the Acts of the Apoſtles it appears that the Apoſtles imponebant Manus, and not Philip who baptized the Samaritans; therefore I think that the Biſhops which be called the Succeſſors of the Apoſtles, be the convenient Miniſters; for ſo the Uſe hath obtained from the beginning, ſaith Innocent, who was long before Gregory's time, who ſeems rather to permit that unto Prieſts for the avoiding of ſlander, than that it ſhould be their Office indeed to confirm.

The Biſhops of Lincoln, Bangor and Saliſbury, are much the ſame; only the two latters Anſwers to the third Queſtion is,

That they find no Promiſe in Scripture for the Benefits commonly held to be annexed to this Sacrament: However, the Doctors, ſay they, affirm that in this Sacrament the Graces abovementioned are received.

Dr. Wotton is likewiſe of the Sentiment of the Biſhops firſt mention'd, Dr. Barber is of Opinion, that Confirmation is not inſtituted in Scripture, but then he believes it an Apoſtolical Tradition, and very beneficial to thoſe who receive it. Dr. Marſhall and Dr. Cliff, Dr. Downes and Dr. Marmaduke, are poſitive for its being inſtituted in the New Teſtament; but Dr. Edmonds is of the contrary Opinion.

Dr. Robinſon, and Dr. Smith, are of the ſame Opinion with the Doctors laſt nam'd.

Dr. Buckmaſter's Opinion is as follows, Cleop. V. fol. 90.

Materia hujus Sacramenti eſt & propinqua & remota: Materia propinqua eſt Unctio facta in Fronte in Figura Crucis, cum Chriſmate ſanctificato:------ Materia remota eſt Chriſma compoſitum ex Oleo Olivæ & Balſamo, ſanctificatum ſpecialiter ab Epiſcopo; vel ab alio cui talis ſanctificatio committi poterit; quippe omnia Sacramenta quæ requirunt Miniſtrum determinatum & ſacratum, requirunt etiam materiam ſanctificatam, ſaltem in illo Sacramento ubi requiritur materia ſenſibilis: Per Oleum quod aliis liquoribus ſupereminet deſignatur Charitas, per Balſamum ſuaviter fragrans, Odor bonæ Famæ----- Forma hujus Sacramenti eſt talis. Conſigno te Signo Crucis, & confirmo te Chriſmate ſalutis, in nomine Patris & Filii & Spiritus Sancti; Signatur in parte determinata, nempe in Fronte, in ſignum quod deponet omnem erubeſcentiam ad audacter confitendum Chriſtum-----

And here it is to be noted, that before the Death of our Saviour Chriſt, there was no Confirmation Sacramental uſed; for as St. John ſaith in his Goſpel, the Holy Ghoſt was not given, becauſe Jeſus was not yet glorified: And in another place he ſaith, 'Tis expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away the Comforter will not come to you; but if I go away I will ſend him unto you: And allbeit that the Apoſtles received the Holy Ghoſt before the Day of Pentecoſt, yet did they then firſt receive him, in Signum Sacramenti Confirmationis, that is to ſay, in token of the Sacrament of Confirmation; what time the Holy Ghoſt appeared upon them in fiery Tongues, which fiery Tongues were a viſible and ſenſible Sign of the Holy Ghoſt then ſent and given unto them, to confirm and ſtabliſh them in Chriſt's Faith, &c.

And the reaſon why that Almighty God uſed this Sign here in this Sacrament was this; Firſt, he uſed this ſenſible Sign of Tongue, ſignifying by the ſame, that they ſhould be liberal of their Tongues to preach the Faith of Chriſt: And again, the Figure of a Tongue appeared in fire, to ſignify unto them, that they ſhould be hot and fervent in Charity; and that they ſhould not preach or teach the Faith of Chriſt for any Lucre or worldly Promotion. But only for the Love unto Chriſt, and for the Health of their Neighbours: And thus did Chriſt confirm his Apoſtles, giving unto them his manifold inward Graces; and alſo outward as it was then expedient for that time, by ſuch an outward and ſenſible Form or Sign; that is to ſay, a fiery Tongue, but after this, for as much as fire can't be applied unto a Man's Body without hurt; therefore in his place was taken Oyl, which is a thing and a matter next unto burning, and draws moſt nigh unto the Nature of Fire; having in it alſo a marvelous Clearneſs, which is a Quality appropriate unto the Fire: Furthermore in the ſtead of a Tongue, the Church uſes Balm, and that for this skill; for as Balm has a good and ſweet Savour, and preſerves from Corruption; ſo by the manifold Graces which be here conferr'd in this Sacrament, they that live and work according unto the ſame, have a ſweet and good Savour of a good Name and Fame before God, either by conſtant confeſſing and preaching of Chriſt's Faith, or elſe by the ſtrong reſiſting and vanquiſhing of his Enemies, the Devil, the Fleſh and the World; and ſo is alſo preſerved from the Corruption of Sin: And as touching theſe two, that is to ſay, Oyl and Balm, which we called before Materiam hujus Sacramenti, with holy Conſecrations of the ſame, which may be called Myſterium Sacrum; no doubt, but that as the moſt antient Doctors write, the Apoſtles of Chriſt by Chriſt's Authority did inſtitute and ordain the ſame: or elſe to ſpeak better, Chriſt did inſtitute them by his Apoſtles: Altho' that in the beginning for a certain ſeaſon, he might diſpenſe with them, that they ſhould not need to uſe ſuch matter, but only Prayers and Impoſition of their Hands, upon ſuch as they did confirm; and altho' mention of theſe, and ſuch other things, Rites and Ceremonies, which our Mother the Church uſeth not only in the Miniſtration of this Sacrament, but alſo in many of the other, is not had expreſly in Scripture, yet be all ſuch to be obſerved and fulfill'd by the Order of Apoſtolical Tradition; for as St. Auſtin writes, (De fide & Operibus circa medium) theſe things be not mention'd in Scripture which were commonly done, and yet by ſome things there, they may be underſtanded in the Word: Wherefore St. Gregory ſaith, (Lib. 7. Regiſt. Epiſt. 16.) that the Order of antient Cuſtom, and the Canons of the Church, are an Interpretation of all Doubts which be not expreſs'd in Scripture: wherefore albeit all things concerning and appertaining unto this Sacrament, be not expreſly had in Scripture, yet ought we reverently and obediently to accept and receive the ſame, foraſmuch as the Church, that is to ſay, the whole Multitude of Chriſtian People, hath ſo allowed and receiv'd them hitherto.

The Apoſtles laid their Hands upon thoſe who were baptiz'd, and they receiv'd the Holy Ghoſt, (Acts the 8th) which thing they would never have attempted but only by Revelation and Precept of the Holy Ghoſt: and ſo that ſure Hope which they uſed in the miniſtring of this Sacrament, doth openly ſhew and argue, that the Holy Ghoſt had promiſed unto them that he would be ready to give his Grace unto them, which ſhou'd be confirm'd by them; upon whom for the ſame Cauſe they ſhould lay their Hands; and ſo it appears that the Holy Ghoſt which taught and alſo commanded the Apoſtles to uſe this outward Sign, did in like manner make a Promiſe to the worthy Receivers of the ſame.

The inward Graces (Rabanus.)

In undam Baptiſmi Spiritus Sanctus deſcendit ad habitationem Deo conſecrandam; in Confirmatione vero ejuſdem ſeptiformis Gratia cum omni plenitudine ſanctitatis & virtutis venit in hominem.

After this he cites the inſtance of the Apoſtles St. Peter and St. John, laying their Hands upon thoſe who were baptized in Samaria; And likewiſe that of St. Paul, with reference to thoſe at Epheſus above mention'd.

Part of King Henry the Eighth's Laſt Will and Teſtament relating to Matters of Religion.

Fuller Church Hiſtory Book v. pag. 243.

IN the Name of God and of the glorious and bleſſed Virgin our Lady St. Mary, and of all the holy Company of Heaven: We Henry, by the Grace of God, King of England, &c. moſt humbly and heartily do commend and bequeath our Soul to Almighty God who in the Perſon of the Son redeem'd the ſame with his moſt precious Body and Blood in time of his Paſſion. And for our better remembrance thereof, has left here with us in his Church militant the Conſecration and Adminiſtration of his precious Body and Blood to our no little Conſolation and Comfort, if we as thankfully accept the ſame, as he lovingly and undeſervedly on Man's behalf, hath ordain'd it for our only Benefit and not his.

Alſo we do inſtantly require and deſire the bleſſed Virgin Mary his Mother, with all the holy Company of Heaven continually to pray for us whilſt we live in this World, and in the time of paſſing out of the ſame, that we may the ſooner attain everlaſting Life after our departure out of this tranſitory Life, which we do both hope and claim by Chriſt's Paſſion. ----

We alſo will and ſpecially deſire and require, that where and whenſoever it ſhall pleaſe God to call us out of this tranſitory World to his infinite Mercy and Grace, be it beyond the Sea, or in any other place without our Realm of England, or within the ſame, that our Executors, as ſoon as they conveniently may, ſhall cauſe all divine Service accuſtom'd for dead Folks to be celebrated for us, in the next and moſt proper place where it ſhall fortune us to depart out of this tranſitory Life; and ever that we will that whenſoever and whereſoever it ſhall pleaſe God to call us out of this tranſitory Life to his infinite Mercy and Grace, be it within the Realm or without, that our Executors in as goodly, brief and convenient haſt as they reaſonably can or may order, prepare and cauſe our Body to be remov'd, convey'd and brought into the ſaid College of Windſor, and the Service of Placebo & Dirige, with a Sermon and Maſs on the Morrow at our Coſts and Charges devoutly to be done, obſerv'd and ſolemnly kept, there to be buried and interr'd in the Place appointed for our ſaid Tomb to be made for the ſame intent, and all this to be done in as devout wiſe as can or may be; and we will and charge our Executors, that they diſpoſe and give Alms to the moſt poor and needy People, that may be found, common Beggars as much as may be avoided, in as ſhort ſpace as poſſibly they may after our Departure out of this tranſitory Life, One Thouſand Marks of lawful Money of England, part in the ſame place, and thereabout where it ſhall pleaſe Almighty God to call us to his Mercy, partly by the way, and part in the ſame place of our Burial after their Diſcretions; and to move the poor People that ſhall have our Alms to pray heartily unto God for the Remiſſion of our Offences, and the Wealth of our Soul.

And we will that with as convenient ſpeed as may be done after our Departure out of this World (if it be not done in our Life) that the Dean and Canons of our free Chapel of St. George within our Caſtle of Windſor ſhall have Manors, Lands, Tenements, and Spiritual Promotion to the yearly Value of vi C. Pounds over all Charges made ſure to them and to their Succeſſors for ever upon theſe Conditions hereafter enſuing, and for the due Accompliſhment and full Performance of all other things contain'd with the ſame in the Form of an Indenture, ſign'd with our own Hand, which ſhall be paſs'd by way of Covenant for that purpoſe between the ſaid Dean and Canons, and our Executors, (if it paſs not between us and the ſaid Dean and Canons in our Life) that is to ſay, the ſaid Dean and Canons, and their Succeſſors for ever, ſhall find two Prieſts to ſay Maſſes at the ſaid Altar, to be made where we have before appointed our Tomb to be made and ſtand.

And alſo after our Deceaſe keep yearly four ſolemn Obits for us within the ſaid College of Windſor, and at every of the ſame Obits to cauſe a ſolemn Sermon to be made, and alſo at every of the ſaid Obits to give to poor People in Alms ten Pounds, and alſo to give for ever yearly to thirteen poor Men, which ſhall be called poor Knights, to every of them twelve Pence a Day, and once in the Year yearly for ever a long Gown of white Cloth, with the Garter upon the Breaſt embroyder'd with a Shield and Croſs of St. George within the Garter, and a Mantle of red Cloth, and to ſuch one of the thirteen poor Knights, as ſhall be appointed to be Head and Governor over them, iii l. vi s. viii d. yearly for ever over and beſide the xii d. by the Day. And alſo to cauſe every Sunday in the Year for ever a Sermon to be made at Windſor aforeſaid, as in the ſaid Indenture and Covenant ſhall be more fully and particularly expreſſed, willing, charging and requiring our Son Prince Edward, all our Executors and Counſellors, which ſhall be named hereafter, and all other our Heirs and Succeſſors, which ſhall be Kings of this Realm, as they will anſwer before God Almighty at the dreadful Day of Judgment, that they, and every of them, do ſee that the ſaid Indenture and Aſſurance to be made between us and the ſaid Dean and Canons, or between them and our Executors, and all things therein contain'd, may be duly put in Execution, and obſerv'd and kept for ever perpetually according to this our Laſt Will and Teſtament.

Council Book. Biſhop Burnet part 2. Records, pag. 93.

THIS Day the Lord Protector, and others his Executors, whoſe Names be hereunto aſcrib'd, upon mature and deep Deliberation had among them, did finally reſolve, that foraſmuch as divers of the old Obſervances and Ceremonies aforetimes uſed at the Coronations of the Kings of this Realm, were by them thought meet, for ſundry Reſpects, to be corrected; and namely, for the tedious length of the ſame, which ſhould weary and be hurtſome peradventure to the King's Majeſty, being yet of tender Age, fully to endure and bide out. And alſo for that many points of the ſame were ſuch as by the Laws of the Realm at this preſent were not allowable. The King's Majeſty's Coronation ſhould be done and celebrated upon Shrove Sunday next enſuing, in the Cathedral Church of Weſtminſter, after the Form and Order enſuing.

Firſt; The Archbiſhop of Canterbury ſhall ſhew the King to the People at four parts of the great Pulpit or Stage to be made for the King, and ſhall ſay on this wiſe; Sirs, here I preſent King Edward, rightful and undoubted Inheritor, by the Laws of God and Man, to the Royal Dignity, and Crown Imperial of this Realm, whoſe Conſecration, Inunction and Coronation, is appointed by all the Nobles and Peers of this Land to be this Day. Will ye ſerve at this time, and give your good Wills and Aſſents to the ſame Conſecration, Inunction, and Coronation, as by your Duty of Allegiance ye are bound to do?

The People to anſwer, Yea, yea, yea; King Edward, King Edward, King Edward.

This done, the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, being reveſted as he ſhould go to Maſs, with the Biſhops of London and Wincheſter, on both ſides, with other Biſhops, and the Dean of Weſtminſter, in the Biſhops abſence, to go in order before the King; The King ſhall be brought from his Seat by them that aſſiſted him to the Church to the High Altar, where after his Prayer made to God for his Grace, he ſhall offer a Pall and a Pound of Gold, twenty four Pounds in Coin, which ſhall be to him deliver'd by the Lord Great Chamberlain. Then ſhall the King fall groveling before the Altar, and over him the Archbiſhop ſhall ſay this Collect, Deus Humilium, &c. Then the King ſhall riſe and go to his Chair, to be prepared before the Altar, his Face to the Altar, and ſtanding, one ſhall hold him a Book; and the Archbiſhop ſtanding before the King, ſhall aſk him, with a loud and diſtinct Voice, in manner and form following;

Will ye grant to the People of England, and others your Realms and Dominions, the Laws and Liberties of this Realm, and others your Realms and Dominions?

I grant and promiſe.

You ſhall keep, to your Strength and Power, to the Church of God, and to all the People, holy Peace and Concord.

I ſhall keep.

You ſhall make to be done, after your Strength and Power, equal and rightful Juſtice in all your Dooms and Judgments, with Mercy and Truth.

I ſhall do.

Do you grant to make no Laws, but ſuch as ſhall be to the Honour and Glory of God, and to the Good of the Commonwealth: And that the ſame ſhall be made by the Conſent of your People, as hath been accuſtom'd?

I grant and promiſe.

Then ſhall the King riſe out of his Chair, and by them that before aſſiſted him, be led to the High Altar, where he ſhall make a ſolemn Oath upon the Sacrament, laid upon the ſaid Altar, in the ſight of all the People, to obſerve the Premiſſes; And laying his Hand again on the Book, ſhall ſay,

The things which I have before promiſed I ſhall obſerve and keep. So God help me; and thoſe holy Evangeliſts by me bodily touch'd upon this holy Altar.

That done, the King ſhall fall again groveling before the High Altar, and the ſaid Archbiſhop kneeling before him ſhall, with a loud Voice, begin Veni Creator Spiritus, &c.

Which done, the ſaid Archbiſhop ſtanding, ſhall ſay over the King, Te invocamus; and at the end ſhall kneel again, and then ſhall the King riſe and be ſet in the Chair again; and after a little pauſe he ſhall riſe, and aſſiſted with thoſe that did before that Office, go again to the High Altar, where he ſhall be uncloathed by his great Chamberlain, unto his Coat of crimſon Satin; which, and alſo his Shirt, ſhall be open'd before and behind on the Shoulders, and the bowght of the Armes, by the ſaid great Chamberlain, to the intent that on thoſe Places he be anointed; and whiles he is in the anointing, Sir Anthony Denny, and Sir William Herbert, muſt hold a Pall over him. And firſt, the ſaid Archbiſhop ſhall anoint the King, kneeling, in the Palms of his Hands, ſaying theſe Words, Ungas Manus; with this Collect, Reſpice Omnipotens Deus. After he ſhall anoint him in the Breaſt, in the midſt of his Back, on his two bowghts of his Armes, and on his Head making a Croſs; and after making another Croſs on his Head, with holy Chriſm, ſaying, as he anointeth the places aforeſaid, Ungatur Caput, ungantur Scapulæ, &c. During which time of Unction, the Choir ſhall continually ſing, Ungebant Regem, and the Pſalm, Domine in Virtute tuâ lætabitur Rex. And it is to be remembred, that the Biſhop or Dean of Weſtminſter, after the King's Inunction, ſhall dry all the Places of his Body, where he was anointed, with Cotton or ſome linnen Cloath, which is to be burnt. And furthermore, the Places open'd for the ſame, is to be cloath'd by the Lord Great Chamberlain; and on the King's Hand ſhall be put, by the ſaid Archbiſhop of Canterbury, a pair of linnen Gloves, which the Lord Great Chamberlain ſhall before ſee prepar'd.

This done, the King ſhall riſe, and the Archbiſhop of Canterbury ſhall put on the King a Tabert of Tanterton-white, ſhaped in manner of a Dalmatic; and he ſhall put on the King's Head a Quoif, the ſame to be brought by the Great Chamberlain. Then the King ſhall take the Sword he was girt withall, and offer it himſelf to God, laying it on the Altar, in token that his Strength and Power ſhould firſt come from God. And the ſame Sword he ſhall take again from the Altar, and deliver to ſome great Earl, to be redeem'd of the Biſhop or Dean of Weſtminſter for 100 s. which Sword ſhall be born naked afterwards before the King.

Then the King being ſet in his Chair before the Altar, ſhall be crown'd with St. Edward's Crown; and there ſhall be brought, by the Biſhop or Dean of Weſtminſter, Royal Sandals and Spurs to be preſently put on by the Lord Great Chamberlain; and the Spurs again immediately taken off, that they do not encumber him.

Then the Archbiſhop, with all the Peers and Nobles, ſhall convey the King, ſuſtain'd as before, again into the Pulpit, ſetting him in his ſiege Royal; and then ſhall the Archbiſhop begin, Te Deum laudamus; which done, the Archbiſhop ſhall ſay unto the King, Sta & retine amodo Locum. And the King being thus ſet, all the Peers of the Realm, and Biſhops, holding up their Hands, ſhall make unto him Homage as followeth: Firſt, the Lord Protector alone, then the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, and the Lord Chancellor, ſo two and two as they be plac'd.

I. N. Become your Liege Man, of Life and Limb, and of earthly Worſhip, and Faith, and Truth, I ſhall bear unto you, againſt all manner of Folkes, as I am bound by my Allegiance, and by the Laws and Statutes of this Realm. So help us God and Allhallowes. And then every one ſhall kiſs the King's left Cheek: Which done, all they holding up their Hands together, in token of their Fidelity, ſhall with one Voice on their Knees ſay, We offer to ſuſtain and defend you and your Crown, with our Lives, and Lands, and Goods, againſt all the World. And then with one Voice to cry, God ſave King Edward; which the People ſhall cry accordingly; Then ſhall the King be led to his Anſwer to certain Arguments rayſed from ſuppoſed Antiquity, and practiſed by ſome Members of the Lower Houſe of Parliament, to prove that Eccleſiaſtical Laws ought to be enacted by Temporal Men, R. B. C.

WHAT beſide ſelf regaurd or ſydeing Faction, hath been the main Reaſon of the Lower Lay Houſe laboure in Parliament to deal in Lawes of the Church, the milder Members have yielded a Right which they would maintain by former Preſident, rayſeing the ſame from Which ſince it may rayſe a Prejudice to the Churches Peace, or to Sovereigns Power unoppoſed, I will make way in a Word or two to the better Anſwer, of ſome other Pen. What they ſay is not to be denyed, that in the Courſe of Civil Laws under the Chriſtian Emperors, there be often Conſtitutions Eccleſiaſtical, and in the Councils of the Church (frequent) the Sovereign's Power, and ſometimes the preſence of Lay Miniſters, yet may their Aſſertion admit to the firſt, this Anſweare of Juſtinian.

And to the ſecond, that their Preſence was to dignifie not to diſpute; the Direction proveth, that the Emperor Theodoſius gave to Candidianus (an Earl, by him to the Epheſian Council ſent) non ut Queſtiones ſeu Expoſitiones communicaret, cum ſit illicitum eum qui non ſit in Ordine Sanctiſſimorum Epiſcoporum Eccleſiaſticis tractatibus intermiſceri. And Valentinian the Elder, tho' he was petitioned by the Biſhops to be preſent at their Synode, ſaid, ſibi qui unus è Laicorum numero eſſet, non licere hujuſmodi negotiis ſe interponere: And by the Council of Carthage and African, likewiſe it appeared, that even Princes would intermeddle with theſe Matters.

Thus then ſtood the practiſe of the primitive Truth, which when it was in thoſe Times otherwiſe, as under Conſtantius the Arrian.

Athanaſius ſaith of him, Hereſis veneno imbutos, Milites ſicarios, Eunuchos, Comites faciebat ſaccerdotum Judices, & cogebat umbratiles Synodos, quibus ipſe cum noſtris illis præſideret; whereas otherwiſe that Empire, even in the height of the Pagan Greatneſs, aſcribed to their Pontifs, and Sacerdotes propter Religionem Comitia habere propria, and that ſtabili ſententia ratum erat quod tres Pontifices communi Decreto ſtatuiſſent. To the ſecond, as it is in the former Time, that many Cannons of the Church are enterlaſed with the Commonwealths; all through the Saxon Laws, and that the Eſtabliſhment ſhould be by Parliament, which they infer out of the Frontiſpicium of Ina's Statutes, in theſe Words, Ego Ina Rex, & ex tractatione Epiſcoporum & Omnium Aldermanorum meorum, & Seniorum ſapientum Regni mei, & Confirmatione populi mei, do ordain, &c. may receive this Anſwer; firſt, that the Commons did but confer, and not diſpute, which to this Day is in their Summons only comprized, ad conſentiendum: But whoſoever ſhall collate the Tranſcript Copy with the Original called Textus Roffenſis, will find the Ordinances, not called Leges, but Synodalia, and almoſt all by the King and Churchmen only made; neither was it new in this Iſle, that Prieſts directed alone the Government, when as the beſt Record of our eldeſt Memory ſaith, that the Druides (a religious pagan Order,) not only divinis interſunt, Religiones interpretantur, but de omnibus (as Cæſar ſaith) Controverſiis Publicis, privatiſque conſtituunt. ſive hæreditamento, ſive de finibus, & præmia & pænas conſtituunt. And if any ſive privatus, aut populus decreto eorum non ſteterit, ſacrificiis interdicunt; and this Cenſure amongſt them was pœna graviſſima. Neither did the Times of Chriſtianity here bereave the Church of all ſuch Power, will appear, for in the Saxon Time they intermeddled in the framing of the temporal Laws, and ought, as appears by an Ordinance of that time, de Officiis Epiſcopi, cum ſeculi judicibus intereſſe, ne permittent ut illinc aliqua pravitatum germina pullulaverint. And ſurely ſince thoſe Times the inferior Miniſters of the Church, as well as Biſhops, until of late had Suffrage in Parliament, ſo John de Rupiciſſa (a Story as old as King John's time) ſays, Anno 1210. Convocatum eſt Parliamentum Londoniæ Archiepiſcoporum tum clero, & tota ſecta Laicali. And in the 18th of Ed. 3. the Members of Parliament being defective in their Appearance, the King charged the Archbiſhop to puniſh the Defaults of the Clergy, and he would the like touching the Lords and Commons; and in 3 Rich. 2. againſt a Petition in Parliament concerning Proviſions, the Prelates and whole Clergy make their Proteſtations; and to a demand of the Lay Commons for the King's Aid the Year ſucceeding, the whole Clergy anſwered, that they uſed not to grant any thing but of their free Will. And in the 11th Year of the ſame King, the Archbiſhop of Canterbury made openly in Parliament, a ſolemn Proteſtation for himſelf, and the whole Clergy of all his Province; the Effect whereof was, that albeit they might lawfully be preſent in all Parliaments. yet for that this Parliament matters of Treaſon were to be entreated of; whereas by the Cannon Law they ought not to be preſent, they therefore abſented themſelves, ſaving their Liberties therein: (21 R. 2. n. 9, 10.) And in the twenty firſt Year of that Reign, for that divers Judgments were heretofore undone; for that the Clergy were not preſent, the Commons prayed the King to appoint ſome to be their common Proctor, with ſufficient Authority thereunto: The Biſhops and Clergy therefore being ſeverally examined, appointed Sir Thomas Percie their Proctor, to aſſent as by their Inſtrument appears. 21 R. 2. n. 31. And the ſame Year, upon the Demiſe of Sir Thomas Burry, moſt of the Biſhops and Lords were ſworn before the King again, upon the Croſs of Canterbury, to repeal nothing in this Year enacted; ſo did ſundry of the Proctors of the Clergy, and moſt of the Commons, by holding up one of their Hands, affirming that they the ſame would do.

R. 2. 21. n. 58. In the Judgment againſt the Duke of Norfolk and Earl of Warwick, the ſame Year, the Name and Aſſent of the Procurator of the Clergy, is alledged; and in the firſt of Hen. 4. the Biſhop of Aſaph for the Archbiſhops and Biſhops, the Abbot of Glaſſenbury for all religious Perſons, the Earl of Gloceſter for Dukes and Earls, the Lord of Barkley for Barons and Bannneretts, Sir Thomas Irpingham Chamberlain, for Batchelors and Commons of the South, Sir Thomas Gray for Batchelors and Commons of the North, Sir William Thurning and John Meckham, Juſtices, for the whole Eſtates, came to the Tower to King Richard; to whom Sir William Thirning, for and in the Name of them all, pronounced the Sentence of Depoſition, and the Words of Reſignation of Homage and Loyalty.

Rot. Par. 31. H. 6. n. 27. And when it was enacted, Anno 31 H. 6. by the King, Lords temporal and Commons, that no Man ſhould contract or marry himſelf to any Queen of England, without the eſpecial Licence and Conſent of the King, in pain to loſe all his Goods, and his Lands; the Biſhops and all the Clergy to this Bill aſſented, ſo far as it was not againſt the Law of God. And thus far for anſwer to the ſecond part.

Third Reaſon, Eccleſiaſtical Laws enacted in part.

The laſt, which they ground from Precedents of Parliaments ſince the Conqueſt, they infer out of the Phraſe, and out of the Practice of the firſt, by theſe Words, Rex Wintoniæ celebravit magnum Concilium coram Epiſcopis, Comitibus & Baronibus, miſtaking the Words as intending a Provincial Synod; whereas Magnum Concilium in thoſe Days, was equivalent to a Parliament, and uſed for that purpoſe, the word Parliament not occurring in the modern Sence, till the time of Henry II. and then but rarely. (Malmesbury. Liber Eccleſiæ Cantuar.) That great Aſſembly, being formerly ſtyled, as I obſerved, Magnum Concilium, and till of late were often mentioned by the ſame Name: This is evident from Benedictus Abbas, in the Life Henry II. (Vita H. 2.) Circa Feſtum Sancti Pauli venit Dominus Rex uſque Northampton, & Magnum ibi celebravit Conſilium de ſtatutis Regni ſui coram Epiſcopis, Comitibus & Baronibus Terræ ſuæ; & per Concilium militum, & hominum ſuorum. Here the Intent manifeſted the Nature of that Aſſembly, and the fuller, in that the ſame Author in the ſame Year ſaith, that Richardus Cantuarienſis Archiepiſcopus & Rogerus Eboracenſis, cum Suffraganeis ſuis congregatis apud Weſtmonaſterium, in Cappella Monachorum Infirmorum tenuerunt Concilium. Now this Convocation had been needleſs, if in the firſt they might have done the Church Affairs.

Provincial Conſtitutions.

Here might I enter into a large and juſt Diſcourſe, as well of the Authority and Antiquity of their Convocation or Synod Provincial, no leſs ancient, as Bede mentions in the Year 596, when Auſtin aſſembled in the Council the Britain Biſhops; from whence, unto this Day, there is ſucceſſive Record of Councils or Convocation, leſs interrupted than of Parliaments.

Practice.

Now touching our practice to Ordain in Parliament, Laws Eccleſiaſtical, either mere or mix'd, altho' it be by Records evident, yet muſt it admit this difference; firſt, that it ſprung not from our Diſpute or Deſire, but ſolely from the Petitions of the Church, as is uſually ſeen in all their Rolls of Parliament, receiving their diſtinct Title from thoſe of the Common: And this they did to add Seculare Brachium to their former Cannons, too weak to reach to corporal Puniſhments. (Clauſ. 5. R. 2.) As in the firſt of Richard II. when to ſuppreſs the Schiſms, the Clergy became in Parliament, Petitioners to the King and Laiety, where by the Tenor of the Record, it appears the Commons were not to have any ſhare in the Conſultations. The Words are theſe, Habita prius bona & matura deliberatione de communi Concilio ipſius Archiepiſcopi, ſuffraganeorum ſuorum, aliorumque Clericorum ſuper quo idem Archiepiſcopus ſupplicavit, ut pro debita Caſtigatione illorum, qui Concluſiones Schiſmaticas prædicare voluerint, animo obſtinato, dignaremur apponere brachium Regiæ Peteſtatis. (Chartæ Antiquæ B. B.) And this Aid was in uſe in the Conqueror's time, who by Edict commanded, that every Marſhal or Sheriff, Epiſcopo & Deo faceret rectum, ſecundum Canones & Epiſcopales Leges: So that if after Excommunication Satisfaction was was not made to the Church, Fortitudo & Juſtitia Regis adhibeatur: And this even in the primitive Church was thought convenient. To this purpoſe St. Ambroſe applied to the Emperor Valentinian. For non tantas (ſays this Father) vires ſermo meus habiturus eſt pro Trinitate Bellum gerens, quantum Edictum tuum. (Ambroſe.) Hence it was that at this day, the King's Authority is annexed to the Convocation, conformably to the Practice of the ancient Church, where the Cannons were fortified with the Royal Authority. But that the Church Laws firſt ever moved from the Lay Members, I take it as far from Precedent, as it is beſides the Nature of their Commiſſion; (Writ of Summons, Rot. Clauſ. 22. R. 2. m. 7.) the Biſhops and Clergy being only called in the Writ to that Service, their Summons requiring them to come, in fide & dilectione, ad declarandum Conſilium & Aviſeamentum, & ad Conſentiendum his quæ tunc de Aviſamento & Aſſenſu Cleri noſtri (and not the Commons) contigerit ordinari.

But if any ſhall object, that many Laws, as that of the Supremacy, in the Reign of Henry 8. had the firſt riſe in Parliament; 'tis manifeſt by the Dates of their Acts in Convocations, that they had firſt in that place their Originals. And that this was the Uſe of old, nothing will leave it ſo clear as to obſerve the fruitleſs Succeſs of the Laity, in all their endeavours to eſtabliſh Eccleſiaſtical Laws; and this will I manifeſt by the King's Anſwer, out of the Records, as far as the Rolls of Parliament reach. Now there is no 18. E. 1. Rot. Parl. Record of this nature extant, till the 18th of E. 1. and here the Commons petitioned the King, that a Law may be made againſt Uſurers; the King's Anſwer was, it muſt be remedied Coram Ordinariis. And when they deſired Remedy, de multimodis Injuſtis vexationibus eis factis per Officiales, & alios miniſtros Eccleſiæ: the King reply'd, Cancellarius emendat in Temporalibus, Archiepiſcopus faciat in Spiritualibus.

From hence the Records fail in ſome meaſure, Rot. Parl. 8. E. 3. till near 8 E. 3. in which Parliament the Commons deſire an Act to reſtrain the Clergy in their trivial Citations. The Anſwer from the Crown is this; the King will charge the Biſhops to ſee it remedied. And Rot. Parl. 1. R. 2. 1 R. 2. a reſembling Petition was preferred againſt Corruptions of Ordinaries, for receiving pecuniary Puniſhments. The King anſwers, That he will charge the Ordinaries to do according to the Laws of holy Church: And in the 5 R. 2. fifth of the ſame Reign they complained of Abuſes in Eccleſiaſtical Courts, the King anſwers, 15 R. 2. He will charge the Clergy to amend the ſame. And in the 15th Year of this Prince, when the Commons required an Act to declare the Age of tytheable Wood, they had for anſwer, the King will move the Biſhops for Order between this and the 17 R. 2. n. 43. next Parliament. And in the 17th Year of this Reign, when they petitioned for a reſiding, learned Miniſtry, ſo as the Flock for Want might not periſh: The Anſwer received was, The King wills the Biſhops (to whom that Office belongs) to do their Duties.

King Henry the IVth being deſired by the Lords and Commons to pacifie the Schiſms in Rot. Parl. 2. H. 4. n. 44. the Church, anſwers, He will charge the Biſhops to conſider the ſame. And two Years after, being 4 H. 4. Rot. Parl. importun'd for an Act of Reſidency, he gives much the ſame anſwer as thoſe above-mentioned.

And in the 11th Year of the ſame Reign, the King anſwers, Ceſte materie appartient à St. Egliſe & à eſté remedie en la derraine Convocation. In 1 H. 5. Rot. Parl. Parliament, under the next Reign, the King anſwers to the Commons Petition againſt the Oppreſſion of Ordinaries, If the Biſhops do not redreſs the ſame, the King will.

Rot. Parl. 3. H. 6. And in the 3d of Hen. 6. to a Petition that Non-reſidents ſhould forfeit the profit of their Livings, the King gave anſwer, that He had delivered the Bill to the Archbiſhops of Canterbury and York, charging them to provide means of Remedy. And in the Year following, to a Petition Rot. Parl. 4 H. 6. that Patrons may preſent upon Non-reſidency; the anſwer was, There is a Remedy ſufficient in the Law Spiritual.

Since then 'tis plain by the Records abovementioned, that the Plea of the Laity in this matter has a very ſlender Pretenſion, and by the Order of William the Conqueror ſuch Interpoſing is wholly reſtrain'd, for (as this Prince ſpeaks,) Defendo & Authoritate mea interdico, ne ullus Lai- Charte Antiquæ B. B. cus homo de legibus que ad Epiſcopum pertinent ſe intromittat. And then the Saxon Synodals are Leges Saxon. rather Cannon Laws, than Laymens Acts; to which we may add, that the Practice of the primitive Church, if well underſtood, is but a weak Prop to theſe Mens deſire; it may not therefore ſeem diſtaſteful from the King (walking in the Steps of his glorious Anceſtors, Kings of this Land,) to return the Commons deſires to their proper place, the Church Man's Care. And to conclude this Point, in all Parliaments, as Marcian the Emperor did the Council of Chalcedon, Concil. Chalced. Ceſſet jam prophana Contentio, nam verè impius & ſacrilegius eſt qui poſt tot Sacerdotum Sententiam Opinioni ſuæ aliquid tractandum reliquit.

R. C. B. This Paper was very probably drawn up in the Reign of King James I. by Archbiſhop Bancroft.

Num. LIX.

The Office for the Communion, as it ſtands in the firſt Common-Prayer Book made in the Reign of King Edward the Sixth.

The Supper of the Lord, and the Holy Communion, commonly called the Maſs.

SO many as intende to bee Partakers of the Holy Communion, ſhall ſignifie their Names to the Curate, over Night; or elſe in the Morning afore the beginning of Matins, or immediately after.

Common-Prayer Book printed at London, June the 16th A.D. 1549.

And if any of thoſe be an open and notorious evil Liver, ſo that the Congregation by him is offended, or have done any wrong to his Neighbours, by Word or Deed, the Curate ſhall call him, and advertiſe him, in any wiſe not to preſume to come to the Lordes Table, until he have openly declared declar'd himſelf, to have truly repented, and amended his former naughty Life: That the Congregation may thereby be ſatisfied, which afore were offended: and that he have recompens'd the Parties, whom he hath dooen wrong unto, or at the leaſt bee in full purpoſe to ſo doe, as ſone as he conveniently maye.

The ſame Ordre ſhall the Curate uſe, with thoſe betwixt whom he perceiveth Malice and Hatred to reign, not ſuffring them to bee Partakers of the Lord's Table, until he know them to bee reconcil'd. And that one of the Parties ſo at variaunce, be content to forgive from the botome of his Hearte, all that the other hath treſpac'd againſt him, and to make amendes, for that he himſelfe hath offended: And the other Partie will not bee perſwaded to a godly Unitie, but remayne ſtill in his Frowardneſs and Malice: The Miniſter in that cauſe, ought to admit the penitent Perſone to the Holy Communion, and not hym that is obſtinate.

Upon the Day and at the Time appointed for the Miniſtration of the Holy Communion, the Prieſt that ſhall execute the Holy Miniſtery, ſhall put upon hym, the Veſture appointed for that Miniſtration, that is to ſaye; a white Albe plain, with a Veſtment or Cope. And where there be many Prieſts, or Deacons, there ſo many ſhall be ready to help the Prieſt, in the Miniſtration, as ſhall bee requiſite: And ſhall have upon them likewiſe, the Veſtures appointed for their Miniſtery; that is to ſaye, Albes, with Tunacles. Then ſhall the Clearkes ſyng in Engliſhe for the Office, or Introite, (as they call it) a Pſalm appointed for that Day.

The Prieſt ſtanding humbly afore the middes of the Altar, ſhall ſaye the Lord's Prayer, with this Collect.

Almightie God, unto whom all Hearts bee open, and all Deſyres knowen, and from whom no Secrets are hid: clenſe the Thoughts of our Hearts, by the Inſpiracion of thy Holy Spirite: that we may perfectly love thee and worthely magnifie thy Holy Name, through Chriſt our Lord. Amen.

Then ſhall he ſaye a Pſalme appointed for the Introite: which Pſalme ended, the Prieſt ſhall ſaye, or elſe the Clearkes ſhall ſyng,

iii. Lorde have Mercie upon us.
iii. Chriſt have Mercie upon us.
iii. Lorde have Mercie upon us.

Then the Prieſte ſtanding at Goddes Board ſhall begin.

Glory be to God on high.

The Clearkes.

And in Yearth Peace, good Will towards Men.

We prayſe thee, we bleſſe thee, we worſhip thee, we gloryfie thee, we geve thankes to thee for thy greate Glory, O Lorde God, heavenly Kyng, God the Father Almightie. O Lord the only begotten Sonne Jeſu Chriſt, O Lorde God, Lambe of God, Sonne of the Father, that takeſt away the Synnes of the Worlde, have Mercie upon us: Thou that takeſt away the Synnes of the Worlde, receyve our Prayer.

Thou that ſitteſt at the righte Hand of God the Father have Mercie upon us: for thou only art Holy, thou only art the Lorde, thou only (O Chriſte) with the Holy Ghoſt, arte moſt high in the Glory of God the Father. Amen.

Then the Prieſt ſhall turne him to the People and ſaye,

The Lorde be with you.

The Anſwere.

And with thy Spirit.

The Prieſt.

Let us pray.

Then ſhall follow the Collect of the Daye, with one of theſe two Collects following.

For the Kyng.

Almightie God, whoſe Kingdom is everlaſting, and Power infinite, have Mercie upon the whole Congregation, and ſo rule the Heart of thy choſen Servaunt Edward the Sixt, our Kyng and Governour: That he (knowyng whoſe Miniſter he is) may above all thinges, ſeke thy Honour and Glory, and that we his Subjects (duely conſidering whoſe Auctoritie he hath) may faithfully ſerve, honour, and humbly obey him, in thee, and for thee, according to thy bleſſed Word and Ordinaunce: Through Jeſus Chriſte our Lorde, who with thee, and the Holy Ghoſt, liveth, and reigneth, ever one God, World without ende. Amen.

Almightie and everlaſting God, wee bee taught by thy holy Worde, that the Hearts of Kynges are in thy Rule and Governaunce, and that thou doeſt diſpoſe, and turne them as it ſeemeth beſt to thy godly Wiſedom: We humbly beſech thee, ſo to diſpoſe and govern the Hearte of Edward the Sixt, thy Servaunt, our Kyng and Governour, that in all his Thoughts, Wordes, and Workes, he may ever ſeke thy Honour and Glory, and ſtudy to preſerve thy People, committed to his Charge, in Wealth, Peace, and Godlynes: Graunt this, O Merciful Father, for thy dere Sonnes ſake, Jeſus Chriſte, our Lorde. Amen.

The Collects ended, the Prieſt, or he that is appointed, ſhall read the Epiſtle, in the place aſſign'd for the purpoſe, ſaying;

The Epiſtle of St. Paul, written in the------ Chapter of----- to the

The Miniſter then ſhall read the Epiſtle. Immediately after the Epiſtle ended, the Prieſt, or one appointed to read the Goſpel, ſhall ſaye,

The Holy Goſpel, written in the----- Chapter of-----

The Clearkes and People ſhall anſwere,

Glory be to thee, O Lorde.

The Prieſt or Deacon then ſhall read the Goſpell: After the Goſpell ended, the Prieſt ſhall begin.

I believe in one God,

The Clearkes ſhall ſing the reſt.

The Father Almightie, maker of Heaven and Yearth, and of all things viſible and inviſible: And in one Lord Jeſu Chriſt, the only begotten Sonne of God, begotten of his Father before all Worldes. God of God, Light of Light, very God of very God, begotten not made, beeyng of one Subſtance with the Father, by whome all things were made, who for us Men, and for our Salvacion, came down from Heaven, and was incarnate by the Holy Ghoſte, of the Virgin Mary, and was made Manne, and was crucified alſo for us under Pontius Pilate, he ſuffer'd and was buried, and the thirde Day he aroſe again according to the Scriptures, and aſcended into Heaven, and ſitteth at the right Hand of the Father: And he ſhall come again with Glory, to judge both the Quicke and the Dead.

And I believe in the Holy Ghoſt, the Lord and Gever of Life, who procedeth from the Father and the Sonne, who with the Father and the Sonne together, is worſhipped and glorified, who ſpake by the Prophetes. And I believe one Catholike and Apoſtolike Church, I acknowlege one Baptiſme for the Remiſſion of Synnes. Aud I loke for the Reſurrection of the Dead, and the Life of the World to come. Amen.

After the Crede ended, ſhall follow the Sermon or Homely, or ſome Portion of one of the Homelies, as they ſhall be herafter divided, wherein if the People be not exhorted to the worthy receyving of the Holy Sacrament of the Body and Bloude of our Saviour Chriſt: Then ſhall the Curate geve this Exhortation, to thoſe that be minded to receive the ſame.

Derely Beloved in the Lord, ye that mind to come to the holy Communion, of the Bodie and Bloude of our Saviour Chriſt, muſt conſidre what St. Paul writeth to the Corinthians, how he exhorteth all Perſones diligently to trie and examine themſelves, before they preſume to eate of that Breade, and drink of that Cup: For as the Benefite is great, if with a truly penitent Heart, and lyvely Faith, we receive that holy Sacrament: (for then we ſpiritually eate the Fleſh of Chriſte, and drinke his Blood, then we dwell in Chriſt and Chriſt in us, we be made one with Chriſte, and Chriſt with us) ſo is the Daunger great, if we receyve the ſame unworthily, for then we become gyltie of the Body and Blood of Chriſt our Saviour, we eate and drink our own Damnacion, not conſideryng the Lord's Body. We kindle God's Wrath over us, we provoke hym to plague us with diverſe Diſeaſes, and ſondery Kyndes of Death. Therefore yf any here be a Blaſphemer, Adoulterer, or bee in Malice, or Envie, or in any other grevous Crime, (except he be truly ſorry therefore, and earneſtly mynded to leave the ſame Vices, and do truſt hymſelfe to bee reconciled to Almightie God, and in Charitie with all the Worlde) lette hym bewayle his Synnes, and not come to the holy Table, leſt after the takyng of that moſt bleſſed Bread, the Devill enter into hym, as he dyd into Judas, to fyll him full of all Iniquitie, and bryng him to Deſtruction, bothe of Bodie and Soul. Judge therefore your ſelves (Brethren) that ye bee not judged of the Lorde. Let your Mynde bee without deſire to ſynne, repent you truely for your Synnes paſt, have an earneſt and lyvelie Faith in Chriſte our Savior, bee in perfect Charitie with all Men, ſo ſhall ye be mete Partakers of thoſe holy Myſteries. And above all things, ye muſt give moſt humble and hearty Thankes to God the Father, the Sonne, and the Holy Ghoſte, for the Redemption of the Worlde by the Death and Paſſion of our Savior Chriſte, both God and Man, who did humble hymſelf even to the Death upon the Croſſe, for us miſerable Sinners, which laye in Darkneſſe, and Shadowe of Death, that he myghte make us the Children of God, and exalt us to everlaſting Lyfe. And to the end, that we ſhould alway remembre the exceeding Love of our Maiſter, and only Saviour Jeſu Chriſte, thus dying for us, and the innumerable Benefites, which (by his precious Bloodſhedyng) he hath obteigned to us, he hath lefte thoſe holy Miſteries, as a Pledge of his Love, and a continual Remembrance of the ſame his own bleſſed Body, and precious Blood, for us to fede upon ſpiritually, to our endleſs Comfort and Conſolacion. To him therefore with the Father and the Holy Ghoſt, let us geve (as we are moſt bounden) continual Thankes, ſubmitting our ſelves wholy to his Holy Wyll and Pleaſure, and ſtudying to ſerve hym in true Holyneſs and Righteouſnes, all the Dayes of our Lyfe. Amen.

¶ In Cathedral Churches or other Places, where there is dailie Communion, it ſhall be ſufficient to reade this Exhortation above-written, once in a Moneth. And in Pariſh Churches, upon the Weke Dayes it may be left unſaied.

¶ And if upon the Sonday or Holy Daie the People be negligent to come to the Communion, then ſhall the Prieſte earneſtly exhorte his Pariſhioners, to diſpoſe themſelves to the receyving of the Holy Communion more diligently, ſaiyng theſe or like Wordes unto them.

Dere Friends; and you eſpecially upon whoſe Soules I have Cure and Charge, on------ next, I do intende by God's Grace, to offre to all ſuche as ſhalle be godlie diſpos'd, the moſt comfortable Sacrament of the Body and Bloude of Chriſte to be taken of them, in the Remembraunce of his moſte fruitfull and glorious Paſſion, by the which Paſſion, we have obteigned Remiſſion of our Sinnes, and be made Partakers of the Kyngdom of Heaven, whereof wee be aſſured, and aſſerteigned, if we come to the ſaid Sacrament, with heartie Repentaunce for our Offences, ſtedfaſte Faith in Goddes Mercie, and earneſt Mynde to obeye Goddes Will, and to offende no more. Wherefore our Duetie is to come to theſe holy Miſteries, with moſt heartie Thankes to bee geven to Almightie God, for his infinite Mercie, and Benefites geven and beſtow'd upon us his unworthie Servauntes, for whom he hath not only given his Body to Death, and ſhed his Bloude, but alſo doth vouchſafe in a Sacrament and Miſtery, to give us his ſaid Body and Blood to feede upon ſpiritually. The whiche Sacrament being ſo divine and holy a thinge, and ſo comfortable to them which receive it worthilye, and ſo daungerous to them that wyll preſume to take the ſame unworthely: My Duty is to exhorte you in the meane ſeaſon to conſider the greatnes of the thing, and to ſerche and examine your own Conſciences, and that not lyghtly, nor after the manner of Diſſimulers with God: But as they which ſhoulde come to a moſte godlie and heavenly Banket, not to come but in the Marriage Garment requir'd of God in Scripture, that you maye (ſo much as lieth in you) be found worthie to come to ſuche a Table. The Waies and Means thereto is,

Firſt, That you be truly Repentant of your former evil Lyfe, and that you confeſſe with an unfayned Hearte to Almightie God, your Synnes and Unkyndnes towardes his Majeſtie committed either by Wylle, Worde, or Dede, Infirmitie or Ignoraunce, and that with inward Sorowe and Teares you bewaile your Offences, and require of Almightie God, Mercie and Pardon, promiſing to him (from the botome of your Heartes) the amendment of your former Life. And emongs all others, I am commaunded of God, eſpecially to move and exhorte you, to reconcile your ſelfes to your Neighbours, whom you have offended, or who hath offended you, putting out of your Heartes, all Hatred and Malice againſt them, and to be in Love and Charitie with all the Worlde, and to forgeve other, as you would that God ſhould forgeve you. And yf any Man hath doen Wrong to any other, let him make Satisfaccion, and due Reſtitucion of all Landes and Goodes, wrongfully taken away or withholden, before he come to Goddes Borde, or at the leſte be in fulle Mynde and Purpoſe ſo to doe, as ſone as he is able, or elſe let him not come to this holy Table, thinking to deceive God, who ſeeth all Mens Heartes. For neyther the Abſolucion of the Prieſt, can any thinge avayle them, nor the receyvyng of this holy Sacrament doth any thing but increaſe their Damnacion. And yf there bee any of you, whoſe Conſcience is troubled and grieved in any thing, lackyng Comfort or Counſayll, let him come to me, or to ſome other diſcrete and learned Prieſt, taught in the Lawe of God, and confeſſe and open his Sinne and Griefe ſecretly, that he maye receyve ſuch Ghoſtly Counſayl, Adviſe, and Comfort, that his Conſcience may be releved: And that of us (as of the Miniſters of God and of the Churche) he maye receyve Comforte and Abſolucion, to the Satisfaccion of his Mind, and avoyding of all Scruple and Doubtfulnes, requiryng ſuch as ſhall be ſatisfyed with a general Confeſſion, not to be offended with them that doe uſe, to their farther ſatisfyinge, the auriculer and ſecrete Confeſſion to the Prieſt: Nor thoſe alſo which think needfull or convenient, for the Quietnes of their own Conſciences, particulerly to open their Sinnes to the Prieſte; to be offended with them that are ſatisfyed, with their humble Confeſſion to God, and the general Confeſſion to the Churche. But in all thinges to followe and kepe the Rule of Charitie, and every Man to be ſatisfied with their owne Conſciences, not judgeing other Mennes Mindes or Conſciences, wheras he hath no Warrant of Goddes Worde to the ſame.

¶ Then ſhall folowe for the Offertorie, one or more of theſe Sentences of Holy Scripture, to be ſong whiles the People doe offer, or els one of them to be ſaied by the Miniſter, immediately afore the Offeryng.

Where there be Clearkes, thei ſhall ſing one, or many of the Sentences above written, according to the length and ſhortneſs of the tyme, that the People be offeryng.

In the meane tyme, whyles the Clearkes do ſing the Offertory, ſo many as are diſpos'd, ſhall offer to the poore Mens Boxe every one accordynge to his Habilitie and charitable Mynde. And at the Offeryng Daies appointed, every Manne und Woman ſhall paie to the Curate, the due and accuſtomed Offerynges.

Then ſo many as ſhall bee Partakers of the holy Communion, ſhall tarye ſtill in the Quire, or in ſome conveniente Place nigh the Quire, the Men on the one ſide, and the Women on the other ſide. All other (that mynde not to receyve the holy Communion) ſhall depart out of the Quire, except the Miniſters and Clearkes.

Then ſhall the Miniſter take ſo muche Breade and Wine, as ſhall ſuffice for the Perſons appointed to receive the holy Communion, laiyng the Breade upon the Corporas, or els in the Paten, or in ſome other comely thyng, prepared for that purpoſe: And putting the Wine into the Chalice, or els in ſome faire or conveniente Cup, prepared for that Uſe (if the Chalice will not ſerve) puttyng thereto a litle pure and cleane Water: And ſetting forth the Bread and Wine upon the Alter: Then the Prieſt ſhall ſaye.

The Lord be with you.

Aunſwere.

And with thy Spirite.

Prieſt.

Lift up your Heartes.

Aunſwere.

We lift them up unto the Lorde.

Prieſt.

Let us give Thankes to our Lorde God.

Aunſwere.

It is mete and right ſo to do.

The Prieſt.

It is very mete, righte, and our bounden Dutie, that we ſhould at all tymes, and in all places, geve Thankes to thee, O Lorde, Holy Father, Almightie Everlaſtinge God.

¶ Here ſhall folowe the proper Preface, accordyng to the Tyme (yf there bee any ſpecially appointed) or elſe immediately ſhall folowe. Therefore with Angels, &c.

Propre Prefaces.

¶ Upon Chriſtmas Day.

Becauſe thou diddeſte geve Jeſus Chriſte, thyne only Sonne to be borne as this daie for us, who by the Operacion of the Holy Ghoſte, was made very Man, of the Subſtaunce of the Virgin Mary his Mother, and that withoute ſpotte of Sinne, to make us clean from all Sinne. Therefore, &c.

¶ Upon Eaſter Day.

But chiefly are we bound to prayſe thee, for the glorious Reſurreccion of thy Sonne Jeſus Chriſte our Lorde, for he is the very Paſcall Lamb which was offer'd for us, and hath taken away the Synne of the World, who by his Death hath deſtroyed Death, and by his riſyng agayn, hath reſtored to us everlaſtinge Lyfe. Therefore, &c.

¶ Upon the Aſcenſion Day.

Through thy moſt dere beloved Sonne, Jeſus Chriſte our Lorde, who after his moſte glorious Reſurreccion, manifeſtly appeared to all his Diſciples, and in theyre Sighte aſcended up into Heaven, to prepare a Place for us, that where he is, thither might we alſo aſcende, and reigne with him in Glory. Therefore, &c.

¶ Upon Whitſondaye.

Through Jeſus Chriſte our Lorde, accordynge to whoſe moſt true Promiſe, the Holy Ghoſte came doune this Daye from Heaven with a ſodain great ſounde, as it had been a mightie Wynde, in the lykenes of fiery Tongues, lightyng upon the Apoſtles to teach them, and to lead them to all Truth, gevyng them both the Gifte of divers Languages, and alſo Boldnes with fervente Zele, conſtantly to preche the Goſpell, unto all Nacions, whereby we are brought out of Darknes and Error into the cleare Light and true Knowlege of thee, and of thy Sonne Jeſus Chriſte. Therefore. &c.

It is very meete, righte, and our bounden Duty, that we ſhould at all tymes, and in all places, geve Thankes to thee, O Lord Almightie, Everlaſtinge God, which arte one God, one Lorde, not one only Perſon but three Perſons in one Subſtance: For that which we beleve of the Glory of the Father, the ſame we believe of the Sonne, and of the Holy Ghoſte, without any Difference, or Inequalitie: whom the Angels, &c.

After which Preface ſhall folowe immediately.

Therefore with Angels and Archangels, and with all the holy Companye of Heaven, we laud and magnifie thy glorious Name, evermore prayſyng thee, and ſayinge: Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of Hoſtes: Heaven and Earth are full of thy Glory: Oſanna in the Higheſte. Bleſſed is he that cometh in the Name of the Lorde: Glory to thee, O Lorde, in the Higheſt.

This the Clearkes ſhall alſo ſyng.

¶ When the Clearkes have doen ſyngyng, then ſhall the Prieſt, or Deacon, turne hym to the People and ſaye.

Let us praye for the whole State of Chriſte's Churche.

Then the Prieſt turning him to the Altar, ſhall ſaye or ſynge plainly and diſtinctly, this Prayer folowing.

Almightie and everlyvyng God, which by thy holy Apoſtle haſt taught us to make Prayers and Supplicacions, and to geve Thankes for all Menne, We humbly beſeche thee moſt mercifully to receyve theſe our Prayers, which we offre unto thy Divine Majeſtie, beſechyng thee to inſpire continually the univerſall Churche, with the Spirit of Trueth, Unitie and Concorde; and graunt that all they that do confeſſe thy holye Name, maye agree in the Trueth of thy holye Worde, and lyve in Unitie and godly Love. Specially wee beſeche thee to ſave and defende thy Servaunte Edwarde our Kynge, that under him we may be godly and quietely govern'd. And graunte unto his whole Counſaile, and to all that be put in Authoritie under hym, that they maye truely and indifferently miniſter Juſtice, to the Puniſhment of Wickedneſs and Vice, and to the Maintenaunce of Goddes true Religion and Virtue. Geve Grace (O heavenly Father) to all Biſhoppes, Paſtors, and Curates, that they maye both by their Life and Doctrine, ſet furthe thy true and lively Worde, and rightly and duely adminiſter thy holye Sacraments. And to all thy People geve thy heavenly Grace that with meke Heart and due Reverence they maye heare and receyve thy holye Worde, truelye ſervynge thee in Holyneſſe and Righteouſnes, all the Dayes of their Life. And wee moſt humbly beſeche thee of thy Goodnes (O Lord) to comforte and ſuccoure all them, which in this tranſitory Life be in Trouble, Sorowe, Nede, Sycknes, or any other Adverſitie. And eſpecially we commend unto thy mercyful Goodnes, thys Congregacion, which is here aſſembled in thy Name, to celebrate the Commemoracion of the moſte glorious Death of thy Sonne: And here we doe geve unto thee moſte high Prayſe and heartie Thankes, for the wonderful Grace and Vertue, declar'd in all thy Saincts, from the begynning of the World, and chiefly in the glorious and moſt bleſſed Virgin Mary, Mother of thy Sonne Jeſu Chriſte, our Lord and God, and in the holy Patriarches, Prophetes, Apoſtles and Martyrs, whoſe Examples (O Lorde) and Stedfaſtneſs in thy Faythe, and kepyng thy holy Commaundmentes, graunte us to folowe. We commend unto thy Mercie (O Lord) all other thy Servaunts, which are departed hence from us with the Signe of Fayth, and nowe do reſte in the Slepe of Peace: Graunte unto them, we beſeche thee, thy Mercy, and everlaſtinge Peace, and that at the Daye of the general Reſurreccion, we and all they which be of the myſtical Body of thy Sonne, maye altogether be ſet on his right Hand, and hear that his moſt joyful Voice: Come unto me, O ye that be bleſſed of my Father, and poſſeſs the Kingdom which is prepared for you, from the begynning of the Worlde: Graunte this, O Father, for Jeſus Chriſte's ſake, our only Mediator and Advocate.

O God, heavenly Father, which of thy tender Mercy diddeſte geve thine only Sone Jeſu Chriſt, to ſuffer Death upon the Croſſe for our Redemption, who made there (by his one Oblation once offered) a full, perfect, and ſufficiente Sacrifice, Oblation, and Satiſfaccion for the Sinnes of the whole Worlde, and dide inſtitute, and in his Holy Goſpell commaunde us to celebrate a perpetual Memorye of that his precious Deathe, untyll his comming agayne: Heare us (O mercyfull Father) we beſeche thee, and with thy Holy Spirite and Worde vouchſafe to bl✠eſſe and ſancti✠fie theſe thy Gifts, and Creatures of Bread and Wyne, that they maye be unto us the Bodie and Blood of thy moſt derely beloved Sonne Jeſus Chriſte, who in the ſame Nyght that he was betrayed, tooke Breade, and when he had bleſſed, and geven Thankes, he brake it, and gave it to his Diſciples, ſayinge; Take, eate, this is my Bodye whiche is geven for you, do this in remembrance of me.

Lykewiſe after Supper he tooke the Cuppe, and when he had geven Thankes, he gave it to them, ſaying; Drinke ye all of this, for this is my Bloude of the New-Teſtament, which is ſhed for you and for many, for Remiſſion of Sins: Do this this as oft as you ſhall drinke it, in remembraunce of me.

¶ Theſe Wordes before reherſed, are to be ſayed, turning ſtill to the Altar, without any Elevation, or ſhewing the Sacrament to the People.

Wherefore, O Lorde and heavenly Father, according to the Inſtitution of thy derely beloved Sonne, our Saviour Jeſu Chriſte, we thy humble Servauntes doe celebrate, and make here before thy Divine Majeſtie, with theſe thy holy Giftes, the Memoriall which thy Sonne hath willed us to make: having in remembraunce his bleſſed Paſſion, mightie Reſurreccion, and glorious Aſcencion, renderynge unto thee moſte heartye Thankes, for the innumerable Benefites procured unto us by the ſame, entyrely deſiring thy Fatherly Goodnes, mercyfully to accept thys our Sacrifice of Prayſe and Thankeſgevinge: Moſt humbly beſeechyng thee to graunt, that by the Merites and Death of thy Sonne Jeſus Chriſte, and thro' Faith in his Bloud, we and all thy whole Church, may obteigne Remiſſion of our Sinnes, and all other Benefites of his Paſſion. And here we offre and preſent unto thee (O Lord) oure ſelf, oure Soules, and Bodyes, to be a reaſonable, holy, and lively Sacrifice unto thee, humbly beſechyng thee, that whoſoever ſhall be Partakers of this Holy Communion, maye worthely receive the moſte precious Body and Bloude of thy Sonne Jeſus Chriſte, and be fullfilled with thy Grace, and heavenly Benediccion, and made one Bodye with thy Sonne Jeſu Chriſt, that he may dwell in them, and they in hym. And altho' we be unworthy (thro' our manyfold Synnes) to offre unto thee any Sacrifice, yet we beſeche thee to accepte this our bounden Duetie and Service, and commaunde theſe oure Prayers and Supplicacions, by the Miniſterye of thy Holy Angels, to be brought up into thy Holy Tabernacle before the ſyght of thy Divine Majeſtie, not waying our Merites, but pardoning our Offences, through Chriſte our Lorde, by whome and with whome, in the Unitie of the Holy Ghoſt, all Honoure and Glorye, be unto thee, O Father Almightie, World without ende. Amen.

Let us praye.

As our Saviour Chriſte, hath commaunded and taughte us, we are bold to ſaye: Our Father whiche arte in Heaven, halowed be thy Name. Thy Kyngdome come, thy Will be done in Earth, as it is in Heaven. Geve us this Daye our daylie Breade; and forgeve us our Treſpaces, as we forgeve them that treſpaſſe againſt us. And leade us not into Temptation.

The Aunſwere.

But deliver us from evill. Amen.

Then ſhall the Prieſt ſaye,

The Peace of the Lorde be alway with you.

The Clearkes.

And wyth thy Spirite.

The Prieſt.

Chriſte our Paſcal Lambe is offred up for us, once for all, when he bare our Sinnes on his Body upon the Croſſe, for he is the very Lambe of God, that taketh away the Sinnes of the Worlde: Wherefore let us kepe a joyfull and holy Feaſt with the Lorde.

Here the Prieſt ſhall turn hym towardes thoſe that come to the Holy Communion and ſhall ſaye.

You that do truely and earneſtly repent you of your Sinnes to Almightie God, and be in Love and Charitie with your Neyghbours, and entende to leade a newe Life; folowing the Commaundements of God, and walkyng from hencefurth in hys Holy Ways, drawe nere and take this Holy Sacrament to your Comforte, make your humble Confeſſion to Almightie God, and to his Holy Churche here gather'd together in his Name, mekely knelyng upon your Knees.

Then ſhall this General Confeſſion be made, in the Name of all thoſe that are mynded to receive the Holy Communion, either by one of them, or els by one of the Miniſters, or by the Prieſt hymſelf, all kneling humbly upon their Knees.

Almightie God, Father of our Lorde Jeſus Chriſte, Maker of al thinges, Judge of all Menne, we knowledge and bewayle our manyfolde Sinnes and Wickednes, which we from tyme to tyme, moſt grevouſly have committed, by Thoughte, Woorde, and Dede, againſt thy Divine Majeſtie, provoekyng mooſt juſtly thy Wrath and Indignacion againſt us. We do earneſtly repente, and be hartely ſory for theſe our Miſdoings, the Remembraunce of them is grevous unto us, the Burthen of them is intollerable: Have Mercie upon us, have Mercy upon us, moſt mercyfull Father, for thy Sonne our Lorde Jeſus Chriſtes ſake, forgeve us all that is paſt, and graunte that we may ever hereafter, ſerve and pleaſe thee in Newneſs of Life, to the Honour and Glory of thy Name: Through Jeſus Chriſt our Lorde.

Then ſhall the Prieſt ſtande up, and turning hymſelf to the People, ſay thus,

Almightie God our heavenly Father, who of his greate Mercye hath promiſed forgeveneſſe of Synnes to all them, which with hearty Repentance and true Faith turn unto hym: Have Mercy upon you, pardon and deliver you from all your Sinnes, confirm and ſtrengthen you in all Goodnes, and bring you to everlaſting Lyfe, through Jeſus Chriſte our Lorde. Amen.

Then ſhall the Prieſte alſo ſaye.

Heare what comfortable Woordes our Saviour Chriſte ſayeth, to all that truly turn to him.

Come unto me all that travel and bee heavy laden, and I ſhall refreſh you. So God loved the World, that he gave his only begoten Sonne, to the end, that all that believe in hym, ſhoulde not periſhe, but have Life everlaſtinge.

Heare alſo what Saincte Paule ſayeth.

This is a true Saying, and woorthie of all Men to be receyved, that Jeſus Chriſte came into this Worlde to ſave Sinners.

Heare alſo what St. John ſaith.

If any Man ſinne, we have an Advocate with the Father Jeſus Chriſt the Righteous, and he is the Propitiation for our Sins.

Then ſhall the Prieſte, turning hym to Goddes Boord, knele down, and ſaye in the Name of all them that ſhall receyve the Communion, this Prayer following.

We doe not preſume to come to this thy Table (O mercyfull Lorde) truſting in our own Righteouſnes, but in thy manifold and great Mercies: We bee not woorthy ſo much as to gather up the Cromes under thy Table, but thou art the ſame Lord whoſe Property is always to have Mercie: Graunte us therefore (gracious Lorde) ſo to eate the Fleſhe of thy dere Sonne Jeſus Chriſte, and to drinke his Bloude, in theſe holy Miſteries, that we may continually dwell in him, and he in us, that oure ſinful Bodies may be made clean by his Body, and oure Soules waſhed thro' his moſt precious Bloude. Amen.

¶ Then ſhall the Prieſte firſt receive the Communion in both kindes himſelf, and next deliver it to other Miniſters, if any be there preſente (that they maye be readye to helpe the chiefe Miniſter) and after to the People.

¶ And when he delivereth the Sacrament of the Body of Chriſt, he ſhall ſaye to every one theſe Words.

The Body of our Lorde Jeſus Chriſt whiche was geven for thee, preſerve thy Bodye and Soule unto everlaſting Lyfe.

And the Miniſter delivering the Sacrament of the Bloud, and geving every one to drinke once and no more, ſhall ſaye.

The Bloud of our Lord Jeſus Criſte, which was ſhed for thee, preſerve thy Bodye and Soule unto everlaſtynge Lyfe.

If there be a Deacon, or other Prieſt, then ſhall he folowe with the Chalice, and as the Prieſt miniſtreth the Sacrament of the Body, ſo ſhall he (for more Expedicion) miniſter the Sacrament of the Bloud, in fourme before written.

In the Communion tyme the Clearkes ſhall ſynge, ii. O Lambe of God, that takeſte awaye the Synnes of the Worlde; have mercy upon us.

O Lambe of God, that takeſte awaye the Synnes of the Worlde, graunte us thy Peace.

Beginning ſo ſoone as the Prieſte doth receive the holy Communion: And when the Communion is ended, then ſhall the Clearkes ſyng the Poſt Communion.

The Lorde be with you.

The Anſwere.

And with thy Spirite.

The Prieſt.

Let us praye.

Almightie and everlyvynge God, we moſt heartely thanke thee, for that thou haſt vouchſaf'd to feed us in theſe holy Myſteries, with the ſpirituall Foode of the moſte precious Body and Bloude of thy Sonne, our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, and haſt aſſured us (duely receyving the ſame) of thy Favour and Goodnes toward us, and that we be very Members incorporate in thy myſtical Bodye, which is the bleſſed Companye of all faithfull People: And heyres through hope of thy everlaſtinge Kingdome, by the Merites of the moſte precious Deathe and Paſſion, of thy deare Sonne. We therefore moſte humbly beſeeche thee, O heavenly Father, ſo to aſſiſte us with thy Grace, that we may continue in that holy Felowſhip, and doe all ſuche good Woorkes, as thou haſte prepared for us to walke in, through Jeſus Chriſte oure Lorde, to whome with thee, and the Holy Goſte, bee all Honour and Glorye Worlde withoute end.

Then the Prieſt turning hym to the People, ſhall let them depart with this Bleſſing.

The Peace of God (which paſſeth all Underſtanding) kepe your Heartes and Mindes in the Knowledge and Love of God, and of his Sonne Jeſus Chriſte our Lord; and the Bleſſing of God Almightie, the Father, the Sonne, and the Holy Goſt, be emonges you, and remayne with you alway.

Then the People ſhall Aunſwere,

Amen.

Where there are no Clearkes, there the Prieſte ſhall ſaye all things appointed here for them to ſyng.

The Lady Elizabeth's Letter to the Queen Dowager Parr, then married to the Lord Admiral Seymour; 'twas written to wiſh the Queen Dowager a good hour.

Cotton lib. Otho C. x. fol. 462. A. D. 1548.

ALthough your Highneſs Letters be moſt joyful to me in abſence, yet conſidering what Pain it is to you to write, your Grace being ſo great with Child, and ſo ſickly, your Commendation were enough in my Lord's Letter. I much rejoyce at your Health, with the well liking of the Country, with my humble Thanks that your Grace wiſh'd me with you, till I were weary of that Country. Your Highneſs were like to be comber'd, if I ſhould not depart till I were weary being with you. Altho' it were in the worſt Soil in the World, your preſence would make it pleaſant. I cannot reprove my Lord * for not doing your Commendations in his Letter, for he did it: And altho' he had not, yet I will not complain on him, for that he ſhall be diligent to give me Knowledge, from time to time, how his buſie Child doth; and if I were at his Birth, no doubt I would ſee him beaten, for the Trouble he has put you to. Mr. Denny and my Lady, with humble Thanks, prayeth moſt entirely for your Grace, praying the Almighty God to ſend you a moſt lucky Deliverance. And my Miſtreſs wiſheth no leſs, giving your Highneſs moſt humble Thanks for her Commendations. Written with very little leiſure, this laſt day of July.

* This and the next Periods ſhew plainly this Queen was not then married to K. Henry.

ELIZABETH.

Part of the Service at the Conſecration of a Biſhop in the Greek Church. The Tranſlation examined by the Original.

-----HEre Domine Deus noſter qui per eximium & omnibus modis celebrandum Apoſtolum tuum conſtituiſti nobis in ſancto Altari tuo Graduum & Dignitatum ordinem, Primùm Apoſtolos, deindè Prophetas, tertiò Doctores ad inſerviendum & miniſtrandum venerandis & immaculatis Myſteriis tuis: Ipſe omnium Domine, confirma & corrobora hunc Electum ut per Manum mei Peccatoris & Adſiſtentium Miniſtrorum & Coëpiſcoporum, ſanctique Spiritus Adventu, virtute, & gratiâ ſubeat Evangelicum Jugum, & Dignitatem Epiſcopalem, ſicut confirmâſti & corroborâſti ſanctos Prophetas tuos; ſicut unxiſti Reges, ſicut ſanctificâſti Principes Sacerdotum; ipſiuſque Hierarchicam Dignitatem irreprehenſibilem effice & conſerva, eumque omni Morum Gravitate Sanctimonia adornans

dornans ſanctifica, ut dignus ſit qui intercedat apud te, & poſtulet ea quæ ad ſalutem populi ſpectant, & obedientiam ſibi exhibendam, quia ſanctificatum eſt nomen tuum, & glorificatum Regnum tuum, &c.

Dicto Amen, Precem diaconicam recitat præſentium Epiſcoporum unus hoc modo.

In pace Dominum deprecemur, pro ſupernâ pace, & ſalute animarum noſtrarum, Dominum deprecemur.

Pro Archiepiſcopo noſtro N. ipſius Sacerdotio, Auxilio, Perſeverantiâ, Pace, & Salute, & Operibus manuum ejus, Dominum deprecemur.

Pro eo qui nunc deſignatur & promovetur ad Epiſcopatum, & Salute ipſius Dominum deprecemur.

Ut benignus & hominum amans Deus ipſi largiatur Epiſcopatum ab omni ſorde emaculatum, & irreprehenſibilem, deprecemur.

Pro religioſiſſimo, & a Deo cuſtodito Imperatore noſtro, pro hac Urbe, ut nos liberemur, auxiliare, ſerva, miſerere, intercedente ſanctiſſimâ, & immaculatâ Dominâ noſtrâ Dei Genetrice.

Dum autem profertur hæc Oratio ab Epiſcopo, habet ſimiliter Archiepiſcopus Manum ſuper Caput illius, qui ordinatur ſic orans.

Domine Deus noſter, qui propterea quod non poteſt humana natura Divinitatis ferre præſentiam, conſtituiſti prudenti Oeconomia tua Doctores Affectibus, & Animi Perturbationibus nobis ſimiles, qui Throni tui ſedem occuparent, qui pro univerſo populo tuo Sacrificia & Oblationes offerrent: Tu Domine hunc declaratum Oeconomum Gratiæ Epiſcopalis, effice imitatorem tui, veri Paſtoris, ut ponat animam ſuam pro Ovibus ſuis, ut ſit Cæcorum Dux, Lumen eorum qui in tenebris, Inſtitutor inſipientium, Luminare Mundi, & præparatis recteque inſtitutis animabus ſibi creditis, quandiù luce terrena fruuntur, non erubeſcat, ſed confidenter adſtet Tribunali tuo; magnamque illam mercedem recipiat, quam iis præparâſti qui pro Prædicatione Evangelii tui depugnârunt. Altâ voce, tuum enim eſt miſereri, & ſalvare, &c.

Benedictio vel Conſecratio Manuum Sacerdotis ante Unctionem Chriſmatis.

Benedic Domine & ſanctifica has Manus Sacerdotis tui ill. ad conſecrandas Hoſtias quæ pro delictis atque negligentiis populi offeruntur, & ad cætera benedicenda quæ ad uſus populi neceſſaria ſunt, & præſta quæſumus, ut quæcunque benedixerint, benedicantur, & quæcunque ſacraverint, ſacrentur, Salvator Mundi qui vivis & regnas.

Conſecratio manuum Sacerdotis de Oleo & Chriſmate. Conſecrentur Manus iſtæ, quæſumus Domine, de Oleo ſancto, & ſanctificentur per iſtam Unctionem, ſanctamque Benedictionem, ut quæcunque benedixerint, benedicta ſint, & quæcunque ſanctificaverint, ſanctificata permaneant. Per.

Conſecratio Capitis cum Oleo.

Ungatur & conſecretur Caput tuum cœleſti Benedictione in Ordine Sacerdotali, in nomine Patris, Filii, & Spiritûs Sancti. Amen. Pax tibi, Reſp. Et cum Spiritu tuo.

Tunc veſtiatur Caſula, ſequitur Oratio.

Benedictio Dei Patris, & Filii, & Spiritûs Sancti deſcendat ſuper te, & hac Sacerdotali Veſte indutus, protectus, & munitus eſſe valeas ab omnibus impugnationibus malignorum Spirituum, & ſis benedictus, & offeras Hoſtias placabiles pro peccatis atque offenſionibus populi Omnipotenti Deo, cui eſt Honor & Gloria.

Ad conſummandum Presbyteri Officium.

Sit nobis communis Oratio, Fratres, ut hic qui in adjutorium & utilitatem veſtræ ſalutis eligitur, Presbyteratus Benedictionem divini Muneris Indulgentia conſequatur, & Sancti Spiritûs Sacerdotalium Dona Privilegio Virtutum nè impar loco deprehendatur, obtineat.

Item alia.

Deus Sanctificationum omnium Autor, cujus vera Conſecratio plena Benedictio eſt, ſuper hunc Famulum tuum ill. quem ad Presbyterii Honorem ad ill. Propitiare Domine Supplicationibus noſtris: Et inclinato ſuper hunc Famulum tuum ill. Cornu Gratiæ Sacerdotalis, Benedictionis tuæ in eo effunde Virtutem. Per Dominum.

Solus vero Archiepiſcopus hanc dicat Conſecrationem cæteris adſtantibus, & duobus Epiſcopis Evangelium ſuper ipſum qui ordinandus eſt tenentibus.

Deus Honorum omnium, Deus omnium Dignitatum, quæ Gloriæ tuæ ſacratis famulantur Ordinibus. Deus qui Moyſen Famulum tuum ſecreti Familiaris afflatu, inter cætera cœleſtis Documenta Culturæ, de habitu quoque indumenti Sacerdotalis inſtituens, electum Aaron myſtico amictu veſtiri inter ſacra juſſiſti, ut intelligentiæ ſenſum de Exemplis Priorum caperet ſecutura Poſteritas, nè Eruditio Doctrinæ tuæ ulli deeſſet ætati: Cum & apud Veteres Reverentiam ipſa ſignificationum ſpecies obtineret, & apud nos certiora eſſent experimenta rerum quàm Ænigmata Figurarum. Illius namque Sacerdotii anterioris habitus, noſtræ mentis ornatus eſt, & Pontificalem Gloriam non jam nobis Honor commendat Veſtium, ſed Splendor Animarum: Quia & illa quæ tunc carnalibus blandiebantur obtutibus, ea potius quæ in ipſis erant intelligenda poſcebant. Et proinde huic Famulo tuo quem ad ſummi Sacerdotii Miniſterium elegiſti, hanc quæſumus Domine, Gratiam largiaris, ut quidquid illa velamina in Fulgore Auri, in nitore Gemmarum, in multimodi operis varietate ſignabant, hoc in ejus Moribus Actibuſque clareſcat. Hic accipit Chriſma. Comple Domine in Sacerdote tuo, Myſterii tui ſummam, & Ornamentis totius Glorificationis inſtructum eum cœleſtis Unguenti flore ſanctifica. Hic mittatur Chriſma ſuper Caput ejus. Hoc Domine copioſè in Caput ejus influat, hoc in oris ſubjecta decurrat, hoc in totius Corporis extrema deſcendat, ut tui Spiritûs virtus, & interiora ejus repleat, & exteriora circumtegat. Abundet in eo Conſtantia Fidei, Puritas Dilectionis, Sinceritas Pacis, ſint ſpecioſi munere tuo pedes ejus ad evangelizandam Pacem, ad evangelizandum Bona tua. Da ei Domine Myſterium Reconciliationis in verbis, & factis, & virtutibus & ſignis, & prodigiis. Sit Sermo ejus & Prædicatio non in perſuaſibilibus humanæ Sapientiæ verbis, ſed in oſtenſione Spiritûs & virtute. Da ei, Domine, Claves Regni Cœlorum; utatur nec glorietur poteſtate quam tribuis in ædificationem, & non in deſtructionem: Quodcunq; ligaverit ſuper Terram, ſit ligatum & in Cœlis, & quodcunque ſolverit ſuper Terram, ſit ſolutum & in Cœlis. Quorum detinuerit peccata, detenta ſint, & quorum dimiſerit, tu dimittas. Qui benedixerit ei ſit benedictus, & qui maledixerit ei, Maledictionibus repleatur. Sit fidelis ſervus & prudens quem conſtituas Dominum ſuper Familiam tuam, ut det illis Cibum in tempore neceſſario, & exhibeat omnem Hominem perfectum. Sit ſollicitudine impiger, ſit Spiritu fervens, oderit ſuperbiam, diligat veritatem, nec eam unquam deſerat, aut laſſitudine, aut timore ſuperatus. Non ponat lucem tenebras, nec tenebras lucem: Non dicat bonum malum, nec malum bonum. Tribuas ei, Domine, Cathedram Pontificalem ad regendam Eccleſiam tuam, & Plebem univerſam. Sis ei Authoritas, ſis ei Firmitas, ſis ei Poteſtas. Multiplices ſuper eum Benedictionem, & Gratiam tuam, ut ad exorandam Miſericordiam tuam tuo ſemper Munere idoneus, tua Gratia poſſit eſſe devotus. Per.

Item alia ſuper Epiſcopum.

Pater Sancte, Omnipotens Deus, qui per Dominum noſtrum Jeſum Chriſtum ab initio cuncta creâſti, & poſtmodum in fine temporum ſecundum Pollicitationem quam Abraham Patriarcha noſter acceperat, Eccleſiam quoque Sanctorum Congregatione fundâſti, ordinatis rebus per quas Legibus à te datis Diſciplinæ Religio regeneretur. Præſta ut hic Famulus tuus ſit Miniſteriis cunctiſque fideliter geſtis Officiis dignus, ut antiquitus inſtituta Sacramentorum Myſteria poſſit celebrare, per te in ſummum ad quod aſſumitur Sacerdotium conſecretur. Sit ſuper eundem Benedictio tua, licet manu noſtra ſit. Præcipe Domine, huic paſcere Oves tuas, ac tribue ut commiſſi Gregis Cuſtodia ſolicitus Paſtor invigilet. Spiritus huic Sanctus cœleſtium Chariſmatum Diviſor adſiſtat, ut ſicut ille Electus Gentium Doctor inſtituit, ſit juſtitia non indigens, Benignitate pollens, Hoſpitalitate diffuſus, ſervet in Exhortationibus Alacritatem, in Perſecutionibus Fidem, in Charitate Patientiam, in Veritate Conſtantiam, in Hæreſibus ac Vitiis omnibus Odium ſciat, in æmulationibus neſciat: In Judiciis gratioſum eſſe ſinas, & gratum eſſe concedas. Poſtremò à te largitore diſcat, quæ ſalubritèr tuos doceat. Sacerdotium ipſum opus eſſe exiſtimet, non Dignitatem. Proficiant ei Honoris Augmenta, etiam ad Incrementa Meritorum, ut per hæc ſicut apud nos nunc adſciſcitur in Sacerdotium, ita apud te poſtea adſciſcatur in Regnum. Per Dominum.

Benedictio de ſeptiformi Spiritu.

Spiritus Sanctus ſeptiformis veniat ſuper te, & virtus Altiſſimi ſine peccato cuſtodiat te, & omnis Benedictio quæ in Scripturis ſanctis ſcripta eſt, ſuper te veniat. Confirmet te Deus Pater, & Filius, & Spiritus Sanctus, ut habeas vitam æternam, & vivas in ſæcula ſæculorum. Amen.

Conſecratio Manuum Epiſcopi ab Archiepiſcopo, Oleo ſancto, & Chriſmate.

Ungantur Manus iſtæ, & ſanctificentur, & in te Deo Deorum ordinentur. Ungo has Manus Oleo ſanctificato, & Chriſmate Unctionis purificato, ſicut unxit Moyſes verbo oris ſui Manus S. Aaron Germani ſui, & ſicut unxit Spiritus ſanctus per ſuos Flatus, Manus ſuorum Apoſtolorum, ita ungantur Manus iſtæ, & ſanctificentur & conſecrentur, ut in omnibus ſint perfectæ in nomine tuo, Pater, Filiique tui, atque æterni Spiritus S. qui es unus ac ſummus Dominus omnium vivorum & mortuorum, manens in ſæcula ſæculorum.

Hic mittatur Oleum ſuper Caput ejus.

Ungatur & conſecretur Caput tuum cœleſti Benedictione in Ordinem pontificalem in nomine Patris, & Filii, & Spiritûs Sancti. Pax tibi. Reſp. Et cum Spiritu tuo.

Benedictio Baculi ut alii volunt.

Iſtum ſanctifica Pietatis jure Bacillum
Quo mala ſternantur, quo ſemper recta regantur.

Hic detur Baculus, ſequatur Oratio.

Accipe Baculum Paſtoralis Officii, & ſis in corrigendis vitiis ſæviens; in ira judicium ſine ira tenens: cum iratus fueris miſericordiæ reminiſcens.

Item alia.

Accipe Baculum ſacri Regiminis Signum, ut imbecilles conſolides, titubantes confirmes, pravos corrigas, rectos dirigas in viam Salutis æternæ, habeaſque poteſtatem erigendi dignos, & corrigendi indignos, cooperante Domino noſtro Jeſu Chriſto, qui cum Patre & Spiritu Sancto vivit.

Cum datur Annulus, hæc Oratio dicatur.

Accipe ergo Annulum Diſcretionis & Honoris, Fidei Signum, ut quæ ſignanda ſunt ſignes, & quæ aperienda ſunt prodas, quæ liganda ſunt liges, quæ ſolvenda ſunt ſolvas; atque credentibus per Fidem Baptiſmatis, lapſis autem & pœnitentibus per Miniſterium Reconciliationis, Januas

Reconciliationis aperias: Cunctis vero de Theſauro Dominico nova & vetera proferas, ad æternam Salutem omnium Conſolator, gratia Domini noſtri Jeſu Chriſti qui cum Patre & Spiritu ſancto vivit & regnat.

Additio in Conſecratione.

Deus Honorum omnium, Deus omnium Dignitatum quæ Gloriæ tuæ ſacris famulantur Ordinibus, huc Famulo tuo ill. quem Apoſtolicæ ſedis Præſulem & Primatem Sacerdotum ac Eccleſiæ tuæ Doctorem dediſti, & ad ſummi Sacerdotii Miniſterium elegiſti, hanc quæſumus Domine Gratiam largiaris, ut Cathedram Pontificalem ad regendam Eccleſiam tuam, & Plebem Univerſam aſcendat. Per.

Hic mittatur in Cathedram Epiſcopalem, & hæc Oratio dicatur.

Omnipotens Pater Sancte, Deus æterne, tu omnem Ordinem dignatus es in Cæleſtibus Sedibus Ordinare, in Cælo Domine in æternum permanet Verbum tuum, ubi Angelos & Archangelos ſuo tibi Ordine manciparis, & in Veteris Teſtamenti Privilegio Moyſen, & Aaron, & Samuel inter eos in Sacerdotibus tuis qui invocant nomen tuum, Patriarchas & Prophetas per Unguinem ordinâſti: In novo per Filium tuum Jeſum Chriſtum Apoſtolos Sanctos, & præcipuè Apoſtolum Petrum in Cathedram Honoris univerſæ Eccleſiæ præpoſuiſti, & Mathiam ejuſdem Conſortem in Apoſtolatum atque Cathedram enumerâſti, & in Numerum Sanctorum omnium Apoſtolorum evocâſti, quæſumus, pro tua immenſa Miſericordia in noſtris Temporibus, da tuam gratiam Fratri noſtro ill. ad inſtar Sanctorum Apoſtolorum tuorum, ſedentium in Cathedra Honoris & Dignitatis, ut in Conſpectu Majeſtatis tuæ Dignus Honore appareat. Per Dominum.

Alia.

Benedictio ejuſdem Sacerdotis.

Populus te honoret, adjuvet te Dominus, quidquid petieris præſtet tibi Deus, cum Honore, cum Caſtitate, cum Scientiâ, cum Largitate, cum Charitate, cum Nobilitate. Dignus ſis, juſtus ſis, Humilis ſis, Sincerus ſis, Apoſtolus Chriſti ſis. Accipe Benedictionem, & Apoſtolatum qui permaneat in die iſtâ, & in die futurâ. Angeli ſint ad dexteram tuam, Apoſtoli coronati ad ſiniſtram: Eccleſia ſit Mater tua, & Altare ſit Deus Pater tuus. Sint Angeli amici tui, ſint Apoſtoli Fratres tui, & Apoſtolatus tui gradum cuſtodiant. Confirmet te Deus in Juſtitia, in Sanctitate, in Eccleſia ſancta. Angeli recipiant te, & Pax tecum indiſcrepabilis per Redemptorem Dominum noſtrum Jeſum Chriſtum, qui cum Patre & Spiritu Sancto, vivit & regnat in ſæcula ſæculorum. Amen.

Num. LXVI.

Articles agreed upon in the Convocation, and publiſhed by the King's Majeſty.

The Margin contains ſome of the Alterations or Omiſſions made in 1562.

The Difference between theſe Articles and thoſe paſs'd by the Biſhops and Clergy of both Houſes, in the Year 1562, may be ſeen by comparing the Text with the Margin.

I. Of Faith in the Holy Trinity.

THere is but one living and true God, and he is everlaſting, without Body, Parts, or Paſſions; of infinite Power, Wiſdom and Goodneſs, the maker and preſerver of all things both viſible and inviſible. And in unity of his Godhead, there be three Perſons, of one Subſtance, Power, and Eternity, the Father, Son, and the Holy Ghoſt.

II. That the Word, or Son of God, was made very Man.

The Son which is the Word of the Father * took Mans Nature in the Womb of the Bleſſed Virgin Mary, of her Subſtance; ſo that two whole and perfect Natures, that is to ſay, the Godhead and Manhood were join'd together into one Perſon, never to be divided, whereof is one Chriſt, very God and very Man, who truly ſuffer'd, was crucified, dead and buried, to reconcile his Father to us, and to be a Sacrifice for all Sin of Man, both original and actual.

 Begotten from Everlaſting, of the Father, the very and eternal God, of one Subſtance with the Father.*

III. Of the going down of Chriſt into Hell.

As Chriſt died and was buried for us, ſo alſo it is to be believed, that he went down into Hell. † For the Body lay in the Sepulchre until the Reſurrection; but his Ghoſt departing from him, was with the Ghoſts that were in Priſon, or in Hell, and did preach to the ſame, as the place of St. Peter doth teſtify.

† The following Words are omited in the third Article of 1562.

‡ IV. The Reſurrection of Chriſt.

Chriſt did truly riſe again from Death, and took again his Body, with Fleſh, Bones, and all things appertaining to the Perfection of Man's Nature, wherewith he aſcended into Heaven, and there ſitteth, until he return to judge Men at the laſt Day.

‡ Of the Holy Ghoſt
The Holy Ghoſt proceeding from the Father and the Son, is of one Subſtance, Majeſty, and Glory, with the Father and the Son, very and eternal God. This is the 5th Article amongſt thoſe paſſed. An. 1562.

V. The Doctrine of Holy Scripture is ſufficient to Salvation.

Holy Scripture containeth all things neceſſary to Salvation: So that whatſoever is neither read therein, nor may be proved thereby, although it be ſome time received of the Faithfull as godly and profitable for an Order and Comelineſs, yet no Man ought to be conſtrain'd to believe it as an Article of Faith, or reputed requiſite to the Neceſſity of Salvation.

VI. The Old Teſtament is not to be refuſed.

The Old Teſtament is not to be put away as though it were contrary to the New, but to be kept ſtill; for both in the Old and New Teſtaments everlaſting Life is offer'd to Mankind by Chriſt, who is the only Mediator between God and Man, being both God and Man. Wherefore they are not to be heard, which feign that the old Fathers did look only for tranſitory Promiſes.

VII. The three Creeds.

The three Creeds, Nicene Creed, Athanaſius's Creed, and that which is commonly called the Apoſtles Creed, ought thoroughly to be received *. For they may be proved by moſt certain Warrants of Holy Scripture.

VIII. Of Original or Birth Sin.

Original Sin ſtandeth not in the following of Adam (as the Pelagians do vainly talk, which alſo the Anabaptiſts do now a-days renew) but it is the Fault and Corruption of the Nature of every Man, that naturally is ingendred of the Offſpring of Adam, whereby Man is very far gone from his former Righteouſneſs which he had at his Creation, and is, of his own Nature, given to Evil, ſo that the Fleſh deſireth always contrary to the Spirit, and therefore in every Perſon born in this World, it deſerveth God's Wrath and Damnation; And this Infection of Nature doth remain, yea in them that are baptiz'd, whereby the Luſt of the Fleſh, called in Greek φρόνημα σαρκὸς, which ſome do expound the Wiſdom, ſome the Senſuality, ſome the Affection, ſome the Deſire of the Fleſh, is not ſubject to the Law of God. And although there is no Condemnation for them that believe, and are baptiz'd, yet the Apoſtle doth confeſs, that Concupiſcence and Luſt hath, of it ſelf, the Nature of Sin.

IX. Of Free-Will.

We have no Power to doe good Workes pleaſant and acceptable to God, without the Grace of God by Chriſt preventing us, that we may have a good Will, and Working in us when we have that Will.

X. Of Grace.

The Grace of Chriſt, or the Holy Ghoſt by him given, doth take away the ſtony Heart, and giveth an Heart of Fleſh; and altho' thoſe that have no Will to good Things, he maketh them to Will, and thoſe that would evil things, he maketh them not to Will the ſame; yet nevertheleſs he enforceth not the Will: And therefore no Man when he ſinneth, can excuſe himſelf as not worthy to be blamed, or condemned, by alledging that he ſinned unwillingly or by compulſion.

XI. Of the Juſtification of Man.

Juſtification by only Faith in Jeſus Chriſt, in that Senſe as it is declared in the Homily of Juſtification, is a moſt certain and wholeſom Doctrine for Chriſtian Men.

XII. Works before Juſtification.

Works done before the Grace of Chriſt, and the Inſpiration of his Spirit, are not pleaſant to God, foraſmuch as they ſpring not of Faith in Jeſu Chriſt, neither do they make Men mete to receive Grace, (or as the School Authors ſay) deſerve Grace of congruity: But becauſe they are not done as God hath willed and commanded them to be done, we doubt not but they have the Nature of Sin.

XIII. Works of Supererogation.

Voluntary Works beſides, over and above God's Commandments, which they call Works of Supererogation, cannot be taught without Arrogance and Iniquity. For by them Men do declare, that they do not only render to God as much as they are bound to do, but that they do more for his ſake than of bounden Duty is required: Whereas Chriſt ſaith plainly, When ye have done all that is commanded you, ſay, we be unprofitable Servants.

XIV. No Man is without Sin but Chriſt alone.

Chriſt in the Truth of Nature was made like unto us in all things (Sin only excepted) from which he was clearly void, both in his Fleſh and in his Spirit. He came to be the Lamb without Spot, who by Sacrifice of himſelf made once for ever, ſhould take away the Sins of the World: And Sin (as St. John ſaith) was not in him. But the reſt (yea, altho' we be baptiz'd and born again in Chriſt) yet we offend in many things, and if we ſay, we have no Sin, we deceive our ſelves, and the Truth is not in us.

XV. Of Sin againſt the Holy Ghoſt.

Every deadly Sin willingly committed after Baptiſm, is not Sin againſt the Holy Ghoſt, and unpardonable: Wherefore the place for Penitents is not to be denied to ſuch as fall into Sin after Baptiſm. After we have receiv'd the Holy Ghoſt, we may depart from Grace given, and fall into Sin; and by the Grace of God, (we may) ariſe again, and amend our Lives. And therefore they are to be condemn'd, which ſay they can no more Sin as long as they live here, or deny the Place of Pennance *, to ſuch as truly repent and amend their Lives.

* The Place of Forgiveneſs.

XVI. Blaſphemy againſt the Holy Ghoſt.

All omitted.

Blaſphemy againſt the Holy Ghoſt, is when a Man of Malice and Stubborneſs of Mind doth rail upon the Truth of God's Word manifeſtly perceived, and being Enemy thereunto, perſecuteth that ſame; and becauſe ſuch be guilty of God's Curſe, they entangle themſelves with a moſt grievous and heinous Crime; whereupon this kind of Sin is called and affirmed, of the Lord, unpardonable.

XVII. Of Predeſtination and Election.

Predeſtination to Life is the everlaſting Purpoſe of God, whereby (before the Foundations of the World were laid) he hath conſtantly decreed by his own Judgment, ſecret from us, to deliver from Curſe and Damnation thoſe whom he hath choſen * out of Mankind, and to bring them to everlaſting Salvation by Chriſt, as Veſſels made to Honour: Whereupon ſuch as have ſo excellent a Benefit of God given unto them, be called according to God's Purpoſe by his Spirit working in due ſeaſon; they thro' Grace obey the Calling: they be juſtified freely: they be made Sons † by Adoption: they be made like the Image of God's only begotten Son Jeſus Chriſt: they walk religiouſly in good Works, and at length, by God's Mercy, they attain to everlaſting Felicity.

* In Chriſt.

* Sons of God.

As the godly Conſideration of Predeſtination and our Election in Chriſt is full of ſweet, pleaſant, and unſpeakable Comfort to godly Perſons, and ſuch as feel in themſelves the working of the Spirit of Chriſt, mortifying the Works of the Fleſh, and their earthly Members, and drawing up their Mind to high and heavenly things, as well becauſe it doth greatly eſtabliſh and confirm their Faith of eternal Salvation, to be enjoyed through Chriſt, as becauſe it doth fervently kindle their Love towards God: So for curious and carnal Perſons, lacking the Spirit of Chriſt, to have continually before their Eyes the Sentence of God's Predeſtination, is a moſt dangerous downfall, whereby the Devil may thruſt them either into Deſperation, or into Wretchleſneſs of moſt unclean Living, no leſs perilous than Deſperation.

Furthermore, altho' the Decrees of Predeſtination are unknown unto us, yet we muſt receive God's Promiſſes in ſuch wiſe as they be generally ſet forth to us in holy Scripture: And in our Doings that Will of God is to be followed, which we have expreſſly declared unto us in the Word of God.

XVIII. We muſt truſt to obtain eternal Salvation only by the Name of Chriſt.

They alſo are to be had accurſed and abhorred, that preſume to ſay, that every Man ſhall be ſaved by the Law or Sect which he profeſſeth, ſo that he be diligent to frame his Life according to that Law, and the Light of Nature. For holy Scripture doth ſet out unto us only the Name of Jeſus Chriſt whereby Men muſt be ſaved.

XIX. All Men are bound to keep the Moral Commandments of the Law.

The Law which was given of God by Moſes, although it bind not Chriſtian Men as concerning the Ceremonies and Rites of the ſame, neither is it required that the Civil Precepts and Orders of it ſhould, of neceſſity, be received in any Commonweal, yet no Man, be he never ſo perfect a Chriſtian, is exempt and looſe from the Obedience of thoſe Commandments which are called Moral: Wherefore they are not to be hearken'd to, who affirm that Holy Scripture is given only to the Weak, and do boaſt themſelves continually of the Spirit, of whom they ſay they have learned ſuch things as they teach, altho' the ſame be moſt eminently repugnant to the Holy Scripture.

XX. Of the Church.

The viſible Church of Chriſt, is a Congregation of faithful Men, in which the pure Word of God is preach'd, and the Sacraments be duly miniſtred according to Chriſt's Ordinance in all thoſe things that of Neceſſity are requiſite to the ſame.

As the Church of Jeruſalem, of Alexandria, and of Antioch, hath erred: ſo alſo the Church of Rome hath erred, not only in their Living, but alſo in Matters of Faith.

XXI. Of the Authority of the Church.

It is not lawful for the Church to ordain any thing that is contrary to God's Word written, neither may it ſo expound one place of Scripture, that it be repugnant to another. Wherefore altho' the Church be a Witneſs and Keeper of Holy Writ, yet as it ought not to decree any thing againſt the ſame, ſo beſide the ſame ought not to enforce any thing to be believed for Neceſſity of Salvation.

XXII. Of the Authority of General Councils.

General Councils may not be gathered together without the Commandment and Will of Princes. And when they be gathered (for as much as they be an Aſſembly of Men, whereof all be not governed with the Spirit and Word of God,) they may err, and ſometimes have erred, not only in worldly Matters, but alſo in things pertaining unto God. Wherefore things ordain'd by them as neceſſary to Salvation, have neither Strength nor Authority, unleſs it may be declared, that they be taken out of the Holy Scripture.

XXIII. Of Purgatory.

The Doctrine of School-Authors concerning Purgatory, Pardons, Worſhipping and Adoration, as well of Images as of Relicks, and alſo Invocation of Saints, is a fond thing, vainly feigned, and grounded upon no warrant of Scripture, but rather repugnant to the Word of God.

XXIV. No Man may miniſter in the Congregation except he be called.

It is not lawful for any Man to take upon him the Office of publick Preaching, or miniſtring the Sacraments in the Congregation, before he be lawfully called, and ſent to execute the ſame: And thoſe we ought to judge lawfully called and ſent, which be choſen and called to this Work by Men, who have publick Authority given unto them in the Congregation, to call and ſend Miniſters in the Lord's Vineyard.

XXV. Men muſt ſpeak in the Congregation in ſuch a Tongue as the People underſtandeth.

It is moſt ſeemly and moſt agreeable to the Word of God, that in the Congregation nothing be openly read, ſpoken in a Tongue unknown to the People; the which St. Paul did forbid, except ſome were preſent that ſhould declare the ſame.

XXVI. Of the Sacraments.

Our Lord Jeſus Chriſt hath knit together a Company of new People, with Sacraments moſt few in Number, moſt eaſie to be kept, moſt excellent in Signification, as is Baptiſm and the Lord's Supper.

The Sacraments were not ordain'd of Chriſt to be gaz'd upon, or to be carried about, but that we ſhould rightly uſe them. And in ſuch only as worthily receive the ſame, they have a wholeſome Effect and Operation, and yet not that of the Work wrought as ſome Men ſpeak; which Word as it is ſtrange and unknown to Holy Scripture, ſo it engendreth no godly, but a very ſuperſtitious Senſe; But they that receive the Sacraments unworthily, purchaſe to themſelves Damnation, as St. Paul ſaith.

Sacraments ordained by the Word of God, be not only Badges and Tokens of Chriſtian Mens Profeſſion: But rather they be certain ſure Witneſſes, and effectual Signs of Grace and God's good Will towards us, by the which he doth work inviſibly in us, and doth not only quicken, but alſo ſtrengthen and confirm our Faith in him.

XXVII. The Wickedneſs of the Miniſters doth not not take away the effectual Operation of God's Ordinances.

Altho' in the viſible Church the Evil be ever mingled with the Good, and ſometime the Evil have chief Authoritie in the Miniſtration of the Word and Sacraments: Yet foraſmuch as they do not the ſame in their own Name, but do miniſter by Chriſt's Commiſſion and Authoritie, we may uſe their Miniſtry, both in hearing the Word of God, and in the receiving the Sacraments. Neither is the Effect of God's Ordinances taken away by their Wickedneſs, nor the Grace of God's Gifts diminiſhed from ſuch, as by Faith rightly receive the Sacraments miniſtred unto them, which be effectual, becauſe of Chriſt's Inſtitution and Promiſe, altho' they be miniſtred by evil Men.

Nevertheleſs, it appertaineth to the Diſcipline of the Church, that Enquiry be made of [*]ſuch, and that they be accuſed by thoſe that have Knowledge of their Offences, and finally being found guilty by juſt Judgment be depoſed.

XXVIII. Of Baptiſm.

Baptiſm is not only a ſign of Profeſſion, and mark of Difference, whereby Chriſtian Men are diſcerned from others that be not Chriſtned: But it is alſo a ſign and ſeal of our new Birth, whereby, as by an Inſtrument, they that receive Baptiſm rightly are grafted into the Church: The promiſes of forgiveneſs of Sin, and of our Adoption to be the Sons of God, are viſibly ſign'd and ſeal'd, Faith is confirmed, and Grace increaſed by vertue of Prayer unto God. The cuſtom of the Church to Chriſten young Children, is to be commended, and in any wiſe to be retained in the Church.

XXIX. Of the Lord's Supper.

The Supper of the Lord is not only a ſign of the love that Chriſtians ought to have among themſelves one to another; but rather it is a Sacrament of our Redemption by Chriſt's death. Inſomuch that to ſuch as rightly, worthily, and with Faith, receive the ſame, the Bread which we break is a Communion of the Body of Chriſt; likewiſe the Cup of Bleſſing is a Communion of the Bloud of Chriſt.

Tranſubſtantiation, or the change of the Subſtance of Bread and Wine into the Subſtance of Chriſt's Body and Blood, cannot be proved by holy Writ: But it is repugnant to the plain Words of Scripture, and hath given occaſion to many Superſtitions.

Foraſmuch as the truth of Man's Nature requireth, that the Body of one and the ſelf ſame Man, cannot be at one time in divers places, but muſt needs be in ſome one certain place; therefore the Body of Chriſt cannot be preſent at one time, in many and divers places: And becauſe, as holy Scripture doth teach, Chriſt was taken up into Heaven, and there ſhall continue unto the end of the World; a faithful Man ought not either to believe, or openly confeſs the real and bodily Preſence, as they term it, of Chriſt's Fleſh and Blood in the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was not commanded by Chriſt's Ordinance to be kept, carried about, lifted up, nor worſhipped.

XXX. Of the perfect Oblation of Chriſt made upon the Croſs.

The Offering of Chriſt made once for ever, is the perfect Redemption, the pacifying of God's Diſpleaſure, and ſatisfaction for all the Sins of the whole World, both Original and Actual, and there is none other Satisfaction for Sin, but that alone. Wherefore the Sacrifices of Maſſes, in the which it was commonly ſaid, that the Prieſt did offer Chriſt for the Quick and the Dead, to have Remiſſion of Pain or Sin, were * forged Fables, and dangerous Deceits.

XXXI. The State of ſingle Life is commanded to no Man by the Word of God.

Biſhops, Prieſts and Deacons are not commanded to vow the State of ſingle Life, without Marriage, neither by God's Law are they compelled to abſtain from Matrimony.

Therefore 'tis lawful for them, as for all other Chriſtian Men, to marry at their own Diſcretion, as they ſhall judge the ſame to ſerve better for Godlineſs.

XXXII. Excommunicate Perſons are to be avoided.

That Perſon which by open Denunciation of the Church is rightly cut off from the unity of the Church, and excommunicate, ought to be taken, of the whole multitude of the Faithful, as an Heathen and Publican, until he be openly reconciled by Penance, and received into the Church by a Judge that hath Authority thereto.

XXXIII. Traditions of the Church.

It is not neceſſary that Traditions and Ceremonies be in all Places one, or utterly like, for at all times they have been divers, and may be changed according to the diverſity of Countries, and Mens Manners, ſo that nothing be Ordained againſt God's Word. Whoſoever through his private Judgment willingly and purpoſely doth openly break the Traditions and Ceremonies of the Church, which be not repugnant to the Word of God, and be ordained and approved by common Authority, ought to be rebuked openly (that others may fear to do the like) as one that offendeth againſt the common Order of the Church, and hurteth the Authority of the Magiſtrate, and woundeth the Conſciences of weak Brethren.

XXXIV. Of Homilies.

The Homilies of late given and ſet out by the King's Authority, be godly and wholſom, containing Doctrine to be received of all Men, and therefore are to be read to the People diligently, diſtinctly and plainly. *

The ſecond Book of Homilies, the ſeveral Titles whereof we have join'd under the Article, doth contain a godly and wholſom Doctrine neceſſary for theſe Times, as doth the former Book of Homilies, which were ſet forth in the time of* Edward VI. and therefore we judge them to be read in Churches, by the Miniſters, diligently and diſtinctly, that they may be underſtanded of the People,

1. Of the right Uſe of the Church.
2. Againſt peril of Idolatry.
3. Of repairing and keep-clean of Churches.
4. Of good Works, firſt of Faſting.
5. Againſt Gluttony and Drunkenneſs.
6. Againſt exceſs of Apparel.
7. Of Prayer.
8. Of the place and time of Prayer.
9. That Common Prayer and Sacraments ought to be miniſtred in a known Tongue.
10. Of the reverend Eſtimation of God's Word.
11. Of Alms doing.
12. Of the Nativity of Chriſt.
13. Of the Paſſion of Chriſt.
14. Of the Reſurrection of Chriſt.
15. Of the worthy receiving of the Sacrament of the Body and Blood of Chriſt.
16. Of the Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt.
17. For the Rogation Days.
18. Of the State of Matrimony.
19. Of Repentance.
20. Againſt Idleneſs.

XXXV. Of the Book of Prayers and Ceremonies of the Church of England.

The Book which of very late time was given to the Church of England, by the King's Authority and the Parliament, containing the Manner and Form of praying and miniſtring the Sacraments in the Church of England: Likewiſe alſo the Book of ordering Miniſters of the Church, ſet forth by the aforeſaid Authority, are godly, and in no Point repugnant to the wholeſom Doctrine of the Goſpel, but agreeable thereunto, furthering and beautifying the ſame not a little: And therefore, of all faithful Members of the Church of England, and chiefly of the Miniſters of the Word, they ought to be received and allowed with all readineſs of Mind and Thankſgiving, and to be commended to the People of God.

XXXVI. Of Civil Magiſtrates.

The King of England is ſupreme Head in Earth, next under Chriſt, of the Church of England and Ireland.

The Biſhop of Rome hath no Juriſdiction in this Realm of England.

The Civil Magiſtrate is ordained and allowed of God, wherefore we muſt obey him, not only for fear of Puniſhment, but alſo for Conſcience ſake.

The Civil Laws may puniſh Chriſtian Men with Death for heinous and grievous Offences.

It is lawful for Chriſtians at the Commandment of the Magiſtrate, to wear Weapons, and ſerve in lawful Wars.

XXXVII. Chriſtian Mens Goods are not common.

The Riches and Goods of Chriſtians are not common, as touching the Right, Title and Poſſeſſion of the ſame, as certain Anabaptiſts do falſely boaſt. Notwithſtanding every Man ought, of ſuch things as he poſſeſſeth, liberally to give Alms to the Poor according to his Ability.

XXXVIII. Chriſtian Men may take an Oath.

As we confeſs, that vain and raſh Swearing is forbidden Chriſtian Men, by our Lord Jeſu Chriſt, and his Apoſtle James; ſo we judge that Chriſtian Religion doth not prohibit, but that a Man may ſwear when the Magiſtrate requireth, in a Cauſe of Faith and Charity, ſo it be done according to the Prophet's teaching, in Juſtice, Judgment and Truth.

XXXIX. The Reſurrection of the Dead is not yet brought to paſs.

The Reſurrection of the Dead is not as yet brought to paſs, as though it only belonged to the Soul, which by the Grace of Chriſt is called from the death of Sin, but it is to be look'd for at the laſt Day. For then (as Scripture doth moſt manifeſtly teſtifie) to all that be dead, their own Bodies, Fleſh and Bone ſhall be reſtored, that the whole Man may, according to his Works, have either Reward or Puniſhment, as he hath lived virtuouſly or wickedly.

XL. The Souls of them that depart this Life, do neither die with the Bodies, nor ſleep idlely.

They which ſay, that the Souls of ſuch as depart hence do ſleep, being without all ſence, feeling, or perceiving until the Day of Judgment; or affirm, that the Souls die with the Bodies, and at the laſt Day ſhall be raiſed up with the ſame, do utterly diſſent from the right Belief, declared to us in the holy Scripture.

XLI. Hereticks called Millenarii.

They that go about to renew the Fable of the Hereticks called Millenarii, be repugnant to holy Scripture, and caſt themſelves headlong into a Jewiſh dotage.

XLII. All Men ſhall not be ſaved at the length.

They alſo are worthy of Condemnation, who endeavour, at this time, to reſtore the dangerous Opinion, that all Men, be they never ſo ungodly, ſhall at length be ſaved, when they have ſuffer'd Pains for their Sins, a certain time appointed by God's Juſtice.

The End of the Articles.

Imprinted by John Day, 1553.

The Articles of 1552 alter'd by Additions or Omiſſions by the Convocation, in 1562. Sparrow's Collection, &c.

More Differences of the Articles paſs'd in 1552, from thoſe afterwards agreed in both Houſes of Convocation, in 1562, with reſpect to the Additions, or Omiſſions.

The Numbers refer to the Articles made in the Reign of King Edward VI.

V. The Doctrine of the holy Scripture is ſufficient to Salvation.

Omitted.

---- So that whatſoever is not read therein, nor may be proved thereby, altho' ſometimes it may be admitted by God's faithful People as pious, and conducing unto Order and Decency. (Theſe Words in a different Character are left out.)

Added.

In the Name of the holy Scripture we do underſtand thoſe Canonical Books of the old and new Teſtament, of whoſe Authority was never any doubt in the Church; that is to ſay, Geneſis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, Deuteronomy, Joſhua, Judges, Ruth, 1ſt of Samuel, 2d of Samuel; the 1ſt Book of Kings, the 2d Book of Kings; the 1ſt Book of Chronicles, the 2d Book of Chronicles; the 1ſt Book of Eſdras, the 2d Book of Eſdras; the Book of Heſter; the Book of Job; the Pſalms, the Proverbs, Eccleſiaſtes or Preacher; Canticles or Songs of Solomon; four Prophets the greater, twelve Prophets the leſs. And the other Books (as Hierom ſaith) the Church doth read for Example of Life, and Inſtruction of Manners, but yet doth not apply them to eſtabliſh any Doctrine; ſuch are theſe following, the 3d of Eſdras, the 4th of Eſdras, the Book of Tobias, the Book of Judith; the reſt of the Book of Heſter, the Book of Wiſdom, Jeſus the Son of Syrach, Baruch the Prophet; the Song of the 3 Children; the Story of Suſannah; of Bell and the Dragon; the Prayer of Manaſſes; the firſt Book of Maccabees, the ſecond Book of Maccabees. All the Books of the New Teſtament, as they are commonly received, we do receive and account them Canonical.

VI. The old Teſtament is not to be refuſed.

Added.

Altho' the Law given from God by Moſes, as touching Ceremonies and Rites, do not bind Chriſtian Men, nor the Civil Precepts thereof ought of neceſſity to be received in any Commonwealth; yet notwithſtanding no Chriſtian Man whatſoever is free from the Obedience of the Commandments which are called Moral.

VII. The three Creeds.

VIII. Of Original Sin.

Omitted.

And as at this Day is affirmed by ſome Anabaptiſts.

IX. Of free Will.

Added.

The Condition of Man, after the fall of Adam is ſuch, that he cannot turn and prepare himſelf by his own natural Strength and good Works to Faith, and calling upon God.

X. Of Grace.

Omitted.

XI. Of the Juſtification of Man.

Added.

We are accounted righteous before God, only for the Merits of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt by Faith, and not for our own Works and Deſerving.

Of good Works.

Added.

Albeit, that good Works which are the Fruits of Faith, and follow after Juſtification, cannot put away our Sins, and endure the ſeverity of God's Judgment, yet are they pleaſing and acceptable to God in Chriſt, and do ſpring out neceſſarily of a true and lively Faith, inſomuch that by them a lively Faith may be as evidently known, as a Tree diſcern'd by the Fruit.

XXI. Of the Authority of the Church.

Added.

The Church has Power to decree Rites or Ceremonies, and Authority in Controverſies of Faith.

XXV. All things to be done in the Congregation in ſuch a Tongue as is underſtood by the People.

Alter'd and added.

It is a thing plainly repugnant to the Word of God, and the Cuſtom of the primitive Church, to have publick Prayers in the Church, or to miniſter the Sacrament in a Tongue not underſtanded by the People.

XXVI. Of the Sacraments.

Added.

There are two Sacraments ordained of Chriſt our Lord in the Goſpel, that is to ſay, Baptiſm, and the Supper of the Lord. Thoſe five, commonly called Sacraments, that is to ſay, Confirmation, Penance, Orders, Matrimony and extreme Unction, are not to be accounted for Sacraments of the Goſpel; being ſuch as are grown partly of the corrupt following of the Apoſtles, partly are ſtates of Life allowed in the Scriptures, but yet have not like nature of Sacraments, with Baptiſm and the Lord's Supper; for that they have not any viſible Sign or Ceremony ordained of God.

Alter'd and omitted.

---- And in ſuch only as worthily receive them, they have an wholſom Effect or Operation.

XXVIII. Of Baptiſm.

Added.

The Baptiſm of young Children is in any wiſe to be retained in the Church, as moſt agreeable to the Inſtitution of Chriſt.

XXIX. Of the Lord's Supper.

Tranſubſtantiation overthrows the nature of the Sacrament, &c.

Added.

The Body of Chriſt is given, taken, and eaten in the Supper only after a heavenly and ſpiritual Manner: And the Mean whereby the Body of Chriſt is received and eaten in the Supper, is Faith.

Foraſmuch as the truth of Man's Nature requires, &c. to the end of the Paragraph is left out in the 28th Article of 1562.

The two following Articles are not amongſt thoſe publiſhed in the Reign of King Edward, but make the nine and twentieth and thirtieth, afterward paſs'd in the Year 1562. The Title of the nine and twentieth ſtands thus;

Of the Wicked which eat not the Body of Chriſt in the Lord's Supper.

"The Wicked, and ſuch as be void of a lively
"Faith, altho' they do carnally and viſibly preſs
"with their Teeth (as St. Auguſtine ſaith) the "Sacrament of the Body and Blood of Chriſt;
"yet in no wiſe are they Partakers of Chriſt,
"but rather to their Condemnation, do eat and "drink the Sign or Sacrament of ſo great a "thing.

The Title of the thirtieth is,

Of both Kinds.

“ The Cup of the Lord is not to be denied
“ to Lay People; for both Parts of the Lord's “ Sacrament, by Chriſt's Ordinance and Com“ mandment, ought to be miniſtred to all Chri-“ ſtian Men alike.

XXXIII. Of the Tradition of the Church.

Added. Every particular or national Church has Authority to ordain, change and aboliſh Ceremonies or Rites of the Church, ordain'd only by Mens Authority, ſo that all things be done to edifying.

XXXV. Of the Book of Prayers and Ceremonies of the Church of England.

Alter'd and added. The Book of Conſecration of Archbiſhops and Biſhops, and ordering Prieſts and Deacons, lately ſet forth in the time of King Edward VI. and confirmed at the ſame time by Authority of Parliament, doth contain all things neceſſary to ſuch Conſecration and Ordering. Neither hath it any thing that of it ſelf is Superſtitious and Ungodly: And therefore whoſoever are conſecrated or ordered, according to the Rites of that Book, ſince the ſecond Year of the afore-named King Edward, unto this time, or hereafter ſhall be conſecrated or ordered according to the ſame Rites, we decree all ſuch to be rightly, orderly, and lawfully conſecrated and ordered.

XXXVI. Of the Civil Magiſtrate.

The Queen's Majeſty hath the chief Power in this Realm of England, and other her Dominions, unto whom the chief Government of all Eſtates of this Realm, whether they be Eccleſiaſtical or Civil, in all Cauſes, does appertain, and is not, nor ought to be ſubject to any foreign Juriſdiction.

Added. Where we attribute to the Queen's Majeſty the chief Government, by which Titles we underſtand the Minds of ſome dangerous Folks to be offended; we give not our Princes the miniſtring either of God's Word or the Sacraments, the which thing the Injunctions alſo ſet forth by Elizabeth our Queen, do moſt plainly teſtifie: But that only Prerogative which we ſee to have been given always to all godly Princes, in holy Scriptures, by God himſelf. That is, that they ſhould rule all Eſtates and Degrees committed to their Charge by God, whether they be Eccleſiaſtical or Temporal, and reſtrain with the civil Sword, the ſtubborn and evil Doers.

The XXXIX, XL, XLI, and XLIId Articles, are all omitted in the Articles paſs'd in Convocation, A. D. 1562.

Num. LXVII.

An Account of ſome of the Alienations of Church-Lands in the Reign of King Henry the VIIIth, and King Edward the VIth, not mentioned in the Hiſtory.

Alienations of Church Lands from the See of Canterbury in the Reign of King Henry the VIII*th.*

Decemb. 1ſt. 29 H. 8. Stripe's Memorials of Archbiſhop Cranmer, from Philpot and Kilbern, pag. 281, & 2.

I. THE Mannor and Palace of Maidſtone, which, as Leland obſerves, was formerly a Caſtle. II. The Mannor and Palace of Charing. III. Wingham. IV. Wingham Barton in the Pariſh of Alresford, demis'd at the King's Inſtance, to Sir Edward Bainton for ninety nine Years. V. Wrottham. VI. Saltwood, which was formerly a Caſtle. 'Twas called an Honour, and had a great many Mannors held of it by Knight Service. VII. Tenham. VIII. Bexly. IX. Aldington, where the Archbiſhop had a Seat, with a Park and Chace belonging to it. X. The noble Mannor and Palace of Otford, where Warham expended more than thirty thouſand Pounds in Buildings. XI. Knoll, near Sevenock, a Seat not much inferiour to that laſt mention'd; to which we may add the Mannors, of Cliff, and Malinden, Pynner, Heyes, Harrow, Mortlack, &c. Theſe Mannors, excepting Wingham Barton, were all convey'd to the King, for which the Archbiſhop had a very ſlender Conſideration in exchange.

Alienations of Church-Lands in the Reign of King Edward the VI.

The learned Harmer ſpeaking of Veſey Biſhop of Exeter, obſerves, that he alienated no Poſſeſſions of his See but upon expreſs Command of the King, directed unto him under the Privy Seal in favour of certain Noble Men and Courtiers. All the Biſhops, as this Author continues, at this time were ſubjected to a like Calamity. Even Cranmer was forc'd to part with the better half of the Poſſeſſions of his See: And Ridley, ſoon after his Entry into London, was forc'd to give away four of the beſt Mannours of his See in one Day. Theſe two were the greateſt Favourites amongſt all the Biſhops of that Reign. Others were yet more ſeverely dealt with. The common Pretence was to exchange ſome Lands of their Biſhopricks, with other of religious Houſes remaining in the King's Hands ſince their Suppreſſion. Even then it was ſuch an Exchange as Glaucus made with Diomedes. Harmer's Specimen of ſome Errors and Defects in the Hiſtory of the Reformation, p. 100.

An Accouut of Church-Lands alienated in the Reign of King Edward the VIth. extracted from the Regiſter of Thomas Gooderick Biſhop of Ely, and Lord Chancellour. Ex Biblioth. R. Harley, Armig:

A Patent granted for exchange of Lands per Bill. Dom: Regis to the right reverend Father in God, William, Lord Biſhop of Bath and Wells, viz. The Biſhop was to part with the chief Manſion Houſe of the Deanery of Wells, with all the Lands within the Precinct of the ſame. And alſo the Mannour of Weſtaker with the right of the Patronage of the Parſonage of Weſtaker abovesaid: And the Burrough of Wellington and Staeckſy in the ſame County of Somerſet, and the Demeſne Lands of Wellington, extending to the yearly Value of ſixty Pounds two Shilling and ſix Pence: And alſo of the Park of Wedmore: And for one Annuity of ſixteen Pounds coming yearly of the Mannor of Glaſſenbury in the ſame County.

For the parting with theſe Lands, &c. the Biſhop was only to have ſome Lands which had been lately taken from his See, and granted to the Lord Admiral Seymour, and now by his Attainder return'd to the Crown. This Exchange was made Auguſt the 1ſt, 1552.

Nov. 1. 1552. A Patent granted to licenſe the Lord Biſhop of Carliſle to ſell to the Lord Clinton, Lord Admiral of England, Socam ſive Dominium ſuum de Horn-caſtle cum omnibus pertinentiis in Com. Lincoln, in Villis, Campis, ſive Parochiis de Horn-caſtle, Overcompton, Nethercompton, Aſhby, Maring, Wilesby, Haltham, Conisby, Boughton, Fimbleby, Moreby, Meckham, & Innerby in Com. prædict: to have the ſame to him and his Heirs tenend. de Domino Rege, &c. There was likewiſe a Licenſe granted to the Dean and Chapter to confirm the ſaid Conveyance. And for all theſe Lordſhips the

Pur-

Purchaſer was only to pay the yearly Rent of twenty eight Pounds to the Biſhop.

Jan. 9. 1552. A Patent granted to Sir Henry Nevil, Knight, of the Prebend of South-cave in the County of York, with ſome Advowſons.

Mar.28.1553. The Biſhoprick of Hereford given to John Harley, Doctor in Divinity, with all the Lordſhips and Mannors belonging to the ſame, excepting the Manſion call'd the Biſhop of Hereford's Place, lying in Old Fiſhſtreet, with the Garden and Houſes belonging to the ſame.

March 1553. A Purchaſe made by Simon Steward of Lackingheath in the County of Suffolk, Gentleman, of the Lordſhip and Mannor of Thorney, with the Grains of Thorney within the Iſle of Ely, ſometime parcel of the Monaſtery of Ely.

Jun.29.1553. A Gift made unto John Earl of Bedford, and Edmund Downing Gentleman, of the Mannors of Boyden, and Barton, and Bradbridge, with the Appurtenances in the County of Cornwall, and of the Mannor of Stoke and Bradley, late parcel of the Biſhoprick of Worceſter.

April 1553. A Licenſe granted by Privy Seal to Mr. Hobbey, to infeoffe the Lord Biſhop of Worceſter and Mr. Blunt of the Privy Chamber, in the Abbey of Eveſham, and divers other Mannors in the County of Glouceſter, to the intent to make an Eſtate to him again, and to his Heirs Male.

Apr.16.1553. A Purchaſe made by William Dunch and Mary his Wife, of the Mannor and Lordſhip of Wokey, with the Appurtenances in the County of Somerſet, late parcel of the Biſhoprick of the Bath and Wells, lately in the Hands of Edward Duke of Somerſet, cum Nativis & Villanis, &c.

May 2.1553. A Purchaſe made by Richard Crammond and Roger Prideaux of all the Mannor of Billingtons, Pinchpoles, and Eleenam Croſs, late parcel of the Poſſeſſion of the Cathedral Church of Weſtminſter, in the County of Middleſex.

Sept.18.1551. Council Book. Ex Biblioth. R. Harley Armig. Memorandum, That upon the eighteenth of September, the 5th Year of the Reign of our Sovereign King Edward the VI. Sir Richard Read Knight, one of the Maſters of the Chancery, brought from Wincheſter, from the Biſhop, Dean, and Chapter, a Deed of Feoffment quadripartite indented, made to his Majeſty, his Heirs, and Aſſigns, of the Mannors of Marden, Twiford, Marwell, Waltham, Drokinsfield, Brenſted and Bithern, the Hundred of Waltham, and the Chaſe nigh the Forreſt of Beir, in the Counties of Southampton and Surrey: And alſo the Mannors of Sutton, Ropely, Hedley, and the Borough of Alsfoord, the Hundred of Sutton in the Counties of Southampton and Surrey, together with twenty nine Mannors more, and ſome Burroughs and Hundreds. To proceed to the Words of the Council.

Theſe Deeds were agreed to be order'd as follows, viz. That one Counterpane thereof ſhould be deliver'd to the Chancellour of the Augmentation Court, to remain among the Records of the ſame Court, as the King's Majeſties Evidences for the Lands aforeſaid. And the other three Counterpanes to be deliver'd, the one to Sir John Gates, his Majeſties Vice Chamberlain, the other to Sir Philip Hobby Knight, one of his Majeſties Privy Council; and the third to Sir Andrew Dudley Knight, one of his Majeſties Privy Chamber, to whom the King's Majeſty hath granted ſeverally ſome of the ſaid Lands.

Before this Surrender, the Dean of Wincheſter had been committed to the Marſhalſee, I ſuppoſe to make him manageable.

Apr.12.1553. Council Book. A Letter to the Chancellor of the Augmentations, to cauſe a Book to be made from the Biſhop of Worceſter and Gloceſter, of a Surrender to the King's Majeſty of his Juriſdiction in the Forreſt of Dean, with a certain Deanery which belongs of right to the Biſhoprick of Hereford. And thereupon to make another Book of the Grant thereof from his Highneſs to Mr. Harley elect Biſhop of Hereford.

Num. LXVIII.

Aug. 18. A.D. 1553. THE Queen's Highneſſe well remembring what great Inconvenience and Dangers have grown to this her Realm in times paſt, thro' the Diverſities of Opinions in Queſtions of Religion; And hearing alſo that now of late, ſithence the beginning of her moſt gracious Reign, the ſame Contentions be again much revived, through certain falſe and untrue Reports, and Rumours ſpread by ſome evil diſpos'd Perſons: Hath thought good to give to underſtand to all her Highneſſes moſt loving Subjects, her moſt gracious Pleaſure in manner following,

Firſt, Her Majeſty being preſently, by the only Goodneſs of God, ſetled in her juſt Poſſeſſion of the Imperial Crown of this Realm, and other Dominions thereunto belonging, cannot now hide that Religion, which God and the World knoweth ſhe hath ever profeſs'd from her Infancy hitherto. Which as her Majeſty is minded to obſerve and maintain for her ſelf by God's Grace, during her Time; ſo doth her Highneſs much deſire, and would be glad the ſame were of all her Subjects quietly and charitably entertain'd.

And yet ſhe doth ſignifie unto all her Majeſty's loving Subjects, that of her moſt gracious Diſpoſition and Clemeney, her Highneſs mindeth not to compel any her ſaid Subjects thereunto, untill ſuch time as further Order by common Aſſent may may be taken therein: Forbidding never the leſs all her Subjects, of all Degrees, at their Perils, to move Seditions, or ſtir Unquietneſs in her People, by interpreting the Laws of this Realm, after their Brains and Fantaſies, but quietly to continue for the time, till (as before is ſaid) further Order may be taken, and therefore willeth, and ſtreightly chargeth and commandeth, all her good loving Subjects, to live together in quiet ſort, and Chriſtian Charity, leaving thoſe new found diveliſh Terms, of Papiſt, and Heretick, and ſuch like; and applying their whole Care, Study and Travail, to live in the fear of God, exerciſing their Converſations in ſuch charitable and godly doing, as their Lives may indeed expreſs the great Hunger and Thirſt of God's Glory, which by raſh Talk and Words, many have pretended: And in ſo doing, they ſhall beſt pleaſe God, and live without danger of the Laws, and maintain the Tranquillity of the Realm. Whereof as her Highneſs ſhall be moſt glad, ſo if any Man ſhall raſhly preſume to make any Aſſemblies of People, or at any publick Aſſemblies, or otherwiſe, ſhall go about to ſtir the People to Diſorder or Diſquiet, ſhe mindeth according to her Duty, to ſee the ſame moſt ſeverely reformed and puniſh'd according to her Highneſſes Laws.

And furthermore, foraſmuch as it is well known, that Sedition and falſe Rumours have been nouriſh'd and maintain'd in this Realm, by the Subtilty and Malice of ſome evil diſpos'd Perſons, which take upon them without ſufficient Authority, to preach and to interpret the Word of God, after their own Brains, in Churches, and other Places, both publick and private, and alſo by playing of Interludes, and printing of falſe fond Books, and Ballads, Rimes, and other lewd Treatiſes in the Engliſh Tongue, containing Doctrine in Matters now in queſtion, and Controverſies touching the high Points and Myſteries in Chriſtian Religion; which Books, Ballads, Rimes, and Treatiſes, are chiefly by the Printers and Stationers ſet out to ſale to her Graces Subjects, of an evil Zeal for Lucre and Covetouſneſs of vile Gain; her Highneſs therefore ſtreightly chargeth and commandeth all and every of her ſaid Subjects, of whatſoever State, Condition or Degree they be, that none of them preſume from henceforth, to preach, or by way of Reading in Churches, or other publick or private Places, except in Schools of the Univerſity, to interpret or teach any Scriptures, or any manner of Points of Doctrine concerning Religion. Neither alſo to print any Book, Matter, Ballad, Rime, Interlude, Proceſs or Treatiſe, nor to play any Interlude, except they have her Graces ſpecial Licenſe in writing for the ſame, upon pain to incurr her Highneſs Indignation and Diſpleaſure.

Ex MSS. Penes me.

Dominus & Servator noſter Jeſus Chriſtus in Sancta Paraſceve noſtra cauſa obiturus ut nos a morte redimeret æterna, condonaret omnia delicta, ac Chirographum quod contra nos erat, deleret, nè mortis ſuæ ingrati unquam obliviſceremur, perpetuam illius memoriam apud Chriſtianos in Pane & Vino celebrandam pridie Paſſionis in ſacratiſſima ſua inſtituebat Cœna, juxta illud, hoc facite in mei memoriam, & quotieſcunque manducabitis Panem hunc, & Calicem bibetis, mortem Domini annunciabitis donec veniat. Atque hanc Paſſionis ſuæ, id eſt, cæſi Corporis & fuſi Sanguinis in Pane & Vino Memoriam ſive Sacramentum omnes Chriſtianos juſſit ſumere, juxta illud, accipite, & manducate, & bibite ex hoc omnes. Quicunque igitur propter Traditionem humanam Laicis Sanguinis Poculum denegant, palàm Chriſto repugnant, prohibentes fieri quod Chriſtus fieri juſſit, & ſimiles ſunt Scribis illis ac Phariſæis, de quibus Dominus dicebat. Irritum feciſtis mandatum Dei propter Traditionem veſtram. Hypocritæ benè prophetavit de nobis Eſaias, dicens, populus hic Labiis me honorat, Cor autem eorum longe eſt à me. Sine cauſa autem colunt me docentes doctrinas mandata hominum. Panis ille Sacramentalis ſeu Myſticus fractus & diſtributus juxta Chriſti Inſtitutionem, & Vinum myſticum eodem modo hauſtum & acceptum, non tantum Sacramenta ſunt vulneratæ pro nobis Carnis Chriſti, & fuſi cruoris, ſed certiſſima ſunt nobis Sacramenta, & quaſi Signacula divinarum Promiſſionum, ac Donorum: Ut Communionis noſtræ cum Chriſto ac omnibus Membris ejus, cœleſtis Nutritionis, qua alimur ad vitam æternam, æſtuantiſque Conſcientiæ Sitis reſtinguitur; ineffabilis lætitiæ, qua Fidelium Corda perfunduntur, & ad omnia Pietatis Officia roborantur. Unus Panis, inquit Paulus, & unum Corpus multi ſumus omnes qui de uno Pane & de uno Calice participamus. Et manducate, inquit Chriſtus, hoc eſt Corpus meum, bibite, hic eſt Sanguis meus. Et ego ſum Panis vivus, qui de Cœlo deſcendi; qui manducat me, & ipſe vivet propter me: Manent igitur in Euchariſtiâ, donec a fidelibus conſumantur, verus Panis verumque Vinum: Ut quaſi Signacula Divinis Promiſſionibus affixa, divinorum Donorum nos efficiant certiores. Manet & Chriſtus in illis, & illi in Chriſto, qui illius Carnem edunt, & Sanguinem bibunt, ſicut Chriſtus promiſit. Qui manducat meam Carnem, & bibit meum Sanguinem in me manet, & ego in eo. Manet denique & Chriſtus in illis, qui dignè externum Sacramentum ſuſcipiunt & non diſcedit ſtatim conſumpto Sacramento, ſed continuo manet nos paſcens & nutriens, quamdiu nos illius Capitis Corpora manemus & Membra. Nullum agnoſco Corpus naturale Chriſti, quod ſolum ſpirituale ſit, intellectuale & inſenſibile, quod nullis Membris aut Partibus ſit diſtinctum: Sed illud tantum Corpus agnoſco ac veneror quod ex Virgine natum eſt, quod pro nobis paſſum eſt, quod viſibile, palpabile, ac omnibus humani ac organici Corporis formis ac partibus abſolutum eſt. Chriſtus non de ſubſtantiâ aliquâ incertâ, ſed de ſubſtantiâ certâ Panis, quem & Manibus tenebat, & Diſcipulorum Oculis demonſtrabat, dixit, comedite, hoc eſt Corpus meum; & ſimiliter de vero Vino dixit, hic eſt Sanguis meus. Nimirum de Pane qui eſt creatura hujus conditionis, quæ eſt ſecundum nos, qui ex Fructibus Terræ acceptus eſt, de multorum granorum adunitione congeſtus, qui ab hominibus fit, & per manus hominum ad illam viſibilem ſpeciem perducitur, qui rotundæ eſt figuræ, ſenſuſque omnis expers, qui Corpus nutrit, & confortat Cor Hominis, de tali inquam Pane, non de ſubſtantia incerta, & vaga, aiunt Veteres Chriſtum dixiſſe, comedite, hoc eſt Corpus meum; perindè ac de Vino quod eſt Creatura vitis, Fructus vitis, de botris atque acinis plurimis expreſſa, & lætificat Cor Hominis, dicebat Chriſtus bibite, hic eſt Sanguis meus. Adeoque Chriſti Locutionem vocant veteres figuratam, Tropicam, Anagogicam, Allegoricam, quod ita interpretati ſunt, ut quamvis Panis Vinique ſubſtantia maneat, & a Fidelibus ſumatur, Chriſtus tamen ideo appellationem mutavit, & Panem quidem Carnis, Vinum vero Sanguinis nomine appellavit, non rei veritate, ſed ſignificante Myſterio, ut non quid ſint, ſed quæ oſtendant conſideraremus, non carnalitèr, ſed ſpiritualitèr Sacramenta intelligeremus, non ad viſibilem Sacramentorum naturam attenderemus, non humilitèr ad Panem & Poculum intenti eſſemus, non putaremus nos nihil quam quod Oculis objicitur Panem & Vinum videre, ſed exaltatis Mentibus Chriſti Corpus & Sanguinem aſpiceremus fide, mente contingeremus, atque interiore homine hauriremus, ut Aquilæ in hâc vitâ facti ad ipſum Cœlum ſurſum Cordibus evolemus, ubi ad dexteram Patris reſidet Agnus ille qui tollit peccata Mundi, cujus Livore ſanamur, cujus Paſſione in hâc Menſâ ſatiamur, cujus Sanguinem è divino illius latere haurientes æternum vivimus, Chriſtique hoſpites effecti ipſum in nobis veræ Naturæ gratia virtuteque, ac totius Paſſionis efficacia, habitantem habemus: Nec minus certi efficimur Chriſti Carne crucifixa, & fuſo Cruore, neceſſario animarum pabulo nos ſpiritualiter paſci ad vitam æternam quam cibo & potu in hâc vitâ corpora paſcuntur. Atque hujus rei μνημόσυνον, Pignus, Symbolum, Sacramentum, Signaculum nobis ſunt myſticus in Chriſti Menſâ Panis, myſticumque Vinum, juxta Chriſti Inſtitutionem adminiſtrata & accepta. Hinc eſt quod Chriſtus non dixit, hoc eſt Corpus meum, edite; ſed ubi juſſiſſet edere, poſtea addidit, Hoc eſt Corpus meum, quod pro vobis tradetur. Quod perinde eſt, ac ſi dixiſſet, in edendo hoc pane, conſiderate illum non communem eſſe, ſed myſticum; non aſpicite quod corporeis Oculis veſtris proponitur, ſed quid intus vos paſcat. Conſiderate Corpus meum pro vobis Cruci affixum. Hoc animis veſtris devorate, ſatiemini morte mea. Hic verus eſt cibus, hic inebrians potus, quo verè ſaturati & inebriati æternum vivetis. Quæ ab Oculo vobis proponuntur Panis & Vinum mei duntaxat Symbola ſunt, ego vero ipſe æternus paſtus ſum. Proinde cum in menſâ meâ Sacramenta aſpicietis, non tam ad illa reſpicite, quam quid per ea vobis pollicear, nempè me ipſum pabulum vitæ æternæ.

De Quæſtione ultima.

Chriſti unica Oblatio, quâ ſeipſum Deo Patri obtulit, in mortem ſemel in Ara Crucis pro noſtra Redemptione, tantæ fuit efficaciæ, ut nullo alio Sacrificio opus ſit, pro totius Mundi Redemptione. Sed omnia veteris Legis Sacrificia ſuſtulit, id re verâ præſtans, quod illa figurabant & promittebant. Quiſquis igitur ſalutis ſuæ ſpem in ullo alio conſtituerit Sacrificio, is à Chriſti excidit Gratiâ, & contumelioſus eſt in ſanctum Chriſti Sanguinem. Ipſe enim vulneratus eſt propter iniquitates noſtras. attritus eſt propter ſcelera noſtra. Omnes nos, quaſi Oves, erravimus, unuſquiſque in viam ſuam declinavit, & poſuit Dominus in eo iniquitates omnium noſtrorum. Ille enim non per Sanguinem Hircorum aut Vitulorum, ſed per proprium Sanguinem introivit, ſemel in ſancta, æternâ Redemptione inventa, & in ipſum Cœlum intravit, ut appareret nunc Vultui Dei pro nobis, non ut ſæpè offerat ſeipſum, alioquin oportebat eum frequenter pati. Nunc autem ſemel ad deſtructionem peccati, per hoſtiam ſuam apparuit. Et quemadmodum conſtitutum eſt hominibus ſemel mori, ſic & Chriſtus ſemel oblatus eſt. Ille unam offerens pro peccatis hoſtiam in ſempiternum ſedet in dextra Dei. Una enim Oblatione conſummavit in ſempiternum ſanctificatos. Ubi enim peccatorum Remiſſio eſt, jam non eſt amplius Oblatio pro peccato, propter hoc Chriſti Sacrificium quiſquis aliud quæſierit pro peccatis, Sacrificium propitians, invalidum & inefficax efficit Chriſti Sacrificium: ſi enim hoc ad remittenda peccata ſufficiens eſt, alio non eſt opus. Alterius enim neceſſitas hujus arguit infirmitatem ac inſufficientiam. Faxit Deus Omnipotens ut uni Chriſti Sacrificio verè innitamur, ac illi rurſus rependamus Sacrificia noſtra, gratiarum actionis, laudis, confeſſionis nominis ſui, veræ reſipiſcentiæ, ac pœnitentiæ, beneficentiæ in proximos aliorumque omnium pietatis officiorum. Talibus enim Sacrificiis exhibebimus nos nec in Deum ingratos, nec Chriſti Sacrificio indignos. Ecce habetis ex ſacrarum Scripturarum & veterum Eccleſiæ Doctorum ſententiâ, verum & ſincerum Dominicæ Cœnæ uſum, ac veri Sacrificii Chriſti fructum. Quæ quiſquis tortis Interpretationibus aut humanis Traditionibus aliter quam Chriſtus ordinavit mutare aut tranſubſtantiare voluerit, ipſe reſpondebit Chriſto in noviſſimo die, quando intelliget, ſed ſerò nimis, nihil ſibi cum Chriſti Corpore eſſe & Sanguine: ſed ex æternæ vitæ Cœnâ ſe æternam damnationem manducâſſe ac bibiſſe.

THOMAS CRANMER.

Reſponſio Domini Nicholai Ridlei ad Articulos ſupradictos in Scriptis lecta & exhibita, per eum ſubſcripta.

Explicatio.

Diverſitas & novitas Phraſeos & quam ſit a ſacra ſancta Scriptura aliena, in tota hac prima propoſitione, & ſingulis penè partibus, ita patet & evidens eſt, vel mediocriter verſato in ſacris Libris, ut nihil neceſſe jam putem, in hoc Cœtu doctorum Virorum, in ea re demonſtranda, aliquid temporis niſi id a me poſtea póſtulatum fuerit, collocare.

Ambiguitas eſt in Verbis (Verbi divini virtute) ambiguum enim eſt, quodnam ſit iſtud divinum Verbum, illudne quod legitur in Evangeliis, aut in Paulo aliquid aliud. Si quod eſt in Evangeliis & in Paulo, quodnam illud ſit? ſi non eſt ex illis, quomodo cognoſcitur eſſe Verbum divinum, & tantæ virtutis ut hanc tantam rem efficere valeat.

Item, ambigitur de Verbo (à Sacerdote) an nullus ſit dicendus Sacerdos niſi cui data ſit poteſtas ſacrificandi expiatoriè pro vivis & mortuis? Et unde pateat hanc authoritatem eſſe à Deo ulli mortalium præterquam uni Chriſto commiſſam?

Dubitatur etiam ſecundùm quem Ordinem futurus ſacrificans Sacerdos ſit: utrum ſecundùm Ordinem Aaron, an ſecundùm Ordinem Melchiſedech? Nam plures Ordines Sacerdotii non probat, quod ſciam, ſacra Scriptura.

Item, in Verbo (realiter) ambiguum eſt an ſumatur tranſcendentèr, & ſic poteſt hic ſignare quamcunque rem quæ ad Corpus Chriſti quovis modo ſpectat, & ſic concedimus Corpus Chriſti realiter eſſe in Sacramento Cœnæ Dominicæ, ſicut inter diſputandum, ſi datur occaſio, a nobis declarabitur, vel rem ipſam corpoream, animatam, quæ aſſumpta eſt in Unitate Perſonæ à Verbo Dei, ſecundùm quam ſignificationem, Corpus Chriſti quum ſit in Cœlis realiter, propter verum Corporis modum, hic in Terris eſſe dicendus non eſt.

Item, in Verbis, ſub ſpeciebus Panis & Vini, ambiguum eſt utrum per ſpecies ſignificatas intelligant formas tantùm accidentales, & exteriores Panis & Vini, an naturas eorundem ſubſtantiales ſuis qualitatibus viſibiles, & externis ſenſibus perceptibiles. Falſitas autem Propoſitionis in ſenſu Romanenſis Eccleſiæ & Scholaſticorum hinc patere poteſt; Illi enim ponunt Panem tranſubſtantiari in Carnem aſſumptam a Verbo Dei, idque ut aiunt, per virtutem ejus Verbi quod illi conceptis Vocibus & Syllabis formaverunt, quod in nullo reperiri poteſt Evangeliſtarum aut in Paulo: Atque inde colligunt Corpus Chriſti realiter contineri in Sacramento Altaris. Quæ Poſitio quoniam fundatur ſuper Fundamento Tranſubſtantiationis, quod eſt Sacramentum monſtroſum, abſurdum; & Analogiæ Sacramentorum interremptivum, idcirco & hæc prima Propoſitio, quæ ſuper hoc putre Fundamentum & vanum ſubſtruitur falſa eſt & erronea, & infami Sacramentariorum errori meritò deputanda.

Non eſt ſtatuendum Dogma aliquod in Eccleſia Dei quod diſſentiat a Verbo Dei, & ab Analogia Fidei, & quod ſecum trahit multas Abſurdititates; ſed Dogma hoc primæ Propoſitionis tale eſt, ergò non eſt ſtatuendum in Eccleſia Dei. Major patet, minor probatur ſic. Hoc Dogma ponit realem, corporalem, & carnalem Carnis Chriſti à Verbo aſſumptæ in Sacramento Cœnæ Dominicæ præſentiam, idque non per Virtutem & Gratiam, quod & Orthodoxi fatentur: Sed quoad integram Eſſentiam & Subſtantiam Corporis Carnis Chriſti: ſed talis Præſentia diſſentit à Verbo Dei, ab Analogia Fidei; & multas ſecum trahit Abſurditates neceſſariò, Ergo. Major eſt manifeſta, & minor adhuc probatur ſic. Talis Præſentia contraria eſt locis aliquot ſacræ Scripturæ, diſſentit ab Articulis Fidei, evacuat & tollit Inſtitutionem Domini de ſuâ Cœna, proſtituit pretioſa profanis, projicit quod ſanctum eſt Canibus, projicit Margaritas Porcis, multa cogit monſtroſa Miracula præter neceſſitatem & authoritatem Verbi Dei ponere, Anſam ponit Hæreticis qua ſuos Errores tueantur, qui non rectè de duabus in Chriſto naturis ſentiebant, Fidem Veritatis humanæ in Chriſto naturæ imminuit. Poſtremò falſificat dicta Patrum orthodoxorum, falſificat & fidem Eccleſiæ Catholicam, quam Apoſtoli tradiderunt, Martyres roboraverunt, & Fideles ut quidam ex Patribus ait, uſque nunc cuſtodiunt. Ergo minor eſt vera. Probatur antecedens hujus Argumenti per partes; talis Præſentia contraria eſt Verbo Dei. Johan. 16. Veritatem dico vobis, expedit vobis ut ego vadam, ſi enim non abiero, Paracletus ad vos non veniet. Act. 3. Quem oportet quidem Cœlum accipere, uſque ad tempora Reſtitutionis omnium quæ loquutus eſt Deus. Math. 9. Non poſſunt Filii Sponſi lugere, quamdiu cum illis eſt Sponſus, ſed hîc eſt tempus luctus, beati qui lugent, &c. Joan. 16. Iterùm videbo vos, & gaudebit Cor veſtrum. Joan. 14. Iterùm veniam, & aſſumam vos ad meipſum. Math. 24. Si dixerint vobis, ecce hîc Chriſtus aut illic, nolite credere; Et ibidem, Ubicunq; fuerit Cadaver ibi congregabuntur Aquilæ. Diſſentit ab Articulis Fidei, aſcendit ad Cœlos, ſedet ad dextram Dei Patris, indè, & non aliundè, ut inquit Auguſtinus, venturus eſt ad judicandum vivos & mortuos. Evacuat & tollit Inſtitutionem Cœnæ Dominicæ, utpote quæ tantum juſſa eſt tantiſpèr continuari donec ipſe venerit; ſi igitur nunc præſens eſt realitèr liter in veritate Corporis Carnis, debet hæc Cœna ceſſare. Commemoratio non eſt rei præſentis ſed præteritæ & abſentis; memoria & præſentia differunt; fruſtrà ibi ponitur figura, inquit, ex Patribus quidam, ubi res figurata præſens eſt.

Proſtituit pretioſa profanis, & multa cogit abſurda fateri. Aſſerit enim Adulteros & Homicidas, impœnitentes (ut eſt quorundam apud iſtos opinio) impios & infideles Mures & Canes recipere Corpus Domini noſtri reale & corporale, in quo inhabitat plenitudo Spiritûs, Lucis, & Gratiæ, contra manifeſta verba, Joan. 6. in ſex ibidem locis. Statuit 'Ανθρωποφαγίαν, & beſtialem quandam Crudelitatem, crudelius enim eſt Hominem vivum comedere quam interimere.

Cogit multa monſtroſa Miracula præter neceſſitatem & authoritatem Verbi Dei ponere. In adventu hujus præſentiæ Corporis Carnis Chriſti, ſubſtantiam Panis extrudunt, ponunt accidentia ſine ſubjecto, ſubſtituunt Chriſti Corpus ſine ſuis Qualitatibus, & vero Corporis modo. Si Sacramentum tamdiu ſervetur ut muceſcat, & Vermes in eo generentur, quidam dicunt ſubſtantiam miraculoſè redire, quidam negant, quidam Corpus Chriſti dicunt in Stomacho recipientis deſcendere, & ibi tamdiu manere donec ſpecies calore naturali conſumantur. Quidam in bonis manere dicunt quamdiu permanent ipſi eſſe boni. Quidam tam cito Chriſti Corpus in Cœlum rapi dicunt quam cito ſpecies dentibus teruntur. O mirabiliarios! Verè in iſtis impletum eſſe vereor quod prophetabat Paulus, pro eo quod dilectionem Veritatis non receperunt in hoc ut ſalvi ſint, mittet eis Deus efficaciam illuſionis, ut credant mendacio, ut judicentur omnes qui non crediderunt Veritati, 2 Theſſ. 2.

Hæc præſentia Commentum illud Concomitantiæ peperit, quæ ſuſtulit hodie, & abrogavit Præceptum Domini de communicando Poculum Dominicum Laicis. Anſam præbet Hæreticis errandi, & ſuos Errores defendendi ut Marcioni qui dixit Chriſtum habere Corpus phantaſticum, & Euticheti qui confundit ipſe duas in Chriſto naturas. Poſtremò falſificat dicta Patrum orthodox. & Fidem Eccleſiæ Catholicam, quam Vigilius Martyr, & Author gravis dixit eſſe traditam ab Apoſtolis, Sanguine Martyrum roboratam, & a Fidelibus ad ſuam uſque ætatem cuſtoditam. Dicta Patrum intelligo, Juſtini, Irenæi, Tertulliani, Origenis, Euſebii Emiſeni, Athanaſii, Cyrilli, Epiphanii, Hieronymi, Chryſoſtomi, Auguſtini, Vigilii, Fulgentii, & Bertrami, quorum omnium atq; aliorum vetuſtiſſimorum Patrum loca in hanc ſententiam ſcio me legiſſe, & librorum meorum copia mihi nunc conceſſa poſſe commonſtrare, idque ſub periculo capitis mei, & amiſſionis omnium, quæ in hoc mundo amittere poſſumus.

Nolite putare Fratres eo quod præſentiam Corporis Chriſti quam hæc prima Propoſitio ponit, improbavimus, utpote quam cenſemus eſſe Commentitiam phantaſticam, & præter Authoritatem Verbi Dei in Eccleſiam a Romanenſibus pernicioſe introductam, propterea nos velle tollere veram iſtam præſentiam Corporis Chriſti in ſuâ Cœnâ ritè & legitimè adminiſtrata, quæ eſt fundata in Verbo Dei, & Patrum orthodoxorum Commentariis illuſtratur; qui de me ita ſentiunt, Deus novit quam multùm illi hallucinentur. Idque ut vobis planum & manifeſtum faciam declarabo pauciſſimis, quam ego veram cum Verbo Dei & priſcis Patribus ſtatuo in Sacramento Cœnæ Dominicæ, Corporis Chriſti præſentiam. Cum Lucâ Evangeliſtâ & Paulo Apoſtolo dico Panem in quo Gratiæ actæ ſint, eſſe Corpus Chriſti ad memoriam ipſius, & mortis ejus uſque ad adventum ejus perpetuo à fidelibus celebrandam. Dico item Panem quem frangimus eſſe Communicationem Corporis Chriſti. Cum orthodoxis Patribus ſic loquor, & ſentio non ſolum Significationem Corporis Dominici fieri per Sacramentum ſuæ Cœnæ, ſed unà cum illo exhiberi quoque fateor piis & fidelibus Gratiam Corporis Chriſti Vitam, ſcilicet, atque Æternitatis Alimoniam, idque cum Cypriano. Manducamus Vitam, bibimuſque Vitam cum Auguſtino. Sentimus, Dominum præſentem in Gratia cum Emiſſeno. Recipimus Cibum cœleſtem & ſupernè venientem cum Athanaſio. Proprietatem naturalis Communionis cum Hilario. Naturam Carnis & Benedictionem vivificam in Pane & Vino cum Cyrillo, & cum eodem Virtutem proprie Carnis Chriſti, Vitam & Gratiam Corporis unigeniti proprietatem, id eſt, ut Cyrillus ipſe diſertis verbis exponit, Vitam. Fatemur nos cum Baſilio myſticum Chriſti Adventum. Gratiam veræ naturæ, atque veræ Carnis Sacramentum cum Ambroſio. Corpus per Gratiam, cum Epiphanio. Carnem ſpiritualem, ſed aliam ab ea quæ crucifixa, cum Hieronimo. Gratiam influentem in Sacrificium, & Spiritus Gratiam cum Chryſoſtomo. Gratiam, Veritatem inviſibilem, Gratiam & Societatem Membrorum Corporis Chriſti cum Auguſtino. Poſtremo cum Bertramo, qui horum fuit omnium poſtremus, fatemur ſecundum id haberi in Sacramento Cœnæ Dominicæ Corpus Chriſti, videlicet, ut ille exponit quod ſit in eo Spiritus Chriſti, id eſt, divini Potentia Verbi, quæ non ſolum Animam paſcit, verum etiam purgat, &c. ex hiis opinor omnibus dilucidè patere poteſt quam ſimus ab ea ſententia alieni, quâ nos falſo quidam orbi traducere conantur, dicentes nos nihil aliud docere quam Figuram Corporis Chriſti in Menſa Dominica, à piis & fidelibus recipiendam expectari oportere.

Num. LXXII.

Articles concerning Archdeacons, their Officials and Miniſters. An. 1554.

Bonner Regiſt. fol. 367.

FIrſt, Whether they and every of them have executed and done his Office in all Points according to the order of the Law and eccleſiaſtical Conſtitutions and laudable Cuſtoms of the Church?

Item, Whether the ſaid Archdeacons have faithfully and profitably viſited all the Churches within their Archdeaconries, enquiring diligently how divine Service in all points has been celebrated and ſaid, the Sacraments and Sacramentals miniſter'd, and how the Ornaments of the Church have been kept, and what Lack has been there of them, or what Fault has been in them; and generally of all things Spiritual and Temporal, appertaining to the good Order of their Archdeaconries and the ſaid Churches, correcting and puniſhing diligently and faithfully all ſuch Offences, Tranſgreſſions and Crimes, as appertains to the worthy Puniſhment and Reformation?

Item, Whether the ſaid Archdeacons, their Officials and Miniſters, at all Times, and in all Caſes, have faithfully, truly and diligently put in Execution all and every ſuch Commiſſions and Commandments, which they, or any of them, have at any time received from the Biſhop their Ordinary, and certified the ſame accordingly?

Item, Whether the ſaid Archdeacons do grieve and charge the ſaid Churches with ſuperfluous Expences and Charges, or do exact Procurations when they do viſit, or do not behave themſelves diſcreetly, modeſtly, and temperately in the number and quality of ſuch as they bring with them to the Viſitation?

Item, Whether the ſaid Archdeacons do receive Money, either not to viſit, to reform, not to correct, puniſh and amend Offences and Faults, or do make unjuſt and unlawful Proceſs againſt any Man, to extort thereby any Money or Reward of him, or do receive by himſelf or others, any Money or Reward for any notorious Offence or Crime done by the Offender thereof?

Item, Whether the ſaid Archdeacons be frequent and oft in the Aſſemblies or Chapters obſerv'd and kept in ſeveral and particular Deanaries rural, and whether that in the ſame they do diligently inſtruct and teach the Prieſts and Curates, eſpecially amongſt other things, to live virtuouſly, honeſtly and well, and to underſtand and know perfectly the Words of the Canon of the Maſs, and the Form and Order of Sacraments, eſpecially of Baptiſm, and chiefly in thoſe Words and things which are of the Subſtance of the Sacrament in any wiſe?

Item, Whether the ſaid Archdeacons do obſerve and keep certain Eccleſiaſtical Laws and Cuſtoms, eſpecially ſet forth by Otho and Othobon, concerning Eccleſiaſtical Perſons that do keep Concubines againſt the Order of the ſaid Laws and Cuſtoms; and whether the ſaid Archdeacons do enquire and proceed according to the ſaid Cuſtoms; whereof the one begins, Licet ad profugandum, &c. and the other begins, Quam indecorum, &c.

Item, Whether the ſaid Archdeacons, and other Eccleſiaſtical Perſons, eſpecially being in holy Orders and beneficed, do obſerve and keep the Tenor, Form and Effect of the Chapter, Exterior habitus de Vita & honeſtate Clericorum touching their Habit and Apparel?

Item, Whether the ſaid Archdeacons, and every of them, do obſerve and keep their corporal Oath, given to the Ordinary at the time of their Admiſſion to their Archdeaconries, concerning Obedience and Reverence; and whether the ſaid Archdeacons do content and pay faithfully and truly all ſuch Duties as they ought to pay unto their ſaid Ordinary in any manner of wiſe; and eſpecially Penſions ſeverally going out and payable by them unto the ſaid Ordinary.

Item, Whether the ſaid Archdeacons do foreſee and provide that the bleſſed Sacrament of the Altar be reverently reſerv'd and kept in a Pix, and hang'd upon the Altar, or otherwiſe decently kept and placed; and that the Hoſt ſo reſerv'd in the Pix, be once in the Week taken and receiv'd of the Prieſt, or ſick Perſon, for whom the ſame is reſerv'd, and another conſecrate Hoſt be put in the place thereof, and the ſame not to be ſuffer'd there long to continue, but changed and renew'd according to the old Cuſtom and Uſage of the Church.

Item, Whether they and every of them, have admoniſhed the Parſons, Vicars, Curates, and all other Prieſts, being call'd, or coming to any ſick Perſon, making his Teſtament and laſt Will, to put the ſick Perſon in remembrnce of the great Spoil and Robbery that of late has been made of the Goods, Ornaments and things of the Church; exhorting charitably the ſame, not only to relieve and help the needy Perſons being abroad, but, alſo according to the old and laudable Cuſtum uſed in times paſt, effectually to remember both his Pariſh Church and the need thereof, and alſo the Cathedral and Mother Church of this City and Dioceſs of London, relieving the ſame with ſomething according to his Devotion and Power; and whether the ſaid Parſons, Vicars, Curates and other the ſaid Prieſts have done accordingly?

Articles concerning the things of the Church, and Ornaments of the ſame.

Firſt, Whether there be at the Entry of the Church, or within the Door of the ſame, an holy Water-ſtock or Pot, having in it holy Water to ſprinkle upon the Entry, to put him in remembrance both of his Promiſe made at the time of his Baptiſm and of the ſhedding and ſprinkling of Chriſt's Blood on the Croſs for his Redemption; and alſo to put him in remembrance, that as he waſh'd his Body, ſo he ſhou'd not forget to waſh and cleanſe his Soul, and make it fair with virtuous and godly good Living; and finally to put him in remembrance, that as Water paſſes and ſlides away, ſo ſhall he not tarry and abide in this World.

Item, Whether there be every Sunday holy Water and holy Bread, made and diſtributed among the Pariſhoners, the one done for Conſiderations afore rehears'd; the other practiſ'd as well to put Men in remembrance of Unity and Concord, expreſs'd by the ſeveral Grains, which being many, are ground and brought to one Loaf made of them all, as alſo to bring to Memory the Uſage of the Primitive Church, which was to have often, and eſpecially on the Sunday, a Communion between the Multitude, for lack of which Communion, this holy Bread is now given Men, to underſtand, that they ſhou'd have done the other, and for lack of the ſame, do now receive this for a Memory thereof.

Item, Whether there be a Paxe in the Church, not only to put People in remembrance of the Peace which Chriſt bequeath'd to his Diſciples, but of that Peace which Chriſt by his death purchaſed for the People, and alſo of that Peace which Chriſt wou'd have betwixt God and Man, Man and Man, and Man to himſelf. And the ſaid Paxe in the Church to be kiſs'd by the Prieſt, and to be carry'd to the Pariſhioners at Maſs time, in eſpecial remembrance of the Premiſes.

Item, Whether there be any that refuſes to receive the ſaid holy Water or holy Bread, or refuſes to take the Paxe, or to kiſs the Prieſt at the Solemnization of Matrimony, or uſe any ſuch like Ceremonies heretofore uſed and obſerved in the Church.

Item, Whether there be in the Church an high Altar of Stone conſecrated and dedicated, ſpecially to ſing or ſay Maſs upon; and it is not meant any Grave Stones taken from the Burial or other unſeemly Place, and put up for an Altar, but a meet and convenient Stone as hath been accuſtomed in times paſt.

Item, Whether the things under written, which are to be found on the Coſt of the Pariſhioners be in the Church, i. e. a Legend, an Antiphonar, a Grayle, a Pſalter, an Ordinal, to ſay or ſolemnize divine Service, a Miſſal, a Manual, a Proceſſional, a Chalyce, two Cruets, a principal Veſtment with Chiſable, a Veſtment for the Deacon and Subdeacon, a Cope with the Appurtenances, i. e. an Amyſſe, Albe, Girdle, Stole and Fann on the high Altar, with Apparel in the Front, and other parts thereof; three Towels, three Surplices, a Rochet, a Croſs for Proceſſion, with Candleſticks, a Croſs for the Dead, an Incenſer, a Ship or Veſſel for Frankincenſe, a little Saints Bell, a Pix with an honeſt and decent Cover, and a Veil for the Lent Banners, and for the Rogation Week; Bells and Ropes, a Biere for the Dead, a Veſſel to carry holy Water about, a Candleſtick for the Paſchal Taper, a Font to chriſten Children, with Covering, Lock and Key, and generally all other things, which after the Cuſtom of the Country or Place, they are bound to find, maintain and keep.

Item, Whether there be a Crucifix, a Rood Loft, as in times paſt has been accuſtom'd, &c.

Item, Whether the Water conſecrated being in the Font, be once in the Month at leaſt duly changed and renew'd according to the old Cuſtom of the Church.

Item, Whether in the ſaid Church there is a Chriſmatory for holy Oil and Chriſme, decently and well kept after the old Cuſtom, and whether the ſaid Oil and Chriſm be alſo therein, and frequented, and uſed as they ought to be.

Item, Whether in the ſaid Church there be Seats and Pews for the Pariſhioners to ſit in, honeſtly prepar'd and kept after the old Uſage.

Item, Whether there has been, or be any Plate, Ornaments or Jewels, Bells, Candleſticks or Lead, or other Goods of and in the ſaid Church, what they were or be, and in whoſe Hands they were or are, or whether they be alienated or pledged, declaring the Value thereof.

Item, Whether there has been any Inventory made of the ſaid Church Goods, and where the ſaid Inventorys are, and whether there be wanting the ſaid Plate, Jewels or Ornaments ſpecified in the ſaid Inventories, and being ſuch Want, by what Occaſion and Mean the ſame is, and by whoſe Commandment and doing.

Item, Whether there be Churchwardens in the ſaid Church choſen every Year, and whether the ſame do yearly make a faithful and true Account to the Pariſhioners accordingly, bringing in with them the ſaid Inventories, and doing all ſuch things as on their Behalf are to be done.

In the Articles relating to the Laity, I ſhall only mention theſe following.

Whether there be any that will not ſuffer the Prieſt to dip the Child three times in the Font, being yet ſtrong and able to abide and ſuffer it in the Judgment and Opinion of diſcreet and expert Perſons, but will needs have the Child in the Cloths, and only to be ſprinkled with a few Drops of Water.

Whether there be any Bauds, Men or Women, that does keep within his or their Houſes, or elſewhere, any Strumpets or Harlots, to have the more reſort to their Houſes, and utter thereby their Chaffer and Wares, to their more worldly Advantage, and whether there be any vehemently ſuſpected thereof, or of conveying or keeping young Wenches for ſuch unlawful and ungodly Purpoſes.

Item, Whether there have been any Men, Women or Cildren, of the Age of fourteen Years and above, who upon Sundays and Holy-days, have gone a hunting or hawking, Bear baiting, us'd Games and other Plays, Diſport and Paſtimes; or who has upon the ſaid Sundays or Holy-days, wilfully abſented themſelves from the Pariſh Church in time of divine Service, and who upon feign'd Occaſion, either upon the Even before, or upon the ſame Day in the Morning, doth uſe to go forth abroad out of their Pariſhes into the Fields or Country, or otherwiſe, or doth ſecretly keep themſelves in their Houſes, and do not come to the Service as they ought to do?

The following Articles ſtand at the beginning.

Firſt, Whether there be any Lay Perſon, Man, or Woman, that is an open and notable Tranſgreſſor of any of the Ten Commandments of God, or an open Offender in any of the ſeven deadly Sins, or of the laudable Cuſtoms and Ordinances of the Catholick Church?

Item, Whether there be any Lay Perſon, Man, Woman or Child, being of ſufficient Age and Ciſcretion, that cannot ſay their Pater noſter, the Ave Maria and the Creed?

Regiſ. Pool fol. 16. A. D. 1555.

KNow ye, that for ſo much the ſaid moſt reverend Father earneſtly deſiring that his Labour and Travail might take Fruit to the Honour of God, and the Wealth of our Subjects, hath now called a Synod of the Clergy of this our Realm of England, to appear before him at our Palace of Weſtminſter: We, to avoid all Danger, Doubt and Ambiguity, which might ariſe in that Caſe, by reaſon of any Laws, Statutes, Cuſtoms or Prorogatives of Us, or of this our Realm of England, and for the more ample Declaration of our ſaid Letters Patents, have granted, declared, and ſignified, and by theſe Preſents do grant, declare, and ſignifie, that our Will, Pleaſure, and Conſent is, that as well the ſaid moſt reverend Father Cardinal Pool, Legate de latere, of the Pope's Holineſs, and the See Apoſtolick; may freely, without let of us, or danger of any of our ſaid Laws, Satutes, Cuſtoms or Prerogatives, call and celebrate the ſaid Synod, or any other Synods hereafter, at his Will and Pleaſure: And in the ſame, ſtatute ordain and decree, any wholſom Canons for the good Life and Order of the Clergy of this our Realm of England, or of any other our Realms and Dominions. And do any other thing for the better executing of their Office and Duty: As alſo the ſaid Clergy may appear and be preſent at the ſaid Synod or Synods, and conſent to fulfil and obey all ſuch Canons as ſhall be ordain'd in the ſame, or any of them, without Let or Impediment of Us, and without incurring any Danger, Penalty or Forfeiture, of any of our Laws or Statutes; any Act, Ordinance or other Matter contrary to the ſame notwithſtanding. And hereto we have given our full Power and Authority by theſe Preſents. In witneſs whereof we have made theſe our Letters to be made Patents, witneſs our ſelves at Weſtminſter, the ſecond day of November, in the ſecond and third year of our Reigns, per ipſos Regem & Reginam, &c.

Num. LXXVII.

The Differences between the Common-Prayer-Book ſet forth in the firſt Year of Queen Elizabeth, and the ſecond Book made uſe of in the Reign of King Edward the VIth.

Theſe Alterations were tranſcrib'd by Archbiſhop Whitgift, and ſent to the Ld. Treaſurer Burleigh. MSS. Burleigh. Strype Annal.

FIrſt, King Edward his ſecond Book differeth from her Majeſty's Book in the firſt Rubrick, ſet down in the beginning of the Book; for King Edward's ſecond Book hath it thus;

The Morning and Evening Prayer ſhall be uſed in ſuch place of the Church, Chappel or Chancel, and the Miniſter ſhall turn him, as the People may beſt hear. And if there be any Controverſie therein, the matter ſhall be referr'd to the Ordinary, and he or his Deputy ſhall appoint the Place. And the, &c.

Whereas the Queen's Book hath it thus;

The Morning and Evening Prayer ſhall be us'd in the accuſtomed Place of the Church, Chappel or Chancel, except it ſhall be otherwiſe determined by the Ordinary of the Place. And the Chancels ſhall remain as they have done in times paſt.

Again, King Edward's ſecond Book hath it thus;

Again, here is to be noted, that the Miniſter at the time of the Communion, and at all other times in his Miniſtration, ſhall uſe neither Albe, Veſtment, nor Cope: But being Archbiſhop or Biſhop, ſhall have and wear a Rochet; and being a Prieſt or Deacon, he ſhall have and wear a Surplice only.

The Queen's Book hath it.

And here is to be noted, that the Miniſter, at the time of the Communion, and at all other times in his Miniſtration, ſhall uſe ſuch Ornaments in the Church, as were in uſe by Authority of Parliament in the ſecond Year of the Reign of King Edward the VIth, according to the Act of Parliament ſet forth in the beginning of this Book.

Secondly, In King Edward's ſecond Book, in the Litany there are theſe Words; from the Tyranny of the Biſhop of Rome, and all his deteſtable Enormities; which are not in her Majeſty's Book.

Thirdly, In the Litany, her Majeſty's Book hath theſe Words more than are in King Edward's ſecond Book, viz. ſtrengthen in the true worſhipping of thee in Righteouſneſs, and true Holineſs of Life, &c.

Fourthly, In the end of the Litany there is no Prayer in King Edward's ſecond Book for the King, nor for the ſtate of the Clergy. And the laſt Collect ſet in her Majeſty's Book next before the firſt Sunday in Advent, and beginning, O God! whoſe Nature and Property is ever to have Mercy, is not in King Edward's ſecond Book. Further, there are two Collects appointed for the time of Dearth and Famine, whereas her Majeſty's Book has but one. And in King Edward's ſecond Book, this Note is given of the Prayer of St. Chryſoſtom, the Litany ſhall ever end with this Collect following, which Note is not in her Majeſty's Book.

Fifthly, King Edward's ſecond Book appointeth only theſe Words to be uſed, when the Bread is delivered at the Communion, Take and eat this, in remembrance that Chriſt died for thee; and feed on him in thine Heart by Faith with Thankſgiving. And when the Cup is deliver'd, Drink this in remembrance that Chriſt's Blood was ſhed for thee, and be thankful.

Whereas in her Majeſty's Book, at the delivering of the Bread, theſe Words muſt be ſaid, The Body of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, which was given for thee, preſerve thy Body and Soul unto everlaſting Life: Take and eat this, &c. And at the delivery of the Cup theſe Words, The Blood of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, which was ſhed for thee, preſerve thy Body and Soul unto everlaſting Life: Drink this, &c.

Num. LXXVIII.

Certain Conſiderations of a Roman Catholick, why a Man may not with a ſafe Conſcience, and without offending God, be preſent at the Service now uſed.

Ex Bibl. R. Harley Armig. Written in the beginning of Queen Eli*zabeth's Reign.*

FIrſt, for that the ſaid Book was ſet forth by the meer Power and Authority of the Laity only. Their Paſtors, the Biſhops, and the whole Clergy, whom they are bound to obey, as having the Cure of their Souls, and for the which they ſhall give a Reckoning, * and to whome the Explication and Definition of ſuch Matters principally appertaineth, openly reſiſting and repugning.

* Heb. 13.

Secondly, For that ſuch Sacraments are not miniſtred there, as all Chriſten'd Men are bound under pain of eternal Damnation to deſire, procure and receive, and for that the ſaid Book is for many Cauſes, erroneous and ſchiſmatical.

Thirdly, For that ſuch Sacraments as are there miniſtred be not miniſtred after ſuch Sort and Order, as the Catholick Church doth miniſter them, nor with ſuch Faith believ'd as the ſaid Church requireth.

Fourthly, For that the firſt Authors and Ordainers, the Fautors and Defenders of this Book do utterly neglect, contemn and deride the Order and Form, that the Catholick Church preſcribeth to worſhip God by; and be with divers and grievous Hereſies involved and intricated.

Fifthly, For that the common People imbraceth and alloweth the ſaid Book, as containing a true, ſincere and perfect Form and Order of Chriſtian Belief, and to worſhip God, by erring therein damnably.

Now albeit the Premiſſes well, duly and deeply conſidered, it may eaſily appear, that no Catholick may, for the avoiding of any worldly Diſpleaſure or Damage be preſent at ſuch Service, yet we will ſupply ſome other Reaſons and Conſiderations, for the better Corroboration of this Aſſertion.

Numb. 16.

2 Theſ. cap. 3.

Firſt, For that the holy Scriptures doth Command us to eſchew and avoid the Society and Company of Hereticks and Schiſmaticks; as where Moſes chargeth the People of Iſrael to go from the Tabernacles of the ſchiſmatical Korah, Dathan and Abiram; Avoid, ſaith St. Paul, the Company of an Heretick after the firſt and ſecond Correption. We denounce unto you, ſaith St. Paul, in the Name of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, that you do withdraw your ſelves from every Brother that walketh diſordinately, and not according to the Tradition you have received of us. The which and like Authorities and Admonitions of holy Scripture cannot likely, more juſtly, and more neceſſarily take place, then in this our preſent Caſe.

Clemen. Conſt. Apoſt. lib. 2. cap. 65. Cap. 19.

Secondly, For that the Decrees of the holy Apoſtles, and the national and general Councils, do expreſſly forbid all Catholicks to reſort to the Churches, or common Prayers of Hereticks or Schiſmaticks. He can find, ſaith St. Clement, no Excuſation in the day of Judgment, that comes to the Churches of Hereticks: And commands all faithful Men, that by all means they abſtain from the Company of Hereticks, and that they neither talk nor pray with them.

Can. 11. Apoſt. & 2. Can. Con. Antioch. & Con. Carthag. Can. 23.

Euſeb. Hiſt. Eccleſ. lib. 6. cap. 2.

Thirdly, For that the Practice and Uſage of the old, ancient holy Fathers and good Catholicks, hath from the beginning been conformable to the foreſaid Rules, Precepts and Decrees. Yea they did endanger their Lives, rather than they would aſſociate themſelves in common Prayers with Hereticks and Schiſmaticks: Which worthy Examples do frequently occur in the ancient Eccleſiaſtical Hiſtories as of the great Clerk Origen, who being in one Houſe with the Heretick Paulus, would in no ways pray with him. The Arrian Emperor Valens being in a great fury with the Catholick People of the City of Edeſſa, for that they would not come to the Arrian Churches, but hauing all their Churches taken from them, repaired to the open Fields to make their common Prayers, cauſed a Proclamation to be made, that as many as ſhould come thither after the Proclamation, ſhould be ſlain, yet they, this notwithſtanding, the next Day repair'd thither in great Company, both Men, Women and Children, ready to die in the Quarrel, and thinking they ſhould merit Martydom thereby.

Theod. Hiſt. Eccleſ. lib. 4. cap. 14. & 15. Hiſt. Tripart. lib. 7. cap. 16.

To this I may adjoin the Samoſatens, whoſe noble Conſtancy is worthily commended in this behalf; for their Catholick Biſhop Euſebius being baniſhed for his ſincere Faith, and Eunomius, an Arrian, intruded for him, there was none of the City, nor Poor, nor Rich, nor Men, nor Women, no not as much as any Child would reſort to the Church, while he was there. The like worthy Conſtancy was in the People of Alexandria, Athanaſius their Biſhop being exil'd, and George an Heretick ſubſtitute for him, tho' they were moſt grievouſly tormented for that by the cruel Duke Sebaſtian. Semblable Worthineſs was found in the People of Rome; Liberius their Biſhop being expuls'd, for they would not repair to any common Prayer made by the Anti Biſhop Felix. And here is well to be noted, that our Caſe is far different from theirs, and much more dangerous and prejudicial, for that the common Service then was Catholick, and the uſual Service of the Church, the Paſtors being Hereticks and Schiſmaticks: But our Service is plain ſchiſmatical and diſagreeable to the uſual and ancient Service of the Catholick Church: Which thing doth wonderfully aggravate the Offence of 'em, that now come to ſuch common Service.

Theod. Hiſt. Eccleſ. lib. 2. cap. 14.

2 Maccab. 6.

And tho' they therefore might, as it ſeemeth, better be excuſed, then we now, yet do I not find, that they did, or lawfully could pretend ſuch Excuſes, as ſome Men now do: Saying they come not thither to pray with them, but to make their own private and catholick Prayers; and that they in heart diſlike the ſaid Service, for if they diſlike it, and think it nought, then ought they to withdraw their Preſence, and in this Point are not far from the Helkeſites, who held an Opinion which is condemn'd in the Church, that in time of Perſecution it is enough to think well, tho' their Act be to the contrary. And tho' the Schiſmaticks do ill to have a liking of that which is nought, and the Catholick doth well in diſliking of the ſame, yet in coming to the Service, the Schiſmatick's Fault ſeems the leſs, which repairs to the Service which he eſteemeth good, and the Catholick's Fault the greater, for frequenting that Form which he knoweth to be unlawful. Neither can it be any light Offence before God to diſſemble in a Matter of ſuch Importance, and that touches ſo nearly God's Honour. The good Eleazarus is much commended in Holy Scripture for his Plaineſs, who would and did rather die, than that he would once pretend to have eaten Swine's Fleſh againſt the Law, when he had eaten none indeed. Neither can this Man well pretend that he doth not conſent or allow of it, for his perſonal Preſence implies the contrary, and the Intent and Purpoſe why Men come to the Church, implies alſo the contrary. Which Intent and Purpoſe (by the Order and Laws of the Church) is principally to be preſent at the Common-Prayers, and at the holy Sacrifice of the Euchariſt, and not to make our private Prayers. And tho' that be ſuffer'd, yet they that be preſent give alſo their Conſent to the Common-Prayers, either by anſwering Amen to the ſame, as the whole People did ſo anſwer in the Primitive Church; or by the Anſwer of ſuch Perſons as be appointed to anſwer in publick Service; whoſe Anſwer in Law and good Conſideration implies and repreſents the Anſwer of the whole People. And ſurely as by the Laws of this Realm, he that is in company of Felons and Murderers, tho' he diſlike of the Act, yet if he do not fly or reſiſt the Act as much as lies in him, but vainly ſtands by, tho' he perchance eſcape the Penalty of Felony, ſhall not eſcape ſome Fine to be ſet on him. So, and much more, he that is preſent in this publick Service cannot be before God wholly excus'd. This Man muſt alſo well conſider what occaſion of Scandal or Offence he gives to others, for the which he is anſwerable before God. Such as know him in Heart to miſlike of the Service, cannot but judge him a deep Diſſembler; to whom alſo if they be of the ſame Diſliking, he gives occaſion to uſe the like Diſſimulation. Others that know not his Heart, are confirm'd by his Preſence (eſpecially if he be a Man of any regard) to allow and frequent the ſaid Service.

Such kind of Perſons I would wiſh diligently to call to Remembrance, what the Holy Scripture
1 Cor. 10. ture admoniſhes us in ſuch Caſes. Be ye without Offence, ſaith St. Paul, towards the Jews, the
Rom. 12. Gentiles, and the Church of God. Provide to do well, not only before God, but before Men alſo.
Matth. 20. Woe be to him, ſaith Chriſt, by whom any Slander
1 Cor. 8. & 10. or Offence cometh. St. Paul reproveth them that did eat Meats offer'd to the Idols, to the Offence of others, that thought it not lawful to eat of the ſame: With many other like Places occurrent in the Holy Scripture.

An Information made to Queen Elizabeth, by ----- of the ſeveral Abuſes and Frauds done unto the State in general, and the Crown, by ſuch as have been employ'd by her Father, &c. Upon the Suppreſſion of the Abbeys, &c.

Biblioth. R. Harley Armig. Weaver's *Funeral Monuments, p.*124.

PArt of the corrupt fraudulent and deceitful Dealing of many Subjects of this Realm, at & ſince the Suppreſſion and Viſitation of Abbeys, whereby the Poſſeſſions, Revenues, and Treaſure of the Crown have been immeaſurably rob'd and diminiſh'd to the great Offence of God, and Slander of the Goſpel, and to the no ſmall Impoveriſhing and Weakning of the Imperial Crown, and utter undoing of a Number of your Majeſties poor Tenants and Subjects. And ſo to the great Slander of your Majeſty, and withdrawing of their Hearts from you (whoſe Act it is told them to be, and ſo to them it ſeemeth, becauſe ſome of your Seals be at all or moſt part of them, and the Confirmation of your head Officers at the reſt) and to the utter ſpoiling and undoing of a Number of learned Perſons and excellent Wits, who underſtanding that many before them have been thereby greatly enrich'd and advanc'd: And that the Gap thereunto, as unto a Virtue, was made wide open for all, without any Puniſhment, but rather Commendations, were and are ſtill the eaſilier overcome by Temptation of the Wiſdom of Satan, the World, and the Fleſh, to ſeek and labour to become rich by like wicked wayes; of whom, as the Number is now of late Years greatly increas'd, ſo alſo deceive they more ſubtily and deteſtably, and in more things than ever before.

And here, after ſome farther length of Invective, he proceeds to inſtance in the Reign of King Henry the VIIIth. The Contents of which are.

1. Where the Images of Gold and Silver, and what with the coſtly Shrines, Tabernacles, Altars, and Rood-lofts, and the precious Jewels of right Stones, and Pearls, &c. belonging to the ſame, and the Pixes, Chalices, Pattens, Baſons, Ewers, Candleſticks, Cruets, Cenſors, and multitudes of other rich Veſſels of Gold and Silver: And, the coſtly Altar-clothes, Curtains, Copes, Veſtments, Aulbs, Tunicles and other rich Ornaments: And the fine Linnen, jett Marble, and precious Wood, Braſs, Iron, Lead, Bells, Stone, &c. And the Houſehold Plate, Houſhold Stuff, and Furniture of Houſhold, and the Leaſes and Chattells, and the Horſes, Oxen, Kine, Sheep, and other Cattle, and the ſuperfluous Houſes and Buildings, and multitudes of other things that belong to the Abbeys, were worth a million of Gold.

The Sales of the part whereof were ſo cunningly made, and the Preſervation of the reſt was ſuch, that your Majeſties Father and the Crown of England had, in compariſon, but mean Portions of the ſame: Of which much was unpay'd by ill dealing many Years after: For the finding out of which, and puniſhing the great Deceit and Fraud, there was not then, neither hath there been at any time ſince (for the like Evils afterwards alſo committed to this Day) any good Order or diligent Labour taken, but let paſs, as tho' to find out and puniſh ſuch Wickedneſs were no Profit to the Prince and Crown, or good Service to God: All which have been the eaſilier let ſlip, becauſe perhaps ſome of 'em that ſhould have puniſh'd under the Prince, might alſo be partly guilty.

2. Item, Whereas diverſe of the Viſitors and Suppreſſors, had afterwards yearly Allowance of Fees, Annuities, Corodies, &c. granted by the Abbies to themſelves, their Servants and Friends; was it likely that they came by them without Fraud?

3. The moſt part of the Evidencies of Abbies and Nunneries were pilfer'd away, ſold and loſt, as herein following under the Title of your Majeſties time more plainly appears.

4. Mannors, Lands, and Tenements, and other Hereditaments were often ſold at under yearly Rents by many ſubtle Deceits and Frauds.

5. Many Lands and Tenements, &c. were ſome time ſold with the Appurtenances at the old yearly Rents. But where the Woods were undervalued, as often they were, the ſame went from the King without Recompence.

6. Mannors, Lands and Tenements, &c. ſold to diverſe. And after the Woods were fell'd and ſold, and the Rents enhanc'd, or for great Fines leas'd out for many Years, then the ſame Mannors were return'd to the King in exchange for other Lands, that had plenty of Woods, and were unenhanc'd and unleas'd in all or in part, or the Leaſes were near expir'd.

7. Much Lands and Tenements, and many great Woods and other Hereditaments were then ſold away, where the Money for the ſame was not paied many Years after the due time of Payment.

Deceits in the Reign of King Edward the Sixth, your Majeſties Brother.

Exchanges more than in King Henry's time, and almoſt as bad, whereby the Rents of many of 'em muſt needs decay in a great part, when that Leaſes ſhall end, that were made by the Exchangers, or when the Bonds made to warrant theſe Rents, ſhall either be loſt, forgotten, or not extended.

Much Land ſold at Undervalues by great Deceit of many.

Many great Gifts, Sales and Exchanges were then, wherein was great Deceit and Loſs to the Crown.

Deceit in your Majeſties time

All or greateſt part of the Evidences of the Lands, Poſſeſſions, and Hereditaments of all the Abbies, &c. have by little and little by fraudulent Means been ſo pilfer'd and ſold away, and ſo drawn into many private Men's Hands, that there's almoſt none of 'em left to your Majeſties Uſe, ſo that your Majeſty hath nothing to maintain your Title, if need ſo require, but only your long Poſſeſſion and your own Records made ſince the Suppreſſion, whereof a Number of 'em be gone, ut patet inferius.

And where ſome Men have bought only the Demeſnes of a Mannor, and have ſo prevail'd by corrupt Means, that the Auditor has put thereto in his Particular thereof, nomen Mannerii; or elſe if the Penners of the Letters Patents for that Purchaſe have corruptly put it into the Draught or Tranſcript, and the Peruſer overpaſs it, either by too much Confidence in the Penner, or for lack of time by ſo ſlight conferring of the Particular and Tranſcript, ſuffer'd ſuch a Scape; And ſo if the ſame have paſs'd under the Great Seal, then is there no Remedy, but he muſt have and enjoy the whole Mannor, tho' afterwards it appear never ſo plainly that he purchas'd only a part thereof. Such be the Laws and Statutes they ſay, neither has there been (that ever I could know or hear of) any diligent Enquiry made, or Labour taken to find out by whoſe Corruption it came, and to puniſh the Purchaſer and all his corrupt Inſtruments, as the Wickedneſs of the Act did deſerve. And ſo as all others might by their Puniſhment be terrified from that ill Kind, and innumerable other Kinds of like corrupted Dealing.

Likewiſe of conceal'd Lands whatſoever found out and certified by Commiſſion out of the Exchequer, if the Commiſſioners, through Friendſhip or Corruption, have found out a Mannor, or other Lands to be worth yearly 5 Shillings; whereas the old yearly Rent of the ſame was no leſs than 20 Pounds by Year: And thereupon if the Procurer of the Commiſſion obtain it by Leaſe or Purchaſe at 5 Shillings by Year, your Majeſty has no Remedy, but he muſt enjoy it cauſâ Prædictâ, notwithſtanding the Truth thereof do afterwards never ſo plainly appear.

And alſo of many other things, both of Lands, Goods and Woods, Debts and other things, anſwerable in your Majeſties Court of Exchequer, within the Accompts of your Highneſs Sheriffs, Eſcheators, and other Officers, and other Perſons authoriz'd to take the ſame to your Majeſties Uſe, if they find out and ſeize any Mannors, Lands, Hereditaments, Goods, &c. at a far under rate, tho' it be never ſo plainly known, they are not blam'd and puniſh'd for it; no ſome will ſay the Officers would never be ſued for a pitiful Hearing.

Stately Mannors, and mean Mannors, with the Parks and Woods have been ſold, given and otherwiſe granted, where the Parks have paſs'd at no Rent, and the Woods at no value, a very little, in compariſon, yea and ſome Mannors, &c. where diverſe Fees of the Keepers of the Park, of the Houſes, &c. have been deducted, ſo that the Values at which the ſaid Mannors have paſs'd, have been a great deal leſs than they ought to have been.

Item, Diverſe of the Copyholders both of your ſtately and mean Mannors, which is your beſt and richeſt Lands, for their ſmall Rent be ſometimes purchas'd, ſometime granted in Fee Farm, and ſometimes leas'd out, whereby the Mannors be diſmembred, your Tenants taken from you, and impoveriſh'd, and your Commons much griev'd, and provoked to murmur, when they ſee Copyhold Tenure, (the good antient Tenure of England) whereby the moſt of them hold, and ever have held their Lands, and Livings, to be (now adays) made void and of none Effect.

Item, Perquiſites and Profits of the Courts of diverſe of your Majeſties Mannors be leas'd out, and ſome ſold away; whereby alſo the Mannors be diſmembred, the Tenants and their Services had from your Majeſty. A matter of great weight.

Item, The Profits of the Courts of many of the Mannors that remain in your Majeſty be yearly ill anſwer'd, and ſometimes partly pilfer'd away, and the eaſilier becauſe the Stewards deliver not up yearly Doubles of their Court Rolls, as by good Order they ſhould doe. And becauſe Deceit is not ſought out and puniſh'd.

Item, Many of your Majeſties rich Woods, with the Soiles both notable great and ſtately, and alſo both mean and ſmall, ſome lying and being within the Forreſts, Chaſes, Parkes, Commons, &c. and other ſome within the late Demeſnes, or proper Occupation of Abbots, Priors, Nuns, &c. or of other former Owners of Caſtles, Honours, Lordſhips, Mannors, Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments *, common to your Majeſties Anceſtors and to your ſelf, which never yielded any yearly Rent, except ſome Trifle for the Herbage and Pawnage, being kept for royal and ſtately Pleaſure, and common and domeſtical Profit, have been ſold away for little or nothing in compariſon, and ſome part of them letten out to no common Benefit or particular Profit for your Majeſty, becauſe the Rents be ſmall, and the Woods are ſuffer'd to be ſpoild, ut patet inferius.

* He means moſt probably the Honours, Caſtles, Lordſhip's, &c. taken from the Biſhops Sees, and veſted in the Crown by an Act of Parliament, made in the 1ſt Year of this Queen's Reign.

After Recital of ſeveral other Frauds, too long to mention, he draws towards a Concluſion in in this manner. Your Majeſty, ſays he, would wonder if you knew how much I have been malign'd, reproach'd, brow-beaten, and purſued with ill Offices for my Plaineſs againſt this Miſmanagement. At which your Majeſty may be the more ſurpriz'd, becauſe ſome of 'em bear great Shew and Name of good Men, and Goſpellers: But alas piteous ones, God amend them, and us all.

He that gave in this Information, owns himſelf a Profeſſor of the Goſpell, that is a Proteſtant, and that he was in a Poſt of Authority: And ſince he brings in ſo high a Charge againſt the Courtiers, and Officers of the Crown, the Reader needs not be ſurpriz'd to find his Name conceal'd.

Archbiſhop Parker's Homage to Queen Elizabeth. Apud Weſt. die Feb. 1559.

Paper Office. An Original.

I Matthew Parker, Doctor of Divinity, now elect Archbiſhop of Canterbury; do utterly teſtify and declare in my Conſcience, that your Majeſty is the only ſupreme Governour of this Realm, and of all other your Highneſſes Dominions, and Countrys, as well in all Spiritual or Eccleſiaſtical Things or Cauſes, as Temporal, and that no foreign Prince, Perſon, Prelate, State or Potentate, hath or ought to have any Juriſdiction, Power, Superiority, Præeminence, or Authority, Eccleſiaſtical, or Spiritual within this Realm, and therefore I do utterly renounce and forſake all foreign Juriſdictions, Powers, Superiorities, and Authorities; and do promiſe that from henceforth I ſhall bear Faith and true Allegiance unto your Majeſty, your Heirs, and lawful Succeſſors, and to my Power ſhall aſſiſt and defend all Juriſdictions, Privileges, Preeminences and Authorities, granted or belonging to your Highneſs, your Heirs and Succeſſors, or united and annex'd to the Imperial Crown of this Realm. And farther I knowlege and confeſs, to have and to hold the ſaid Archbiſhoprick of Canterbury, and the Poſſeſſions of the ſame entirely, as well the Spiritualties, as Temporalties thereof, only of your Majeſty and Crown Royal, of this your Realms. And as for the ſaid Poſſeſſions, I do mine Homage preſently unto your Highneſs, and to the ſame, and your Heirs and lawful Succeſſors, ſhall be faithful and true, ſo help me God, and the Contents of this Book.

We alſo whoſe Names be underwritten, being Biſhops of the ſeveral Biſhopricks within your Majeſties Realm, do teſtifie, declare, and acknowledge, all and every part of the Premiſes, in like manner the Right Reverend Father in God, the Archbiſhop of Canterbury has done.

Et novum & ſingulare videri poteſt, paucos homines Multitudini, privatos Authoritati, obſcuros vobis, & Doctrinæ & Pietatis Gloria celebratis, propter lanam & linum, vel dicto vel facto, aut velle aut audere obſtrepere. Equidem ingenuè fatemur, & coram Domino teſtamur, patres & fratres in Chriſto obſervandi, ut ſingularis noſtra in Religione ſuaviſſima Conſpiratio fuit, & eſt perjucunda; ſic hac noſtra vel levi à vobis Diſſenſione in vita nihil accidiſſe acerbius. Quanquam illud nos recreare ſolet; & conſolari debet, diſcordare quidem nos, at concordi Diſcordia; evangelicè, non papiſticè, fraternè, non virulentè, ſine Dente & Stomacho, utroſque, ſine Zelo tamen it fervore neutros, diſſidere: In Capite Chriſto Anteſignano noſtro, omnes & ſingulos idem Evangelium, eandem Fidem profiteri: In rebus naturâ ſuâ planè Adiaphoris ſuum quemque Spiritum, & Studium ſequi; ubi libertati eſſe locus poteſt ſæpè, Charitati autem eſſe debet ſemper: Ubi non ſtatim rumpitur Unitas, nec obſcuratur Veritas, ubi aliqua Ceremoniarum cernitur Varietas. Vidit hoc Auguſtinus, Sabbatho alios prandiſſe, alios rurſus jejunâſſe, & in unâ Eccleſiâ uniuſque Regionis Eccleſiis Diſſimilitudinem extitiſſe. Vidit Socrates, Homines qui ejuſdem ſunt Fidei, de Ritibus inter ſe diſſenſiſſe. Vidit Theodoretus, ab omni Antiquitate hanc in Eccleſia Conſuetudinem manſiſſe, ut hic Abſtinentiam amplecteretur, ille Eſculentis veſceretur: Nec hic judicaret illum, nec ille reprehenderet alterum, & omnes tamen claros, inſigneſque redderet Lex Concordiæ. Diſceſſit a Conſtantini decreto, aliarum Eccleſiarum Exemplum ſequuta, noſtra Brittannia. Diſſenſit a Carolo clerus Ravennas: imo a Barnaba Paulus, a Paulo Petrus, a Petro Condiſcipulus Joannes; ab hujus Succeſſoribus Romanis, illius Sectatores Aſiani. Utinam Patres, hic hic vos Operam veſtram interponeretis, ut illic pacificus Irenæus, & Epiſcopi, qui in id ſedulo incubuerunt, ne Victoris Sententia Aſianorum Libertati præjudicaret, neve Rituum Diſſonantia Fidei Conſonantiam ſolveret.

Siqua noſtræ in Chriſto Conſociationis ratio, ſiqua συμπάθεια (eſſe autem non dubitamus) patiamini, enitamini, ut quod Paulus præcipit, Auguſtinus perhibuit, in ſuâ quiſque πληροφορία acquieſcat, ut ipſa Fidei Unitas diverſis Obſervationibus celebretur. Cauſæ multæ & magnæ, quæ nos ad petendum moverunt, vos, niſi noſtra de veſtra Pietate & Prudentia fallit Opinio, ad aſſentiendum permovebunt. Teneram Rem eſſe Conſcientiam, vobis non eſt obſcurum, quæ nec tangi, nec angi debet. Hæc quæ â Deo ipſa accepit, nobis tradidit. Non enim profecto turbulenti, aut Contumaces ſumus, ut Eccleſiæ Pacem turbatam libenter aſpiciamus, quam colimus & fovemus: Vel ut Novitati ſtudeamus, qui ad antiquum Eccleſiæ Candorem aſpiramus: Vel ut vinci nolimus, qui ratione perſuaderi & inſtrui cupimus. Verum enimverò nos Conſcientia Magiſtra edocti ſumus, res Natura indifferentes, Opinionibus Hominum non ſempèr indifferentes videri, caſu ac temporibus variari: Legem hanc de Ceremoniis Romanæ Eccleſiæ inſtaurandis cum Servitutis, Neceſſitatis, Superſtitionis Periculo conjungi. Hoc quia vobis non videtur, vos a nobis non damnandi, nobis quia ſic videtur, nos a vobis non divexandi.

Noſtra Conſcientia nos docet, ſi præterita ſpatia ſuperioris Memoriæ Animo repetimus, à nobis ſtare Deum, Chriſtum, primæ Eccleſiæ Patres. Si Oculos per vicina Tempora & loca circumferimus, Doctiſſimos Homines, & vos ipſos, & Eccleſias, quæ quidèm plenè repurgatæ ſunt, univerſas; Deum, cujus voce Reges Judæorum prædicantur, qui omnia vaſa, id eſt, omnia Idolatriæ Inſtrumenta, & apparatum deleverunt: Chriſtum, qui Phariſæorum omne fermentum, Jejunia, Lavacra, Fimbrias, & Phylacteria repudiavit: Patres, qui nec cum Judæis Sabbatho jejunare, aut Paſca celebrare, nec cum Hæreticis lavare, nec cum Manichæis Die Dominico abſtinere, nec ullâ in re, ubi aliqua eſſe poteſt Conſenſionis Significatio, communicare voluerunt: Doctiſſimos, qui noſtrâ ætate nobiſcum in hac fide & Sententia piè vixerunt, & nunc in Domino ſuaviter Obdormientes, idem nos è libris docuerunt: Voſipſos, qui, ſi Conſcientias veſtras appellaremus, nobiſcum ſentiretis, & omnes hos Offenſionis Lapides amotos, penitus optaretis: Deindè Eccleſias puriores, Germanicum, Gallicam, Scoticam; in quibus non modo Religio illibata conſervatur, ſed ritus etiam Religionis Teſtes & Indices, ſimplices, non contaminati, à Chriſtianis Eccleſiis mutuati, non à Romano Synagoga deſumpti, obſervantur.

Poſtremò, quam grave Scandalum hinc oriatur, veſtra non ignorat Prudentia. Adverſarii nobis afflictis inſultabunt: Dein, vos ſuam Cauſam propugnantes, ſuum jus perſequentes, in ſinu tacitè ridebunt; tum invento ſuo, poſtquam à vobis non modo retineri; ſed per vos Fratribus obtrudi viderint, ſibi magis placebunt.

Quamobrem ut tandem aliquando noſtra terminetur Petitio, demiſſiſſimè petimus, ut quod Papiſtis curæ & voluptati, vobis non magnopere cordi eſt, quod à nobis nullo Contemptu veſtri ſed Odio communis Hoſtis fit, id nobis ne fraudi ſit aut Crimini. Ità Eccleſiis proſpicietis optime; ita Sathanæ omnes Vias & Rimulas ad ſubvertendam Religionis Puritatem, obſepietis providentiſſimè. Ita Hoſtibus noſtro malo & miſeriâ Oculos Animoſque paſcentibus, & noſtra hac Diſcordia ſerio triumphantibus Ilia rumpentur juſtiſſime; ita nos ut Fratres in Chriſto diligetis Chriſtianiſſime. Ita vos, ut Patres venerabimur meritiſſimè: Ita dextras Societatis jungemus amiciſſimè; communemque Cauſam communibus Conſiliis, & curis adverſus omnes Hoſtium Machinationes, & inſultus propugnabimus fortiſſimè. Quod ut fiat, faxit Jeſus Eccleſiæ ſuæ Deus ac Dominus Zelotes. Cui veſtram Paternitatem cuſtodiendam, & noſtram Calamitatem ſanandam, etiam atque etiam commendamus.

Biſhop Grindal's Letter to Bullinger, relating to the Conteſts about the Habit.

Reverendo in Chriſto D. Henrico Bullingero, Tigurinæ Eccleſiæ Miniſtro fideliſſimo, ac Fratri in Domino chariſſimo, Edmundus Grindallus, &c. Salutem in Chriſto.

CLariſſime D. Bullingere, ac Frater in Chriſto chariſſime, D. Joannes Abelus tradidit mihi Literas tuas Dominis Wintonienſi, Norwicenſi, & mihi communiter inſcriptas, unà cum Scripto veſtro de re veſtiaria. Quorum ego Exemplaria ad Dominos Wintonienſem & Norwicenſem ſtatim tranſmiſi. Quod ad me attinet, ago tibi maximas gratias, tum quod noſtrarum Eccleſiarum tantam curam geris, tum quod me Hominem tibi ignotum Partipicem facis eorum, quæ ad noſtros de rebus controverſis ſcribuntur. Vix credibile eſt, quantum hæc Controverſia de rebus nihili Eccleſias noſtras perturbarit, & adhùc aliqua ex parte perturbat. Multi ex Miniſtris Doctioribus videbantur Miniſterium deſerturi. Multi etiam ex Plebe contulerunt Conſilia de Seceſſione à nobis facienda, & occultis cœtibus cogendis. Sed tamen, Domini Benignitate, maxima pars ad ſaniorem Mentem rediit. Ad eam rem Literæ veſtræ, Pietatis & Prudentiæ plenæ, plurimum Momenti attulerunt. Nam eas Latinè ac Anglicè Typis Evulgandas curavi. Nonnulli ex Miniſtris, veſtro Judicio atque Authoritate permoti, abjecerunt priora Conſilia de Miniſterio deſerendo. Sed & ex Plebe quamplurimi mitius ſentire cæperunt, poſtquam intellexerunt ritus noſtros à vobis, qui iiſdem non utimini, nequaquam damnari Impietatis: Quod ante publicatas veſtras Literas nemo illis perſuaſiſſet. Sunt tamen qui adhuc manent in priori Sententia. Et in his D. Humfredus, & Samſonus, &c. Nihil vero eſſet facilius quam Regiæ Majeſtati eos reconciliare, ſi ipſi ab Inſtituto diſcedere vellent. Sed cum hoc non faciunt, nos apud Sereniſſimam Reginam iſta Contentione irritatam, nihil poſſumus. Nos, qui nunc Epiſcopi ſumus (eos dico, qui in Germania & aliis locis exulaverant) in primo noſtro reditu, priuſquam ad Miniſterium acceſſimus, diu multumque contendebamus, ut iſta de quibus nunc controvertitur, prorſus amoverentur. Sed cum illud à Regina & Statibus in Comitiis Regni impetrare non potuimus, communicatis Conſiliis, optimum judicavimus non deſerere Eccleſias propter ritus non adeo multos, neque per ſe impios, præſertim cum pura Evangelii Doctrina nobis integra & libera maneret. In qua ad hunc uſque Diem (utcunque multi multa in contrarium moliantur) cum veſtris Eccleſiis, veſtraque Confeſſione, nuper edita, pleniſſimè conſentimus. Sed neque adhuc pœnitet nos noſtri Conſilii. Nam interea, Domino dante Incrementum, auctæ ſunt Eccleſiæ, quæ alioque Ecceboliis, Lutheranis, & Semipapiſtis prædæ fuiſſent expoſitæ. Iſtæ vero iſtorum intempeſtivæ Contentiones de adiaphoris, (ſi quid ego judicare poſſum) non ædificant, ſed ſcindunt Eccleſias, & Diſcordias ſeminant inter Fratres, &c.

The reſt of the Letter relating to Scotland ſhall be omitted. The Date and the Ceremony of taking leave, ſtands thus.

The Addreſs of the London Clergy to the Convocation.

Billa London.

To the Reverend Fathers in God the Lord Biſhops, and the reſt of the Convocation.

E. Cod. MS. Antonii à Wood in Muſæo Aſhmoleano, F. 30. Num. 8494.

I. WHereas throughout the whole Realm the Benefices of London are the ſmalleſt, and the Miniſters the poreſt, the Sheape well clad, and the Paſtors go naked, and yet a reaſonable Order taken for Tythes by Statute, and no Order obſerved in payinge ther Tythes, becauſe they are for their Riches ſtoute, and will not paye; and becauſe they maye have Lawe at hande, they uſe many ſhiftes, as may appeare, we humbly require that all Colluſion againſt her Majeſties Laws, and their Paſtors, be puniſhed by triple Dammages to the behoofe of the Partie plaintyffe, yff that ſo fall out that by judgment of Lawe they be convinced of them.

A breeſe Note of a few Colluſions, and of the weakeſt, by the which the poore Cleargie of London are deceaved, to ſhew our Complaint to be juſt.

1. The Stranger muſt deliver 300 l. to the Landlorde, the Landlorde muſt have the Uſe of the 300 l. the Stranger muſt have a fair Houſe for a Pepper Corn Rent, and ſo the Parſon muſt have his Tythe of a Pepper Corn.

2. The Landlord maketh a Tenant a Leaſe after 6 l. per Annum, but he muſt pay for Time by Obligation 160 l. in five Years, ſo the Rent is 38 l. per Annum by Acquittance, and the Parſon muſt receive but after 6 l.

3. If a Houſe have a Well, and be worthe 20 l. per Annum, and ſo lett, yet the Tenant payeth 16 l. for the Well, and 4 l. for the Houſe, after which 4 l. the Parſon receaveth Tythes.

4. If a Howſe be worthe 10 l. per Annum, they will let the Houſe with an old Bedſtead and a Forme called Implements after 8 l. for Implements, and 2 l. for Rent for the Parſon to receive Tythes by.

5. If a Howſe be worth 20 l. per Annum, ther ſhall be two Leaſes made, the one after 40 s. yearely, the other after 18 l. the firſt to ſhewe the Parſon to receave his Tythe by; the other to pay the Landlorde by.

6. If a Houſe be worth 20 l. per Annum, the Tenant ſhall pay 4 l. Rent by Leaſe, and 16 l. upon a Covenant, ſo the Parſon ſhall receave after 4 l. And they have a hundred ſuch Deviſes to couſen us withall.

II. We alſo humbly beſeeche your Fatherhoods and Wiſedomes to tender in greate Pitie the pore Clergie of London, whoſe Benefices, by the Mallice of riche Men, have already paſs'd a Melius inquirendum; and be racked a-new in her Majeſties Bokes: So that the ſhewe being great, and the Livings ſmall, that ther are not ſix competent Benefices for ſix learned Men in the whole City, as may well be proved; that it may pleaſe you to let looſe the Statute of privye Tythes; with this proviſo, That they may be examined by others of ther Gayne. For in this whole Citye yearlie ther is not 40 s. yearlie paied for privy Tythe; ſo that a Freeholder of 40 l. in the Country paieth more to the Parſon than a Citizen worth 10000 l.

III. Moreover foraſmuch as divers Engliſh Preachers, diſallowing the State Eccleſiaſtical in England, doe publicklye read beyond the Seas in Flanders, as in Antwerp, in Germany, &c. Theſe are to deſire you by Proclamation otherwiſe to provide that none hereaſter ſhall paſs over ther to read publicklie anie Lectore unleſs he give Teſtimony to his Ordinarie of his Conformitie before he goe, becauſe by frequenting ther Lectures we receive our Pariſhioners from beyond the Seas verie contemptuouſe, and rebelling againſt our State Eccleſiaſtical. And if he or they ſhall ſo do contrary to any Act made, that then the ſaid Partie or Parties ſhall be held as excommunicate upon ther Return into England againe.

IV. Item, Becauſe moſt of the Parſonage Howſes in London are now in Citizens Hands, and unrecoverable, we humbly require that ſuch Clergiemen as have no Parſonage Houſes, or not convenient Howſes, if they dwell in any Place of the Citie, it may be interpreted for them as a Reſidence.

V. Moreover, becauſe that is generally known thoroughout the whole Citie that no one Pariſh or Parſon can agree together, and that the Cauſe thereof is the privatt Readinge in Howſes, and our publick crienge owt againſt Uſurie, we humbly require that theſe Readers may be forbidden, and ſome ſtraight Puniſhment for this general and horrible Sinne may be appointed, or elſe the Preachers hereafter commaunded to hold the Peace.

VI. Alſo foraſmuch as all ſmall Almes is geven to the Poore, and leſſe now to the Univerſities than ever was at the deathe of many riche Men, but yett much geven to Sectaries and Jeſuitts, theſe are to dequire you that it be enacted, That no ſtraunge Preacher ſhall enter withine anie Man's Charge without Conference had with the Parſon Vickar, or Curate of the ſame Churche, uppon Paine of Impriſonement for one Monthe; and that no Scrivener or anie other ſhall preſume to make anie Will, unleſs the Parſon, Vickar, or Curat be ther preſent, upon Pain of Impriſonment for two Months.

VII. Alſo, foraſmuch as no Manne is in Securitie, what Proffe may ſerve him for reading the Articles, if either his Pariſhioners have forgotten the ſame, or will not teſtifie the ſame, we humbly require that it be enacted, that no Man be driven to make Proofe of reading his Articles after three Yeares quiet Poſſeſſion; ſo that he doe read them withine one Monthes Warninge, beinge at anie time thereunto required.

VIII. Moreover, foraſmuch, as manie Citizens become Members of the French and Dutch Church, and refuſe contemptuouſly ther owne Churche, we deſier that it be enacted, that no Cittizen ſhall at anie Time become anie Member or Elder in anie ſtraunge Church, but that they kepe ther own Churche, and communicate ther uppon payne of painge to the Poore Box of ther owne Parriſhe, for everie Monthe ſo continewinge, the Summ of 20 s. or elſe, to be committed to Priſon at the Ordinaries Appointment, and duringe his Pleaſure.

IX. Alſo, for as much, as the Cannons made in the Convocation 1571, be ſtronge enoughe to rule us of the Clergie, becauſe of owr Othe of Canonical Obedience, and be utterlie contemn'd of the Laitie, becauſe they be not confirm'd by Parliament, ſo that in manie Places of the Citie the Stocke of the Church is lett out to Uſurie, and the riche Men have all the Mony in their Hands, and the Pariſhioners keep Reveſtries at ther Pleaſures, and choſe Church-Wardens and Sidemen contrarie to thoſe Cannons, without the Conſent of the Parſon, we humbly require that thoſe Canons be made ſtronger to bridle all, or that the poore Miniſters be ſet free from them.

Your poore Orators, the miſerable Clergie of London.

Read and Committed, 10 Febr. 1580.

Records, Num. XCIII.

Heads of a Conference agreed upon between the King and the Miniſters, touching Church Diſcipline, for the firſt and ſecond Days meeting.

At Holyrood Houſe, the 17th of February 1585.

A. D. 1585. Paper Office.

IT is condeſcended to in reaſoning, that the Name of a Biſhop hath a ſpecial Charge and Function annex'd to it by the Word.

His Election to be a Preſentation to be directed by his Majeſty to the General Aſſembly, of whom he ſhall receive his Admiſſion, provided always that the particular Flocks being forewarn'd, have Place to oppone, as in the Election of other Miniſters. That he ſhall be appointed to a ſpecial Charge, where he ſhall keep Reſidence, and there ſerve the Cure as a Miniſter.

That the General Aſſembly ſhall chooſe out a Senate, or Presbytery, of the moſt learned and godly within his Bounds, to be limited to him, to have the Overſight of, and Viſitation, which ſhall be only us'd by the Advice of the Presbytery.

By the Senate's Advice he ſhall receive all Preſentation of Miniſters within the ſaid Bounds, and by their Advice proceed to their Trial and Collation, which Collation ſhall be ſubſcrib'd by the Biſhop or Commiſſioner, and the greateſt part of the ſaid Senate or Presbytery in Aſſembly lawfully convented; and by himſelf ſhall be done nothing but that which a particular Miniſter or Moderator is aſtricted to by his Office.

If he be ſlanderous in his Life, or Doctrine, he ſhall be anſwerable to the General Aſſembly to be appointed immediately, upon Complaint made thereof to his Majeſty, by one or two of the Miniſters, and if he be ſo found in Deed, to be depriv'd by them. Whereupon another ſhall be immediately preſented by his Majeſty thereto.

If he admit or deprive without the Conſent of the moſt part of the Senate, the Deed to be null and void, and the doing thereof a ſufficient Cauſe of Deprivation to him.

The Number of the Senate ſhall be appointed at the firſt by the General Aſſembly, with his Majeſty's Advice, and if any of the Perſons appointed thereupon depart this Life, another to be choſen in his Place by the Synodal. His Power to be Ordinis Cauſa non Juriſdictionis. He ſhall be Viſitator within his own Bounds to be appointed to him, and where he may not conveniently diſcharge the whole Bounds, called of old the Dioceſs, Commiſſioners ſhall be preſented by his Majeſty to the General Aſſembly, and ſhall be tried and admitted by them to the Office, as the Biſhops are to theirs, and to be accountable only to the General Aſſembly. And the Biſhops to have no Power within the Bounds committed unto them, no more than they have within his.

The Commiſſioners being elected (as is ſaid) to have a like Senate-Power in the Execution of their Office as the Biſhops have.

The Biſhops and Commiſſioners ſhall viſit the Presbyteries, and the Moderator of the Presbyteries ſhall viſit the particular Churches.

The ſame Cauſe of Life and Doctrine to deprive a Biſhop that deprives a Miniſter.

The Presbyteries of Perſons Eccleſiaſtical ſhall be erected in convenient Places by the General Aſſembly, with the Advice of his Majeſty and Commiſſioners, and the whole Realm to be conveniently divided to that effect.

Where, and in what Presbytery the Perſon preſented is to be admitted Miniſter, upon Advertiſement made to the Biſhop, or Commiſſioner, he ſhall repair thither immediately with his Senate of Presbytery, and upon tryal taken admitted, or refus'd.

Aſſemblies.

Synodal Aſſemblies to be twice in the Year.

1ſt. Synodal to be the 17th of April.

(1.) General Aſſembly to be the 10th of May next in Edinborough, or where his Majeſty ſhall otherwiſe appoint, and to be convocate by his Majeſty's Proclamation, and Miſſives to the Biſhops and Commiſſioners. And in the ſaid Aſſembly, where, God willing, his Highneſs means himſelf to be perſonally preſent, his Majeſty, by the Advice of ſuch of the Number preſent as he ſhall adjoin unto him, ſhall adviſe and ſet down good and ſolid Order for the convocating and appointing all other Circumſtances belonging thereto in time to come.

Moderator of the firſt General Aſſembly ſhall be choſen by moſt Voices.

Juriſdiction.

Juriſdiction of the Church conſiſteth in Doctrine, Miniſtration of the Sacraments, and Exerciſes of Diſcipline, and Correction of Manners by Excommunication and other uſual Cenſures of the Church, as likewiſe Abſolution of the ſame.

That there are ſome Offences which properly appertain to the Church to enquire upon, as Hereſy, Apoſtacy, Witchcraft, Idolatry, Adultery, and all other Frailty in the Fleſh, Blaſphemy, Perjury, Uſury, abuſing of the Sacraments, breaking of the Sabbath.

That there are other which the Church may puniſh by the Cenſures, and not cognoſce upon, as Slanderous, Strickers, open Diſobeyers to their Parents, Smoulderers of Children, and ſuch like. And notwithſtanding that the Civil Magiſtrates have remitted the Penalty of the Law to the Committer.

That Mr. Robert Mongommery Biſhop of Glaſcow, ſhall be repreſented to the General Aſſembly, and there purge his Offence, and be orderly reconciled to the Church.

That Mr. William Watſon, in his odious Compariſon of his Majeſty to Jeroboam, and making him inferior to him, is thought to have committed an Offence worthy to be amended, and purg'd in open Pulpit, and which the Miniſters preſent ſhall wiſh and deſire him to do, the rather for his Promiſe made to give Satisfaction.

Apud Holyrood Houſe, the 19th of February, 1585.

It is agreed and thought meeteſt that the Subdiviſions of divers Cauſes of Deprivation, voting in Parliament, Commiſſioners, and Moderators Stipends, and the ſetting a ſtedfaſt and continual Order of the Miniſters Stipends, ſhall be remitted to a new Conference, to be appointed by his Majeſty here at Holyrood Houſe, or where it ſhall pleaſe him to be, for the time of eight or ten Days, before the next General Aſſembly, ſome choſen Men of the Miniſtry, and ſuch others as his Majeſty ſhall think meeteſt for that Purpoſe, being warned there.

Touching the Faſting General, (that is a General Faſt) it is remitted to the General Aſſembly, the Particular to every particular Church according to their Zeal, and the preſent Occaſion.

Mr. Secretary Knolly's Letter to Sir Francis Walſingham.

Paper Office. March 20. 1588.

TOuching the Writing I ſent unto you Yeſterday, concerning the Superiority of Biſhops, I muſt needs ſay unto you, that my Lord Archbiſhop and the reſt take a dangerous Courſe againſt her Majeſty's Supreme Government, for they do claim a Superiority of Government to be knit to their Biſhopricks jure divino directly. Altho' they do grant that all the Superiority that they have as Biſhops, that they have the ſame by way of Mediation of her Majeſty, and their Meaning is, that becauſe her Majeſty doth make them Biſhops, whereunto their Superiority is knit (as they ſuppoſe) therefore they do grant it by way of Mediation, they have their Superiority of the Queen's Majeſty, never the leſs when they are once made Biſhops by her Majeſty, then they do claim their ſaid Superiority to be due unto them as knit unto their Biſhopricks directly jure divino, how weak ſoever their Reaſons be to maintain their claim'd Superiority. But my Lord Treaſurer is partly perſuaded, that the ſaid Biſhops do not deny that their Superiority is holden by them as a Grant given unto them directly from her Majeſty, and that they do not claim their ſaid Superiority directly to be given unto them, when they are Biſhops jure divino, that is to ſay, directly from the Word of God. But I muſt needs ſay, that my Lord Archbiſhop of Canterbury, and my Lord Biſhop of Wincheſter, have proteſted and plainly avow'd unto me, that the Biſhops of England have a Superiority over their inferiour Brethren directly jure divino, and prove their ſaid Claim of Superiority to be knit to their Biſhopricks directly jure divino: And moreover, the Archbiſhop of Canterbury's Book againſt Cartwright (when the ſaid Biſhop was but Dr. Whitgift) doth manifeſtly declare the ſaid Archbiſhop's Opinion in that Behalf in many Places of the ſaid Book: Nevertheleſs, if my Lord Treaſurer would in her Majeſties Name demand of the ſaid Biſhops, whether they would claim any ſuch Superiority directly jure divino, to be due unto 'em to the Prejudice of her Majeſty's Supreme Government, then I do verily think that they durſt not ſtand to their claim'd Superiority, unleſs it be upon hope that her Majeſty would yield unto them their claim'd Superiority, to the Prejudice of her Supreme Government, and to the light Regard of the opening the High-way to Popery, to be made by the Jeſuits to follow upon the ſame.

Regiſt. Fletcher. A.D. 1595.

1. General Obſervations of the Conſtitutions. TOuching the Conſtitutions lately imprinted, publiſhed, and by her Majeſty commanded to be obſerved, that as well every Judge as all Regiſters, Aparritors, and all other inferiour Miniſters, do every one of them, ſo far as they do any way concern himſelf, diligently and carefully put the ſaid Conſtitutions, and every part of them in Execution, and do within the time in any of the ſaid Conſtitutions limited, return Certificates to his Lordſhip of all ſuch Matters as they by the ſaid Conſtitutions are to certifie.

2. Curates and Schoolmaſters. It is deſired, that none be received or admitted to ſerve as Curate by any Judge Eccleſiaſtical within this Dioceſs having Authority to grant ſuch Licenſe, nor to teach either Grammar or Petites, either publickly or privately, who ſhall not before he be admitted exhibit unto the Judge either Letters Teſtimonial, commonly called Dimiſſory's, from the Ordinary in whoſe Dioceſs he continued laſt for the ſpace of one Year before, or Letters Teſtimonial under the Hands of the Maſters, and Seniors, or Fellows of the College in Cambridge, or Oxford, where he had his laſt Reſidence one Year before, or a true Certificate under the Hand-writing of the next Juſtice of Peace to the Pariſh where the Party dwelt for one Year before; together with the Subſcription of the Parſon, Church-Wardens, and other honeſt near Neighbours of the ſaid Pariſh, teſtifying his honeſt Converſation of Life, and his Obedience to her Majeſties Government Eccleſiaſtical, and that for Learning he be qualified as the Conſtitutions require in a Deacon.

3. Judges Seals. It is deſired, that no Eccleſiaſtical Judge of this Dioceſs ſhall have any other Seal, but one for the ſealing of all Matters incident to his Office, which Seal ſhall always be kept by himſelf, or his lawful Subſtitute exerciſing Juriſdiction for him, remaining within the Juriſdiction of the ſaid Judge, which Seal ſhall contain the Title of the Juriſdiction which the ſaid Judge executes.

4. Multiplicity of Courts. For avoiding the Grievances ſo much complain'd againſt the Judges in partibus for the multiplicity of their Courts, whereby the Subject is drawn to an infinite Charge, and to a great Confuſion. It is deſired, that neither Archdeacon nor Commiſſary, do keep Court any oftner than as twenty Years ago they uſually did, and that in their accuſtomed and antiently uſed Places of Court: And that neither the Commiſſary nor Archdeacon do keep any Court within the ſeven Days at the ſooneſt the one of the other.

5. Bills of Preſentment. It is deſired, that no Pariſh which is warn'd to any Viſitation either of the Biſhop himſelf, or of any Archdeacon or Commiſſary, do pay for the exhibiting any Bill of Preſentment but only once in the Year, when the firſt Bill is brought in, and then but 4*d*. Neither that any Regi-ſtrary or other Officer do take any thing for any of the reſt of the Bills, which the ſaid Church-Wardens do the other three Quarters uſually exhibit to the Court.

6. Judges not to proceed without the Regiſtrary.

It is deſired that no Eccleſiaſtical Judge of the Dioceſs of London do ſpeed any judicial Act whatſoever, aſſuming any to write or ſpeed the ſame, ſave only the ordinary Regiſtrary of that Court, or his lawful Deputy. And that the Regiſtraries in partibus do take that Order by themſelves, and their lawful Deputies, that they do give a ſpecial Attendance on the Judges at their ordinary Courts; and likewiſe to attend the Judge at ſuch convenient times as the Parties who do at extraordinary times implorare judicis officium ſhall likewiſe require the Regiſtrary's Attendance, and that no Bonds be taken but in the Preſence of the Regiſtrary or his Deputy.

7. Subſtitutes to Judges.

It is deſired that all Eccleſiaſtical Judges exerciſing Juriſdiction within the Dioceſs of London have a ſpecial Regard to ſubſtitute none to keep any Court for them (if he be a Miniſter) who is not a publick Preacher, and a beneficed Man. If he be no Miniſter, not any under the Degree of Batchellor of Law, and a Man of modeſt and good Converſation; the want of which Care has bred great Contempt and Diſdain to the ſaid Courts.

8. Promotores Voluntarii in Cauſes of Correction.

It is deſired that whoſoever prays Proceſs againſt any Party ad Reſpondendum Articulis ad Promotionem Partis, ſhall be by the Judge denyed that Proceſs, unleſs he firſt deliver the Articles, or the Effect of them, in writing to the ſaid Judge, and offer Cautionem Obligatoriam to the Biſhop of London, to proſecute the Cauſe without letting it fall, or making any Compoſition, or uſing any Colluſion to fruſtrate the direct judicial Courſe thereof.

9. Crimina graviora to be heard only in open Court.

It is deſired that no Eccleſiaſtical Judge whatſoever, of the Dioceſs of London, do hear any Cauſe of Inceſt, Adultery, Fornication, Symmony, notorious offenſive Drunkenneſs, or any other publick and ſcandalous Offence, but only in open Court; neither that any of them do appoint any Penance to be done for any ſuch Offence, but publickly in open Court; neither that after they have the Lord Biſhop's Conſent they do make any Commutation but publickly in open Court.

10. The time of performing of publick Penance.

It is deſired that no Eccleſiaſtical Judge of the Dioceſs of London do appoint any publick Penance for any of the aforeſaid Offences to be done at any other time ſave on the Sunday at Morning Prayer, betwixt the reading of the firſt Leſſon and the Ten Commandments, and that the Form of Confeſſion of the Offender's Fault be conceived by the Judge, and ſet down in Writing by the Regiſtrary, and a Copy of it deliver'd by the Regiſtrary to be pronounc'd by the Party offending, with an audible Voice, ſo as the whole Congregation may hear it, at the time of his Penance doing.

11. Proceedings Ex Officio.

Whereas great Offence has heretofore been given againſt the Eccleſiaſtical Judges Proceedings ex Officio, upon an Apparitor's Complaint, or without any other good Ground or Preſentment; It is deſired that the Judges of every Court Eccleſiaſtical, of the Dioceſs of London, do give their Conſent to an uniform Order, not to proceed in any Matter of Office, but upon Preſentment or Notoriety of the Offence. Neither ſo ordinarily as in ſome Juriſdictions heretofore hath been us'd to vex the Subject, by appointing promotorem neceſſarium, ſo to draw a Charge of paying for Articles and the Promoters Fees, many times for ſmall Offences, and without any great Ground of Infamy againſt the Party, to warrant the Judges Proceedings. And that the Judges will likewiſe take Order where there is Clamoſa Inſinuatio, or publick Infamy rais'd, which is by the Church-Wardens conceal'd, and not preſented; in that Caſe the Judge concealing Nomen Delatoris to ſend the Crime and the Fame thereupon rais'd to the Church-Wardens of the Pariſh, where the Offence is related to be; and to cauſe them to inform themſelves againſt the next Court following, or ſooner, (if they ſo can) of the ſaid Fame, and to ſend unto the Judge of that Court, who ſends unto them their Anſwer in Writing unto the ſaid Delation: So ſhall the Court to which the Cauſe is firſt related, be poſſeſs'd of that Cauſe, and Sin ſhall not eſcape unpuniſh'd.

12. Significavit.

It is deſir'd that no Significavit be return'd into her Majeſty's High Court of Chancery by any Eccleſiaſtical Judge whatſoever, who has not his Commiſſion immediately from the Biſhop for doing thereof. But that all Archdeacons, and other Judges Eccleſiaſtical, do carefully obſerve the Law in that Caſe provided, to ſend Letters of Requeſt to the Biſhop in Caſe where any Significavit is by them decreed, certifying the Contempt and the Names of the Parties, according to the uſual Form therein by Law appointed.

13. Pecuniary Mulct.

It is deſired that no Eccleſiaſtical Judge of the Dioceſs of London ſhall lay any pecuniary Mulct upon any Offender before publick Penance enjoyn'd as before, and the Party delinquent have judicially pray'd Commutation of it.

14. Certificate of proceeding in Cauſes of Correction.

To the end that I may the better hereafter anſwer ſuch Complaints as ſhall be made againſt the Eccleſiaſtical Courts of this Dioceſs, in compounding or overſlipping enormous Offences complain'd of unto them: It is deſired to be aſſented to by all Judges exerciſing Juriſdiction Eccleſiaſtical within the Dioceſs of London, that every one of them do once every Year, namely betwixt Michaelmas and Allhollantide, certify to me the Biſhop of London, under the Hand-writing of every Judge and his ſeveral Regiſtraries, the Names, and Sirnames of all Perſons who are preſented or detected unto them for any Inceſt, Adultery, Fornication, Symony, notorious offenſive Drunkenneſs, or any other publick ſcandalous Offence; how many of them have perform'd any publick Penance, and what it was, together with the Day and Form he did it in; how many of them have ſtood Excommunicate for not Appearance; how many in not performing the Penance ſo enjoin'd them, and how long they have ſtood ſo Excommunicate; how many of them have appeal'd from the Judge that proceeded againſt them; what Court has inhibited the Judge, and how long they have ſtood inhibited for that Cauſe; how many of them have had their Penance commuted, by what Warrant it has been done, and to what Uſes the Money ſo order'd to be commuted for, has been employ'd.

15. The Number of Apparitors.

It is deſired that every Eccleſiaſtical Judge exerciſing Juriſdiction within London Dioceſs, ſhall by Eaſter next, certify under his hand Writing, to me the Biſhop, the Number of all the Churches, within every Deanery ſubject to his Juriſdiction, the Names of all the Apparitors who do ſerve under him, the Names of every Deanery for which he ſerveth, to the end that the multiplicity of them may be reſtrain'd according to the Conſtitution in that behalf lately authorized.

16. Apparitors not to be Adminiſtratores, nor Collectores Bonorum.

It is deſired that no Apparitor whatſoever be appointed Adminiſtrator of the Goods of any defunct, unleſs he be proximus Conſanguineus to the Party, or a Creditor bonæ fidei without Colluſion;

neither any Letters ad Colligendum (which are not to be granted without the Biſhop's own Conſent to any Party) ſhall be granted to any Apparitor.

17. Apparitors to make true Returns.

It is deſired that every Apparitor be bound by the Judge under whom he ſerves, not to vex the Subject with Extortion, and that he ſhall make a true Return of all Proceſſes committed to him to execute; that he ſhall not keep back any Excommunication, Suſpenſion, Interdiction, Sequeſtration, or other Matter incident to his Office deliver'd him to execute, but ſhall make true Return of all Matters committed to his Charge to execute, according to the time by the Judge of the Court limited unto him.

18. Care of Church-Wardens Oaths.

It is laſtly deſired that the Archdeacons ſhall require all Pariſh Prieſts, eſpecially thoſe that preach at any Viſitation, in their Sermon to ſtir up the Church-Wardens and Sidemen to a reſpective Care and Conſcience of their Oaths, in diſcharging for their parts their Duties, for the Puniſhment of Sin, and all Offences, which they are charged by the Articles deliver'd to them to make enquiry of.

Pope Clement the Eighth's Inſtructions to the Arch-Prieſt Blackwell.

Dilecto Filio Magiſtro Georgio Blackwello noſtro, & Sedis Apoſtolicæ Notario, Regni Angliæ Archipreſbytero.

Paper Office, A. D. 1602.

Dilecte fili noſter Salutem & Apoſtolicam Benedictionem. Venerunt nupèr ad nos nonnulli Sacerdotes Angli, qui de Gravaminibus ſibi à te illatis vehementer conqueſti ſunt, ac multo ante ad nos & Sedem Apoſtolicam appellaverant: Quibus auditis, & diligenter quæ pro utraque parte faciunt, conſideratis: Nos te ante omnia monendum eſſe cenſuimus, ut Autoritate à nobis & Apoſtolicâ Sede tibi conceſſa, cautè & prudenter utaris, neque facultates tuas excedas, ut viſus fuiſti quibuſdam in rebus exceſſiſſe. Nam Juriſdictionem quidèm te habere volumus in omnes Angliæ Sacerdotes, juxta Formam in Literis Deputationis tuæ in Archipreſbyterum à bonæ memoriæ Henrico Cardinale Cajetano factæ tibi hactenus præſcriptam, & in Caſibus in iiſdem Literis Contentis tantum, nullam tamen volumus exercere te poteſtatem in Preſbyteros qui ſeminariorum Alumni non fuerunt, aut in Laicos, neque facultatem tibi competere inſligendi Cenſuras, aut Statuta condendi, neque contra Preſbyteros appellantes qui ad Romanam Curiam venerunt, procedendi, niſi Regni Angliæ Protectore nunc, & pro tempore exiſtente, prius conſulto, & de omnibus certiore facto, ejuſque Sententia expectata, neque auferendi vel ſuſpendendi Facultates à Sede Apoſtolicâ, ſeu aliis Superioribus quovis modo----veſtris Preſbyteris qui ad nos appellaverant conceſſas, niſi de Conſilio & Mandato ejuſdem Protectoris, neque eoſdem Preſbyteros de una in aliam Reſidentiam niſi ex Cauſa transferendi: Quas quidem Facultates iidem Preſbyteri Appellantes ſibi antea conceſſas cauſa & occaſione prætenſi Schiſmatis, Rebellionis, & Inobedientiæ nunquam amiſerant, prout nec eos illas amiſiſſe quatenus opus ſit, per haſce noſtras Literas declaramus. Atque ut tu ſine ulla cujuſquam Offenſione, ac majore cum animi Quiete & omnium Pace & Concordia Officio tuo fungaris, Auctoritate Apoſtolica tenore præſentium tibi in virtutæ ſanctæ obedientiæ mandamus, ut nulla ad Officium tuum ſpectantia expedias, communices, aut tractes cum Provinciali Societatis Jeſu, vel aliis Religionis ejuſdem Societatis in Anglia exiſtentibus, nè ſcilicet nova Diſcordiæ & Contentionis inter eos & Preſbyteros appellantes, Occaſio præbeatur, ac propterea Inſtructionem tibi à dicto Henrico Cardinale Cajetano ſuper hâc re traditam pari Autoritate per præſentes pœnitus tollimus & abrogamus. Inſupèr tibi præcipimus nè de Eccleſiæ Anglicanæ Adminiſtratione & Regimine, vel de rebus ad dictum Regimen & Officium tuum, pertinentibus per Literas ſive interpoſitam Perſonam, aut aliter quovis modo cum Religioſis ejuſdem Societatis in Romana Curia, vel alibi ubicunque commorantibus agas, ſed omnia ad nos Romanum Pontificem, aut ad Protectores pro tempore exiſtentes referas, non quod nos aliquid ſiniſtri aut mali de iis Religioſis ſuſpicemur, quos ſcimus ſincero Pietatis zelo duci, & quæ Dei ſunt vere quærere, ſed quod pro pace & quiete inter Catholicos in eo regno tuenda ſic convenire judicemus, quod etiam iidem Religioſi Societatis Jeſu verum eſſe atque expedire cenſuerant. Licitum tamen ſit Rectoribus Collegiorum ſeu Seminariorum, ejuſdem Societatis Alumnis in eorum Receſſu, dare Literas Teſtimoniales & Commendatitias tibi, & pro tempore exiſtente Archipreſbytero directas, juxta Formam à Protectore præſcribendam, ac etiam integrum ſit dictis Religioſis in Anglia commorantibus, eoſdem alumnos in eorum acceſſu fovere, dirigere, & adjuvare; ſimulatque vero contigerit aliquos ex modernis Aſſiſtentibus deficere, ſimiliter tibi mandamus ut tres ex Preſbyteris appellantibus in eorum locum ſucceſſive, prout eos deficere contigerit, ſubſtituas, quorum Opera in officii tui in Negotiis utaris. Monemus etiam ut Eleemoſynas quæ quotannis ex largitione Fidelium copioſè admodum, ut accipimus, colliguntur indigentibus Perſonis, ac præſertìm iis qui pro fide Catholica in Carcere detinentur, largè & fidelitèr diſtribuas; deque Appellationibus ad nos & ſedem Apoſtolicam interpoſitis in Caſibus quibus de Jure deferendum erit, deferas, quæ quidem Appellationes ad Protecterum nunc, & pro tempore exiſtentem, devolvantur. Cæterum ut omnis hujus Controverſiæ Memoria penitus aboleatur, eadem Auctoritate damnamus, & prohibemus omnes libros ubicunque impreſſos in quibus aliquid continetur, contra Inſtitutionem Societatis Jeſu, ſeu contra privatas illius Perſonas, & qui etiam in alterutram Partem criminoſi ſeu quovis modo injurioſi ſunt, illoſque ab omnibus damnari, prohiberi, & interdici mandamus. Ac inſupèr omnibus & ſingulis, ſive Laicis, ſive Clericis Secularibus, ac cujuſvis Ordinis & Inſtituti Regularibus, & Nominatìm ipſis Preſbyteris appellantibus, & Religioſis Societatis Jeſu, aliiſque quibuſcunque ejuſdem Regni Angliæ, ſive in eodem Regno, ſive extra illud, exiſtentibus, ſub amiſſionis omnium facultatum à Sede Apoſtolica vel aliis Superioribus quovis modo ipſis, ut præfertur, conceſſarum, necnon Excommunicationis ipſo Facto abſque alia Declaratione incurrendis pœnis interdicimus, & prohibemus nè libros illos pro alterutra parte in poſterum edant niſi prius obtenta Protectoris ſimilitèr nunc, & pro tempore exiſtentis, Approbatione & Licentia. Quicunque vero aliquod Genus Librorum Literarumque & Tractatuum in quibus alicujus veri Catholici Fama violari poterit, in poſterum, aut aliquando fuerit violata, aut ex quibus excitari poſſint veteres vel novæ contentiones, vel quæcunque alia Scripta contumelioſa, ex quibus Odium diſſidiumve inter partes quovis modo renovari poſſit, communicaverint, ſeu pœnes ſe retinuerint, vel evulgaverint, aut aliquid de hac Controverſia publicè vel privatim ſcripſerint, defendendo vel impugnando unam vel alteram partem, aut Perſonas aliquas vel Domus, aut qui cum Hæreticis in Præjudicium Catholicorum quovis Prætextu vel Cauſâ participaverint aut communicaverint, eos in omnibus & ſingulis Caſibus eiſdem Amiſſionis Facultatum ſuarum, nec non Excommunicationis ipſo Facto, ut præfertur, incurrendis pœnis volumus ſubjacere. Et licet nos ex iis quæ ab utraque Parte audivimus longè plura ad te ſcribere poteramus: Tamen cum te mentem noſtram ex his quæ diximus intelligere poſſe arbitramur, paucis contenti ti ſuimus, ac ſolummodo tè, ac omnes tam Religioſos quam Presbyteros Seculares quoſcunque, & eos qui ad nos appellarunt hortamur in Domino, ut communi privatæque inter vos Paci ac Concordiæ ſtudeatis, ac id ipſum invicèm ſentiatis, non alta Sapientes, ſed Humilibus conſentientes. Nam ſi Evangelicam Prædicationem in Charitate Chriſti ſuſcepiſtis, cur Evangelicam Pacem in eadem Charitate non ſectamini? Charitas omnia ſuffert, non irritatur, non æmulatur. Charitas docet nos Inimicos diligere, quanto magis amicos & Socios Fidei & Laborum. Itaque vos per Viſcera Miſericordiæ Chriſti obſecramus, ut diligatis invicem, nemini detis ullam Offenſionem, nulli malum pro malo reddatis, ut non vituperetur Miniſterium veſtrum, ut benefaciatis omnibus, providentes bona non ſolum coram Deo, ſed etiam coram Hominibus, & quod ex vobis eſt cum omibus Pacem habentes,, ut fructum quem in Laboribus veſtris in ſummis Periculis & Tribulationibus quæritis, & nos cum Eccleſia univerſa toto Animo expectamus: tandem, adjuvante Domino, qui eſt vera Pax & Charitas, cum Animi noſtri Exultatione referatis. Num. C.

A brief Note of ſuch Matters as were agreed on by the King's Majeſty, the Lords of his Council, and the Clergy, to be reform'd in the Government of the Church, January 18. 160$\frac{3}{4}$.

HIS Majeſty in an excellent Oration reduced all the Points to certain Heads. The firſt was concerning the Book of Common Prayer, wherein four things were concluded to be amended. Paper Office.

Firſt, The Abſolution which contain'd nothing amiſs in the Matter, and only quarrell'd for the Name, therefore hereafter it ſhall be called the Abſolution or general Remiſſion of Sins.

Secondly, The Confirmation, which being ſhew'd to be no Sacrament with us, but of very good Uſe for preparing of Children to the Communion, it was concluded it ſhould remain only with the Alteration of the Name, that it ſhould be called the Confirmation, or rather the Examination of the ſaid Children.

Thirdly, That private Baptiſm now by Laymen, or Women, ſhall be called the private Baptiſm by the Miniſtry and Curacy only. And all the Queſtions in that Baptiſm which inſinuate it to be done by Women, taken away.

Fourthly, The Apocrypha that has any Repugnancy to the Canonical Scripture, ſhall not be read, and other places choſen, which are either Explanations of Scripture, or ſerve beſt for Godlineſs and Manners.

The Second, was concerning Matters of Juriſdiction, concerning Biſhops and high Commiſſioners.

For Biſhops, it was concluded that their Juriſdiction ſhould be ſomewhat attenuated, ſo that they ſhould either have the Dean, and Chapter, or ſome grave Miniſtry in Ordination, Suſpenſion, Degradation, &c. and not to exerciſe their Authority alone.

For the high Commiſſioners, it was concluded, that the Court ſhould be reformed, and to deal only in Cauſes of an high Nature, and to have no Commiſſioners ſit but Men of high Honour.

Excommunication by Chancellors and Commiſſaries, as is now us'd, ſhall be taken away, both in Name and Nature; and a Writ out of the Chancery to puniſh the Contumacious, ſhall be framed.

The third Point for preaching the Word, and maintaining the true Doctrine.

For preaching, that a more learned Miniſtry and Maintenance for them be provided in ſuch places in England where there is want.

Then as few double benefic'd Men and Pluralities as may be: where they have double Benefices to maintain preaching, and to have their Livings near one another.

And that the Kingdom of Ireland, the Country of Wales, and the Borders of Scotland, be planted with Schools and Preachers: And for better effecting of this, Commiſſioners beſt experienced in every of thoſe Countries are appointed.

For Doctrine, that there be one uniform Tranſlation of the Bible to be made, and that only to be uſed in all the Churches of England, and that the Articles of Religion made primo Eliz. be explain'd and enlarg'd, and that no Man do read, or preach againſt any of them.

The Fourth Head to be reform'd, rather by Care of good Magiſtrates, than by ſtraitneſs of Law.

As that Care be taken to inhibit popiſh and peſtilent Books, both at home, and for coming over; and if they do come over, to deliver them to Perſons only fit to have them.

Then a Care to be had who do not receive the Communion once a Year; the Miniſters to certify the Biſhops, the Biſhops the Archbiſhops, the Archbiſhops the King.

Laſtly, For matter of Ceremonies and Order, being things indifferent, that the Rule of the Apoſtle be kept, that all things be done to Edification; that ſo neither grave, ſober and peaceable Perſons, be not too far urg'd at firſt, nor turbulent and unquiet Perſons, and buſie Spirits, to do what they liſt.

Theſe are the Concluſions of this Conference, wherein his Majeſty ſate as Moderator, to the great Admiration of all.

Admodum Reverendo Domino Georgio Blackwello Archipresbytero Anglorum, Robertus S. R. E. Cardinalis Bellarminus S. D.

Paper Office. Anno Dom. 1607.

Orationibus Deo commendare non deſtiti, me quoque in tua Memoria toto hoc tempore vixiſſe, & in tuis Orationibus ad Altare Domini locum aliquem habuiſſe non dubito.

Ita igitur ad hoc uſque Tempus non Verbis aut Literis, ſed Opere & Veritate, ut Sanctus Joannes loquitur, alter in alterius Dilectione permanſimus. Sed hoc Silentium rumpere coegit Nuncius, qui diebus iſtis de tuis Vinculis & Carcere ad nos venit, qui quidem Nuhcius etſi triſtis videri poterat ob jacturam paſtoralis tuæ Solicitudinis quam Eccleſia iſta fecit, tamen lætus quoque videbatur quoniam ad Martyrii Gloriam, quo dono Dei nullum eſt fœlicius, propinquabis, ut qui tot annis gregem tuum verbo & Doctrina paviſſes, nunc Exemplo Patientiæ glorioſus paſceres. Verum hanc lætitiam non mediocriter interturbavit ac ferè corrupit triſtis alius Nuncius, qui de Conſtantia tua in recuſando illicito Juramento ab Adverſariis tentata, forte etiam labefacta & proſtrata, ſucceſſit. Neque enim, Frater Chariſſime, Juramentum illud ideo licitum eſſe potuit quod aliquo modo temperatum & Modificatum offerebatur. Scis enim ejuſmodi Modificationes nihil eſſe aliud quam Satanæ Dolos atque Verſutias, ut Fides Catholica de Primatu Sedis Apoſtolicæ vel apertè vel obſcurè petatur, pro qua Fide tot inclyti Martyres in iſta ipſa Anglia ad Sanguinem uſque pugnarunt. Certè enim quibuſbunque Verbis Juramentum ab Adverſariis Fidei concipiatur in Regno iſto eo tendit, ut Autoritas Capitis Eccleſiæ a Succeſſore Sancti Petri ad Succeſſorem Henrici Octavi in Anglia transferatur. Quod enim obtenditur de periculo vitæ Regis, ſi Summus Pontifex eam in Anglia Poteſtatem habeat, quam in aliis omnibus Chriſtianis Regnis habet, inane prorſus eſſe, omnes qui ſunt aliqua Prudentia præditi facile vident, neque enim auditum eſt unquam ab initio naſcentis Eccleſiæ uſque ad hæc noſtra Tempora, ut ullus Pontifex Maximus Principem ullum quamvis Hæreticum, quamvis Ethnicum, quamvis Perſecutorem cædi mandaverit, aut cædem fortè ab aliquo patratam probaverit. Et cur quæſo unus Rex Angliæ timet quod ex tot Chriſtianis Principibus nullus timet! Sed ut dixi varii iſti Prætextus decipula ſunt & Stratagemata Satanæ, qualia non pauca in Hiſtoriis veterum temporum inveniuntur, quæ facile referre poſſim, ſi non Epiſtolam, ſed librum integrum ſcribendum ſuſcepiſſem; unum tantum Exempli Gratia ad Memoriam tibi revocabo. Scribit Sanctus Gregorius Nazianzenus in prima Oratione in Julianum, Imperatorem illum ut ſimplicibus Chriſtianis imponeret, in imaginibus Imperatoris quas Romani civili quodam genere honoris pro more adorabant, imagines Deorum falſorum admiſcuiſſe, ut nemo poſſet Imperatoris Imaginem adorare quin ſimul Deorum ſimulachris Cultum adhiberet. Hinc nimirum fiebat, ut plurimi deciperentur, & ſi qui forte Fraudem ſub Imperatoris adorati Imaginem venerari recuſarent, ii graviſſime punirentur, ut qui Cæſarem in ſua Imagine contempſiſſent. Tale aliquid in Juramento vobis oblato mihi videre videor, quod ea fraude compoſitum eſt, ut nemo poſſit Proditionem in Regem deteſtari, civilemque Subjectionem profiteri, quin Primatum Sedis Catholicæ perfidè abnegare cogatur. Sed Chriſti Servi ac præſertim primarii Domini Sacerdotes ubi Periculum Fidei ſubeſſe poſſit tantum abeſſe debent à ſuſceptione illiciti Juramenti; ut ab omni etiam ſuſpicione ſimulationis præſtiti Juramenti cavere debeant, nè fidelibus populis ullum Prævaricationis exemplum reliquiſſe videantur. Quod egregiè præſtitit inſignis ille Eleazarus, qui neque porcinas carnes comedere, neque ſimulare comediſſe voluit, quamvis graviſſima Tormenta ſibi cerneret imminere, nè aut ipſe (ut in ſecundo libro Maccabæorum) aut multi Juvenum per eam ſimulationem ad Legis prævaricationem animarentur. Neque minus fortitèr magnus Baſilius & exemplo ad res noſtras magis accommodato, cum Valente Imperatore ſe geſſit. Nam ut in Hiſtoria ſcribit Theodoretus cum Præfectus Imperatoris Hæretici hortaretur ſanctum Baſilium ut non vellet propter parvam Dogmatum ſubtilitatem Imperatori reſiſtere: Reſpondit Vir ille ſanctiſſimus & prudentiſſimus, non eſſe ferendum ut de Dogmatibus divinis vel una ſyllaba corrumpatur, ſed potius pro eorum Defenſione omne Genus ſupplicii amplectendum. Equidem arbitror non deeſſe apud vos qui Dogmatum ſubtilitatem eſſè dicant, quæ in Juramento Catholicis Hominibus propoſito, continentur, & non eſſe propter Rem tam parvam Regis Imperio reluctandum: Sed non deerunt etiam Viri ſancti ac magno Baſilio ſimiles, qui palam affirmabunt, non eſſe de divinis Dogmatibus vel minimam aliquam ſyllabam corrumpendam, etiamſi Tormenta & Mors ipſa toleranda proponatur. Inter hos unum, vel potius horum Principem atque Anteſignanum te eſſe par eſt. Et quamvis vel inopinata comprehenſio, vel acerbitas perſecutionis, vel ſenectutis imbecillitas, vel quid aliud in cauſa fuerit, ut conſtantia titubaverit, confidimus tamen de Domini pietate, & de diuturna tua virtute fore, ut qui Sancti Petri, & Sancti Marcellini caſum aliqua ex parte imitatus videris, eorundem fortitudinem in viribus reparandis, & veritate aſſerenda, felicitèr imiteris. Nam ſi rem totam diligenter apud te cogitare volueris, videbis pròfecto non eſſe rem parvam quæ ob Juramentum iſtud in diſcrimen adducitur, ſed unum ex præcipuis fidei noſtræ capitibus, ac Religionis Catholicæ fundamentis. Audi enim quid Apoſtolus veſter magnus Gregorius ſcribit, Apoſtolicæ Sedis Reverentia nullius præſumptione turbetur. Tunc enim membrorum ſtatus integer perſeverat, ſi caput Fidei nulla pulſatur injuria. Itaque Sancto Gregorio teſte cum de Primatu Sedis Apoſtolicæ, vel turbando, vel minuendo, vel tollendo, ſatagitur, de ipſo capite Fidei amputando, ac de totius corporis omniumque membrorum ſtatu diſſipando ſatagitur. Quod ipſum Sanctus Leo confirmat in ſermone tertio de aſſumptione ſua ad Pontificatum, cum ait, ſpecialis cura à Domino ſuſcipitur, & pro fide Petri propriè ſupplicatur, tanquàm aliorum ſtatus certior ſit futurus, ſi mens Principis victa non fuerit. Ex quo idem ipſe in Epiſtola ad Epiſcopos Viennenſis Provinciæ affirmare non dubitat, neceſsè eſſe exortem illum myſterii eſſe Divini, qui auſus fuerit à Petri ſoliditate recedere. Qui rurſum ait, quiſquis huic ſedi Principatum exiſtimat denegandum, illius quidem nullo modo poteſt minuere Dignitatem, ſed inflatus ſpiritu ſuperbiæ ſuæ ſemetipſum in inferno demergit. At hæc quidem & alia ejuſdem generis multa tibi notiſſima eſſe certe ſcio, qui præter cæteros libros Viſibilem Monarchiam Sanderi tui Scriptoris Diligentiſſimi, & de Eccleſia Anglicana optimè meriti, ſæpè legiſti, quique ignorare non potes, ſanctiſſimos viros, eoſque doctiſſimos, Johannem Roffenſem, & Thomam Morum, pro hoc uno graviſſimo dogmate, duces ad martyrium plurimis aliis cum ingenti Anglicæ Nationis gloria, noſtra memoria, fuiſſe. Sed ad memoriam revocare tibi volui, ut colligas te, & magnitudinem rei conſiderans, non tuo judicio nimis fidas, neque plus ſapias quam oportet ſapere. Etſi forte lapſus tuus non ex inconſideratione, ſed ex infirmitate humana, ex metu carceris & ſuppliciorum profectus eſt, non anteponas libertatem temporalem, libertati Gloriæ Fi- liorum Dei: Neque ob momentaneam & levem Tribulationem fugiendam, amittere velis æternum Gloriæ Pondus, quod ipſa Tribulatio operatur in te: Bonum Certamen diu certâſti, Curſum fermè conſummâſti, Fidem tot annis ſervâſti. Noli igitur tantorum Laborum præmium tam facilè perdere; noli Corona Juſtitiæ, quæ tibi jamdudum paratur, teipſum privare. Noli tot Patrum & Filiorum tuorum Vultus confundere: In te ſunt hoc tempore conjecti Oculi totius Eccleſiæ. Quinetiam ſpectaculum factus es Mundo, Angelis, & Hominibus: Noli in extremo actu ita te gerere, ut & tuis Luctum, & Gaudium hoſtibus relinquas. Sed contra potiùs, quod omnino ſperamus, & pro quo ad Deum noſtrum aſſiduè Preces fundimus, vexillum Fidei glorioſe, erigas, & quam contriſtaveras, lætam facias Eccleſiam, nec jam ſolum veniam merearis à Domino, ſed Coronam; Vale, viriliter age, & confortetur Cor tuum.

MY very good Lord, I have received Advertiſement more Ways than one, that ſome of the Miniſters of your Lordſhip's Dioceſs (formerly deprived) as by name Mr. Barbon, and Mr. Shafferld, do, at their pleaſure, preach in Northamptonſhire or Rutlandſhire; and that Mr. Dod, lately of Hanwell, near Banbury, doth ſometimes alſo Exerciſe within your Lordſhip's Dioceſs. What the King's Majeſty's Judgment is concerning ſuch unconformable Miniſters, your Lordſhip may perceive by thoſe Inſtructions which not long ſince, in the Name of his Highneſs, I ſent unto you. But let me add this withal, that his Majeſty being lately informed of the preaching of Mr. Hilderſham, ſometimes Miniſter of Aſhby in Leiceſterſhire, was much offended with the Biſhop of Lincoln for permitting the ſame; and commanded me by Letter to ſignifie ſo much unto his Lordſhip. I hear that Mr. Cataline is much more peaceable than in former times, but yet keepeth no Order for the Communion Book, but ſuffers all excommunicated Perſons in the Pariſhes adjoining, to repair unto his Church; I pray your Lordſhip to have an Eye to theſe things, leſt more Offence grow than your Lordſhip conceives, ſo wiſhing, &c. I reſt

The Opinion of a Learned Civilian, whether Biſhops may be Tranſlated at the Prince's Pleaſure.

Paper Office, Sept. 1616.

MOſt gracious and my honourable good Lord, being commanded by your Grace to conſider of a Point in Law for his Majeſty's Service, I have made bold to preſent my Opinion thereof unto your Grace in Writing, ſubmitting the ſame to your Grace's acceptance.

Your Grace hath been not untruly informed, by ſome, no doubt, learned in the Laws and Hiſtories of the Church, that the Pope did heretofore tranſlate Biſhops from one Biſhoprick to another, at his own Pleaſure, and contrary to the good Will of the Parties themſelves; of which, tho' I find not any Precedents in Hiſtory, yet I find many Teſtimonies to that Purpoſe in the Writings of the Canoniſts and Expoſitors of the Canon Law, ſundry of which have alſo delivered for good Doctrine, that the Pope might do it lawfully: Which notwithſtanding it may well be doubted, whether his Majeſty hath in himſelf any ordinary Power at this preſent to tranſlate a Biſhop from one Biſhoprick to another, contrary to the Parties Will, as the Law underſtandeth, and that for theſe Reaſons following;

1ſt. For that the foreſaid Opinion of the Canoniſts is not grounded upon any poſitive Law, or Canon of the Church, but as only a Concluſion drawn by them from that univerſality of Power and Juriſdiction, which they imagine and maintain to be in the Pope of Rome.

According to which Opinion it is, that one ſaith, that omnia Beneficia Mundi ſunt Obedientialia reſpectu Papalis Poteſtatis, & ideò poteſt pro libitu voluntatis transferre Epiſcopum de ſuo Epiſcopatu ad alium, i. e. That all Benefices in the World are in Subjection to the Pope, and therefore that he may remove and change, and diſpoſe of them at his pleaſure. And to this effect may ſundry of their Sayings be recited, which I will not trouble your Grace withal. But ſeeing this dependeth not upon the regular, but upon that unlimited Power which former times attributed to the Pope, and which the late Statutes of this Land have utterly diſclaimed; it may be queſtion'd, how any ſufficient Argument may hence be drawn, to juſtify his Majeſty's legal Authority in the like Caſe.

2dly. For that alſo ſome Canoniſts have maintain'd the Authority foreſaid to be in the Pope, ſo others have abſolutely denied it; and therefore they ſay, that in this Caſe a Biſhop may conſent to his Tranſlation if he will, and if he will not, he may chuſe.

3dly. For that this tranſcendent Power of the Pope hath been limited and reſtrain'd by ſundry Councils in former times: For, firſt, Panormitan, a great Canoniſt, and an earneſt maintainer of the Pope's Authority in this Point, confeſſeth that this was done at a Council held at Piſa in Italy, adding, that 'twas done propter Imprudentiam quorundam ſummorum Pontificum: For the folly of ſome Popes who would often make ſuch Tranſlations out of Spleen rather than upon juſt Occaſion. Others likewiſe affirm, that there was the like Canon made at Conſtance in Germany, and that they have ſeen it, tho' it be not now to be found in the printed Copies.

4. If it ſhould be granted there were a poſitive Law or Canon to be produced for this Purpoſe, yet the ſame was never received nor practiſed in England, neither as I ſuppoſe, could have been; the Reaſon is, for that in this Kingdom every Biſhop hath a double Capacity, one as he is a Biſhop, in regard of his Spiritualties; and another, as he is a Lord of Parliament, in regard of his Temporalties. And both thoſe are reckon'd to him as a kind of Free-hold, which the Cuſtom of this Land would never ſuffer the papal Authority to deal withal, otherwiſe than according to the Laws.

And laſtly, it may pleaſe your Grace, in your great Wiſdom, to look into the Conſequence of this Queſtion, if it ſhould be moved eſpecially at this preſent, for if this ſhould be eſſay'd in one, that ſame would forthwith be apprehended and feared in all: For not only the Biſhops and Archbiſhops, but alſo and much more every particular Dignitary and Parſon of a Pariſh Church may be removed from his Benefice at diſcretion, which would happily fill the whole Church with Complaints and Outcries, and give turbulent Spirits occaſion to ſay, that by this one Act our Clergy is made more miſerable than any other.

Neverthele's as much as this is a mixt Queſtion, and dependeth as much, or rather more, upon the common Law, than it does upon the Canon; your Grace may be pleas'd to refer the Conſideration thereof to his Majeſty's Council at the common Law, upon whom I ſhall be ready to give my Attendance, and to have their Advice therein alſo, that from both the Laws your Grace may receive a more perfect Reſolution in this Point for the Service of his Majeſty.

Your Grace's
Moſt humble devoted Servant,

F. RIVES.

QUemadmodum hoc unicè propoſitum nobis fuit, ut quæ in Civitatibus Provinciiſque noſtris, ante annos aliquot, exortæ erant, infelices de Religione Contentiones, eruditorum, ac piorum Hominum Judicio, legitimè tolli ac componi poſſent; ut & Conſcientiis eorum, quibus nos præeſſe Deus immortalis voluit, ipſiſque pariter Reipublicæ, ſua in Religione, ac Pietate ſimul, Ratio conſtaret, & Tranquillitas; Ita nos benignè is reſpexit, cui hactenus curæ fuimus, qui Conventui noſtro Nationali, quem ex omnibus idem ſentientibus Eccleſiis convocavimus, ita benedixit, ut, re tanta ad felicem atque optatum exitum perducta, domum, & ad ſuos ſe conferant. Quibus, Benedictionem Domini, Studium noſtrum in promovendo Pietatis Negotio, Conſenſum planè cum aliis Eccleſiis unanimem, indicabunt. Inter quos, cum præcipui & Conſilio & Loco, fuerint Magnæ Britanniæ Theologi, quos, pro ſingulari, & divino, in nos & Eccleſias noſtras Affectu, ad nos mittere dignata eſt Majeſtas tua; Curæ nobis fuit, ut quantopere hujus Beneficii magnitudinem æſtimemus, ex nobis intelligeret Majeſtas tua. Eſt vero illud, Rex Sereniſſime, etiamſi cum reliquis quæ infinita ſunt, conferatur, tanto majus, quanto uberiores ſunt Fructus, quos ex Dei Cauſa expectamus, quantoque id Majeſtatis tuæ nomini eſt

Pope Urban the Eighth's Letter to the English Roman Catholicks.

Paper Office. A. D. 1626.

Dilecti Filii Salutem & Apoſtolicam benedictionem. Non ſemper terrena fœlicitas eſt beneficium Cœli, & patrimonium pietatis: Pacem enim peccatorum videns Eccleſia non rarò experta eſt potentiam mortalium, eſſe Stipendium Sceleris; quare Catenas Martyrum anteferimus Coronis Triumphantium, & Deus Sempiternus Principatus Cœleſtes pollicetur, non iis qui ſuperbo pede jura proterunt ſed qui perſecutionem patiuntur propter juſtitiam. Veritatem hanc è Theſauris Divinitatis delatam in Terris contemplans Apoſtolus, non modò animum non deſpondebat, ſed ſuperabundabat gaudio in omni tribulatione fidelium: Qui enim Digni habentur pro Nomine Jeſu contumeliam pati, ii teſſeram Divini Amoris videntur poſſidere, & eo pretio abundant quo ſunt venalia diademata Æternitatis. Mallemus equidem humanæ imbecillitatis memores, Gloriam & Divitias eſſe in Tabernaculis juſtorum, etenim cum veſtras miſerias contemplamur Dilecti Filii, tantum veſtræ virtuti & Chriſto propugnanti fidimus, ut vobis audeamus gratulari Segetem Triumphorum: Speravit equidem Eccleſia fore ut potentiſſimi Regis animus, qui è Catholica Conjuge procreare optavit Hæredes, Patriis, Regnis Imperaturos delinitus ſuſpiriis Uxoriæ pietatis pateretur Regalis Connubii dotem eſſe, libertatem fidei: Nunc autem formidantur Acta & Concilia Inimicorum veſtrorum. Et cum Religio Orthodoxa Regali Diademate in optima Regina coronetur; iſti tamen non deſunt qui filiis noſtris audeant Carcerem, & Supplicia minitari! Credimus eſſe inter vos qui mortificationem Jeſu Chriſti proprio Corpore circumferre cupiunt, & blanditias voluptatis, atque ambitionis titulos, poſt habeant Lanienæ Carnificum, ac Vinculorum Contumeliis. Siqui tamen iſtinc ſunt quos præſentis etiam proſperitatis deſiderium teneat, eos certiores fieri cupimus de illorum ſalute mirificè ſollicitam eſſe Pontificiam Charitatem. Nullum à nobis relinquitur Officium quod minacem ingruentis tempeſtatis caliginem poſſit in optatam Conſolationis auram convertere: tamen ſi dilatet infernus os ſuum & Martyrum ſanguinem ſitiat impacata Crudelitas, armari debetis Scuto inexpugnabili bonæ voluntatis, & Cœlum in Carcere, Coronam in Equuleo, Immortalitatem in Morte, cogitare. Inter Britannicos naufragantis Religionis Scopulos Crux Chriſti fuit Tabula quæ vos perduxit in Portum bonæ voluntatis veſtræ. Hanc opus eſt amplexari in præſentia, cujus virtute dulceſcet amarities pœnarum. Cogitate dilecti Filii in qua ſtatione commoremini, & quorum Oculis facti ſitis Spectaculum. Vos Angelicæ Legiones circumvolitant quæ phialis aureis deſideria Fidelium excipiunt, & ad Sanctuarium ferunt Miſericordiâ Omnipotentis. Patefactis Cœli foribus ſpectat idem & munerator Chriſtus, vobis ſacros civium veſtrorum Triumphos oſtendit, quos Anglia proprio Sanguine intulit Cœlitum Conciliis. Anxiæ preces ſuſpirantis Eccleſiæ vobis à Deo petunt Spiritum Charitatis & Fortitudinis: Veſtram ſalutem juvant concilia ſenatus Apoſtolici, & vota Chriſtianitatis. In tanto Cœli terrarumque theatro, quem vobis Conſcientiæ victricis vigorem, quam Animi triumphantis Sublimitatem ineſſe decet? Fuerunt in conſimili diſcrimine concilia Majorum veſtrorum: Lumina Spiritus Sancti & arma lucis: Sint verba veſtra Oracula Sapientiæ, ſint veſtræ actiones exempla fortitudinis: Quod ſi eoúſque vis progredietur ut vos ad noxium illud & illicitum Anglicanæ fidelitatis Juramentum adigat, mementote Nationem veſtram ab univerſo Angelorum ſpectantium conſeſſu audiri; & adhæreat Lingua veſtra faucibus veſtris priuſquam Autoritatem Beati Petri, eâ juris jurandi formula imminutum eatis. Non enim ibi id ſolum agitur uti fides Regi ſervetur, ſed ut ſacrum univerſæ Eccleſiæ Sceptrum eripiatur vicariis Dei Omnipotentis. Quod fœlicis Recordationis Paulus Quintus Prædeceſſor noſter in tam gravi deliberatione ratione decrevit, id omnino tanquam edictum veritatis ſervare debetis dilecti filii: Tributum hoc Principi Apoſtolorum debitum, nulla hominum miræ aut blanditiæ unquam à vobis extorqueant: qui ſecus ſuadent ii viſionem mendacem, & Divinationem fraudulentam prophetant vobis. Citius enim vero Chriſtiano debet Potentiarum gladius vitam eripere quam fidem. Quod ſi Angelus etiam de Cœlo deſcendens vos aliter quam Veritas Apoſtolica doceat Anathema ſit. Nos interea Patrem Luminum orabimus, ne excæcari patiatur cor Anglicani Regis qui certè diſcere debebit quanta in iis quæ polliceri Poteſtis fides habenda ſit Catholicis Subditis, qui ne ſe Perjurii alligent, malunt Spiritum emittere, quam Vocem. Ut autem virtus veſtra inveniatur prætioſior auro quod igne probatur docete Regnum iſtud tantam non ineſſe vim Hoſtium Sævitiæ, ut in Cordibus veſtris poſſit æternum Charitatis Ignem extinguere. Orate pro perſequentibus vos: Humilitas, Concordia, Jejunium, Oratio, Arma ſunt quæ in tam ſæva Dimicatione debetis diſtringere, ut palmæ Cæleſtium Triumphorum floreſcant in Manibus veſtris. Cum enim ipſius Chriſti Carnifices vetitus ſit Beatus Petrus gladio vulnerare, hortamur vos præſens Eccleſiæ bonum præ Oculis habentes ut cogitetis interea cogitationes pacis, & Regi etiam dum mortalem vitam adimit, æternam vitam exoptetis. Ita belligerari fas eſt Milites Chriſti ſub Vexillo Crucis, confundantur ora loquentium iniqua, cum odiſſe etiam neſciatis qui vos excruciant. Cæterum Dominus qui poteſt triſtitiam veſtram in gaudium convertere erit a dextris veſtris ne commoveamini, & illius Teſtamenti nunquam obliviſcetur quo Hæriditatem Regni cæleſtis imitatoribus ſuis legavit. Complectimur noſtris Apoſtolicæ Charitatis Brachiis dilecti Filii, quibus paternum Patrocinium pollicemur, & Benedictionem noſtram permanentem impartimur.

Datum Romæ apud Sanctum Petrum ſub Annulo Piſcatoris 30 die Maii. 1626. Pontificatûs noſtri tertio.

Johannes Campholus.

King Charles the Firſt's Letter to Archbiſhop Laud, for encouraging the Greek Preſs.

Regiſt. Laud. Part 1. fol. 194. A. D. 1633.

MOſt reverend Father in God, right truſty and right entirely beloved Councellor, We greet you well. Whereas Our Servant Patrick Young, Keeper of our Library, hath lately with great Induſtry and Care, publiſhed ~~in~~ Print an Epiſtle of Clemens Romanus in Greek and Latin, which was never printed before, and has done this to the Benefit of the Church, and Our great Honour; the Manuſcript by which he printed it being in Our Library. And whereas We further underſtand, that the right reverend Father in God, Auguſtin Lyndſell now Biſhop of Peterborough, and Our ſaid Servant Patrick Young, are reſolved to make ready for the Preſs, one or more Greek Copies every Year, by ſuch Manuſcripts as are either in Our Library, or in the Libraries of Our Univerſities of Oxford and Cambridge, or elſewhere, if there were Greek Letters, Mattrices, and Money ready for the Work, which Pains of theirs will tend to the great Honour of Our Self, this Church and Nation: We have thought good to give them all poſſible Encouragement herein. And do therefore firſt require you, that the Fine, lately impoſed by Our High Commiſſioners upon Robert Barker and Martin Lucas, for baſe and corrupt printing of the Bible, being the Sum of three hundred Pounds, be converted to the preſent buying of ſuch and ſo many Greek Letters and Mattrices, as ſhall be by you thought fit for this great and honourable Work. And Our further Will and Pleaſure is, that the ſaid Robert Barker and Martin Lucas, Our Pattentees for printing, which either now are, or ſhall hereafter ſucceed them, being great Gainers by that Patent, which they hold under Us, ſhall at their own proper Coſtes and Charges of Ink, Paper, and Workmanſhip, print, or cauſe to be printed, in Greek, or Greek and Latin, one ſuch Volume in a Year, be it bigger or leſs, as the right reverend Father aforeſaid, or Our Servant Patrick Young, or any other of Our learned Subjects ſhall provide and make ready for the Preſs.

Given under Our Signet at Our Palace of Weſtminſter, the 13th Day of January, in the IXth Year of Our Reign.

Paper Office, A. D. 1634.

CAnones Regiminis Eccleſiaſtici conſtituti, & in reformatis Eccleſiis Nov-Anglicanis obſervati, breviter, in ordinem digeſti.

1. Quatuor potiſſimum Miniſterii ordines.
   - Miniſtri.
   - Doctores.
   - Seniores.
   - Diaconi.

De Miniſtris.

Ad verbi miniſterium nemo admittatur ſine legitimâ Vocatione, Electione, juſtoque Examine Doctrinæ vitæque anteactæ.

Ad Electionem Miniſtri requiruntur ſequentia.

1. Celebretur jejunium.
2. Nominetur à Presbyterio & Claſſe.
3. Examinetur ab utriſque.
4. Siſtatur coram Magiſtratu & tota Eccleſiâ ut intra dies quatuordecem tacitis Fidilium Suffragiis comprobetur.
5. Confirmetur coram Eccleſia cum Oratione ad Deum, & Exhortatione ad populum, poſtquam ad iſta interrogata reſponderit.

1. An ſe legitimè ſentiat ad hoc Miniſterium vocatum?
2. An ſola biblica ſcripta pro Dei Verbo recipiat?
3. An ea fideliter Populo prædicare velit?
4. An ſe ſubjiciat Eccleſiaſticæ Diſciplinæ?

Qui ſemel legitime in ſacro Miniſterio ſunt confirmati, illud dum vivunt non deſerent, niſi legitima incidat occaſio, de qua judicium erit penes Synodum.

Fidei Paſtoris & Miniſtri officia ſunt.

1. Verbum Dei cum Reverentia & Simplicitate prædicare.
2. Sacramenta adminiſtrare.
3. In Oratione perſeverare.
4. Diſciplinam Eccleſiaſticam exercere.
5. Procurare ut omnia decenter & in ordine peragantur.

Honeſta & juſta Merces Miniſtro danda eſt.

Siquis Senio vel Morbo fiat ad Miniſterium inutilis, ab Eccleſiâ nihilominus alendus eſt.

De Miniſtrorum Viduis & Orphanis habenda ſimiliter eſt ratio.

Nullus Miniſter in Miniſtros alios Primatum aut Dominatum habebit, ſed equaliter Eccleſiaſticum Onus ferent.

Si Miniſter in hoc ſacro Munere ſe non condignè geſſerit adeo ut Infamiæ notam ſibi inuſſerit, à Miniſterio ſuſpendatur, vel deponatur, idque Magiſtratûs conſenſu.

II. De Doctoribus nondum viſum eſt aliquid conſtituere.

III. De Senioribus.

1. Eliganter Seniores à Verbi Miniſtris, & Conventu Eccleſiaſtico cum jejunio, & oratione ad Deum, & confirmentur in Eccleſiâ.

2. Munus Seniorum eſt cum Verbi Miniſtris Gregi invigilare, Eccleſiæ membra inviſere, Ægrotos conſolari, ſcandala ad Conſiſtorium deferre, cum Verbi Miniſtris de ſcandalis judicare, & quantum poterunt ex Eccleſiâ tollere.

3. Numerus Seniorum ſit pro arbitrio neceſſitate cujuſque Eccleſiæ.

IV. De Diaconis.

1. Diaconi ſunt eligendi & confirmandi eo modo quo Seniores.

Diaconorum Munus eſt.

1. Eleemoſynas & alia Pauperum Bona diligenter colligere.

2. Fideliter & diſcrete diſtribuere.

3. Pauperes & Ægros amanter inviſere & conſolari.

4. Ne inutiliter Eleemoſynæ conſumantur vigilanter proſpicere.

5. Collectæ & expoſitæ pecuniæ rationem, ſingulis Menſibus coram Synedrio Eccleſiaſtico reddent.

In omnibus Eccleſiis ſive naſcentibus, ſive vegetis, Prophetiæ ordo ex Pauli inſtituto obſervetur.

Ad hoc Collegium cooptentur non modo Miniſtri, ſed etiam ex Senioribus & Diaconis, atque adeo ex ipſa Plebe, ſiqui ſunt qui donum ſuum à Domino acceptum, in communem Eccleſiæ utilitatem conferre velint; ita tamen ut prius Miniſtrorum atque aliorum probentur judicio.

2. Verbi Miniſtri per vices præſideant, deſignetur ſcriba, qui notatu digna ſcripta conſignet.

3. Præſidis Officium eſt.

1. Ex ordine ſententias rogare.
2. Loquacibus ſilentium imponere.
3. Ex collatis ſuffragiis res concludere.

Quod in Conſiſtorio commodè terminari non poteſt, ad Claſſicum Conventum deferatur.

Claſſicalis Conventus conſiſtat ex Verbi Miniſtris & Senioribus Vicinarum aliquot Eccleſiarum. Huic Conventui Miniſtris & Senioribus etiam non deſignatis intereſſe liceat, & ſententiam dicere: Interim deſignatorum ſententiæ ſuffragii vires tantum obtinebunt: Synodus eſt Conventus vicinarum Claſſium.

Ex unaquaque Claſſe duo Miniſtri & Seniores duo deſignentur qui ſingulis annis ad minimum ſemelconveniant, & in Conventu Claſſico quod commodè decidi non poterit, ad Synodum deferatur.

Sancti Baptiſmi Sacramentum à ſolis verbi Miniſtris eſt adminiſtrandum, unica vel trina tinctio cenſetur ἀδιάφορα.

Infantibus non ſunt danda Nomina barbara, ſuperſtitioſa, ſed in ſacris Literis expreſſa.

Sacra Cœna Dominica à ſolis verbi Miniſtris eſt adminiſtranda.

Nemo ad Cœnam admittatur niſi qui Fidei Confeſſionem ante reddiderit, Diſciplinæ Eccleſiaſticæ ſe ſubjecerit, & vitæ inculpatæ Teſtes produxerit.

Fractio panis neceſſaria omnino cenſetur.

Verba ſanctæ Cœnæ præcepta, & Apoſtoli Pauli Declarationi conſentanea, ſunt retinenda.

Liberum eſt ſtando, ſedendo, vel eundo Cœnam celebrare, non autem geniculando, ob ἀρτολατρείας periculum.

Ante Cœnæ diem fiat Concio preparatoria, & à Concione inter Miniſtros, Seniores, & Diaconos fraterna exerceatur cenſura.

Neque Mulier preſumat ſacris Cœtibus adeſſe, niſi capite velamine tecto.

Vigilandum eſt ne ulla Eccleſia, neglectâ Eccleſiaſticâ Diſciplinâ inſtituatur.

Conſtat autem Diſciplina, tum in Cenſurâ Doctrinæ, tum in legitimâ Morum Correctione, in juſto Clavium à Domino Eccleſiæ datarum uſu.

Hæc Correctio & Cenſura nequaquam Delinquentem liberat à Civili Judicio & Magiſtratûs Gladio.

Si quis peccaverit in Doctrinæ Puritate, ſive Morum Sanctitate, ſi occultum ſit, obſervabitur Regula quam præſcribit Chriſtus, Matt. 18.

Si privatâ admonitione fratrem lucratus es, noli ejus crimen ad Conſiſtorium deferre; ſed ſi duos aut tres fideliter admonentes non audierit, deferatur, ut in viam reducatur.

Peccata ſuâ Naturâ publica aut per admonitionis privatæ contemptum, publica, ex totius Conſiſtorii arbitrio modo & formâ, ad ædificationem maximè accomodata, ſunt corrigenda.

Qui pertinaciter Conſiſtorii admonitiones rejecerit à Cœna Domini ſuſpèndatur.

Proceſſus ad Excommunicationem ſic erit.

Miniſter à ſuggeſto (peccatoris nomine occultato) quid cum gravi quodam Peccatore actum ſit ſignificabit: Et Eccleſiam ut pro peccatore impenitenti ſedulò oret, movebit.

Peccatoris nomen præ Cœtu publicabit, & ſignificabit, ni reſipiſcat excommunicandum eſſe: Si ne ſic quidem ad reſipiſcendum adduci poteſt, coram Eccleſia pertinacis hujuſmodi Peccatoris à Corpore Eccleſiæ fiet Excommunicatio & Abſciſſio.

Movebuntur Fideles ne familiarem, & non neceſſariam cum excommunicato conſuetudinem habeant: Sed ejus Conſortium vitent, hoc præcipue Conſilio ut pudore ſuffuſus Excommunicatus de Repſipiſcentiâ ſerio cogitet.

Qui gravia & Eccleſiæ probroſa commiſit peccata (ei etiam ſi verbis pœnitentiam teſtetur) à Cœnæ tamen Communione aliquot diebus, pro Conſiſtorii arbitrio ſuſpendatur.

Si Miniſter aut Senior, aut Diaconus aliquo crimine (quod Deus avertat) ſe contaminaverit, ab Officio erit movendus; ſi autem Crimine aliquo occulto teneatur, à Claſſico Conventu cenſuram expectet, pro criminis magnitudine vel levitate.

Ut huic Cenſuræ Ordo commodius obſervetur, utile erit in binos, vel minimum in trinos menſes Claſſium cujuſque Conventum haberi, in quo de hujuſmodi rebus diligens fiat exploratio.

Claſſium Conventus non ſemper uno habendus eſt voce (forſan loco) ita ut Eccleſiarum alterius in alteram cenſura impediatur; tum vero ut ſingularum Eccleſiarum exploratio fiat diligentior, de Verbi

Doctrina, vitæ Ceremoniis (forſan Sanctimoniâ) ac Diſciplinæ ratione.

Concluſio.

Hi Articuli ad legitimum ordinem Eccleſiæ ſpectantes, ita mutuo conſenſu ſunt conſtituti; ut ſi utilitas Eccleſiarum aliud poſtulet, mutari, augeri, & minui poſſunt & debent. Non erit tamen privatæ alicujus Eccleſiæ id facere: ſed dabunt omnes operam ut illas obſervent donec Synodo aliter conſtituatur.

Num. CXII.

A Form of Penance and Reconciliation of a Renegado, or Apoſtate from the Chriſtian Religion to Turciſm.

Regiſt. Laud. fol. 290. A.D. 1637. LET the Offender's Conviction be firſt judicially had before the Biſhop of the Dioceſs, that ſo they may ſtand (apud Acta) his Detection or Confeſſion, and that thereupon an Excommunication be decreed and denounced, both in the Cathedral and Pariſh Church where he lives; yet ſo as that upon his Submiſſion there in Court, he may be abſolved in diem, and the Form of his Penance enjoined him in manner following;

Let the Miniſter of the Place have frequent Conference with the Party in private, lay open and aggravate the heinouſneſs of this Sin, both in reſpect of God, the Church and his own Soul, and ſee whether his Conſcience be troubled with any other grievous Crime, that ſo he may be the better fitted for Abſolution of all together.

Let there be an Order decreed in Court, referring him to the Miniſter of the Place, to ſee his Penance performed accordingly, and to reconcile him to the Church, and let that Order be publiſhed in the Pariſh Church, on a Sunday at Morning Prayer next before the Communion Service.

The next Sunday following, let the Offender be appointed to ſtand all the time of divine Service and Sermon in the Porch, (order muſt be taken that Boys and idle People flock not about him) of the Church, (if it have any) if none, yet without the Church-door (if extremity of Weather hinder not) in a penitent faſhion, in a white Sheet, with a white Wand in his Hand, his Head uncovered, his Countenance dejected, not taking particular notice of any one Perſon that paſſes him. And when the People come in and go out of the Church, let him, upon his Knees humbly crave their Prayers, and acknowledge his Offence in this Form;

Good Chriſtians, remember in your Prayers a poor wretched Apoſtate or Renegado.

The ſecond Sunday let him ſtand in the Church Porch, and in his penitential Habit, as before; and then after the Te Deum ended, let him be brought in by one of the Church Wardens, ſo far as to the weſt ſide of the Font of the ſaid Church, there let him penitentially kneel till the ſecond Leſſon be ended; then let him make his Submiſſion, and ask mercy of God in the Form following;

O Lord God of Heaven and Earth, be merciful to me a moſt wretched Sinner: (This ſaid, let him ſmite his Breaſt three times) I confeſs, O Lord, I have juſtly deſerved to be utterly renounced by thee, becauſe I have yielded to renounce my Saviour, and that holy Profeſſion which I had formerly made of his Name, whereby I was received into thy Church. O God forgive me this heinous and horrible Sin, with all other my grievous Sins againſt thee; and let me, upon thy gracious Pardon and infinite Mercy, be reſtored to the Rights and Benefit of this bleſſed Sacrament, which I have ſo wickedly abjured, and be received, tho' moſt unworthy, into thy gracious Favour, and the Communion of thy faithful People, even for thy great Mercy ſake, in Jeſus Chriſt my bleſſed Lord and Saviour.

Which done, let him, in an humble and devout Manner, kiſs the bottom Stone of the Font, ſtrike his Breaſt, and preſently depart into the Church-porch, as before.

The third Sunday, let him, at the beginning of the divine Service, be brought into the Body of the Church, and be placed near the Miniſter's Pew, and there let him ſtand in his penitential Habit, during the time of divine Service; where the Miniſter, immediately before the Apoſtle's Creed, ſhall publickly put the Offender in mind of the foulneſs of his Sin, and ſtir him up to a ſerious Repentance, adviſing him, that a ſlight and ordinary Sorrow is not enough for ſo grievous an Offence. ----- Which done, the Miniſter ſhall ask the Penitent publickly, whether he have found a true and earneſt Remorſe in his Soul for this Sin; and whether he has thoroughly humbled himſelf before God for it, and whether he does deſire that the whole Congregation ſhould take notice of his Humiliation and Repentance.

In ſignification whereof the Offender ſhall ſay theſe Words, or to the like Effect, after the Miniſter,

I (let him here name himſelf, both by his Chriſtian and his Sirname) do here, in the preſence of Almighty God, and before you his faithful People, humbly and penitently confeſs, that I have grievouſly offended the Majeſty of God, and deeply wounded my own Soul, in that I ſo far yielded to the weakneſs of my ſinful Fleſh, as that I ſuffered my ſelf, through the Cruelty of God's Enemies, to be miſcarried, to the renouncing of my dear Saviour, and that true Chriſtian Religion wherein I was brought up: I do well know what I have deſerved, both at the Hands of God, and of his Church, for this wicked and graceleſs Act: And now, as I have often heretofore, betwixt God and mine own Soul, waſhed this Sin with my Tears, and and craved his merciful Forgiveneſs; ſo I beſeech you all to take Knowledge of this my Sorrow and publick Humiliation, and both to pardon and forgive that juſt Offence which I have herein given to you alſo, and the whole Church of Chriſt; and alſo to join with me in humble and hearty Prayers to Almighty God, that he will be pleaſed to ſeal unto my Soul, the full Pardon and Remiſſion of this my grievous Sin, even for the ſake of his dear Son, my bleſſed Saviour and Redeemer; in whoſe Name and Words I deſire you to accompany theſe my Prayers, ſaying with me, Our Father, &c. After this the Miniſter, ſhall ſpeak to the Congregation to this Effect.

Seeing now, dear Chriſtian Brethren, that this Offender has given ſo good and full Teſtimony of his true Repentance, and has ſo humbly and fervently craved the forgiveneſs of God and his Church, I ſhall not need to uſe many Words in perſwading you, how ready you ought to be, both to conceive full hope of God's gracious Pardon of him, (as who is always ready to prevent and meet us in our turning to him) and alſo to profeſs your forgiveneſs of him, for ſo much as concerns his Offence towards you, and charitably to embrace him with the Arms of tender Pity and Compaſſion, as a true Chriſtian Convert to his Saviour: Gladly to welcome him into that holy Communion, which his ſinful fear and frailty cauſed him to forſake; now therefore I do earneſtly beſeech you, in the Bowels of Jeſus Chriſt our bleſſed Saviour, to paſs by the great Offence of this ſorrowful Penitent, as well conſidering the weakneſs of our frail Nature, when it is over preſſed with violence and extremity of Torments, and both to commiſerate his fearful Apoſtacy, and to encourage and comfort him in this happy return to Chriſt and his Church.

Here let the Penitent kneel down again Eaſtward, and bowing to the very Pavement, let him ſay thus, either by himſelf, if he be able to read it, or elſe after the Miniſter.

O my Soul, bleſs the Lord; bleſſed by the Father of Mercies, and the God of all Conſolation: Bleſſed be the Lord Jeſus, the Son of God, the Saviour of the World: Bleſſed by the Holy Spirit, God the Holy Ghoſt: Bleſſed be the holy Trinity, one God everlaſting: Bleſſed be the holy Catholick Church, and all you the Servants of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt: The Name of God be bleſſed evermore for the Aſſembly of his Saints, and for the divine Ordinances of his moſt holy Word and Sacraments, and of his heavenly Power committed to his holy Prieſts in his Church, for the Reconciliation of Sinners unto himſelf, and the abſolving them from all their Iniquity: Lo! here I, upon the bended Knees of my Body and Soul, moſt humbly beg the Aſſiſtance of all your Chriſtian Prayers, and the Benefit of that his holy Ordinance. And I humbly beſeech you (Sir) as my ghoſtly Father, a Prieſt of God, and the Churches Deputy, to receive me into that Grace, and into the Boſom of the Church; and by looſing me from the Bands of my grievous Sins, to make me partake of that ineſtimable Benefit, and ſo to reconcile me unto the myſtical Body of Chriſt Jeſus my Lord and Saviour.

Then let the Prieſt come forth to him, and ſtand over him, and laying his Hand on his Head, ſay as is preſcribed in the Book of Common Prayer, thus;

Our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, who has left Power to his Church, to abſolve all Sinners which truly repent and believe in him, of his great Mercy forgive thee thine Offences; and by his Authority committed to me, I abſolve thee from this heinous Crime of Renunciation, and from all other thy Sins, in the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghoſt. Amen.

Then let the Prieſt, turning himſelf Eaſtward, kneel down in the ſame Place, the Penitent kneeling behind him, and ſay the Collect which ſtands after the Abſolution in the Viſitation of the Sick, but changing the latter part of it thus;

O moſt merciful God, who according to the multitude of thy Mercies, doth ſo put away the Sins of thoſe which truly repent, that thou remembreſt them no more; open thine Eye of Mercy upon this thy Servant, who moſt earneſtly deſires Pardon and Forgiveneſs, renew in him, moſt loving Father, whatſoever has been decayed by the Fraud and Malice of the Devil, or by his own carnal Will and Frailneſs; preſerve and continue him in the unity of the Church, conſider his Contrition, and accept his Humiliation: And foraſmuch as he puts his full Truſt only in thy Mercy, impute not unto him his former Abnegation of thee; but receive him into thy Favour, thro' the Merits of thy beloved Son Chriſt Jeſus our Saviour. Amen.

After that let the Miniſter take him up, and take away his white Sheet and Wand, and taking him by the Hand, ſay unto him;

Dear Brother (for ſo we all now acknowledge you to be) let me here adviſe you, with what Care and Diligence evry Day of your Life, you ought to conſider how much you are bound to the Infinite Goodneſs of God, who has called you out of that woful Condition, whereinto you had caſt your ſelf; and how much it concerns you ever hereafter to walk worthy of ſo great a Mercy, being ſo much more careful to approve your ſelf in all holy Obedience to God, by how much more you have diſhonoured him by this your ſhameful revolt from him, which the ſame God the Father of Mercies, vouchſafe to enable you unto, for the ſake of the dear Son of his Love, Jeſus Chriſt the Righteous. Amen.

After this let him be openly promiſed, that upon any Communion-Day following, he ſhall be admitted to the Holy Sacrament; for which let him be directed to prepare himſelf. And when he receives, let him make a ſolemn Oblation, according to his Ability, after the Order ſet down in the Service-Book.

Num. CXIII.

The Sentence of Depoſition, &c. pronounc'd againſt Mr. John Guthry Biſhop of Murray, Mr. John Graham Biſhop of Orkney, Mr. James Ferley Biſhop of Liſmoir, Mr. Neile Campbell Biſhop of the Iſles; by the Pretended Aſſembly at Glaſcow.

THE General Aſſembly having heard the Libels and Complaints given in againſt the foreſaid pretended Biſhops, to the Presbytery of Edinburgh, and ſundry Presbyteries within their Dioceſs, and by the ſaid Presbyteries referred to this Aſſembly to be tryed; the ſaid pretended Biſhops being lawfully cited, often times called, and not compeering, proceeded to the Cognition of the Complaints and Libels exhibited againſt them; and finding them guilty of the Breach of the Cautions agreed upon in the Aſſembly of Montroſe, Anno 1600, for reſtricting of the Miniſter-Votes in Parliament, from incroaching upon the Liberties and Juriſdictions of this Kirk, which was ſet down with Certification of Depoſition, Infamy, and Excommunication; and eſpecially for receiving Conſecration to the Office of Epiſcopacy, condemned by the Confeſſion of Faith, and Acts of this Kirk, as having no Warrant nor Fundament in the Word of God; but by vertue of this uſurp'd Power, and Power of the High-Commiſſions, preſſing the Kirk with Novations in the Worſhip of God; and for their refuſal to underly the Tryal of the reigning Slander and of ſundry other groſs Tranſgreſſions and Offences laid to their Charge. Therefore the Aſſembly moved with Zeal to the Glory of God, and purging of this Kirk, ordains the ſaid pretended Biſhops to be depoſed, and by theſe Preſents doth depoſe them, not only of the Office of Commiſſionary to vote in Parliament, Council, or Convention, in the Name of the Kirk; but alſo of all Functions, whether of Pretended Epiſcopal, or Miniſterial Calling; and likewiſe in caſe they acknowledge not this Aſſembly, reverence not the Conſtitution thereof, and obey not the Sentence, and make not their Repentance conform to the Order preſcrib'd by this Aſſembly, ordains them to be excommunicated, and declared to be of theſe whom Chriſt commandeth to be holden by all and every one of the Faithful, as Ethnicks and Publicans, and the Sentence of Excommucommunication to be pronounced upon their Refuſal, in the Kirks appointed by any of theſe who are particularly named, to have the Charge of trying their Repentance or Impenitency. And that the Execution of this Sentence be intimate in all the Kirks within this Realm, by Paſtors of every particular Congregation, as they will be anſwerable to their Presbyteries or Synods, or the next General Aſſembly, in caſe of negligence of the Presbyteries and Synods.

The Earl of Traquair, Lord High Commiſſioner for Scotland, his Inſtructions with Reference to the General Aſſembly at Glaſcow.

C. R.

July 27. A.D. 1639. Ruſhworth Hiſt. Collect. part 2. pag. 949.

AT the firſt meeting of the Aſſembly, before it be brought in diſpute who ſhall preſide, you ſhall appoint him who was Moderator in the laſt Aſſembly to preſide in this, till a new Moderator be choſen.

We allow that Lay-Elders ſhall be admitted Members of this Aſſembly, but in Caſe of the Election of Commiſſioners for Presbyteries, the Lay-Elders have had Voice, you ſhall declare againſt the Informality thereof; as alſo againſt Lay-Elders having Voice in fundamental Points of Religion.

At the firſt opening of the Aſſembly, you ſhall ſtrive to make the Aſſembly ſenſible of our Goodneſs.-----And that for great and weighty Conſiderations, we have commanded the Archbiſhops and Biſhops not to appear at this Aſſembly.

You ſhall not make uſe of the Aſſeſſors in publick, unleſs you find you ſhall be able to carry their having Vote in the Aſſembly.

You ſhall labour to your utmoſt, that there be no Queſtion made about the laſt Aſſembly; and in caſe it come to the worſt, whatever ſhall be done in Ratification, or with relation to the former Aſſembly, our Will is that you declare the ſame to be done as an Act of this Aſſembly, and that you conſent thereto only upon theſe Terms, and no ways as having any Relation to the former Aſſembly.

You ſhall by all means ſhun the Diſpute about our Power in Aſſemblies; and if it ſhall be urged, or offered to be diſputed, whether we have the negative Voice, or the ſole Power of indicting, and conſequently of diſſolving, except you ſee clearly that you can carry the ſame in our favour, ſtop the Diſpute; and rather than it be decided againſt us, ſtop the Courſe of the Aſſembly until we be advertiſed.

For the better facilitating of our other Services, &c. we allow you to declare, That notwithſtanding our own Inclination, or any other Conſiderations, we are contented for our Peoples full Satisfaction to remit Epiſcopacy, and the Eſtate of the Biſhops, to the Freedom of the Aſſembly; but ſo as no reſpect be had to the Determination of the Point in the laſt Aſſembly.

But in giving way to the aboliſhing of Epiſcopacy, be careful that it be done without any Warrant from the Biſhops; and if any offer to appear for them, you are to enquire for their Warrant, and carry the Diſpute ſo, as the Concluſion may ſeem not to be made in Prejudice of Epiſcopacy, as unlawful, but only in Satisfaction to the People for ſettling the preſent Diſorders, and ſuch other Reaſons of State.

The General Aſſembly is not to meddle with any thing that is Civil, or which formerly has been eſtabliſh'd by Act of Parliament, but upon his Majeſty's ſpecial Command or Warrant.

We will not allow of any Commiſſioner from the Aſſembly, or any ſuch Act, as may give ground for the continuing of the Tables or Conventicles.

In caſe Epiſcopacy be aboliſh'd at this Aſſembly, you are to labour, that we may have the Power of chooſing ſo many Miniſters as may repreſent the fourteen Biſhops in Parliament; or if that can't be, that fourteen others whom we ſhall preſent, be agreed to, with a Power to chuſe the Lords of the Articles for the Nobility for this Time, till the Buſineſs be farther conſider'd.

We allow that Epiſcopacy be aboliſh'd for the Reaſons contain'd in the Articles, and the Covenant of 1580, for the Satisfaction of our People be ſubſcrib'd; provided it be ſo conceiv'd that thereby our Subjects be not forc'd to abjure Epiſcopacy as a Point of Popery, or contrary to God's Law, or the Proteſtant Religion; but if they require it to be abjur'd, as contrary to the Conſtitution of the Church of Scotland, you are to give way to it rather than make a Breach.

Some part of the Inſtructions foreign to the Argument have been omitted.

The King at his Return to London wrote the following Letter to the Archbiſhop of St. Andrews.

Num. CXV.

Right Truſty and Well-beloved Councellor, and Reverend Father in God, we greet you well.

Auguſt 6. A. D. 1639. Ruſhworth Hiſt. Collect. part 2. p. 951.

YOur Letter and the reſt of the Biſhops (ſent by the Elect of Cathneſs) to my Lord of Canterbury, has by him been communicated to us: And after ſerious Conſideration of the Contents thereof, we have thought fit our ſelf to return this Anſwer to you for Direction, according to our Promiſe, which you are to communicate to the reſt of your Brethren.

We do in part approve of what you have adviſed concerning the prorogating the Aſſembly and Parliament, and muſt acknowledge it to be grounded on Reaſon enough, were Reaſon only to be thought on in this Buſineſs: But conſidering the preſent State of our Affairs, and what we have promis'd in the Articles of Pacification, we may not (as we conceive) without great Prejudice to our ſelf, and Service, condeſcend thereunto; wherefore we are reſolv'd (rather neceſſitated) to hold the Aſſembly and Parliament at the Time and Place appointed; and for that End we have nominated the Earl of Traquair our Commiſſioner; to whom we have given Inſtructions not only how to carry himſelf at the ſame, but a Charge alſo to have a ſpecial Care of your Lordſhips, and thoſe of the inferior Clergy, who have ſuffered for their Duty to God, and Obedience to our Commands. And we do hereby aſſure you, it ſhall be one of our chiefeſt Studies how to rectify and eſtabliſh the Government of that Church aright, and to repair your Loſſes, which we deſire you to be moſt confident of.

As for your meeting to treat of the Affairs of the Church, we do not ſee at this time how that can be done; for within our Kingdom of Scotland, we cannot promiſe you any Place of Safety; and in any other of our Dominions we cannot hold it convenient, all things conſider'd; wherefore we conceive, that the beſt way would be for your Lordſhips to give in, by way of Proteſtation or Remonſtrance, your Exceptions againſt the Aſſembly and Parliament, to our Commiſſioner, which may be ſent by any mean Man, ſo he be truſty, and deliver it at his entring into the Church; but we would not have it either read or argued in this meeting, where nothing but Partiality is to be expected, but to be repreſented to us by him; which we promiſe to take ſo into Conſideration as becometh a Prince ſenſible of his own Intereſt and Honour, joined with the Equity of your Deſires; and you may reſt ſecure, that though perhaps we may give way for the preſent to that which will be prejudicial both to the Church, and our own Government, yet we ſhall not leave thinking in time how to remedy both.

We muſt likewiſe intimate unto you, that we are ſo far from conceiving it expedient for you, or any of my Lords of the Clergy, to be preſent at this meeting, as we do abſolutely diſcharge you going thither; and for your Abſence, this ſhall be to you, and every of you, a ſufficient Warrant. In the interim, your beſt Courſe will be to remain in our Kingdom of England, till ſuch time as you receive our farther Order, where we ſhall provide for your Subſiſtence; though not in that Meaſure as we could wiſh, yet in ſuch a way as you ſhall not be in want.

Thus you have our Pleaſure briefly ſignify'd unto you, which we doubt not but you will take in good part. You cannot but know that what we do in this we are neceſſitated to, ſo we bid you farewel.

Farther Inſtructions given to the Earl of Traquair, Lord High Commiſſioner at the General Aſſembly at Edinborough.

Charles R.

Right Truſty,

Ruſhworth Hiſt. Collect. part 2. p. 953.

WE have hitherto commanded Hamilton to anſwer ſeveral of your Letters, but that of the ſixteenth of Auguſt being of more weight than any of your former, we have thought fit to anſwer it our ſelf.

And whereas you ſay nothing will ſatisfy them except in Terminis the laſt Aſſembly be nam'd and ratify'd, or that way be given to the diſcharging of Epiſcopacy as abjur'd in that Church, as contrary to the Confeſſion of Faith in 1580, and the Conſtitutions of the ſame. You being yet in ſome Hope that the Word abjur'd may be got chang'd, and that in drawing up the Words of the Act it be only condemn'd as contrary to the Conſtitution of the Church. We in this Point leave you to your Inſtructions, they being full, if you conſider what we have ſaid concerning Epiſcopacy, and ſubſcribing the Confeſſion of Faith in 1580. We thinking it fit to declare hereupon unto you, That let their Madneſs be what it will, farther than we have declar'd in our Inſtructions in theſe Points, we will not go.

For the Service-Book and Book of Canons, though we have been and are content they be diſcharg'd, yet we will never give our Voice nor Aſſent that they be condemn'd, as containing divers Heads of Popery and Superſtition. In like manner, though we have been and are content, that the High-Commiſſion be diſcharg'd, yet we will never acknowledge that it is without Law, or deſtructive to the Civil or Eccleſiaſtical Judicatures of that our Kingdom. Nor that the five Articles of Perth, tho' diſcharg'd with our Approbation, be condemn'd as contrary to the foreſaid Confeſſion.

As concerning the late Aſſemblies, we can't give our Conſent to have them declar'd null, ſince they were ſo notoriouſly our Father (of happy Memory) his Acts; it ſeeming ſtrange that we having condeſcended to the taking away theſe things that they complain'd of, which were done in thoſe Aſſemblies, they will not be content therewith, without laying an Aſperſion on our Father's Actions.

Wherefore if the Aſſembly will, in Deſpight of your Endeavour, conclude contrary to this, you are to proteſt againſt their Proceedings in theſe Points, and be ſure not to ratify them in Parliament.

The Article in your Inſtructions, which is only that the Covenant 1580 ſhall be ſubſcrib'd, you muſt have an eſpecial Care of, and how you proceed therein; that the Bond be the ſame which was in our Father's time mutatis mutandis; and that you give your Aſſent no otherwiſe to the Interpretations thereof, than may ſtand with our future Intentions well known to you. Nor is the ſame otherwiſe to be ratify'd in Parliament.

To the Honourable the Knights, Citizens, and Burgeſſes of the Houſe of Commons, aſſembled in Parliament.

The Humble Petition of the Univerſity of Cambridge.

Sheweth,

THat your Petitioners having heard of divers Suggeſtions offered to this honourable Court, by way of Remonſtrance, tending to the Subverſion of Cathedral Churches, and Alienation of thoſe Lands, by which they are ſupported, being the ancient Inheritance of the Church, founded and beſtowed by the religious Bounty of many famous and renowned Kings and Princes of this Land, and other Benefactors both of the Clergy and Laity, and eſtabliſh'd and confirm'd unto them by the Laws of this Kingdom; and ſo accordingly have been employ'd to the Advancement of Learning, the Encouragement of Students, and Preferment of learned Men; beſides many other pious and charitable Uſes.

May it pleaſe this Honourable Court, out of their great Wiſdom and tender Care for the cheriſhing of Learning, and furtherance of the Studies and Pains of thoſe who have and do devote themſelves to the Service of the Church, graciouſly to protect and ſecure thoſe religious Foundations from Ruine and Alienation; and withal to take order that they may be reduc'd to the due Obſervation of their Statutes; and that all Innovations and Abuſes, which have by ſome Mens Miſcarriages crept in, may be reformed, that ſo the Students of our Univerſity, which by the preſent Fears are diſcouraged, may be the better invited to purſue their Studies with alacrity, and the Places themſelves diſpoſed to the moſt ſerviceable and deſerving Men, according to their firſt Inſtitution.

The Application of the Univerſity of Oxon, is much to the ſame Senſe, and runs thus.

To the High and Honourable Court of Parliament, the humble Petition of the Univerſity of Oxon.

Ruſhworth, Hiſt. Collect. Part 3. P. 27. Nalſon's impartial Collect. &c. Vol. 2. Page 305. Anno Dom. 1641.

THat whereas the Univerſity hath been inform'd of ſeveral Petitions concerning the preſent Government of this Church, and Maintenance of the Clergy, which have of late been exhibited to this honourable Aſſembly; we could not but think our ſelves bound in Duty to God, and this whole Nation, in Charity to our ſelves and Succeſſors, who have, and are like to have, more than ordinary Intereſt in any Reſolution that ſhall be taken concerning Church Affairs, in all Humility, to deſire the Continuance of that Form of Government, which is now eſtabliſhed here, and hath been preſerved in ſome of the Eaſtern and Weſtern Churches, in a continued Succeſſion of Biſhops, down from the very Apoſtles to this preſent time, the like whereof cannot be affirmed of any other Form of Government in any Church. Upon which Conſideration, and ſuch other Motives as have been already repreſented to this honourable Parliament from other Perſons and Places (with whom we concur) in behalf of Epiſcopacy, we earneſtly deſire, that you would protect that Ancient and Apoſtolical Order from Ruine or Diminution.

And become farther Suitors for the Continuance of thoſe pious Foundations of Cathedral Churches, with their Lands and Revenues.

As dedicated to the Service and Honour of God, ſoon after the Plantation of Chriſtianity in the Engliſh Nation.

As thought fit and uſeful to be preſerved for that End, when the Nurſeries of Superſtition were demoliſh'd, and ſo continu'd in the laſt and beſt Times ſince the bleſſed Reformation, under King Edward 6. Queen Elizabeth, and King James, Princes renowned through the World, for their Piety and Wiſdom.

As approved and confirmed by the Laws of this Land, ancient and modern.

As the principal outward Motive and Encouragement of all Students, eſpecially in Divinity, and the fitteſt Reward of ſome deep and eminent Scholars.

As producing and nouriſhing in all Ages many godly and learned Men, who have moſt ſtrongly aſſerted the Truth of that Religion we profeſs, againſt the many fierce Oppoſitions of our Adverſaries of Rome.

As affording a competent Portion in an ingenuous way, to many younger Brothers of good Parentage, who devote themſelves to the Miniſtry of the Goſpel.

As the only Means of Subſiſtance to a multitude of Officers and other Miniſters, who with their Families depend upon them, and are wholly maintain'd by them.

As the main Authors or Upholders of divers Schools, Hoſpitals, High-ways, Bridges, and other publick and pious Works.

As ſpecial Cauſes of much Profit and Advantage to thoſe Cities where they are ſituate, not only by relieving their Poor, and keeping convenient Hoſpitality, but by occaſioning a frequent reſort of Strangers from other Parts, to the great Benefit of all Tradeſmen, and moſt Inhabitants in thoſe Places.

As the goodly Monuments of our Predeceſſors Piety, and preſent Honour of this Kingdom in the Eye of foreign Nations.

As the chief Support of many thouſand Families of the Laity, who enjoy fair Eſtates from them in a free way.

As yielding a conſtant and ample Revenue to the Crown; and as by which many of the learned Profeſſors in our Univerſity are maintain'd.

The Subverſion or Alienation whereof muſt (as we conceive) not only be attended with ſuch Conſequences as will redound to the Scandal of many well affected to our Religion, but open the Mouths of our Adverſaries, and of Poſterity againſt us, and is likely in Time to draw after it harder Conditions upon a conſiderable part of the Laity, an univerſal Cheapneſs and Contempt upon the Clergy, a lamentable drooping and defection of Induſtry and Knowledge in the Univerſities; which is eaſy to foreſee, but will be hard to remedy.

May it therefore pleaſe this honourable Aſſembly, upon theſe and ſuch other Conſiderations as your great Wiſdoms ſhall ſuggeſt, to take ſuch pious Care for the continuance of theſe religious Houſes, and their Revenues, according to the beſt Intentions of their Founders, as may be to the moſt furtherance of God's Glory and Service, the Honour of this Church and Nation, the Advancement of Religion and Learning, the Encouragement of the modeſt Hopes and honeſt Endeavours of many hundred Students in the Univerſities.
